NEUN AND NOLTE HAVE A JOB READY FOR THE MAYOR

Have Decided to Leave to Him the Official Announcement That City Was Cheated in Ryckoff Contract.

HE COMES HOME FROM FLORIDA TUESDAY

Huge Blueprint of Figures Must Be Translated Into Dollars and Cents and Suit Filed to Recover.

A job of figuring awaits Mayor Miller, who will return Tuesday from a month's holiday in Florida. And after the figuring, explanation.

It's a simple but extensive problem in public finance—analysis and interpretation in terms the taxpayers can understand, dollars and cents, of the engineering survey just completed of A. M. Ryckoff's street light installation job.

The problem as it lies on the Mayor's desk is found in thousands of figures on a blue print as big as a dining table. Any schoolboy with knowledge of addition, multiplication and subtraction could find the answer, but in this case the answer must be official, for it concerns the cheating of the city out of a large sum of money for which Ryckoff, a Chicago contractor, is under indictment, and on account of which the city must take action to try to recover the loss.

The figures on the blue print are measurements in lineal feet of the trench dug and the cable laid, and in square feet of the concrete and brick pavement replaced by Ryckoff in executing his contract. The totals of the various items multiplied by the contract unit price will show what should have been paid by the city for each classification of the work. Comparison with the payments actually made will show overpayments or underpayments, and the summing up of the items will show by what amount, the city has been cheated.

Record of 10 Month's Survey.

The blue print containing the figures is signed by engineers representing four independent parties—Pitzman's company of Engineers and Surveyors, employed by the city; the Department of Public Utilities, under whose supervision the lighting contract was executed; the City Comptroller, who paid the bills out of bond issue funds; and the Post-Dispatch, which first made the charge March 31 last, that the city had been cheated. All these engineers participated in the ten months' survey and their signatures attest the accuracy of the figures.

In placing this report in the hands of the city's Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which authorized the survey, the Pitzman Company draws no conclusions. It submits a record of the work done by Ryckoff and leaves it to the city to compute the value of that work and compare it with the sums actually paid.

The Post-Dispatch, having a copy of the blue print, has computed the figures and has found the city was cheated out of $160,544.30 on the job, as was told last Tuesday. This was full confirmation of the charge originally made by the Post-Dispatch last March, when it was stated on the basis of a hasty survey made for the newspaper by R. H. Buckmueller, an engineer and town planner, that the city had been overcharged about $175,000 by Ryckoff.

Now that the engineers have completed their task, reporters have sought a statement of what was shown and how the city fared from the two members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment now in the city, Comptroller Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, also acting Mayor.

Up to the Mayor.

Both have declined to speak for the city, but their silence in effect says that will be a job for Mayor Miller, who alone can say with authority what the city is going to do about it, which after all is the greatest concern of the taxpayers, and an announcement that should be made simultaneously with the official confirmation of the fact the city has been cheated.

The position taken by Neun and Nolte has provoked smiles at the City Hall for although the Mayor ordered a thorough investigation immediately after the Post-Dispatch's charges were published,

SEVERAL CALIFORNIA TOWNS SHAKEN BY 20 EARTH SHOCKS

Nearly Every Business Building in Brawley, In the Imperial Valley, Damaged—Residents Take to Streets

By the Associated Press.

BRAWLEY, Cal., March 1. — Residents of Brawley took to the streets tonight after a series of 20 earthquake shocks which caused damage to nearly all of the business buildings of the town, scattered bricks and debris in the main thoroughfares and resulted in one serious injury.

The epicenter of the earth movement, which started at 3:30 p. m. and was felt generally throughout the Imperial Valley, appeared to have centered here.

Cornices fell from buildings, walls were cracked, plate glass windows were shattered and loosened bricks dropped on the pavement of the main business section as the first few shocks came with the rumbling roar.

Mrs. E. C. Dunham, walking in Main street, was knocked down by a mass of brick and mortar which crashed loose from a cornice over her head. She suffered a broken leg and body bruises and lacerations. She is expected to recover.

Shock eStops Newspaper Press.

The Brawley News building, police headquarters and other buildings suffered varying damage. The first shock stopped the presses of the News.

When the fifth tremor occurred at 4:07 p. m. many automobile tops were broken by falling brick, cement or tile copings and other debris.

Small fires, starting from overturned oil stoves and other cooking and heating apparatus, were quenched quickly by the fire department. The quakes continued every few minutes for nearly three hours. Business streets were roped off, members of the American Legion was placed on guard, and police and firemen with ladders and ropes dragged down loosened masonry to prevent further crashes of building material into the streets.

After five o'clock the intensity of the shocks tapered off and before 6:30 o'clock the 800-foot deep silt bed which forms this agricultural district had quieted itself.

Westmoreland, eight miles northwest of here, the most severly shaken of any Imperial Valley town in a series of 40 quakes which visited this section last Tuesday and Wednesday, was rocked intenely today, but no structural damage has been reported.

China Knocked From Shelves.

The movement was intense in Calipatria, 12 miles north of Brawley, the shocks being sufficient to knock china from shelves, stop clocks and crack windows. Buildings, however, are known not to have been materially damaged.

In El Centro, county seat of Imperial county, five miles south of the town of Imperial, the shocks were severe but a major structural damage had not been reported.

Calexico on the Mexican border, and Mexicali, its twin city on the Mexican side of the international boundary, felt the shocks. Holtville, 10 miles east of El Centro, alos was shaken.

TAFT CHEERFUL; IMPROVEMENT IS ONLY TEMPORARY

Able to Speak to Doctor and Give Handclasp for First Time in Three Days—Seems Untroubled.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—William Howard Taft seemed as cheerfully untroubled during one of his conscious moments today as he so often did in the heights of his political struggles. The certainty that death is only a matter of time, perhaps of hours only, has failed to overwhelm his courage, if, indeed, he is even aware of the fact. Today for the first time in three days he was able to speak and to give a handclasp.

The President and Mrs. Hoover called at the Taft residence for five minutes this afternoon to express their solicitude to the family. With them was their son, Herbert. It was the President's second call at the house, while Mrs. Hoover had visited Mrs. Taft twice before.

When the day was yet young Taft had spoken his first words in more than 70 hours. As customarily, Dr. Thomas A. Claytor tapped gently on the sickroom door for the regular morning call.

"Come in," Taft whispered, so faintly that it was barely heard.

Improvement Only Temporary.

Happily surprised, Dr. Claytor and Dr. Francis R. Hagner entered softly to find their distinguished patient more at his ease than during the days immediately past.

The physicians bent over the wasted body to look into Taft's eyes. He reached out a hand and weakly grasped that of Dr. Claytor for a second. Then his hand fell back.

The doctors feelingly told of the episode later, adding that the former President and Chief Justice had also said some practically indistinguishable words to his son, Robert A. Taft. They did not say these acts by Taft gave any hope for his recovery. It has been recognized for several days that any improvement would be only temporary.

The following bulletin signed by Drs. Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Claytor, was issued at 6:40 p. m.:

"The former Chief Justice has had a quiet day. He has taken nourishment fairly well. There has been no change for the better in his general condition since this morning."

The morning bulletin had said the former Chief Justice was slightly improved, as evidenced by a moderate rise in his blood pressure.

Dr. Hagner and Dr. Claytor, after visiting their patient about 11 o'clock tonight, said that he was asleep and that they could not note any difference in his condition.

Many Visitors Call.

Wavering some of the time between consciousness and unconsciousness, Taft spent most of today in a coma. He is suffering from a weakened heart, aggravated by impaired blood circulation, and a sudden turn for the worse might bring death. Such a turn might not be entirely unexpected under the circumstances.

Besides the President and Mrs. Hoover, numerous other friends and officials have called at the Taft residence to express their solicitude to Mrs. Taft. Vice President Curtis was there early today and was followed by Mgr. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States.

Mrs. Taft, who has been almost constantly at the bedside of her husband since he returned here from Asheville, left the house today for two brief periods. She went to the Congressional Library and after her return departed again for a short trip to market.

ICE FLOE TAKES 137 TO SEA

Plaines Fail to Find Trace of Fishermen in the Caspian

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 1.—An ice floe today carried 137 fishermen out to sea in the Caspian Sea near Astrakan. Airplanes and searching parties failed to find any trace of them.

BOY SLAIN FIRING ON POSSE AFTER ALL-DAY FIGHT

Bonifacio Torres, 16 Years Old, Wounds Three Officers Including New Mexico Sheriff.

TEAR GAS, DYNAMITE AND TORCHES USED

Youth Barricades Self in House After Mother Appeals to Authorities for Help.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 1.—Bonifacio Torres, 16-year-old boy, who shot and wounded three peace officers of Valencia County this morning, was shot and killed by a Deputy Sheriff this evening as darkness was settling over the home where he was barricaded. He had held off a posse of 200 men all afternoon.

The boy kept up a continual fire on the posse until Deputy Sheriff Reymendo Lovato leaped through a first floor window and shot the boy through the heart while other members of the posse were firing on him from another direction.

Tear gas bombs and dynamite were used in vain during attacks on the youth and the possemen finally decided to attempt to rush him in his barricade.

Rag torches were made, saturated with gasoline and thrown upon the house. The smoke and fire drove the boy outside for air and then members of the posse advanced from several directions, forcing him back into the burning house. Torres was firing at the possemen when Lovato leaped through a window and shot him.

This morning Sheriff Ignacio Aragon of Belen and two Deputy Sheriffs went to the house at Jarales to arrest Torres on complaint of his mother that he was intoxicated and incorrigible. She told the Sheriff she wanted the youth committed to the State reform school.

Resisting arrest, Torres opened fire on the officers and barricaded himself in the attic of the home. The three officers were wounded in the gun fight.

Sheriff Aragon was shot through the left lung and wounded seriously. Deputy Sheriff Charles Cunningham was shot through the shoulder, the bullet passing through the left lung, and Deputy Sheriff Rafael Sanchez was struck by two bullets. Sanchez was not wounded seriously.

Torres had a large supply of ammunition. His mother reported he had bought 200 rounds of ammunition in Belen, N. M., last night.

CHICAGO PROHIBITION OFFICER ARRESTED ON BRIBERY CHARGE

Two Others Are Taken With Him by Special Washington Investigators.

By the Associated Press.

CHCAGO, March 1.—Richard J. Proud, for seven years chief of the conspiracy investment section of the local prohibition office, was held today in $10,000 bonds for hearing March 5 on charges of accepting bribes and abstracting Government records. Two Milwaukee men will be tried on charges of conspiracy in the case.

Proud and the two others, Samuel Pokrass, owner of the Uptown Investment Co. of Milwaukee, and Joseph Lubor, said to be Pokrass' bodyguard, were arrested last night in the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad station restaurant by special Washington investigators, who said they caught Proud transferring reports of evidence in a Milwaukee prohibition case. Lubor's bond was fixed at $5000 and Pokrass' at $10,000.

ATLANTA CITY OFFICIALS INDICTED FOR GRAFT

Six Councilmen, One Alderman Among 19 Persons Accused; Mayor Criticised.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—Twenty persons, including five city councilmen, one alderman and several present and former city officials, were indicted tonight by a Fulton county grand jury which has been investigating charges of graft in the Atlanta city government. The jury charged collusion of other public officers who were not indicted, and demanded that several city employes be removed from office.

Mayor Ragsdale, several members of the city council and others, including Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, business manager Richey of the public schools and others were severely criticised by the grand jury.

JOHN N. WILLYS SELECTED AS AMBASSADOR TO POLAND

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The name of John N. Willys of Toledo, O., former automobile manufacturer, was sent to Poland today by President Hoover for its approval as American Ambassador to that Government to succeed the late Alexander P. Moore.

Willys has been in line for an ambassadorial appointment by President Hoover for some time. With a view to entering the foreign service he disposed of his automobile business some time ago.

Just previous to the appointment of Moore, Congress elevated the Warsaw post from a legation to an embassy.

CORINNE GRIFFITH FINED $1000 FOR TAX EVASION

Pleads Guilty in U. S. Court; Makes Up Shortage and Pays Penalty of $25,000.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 1.—Corinne Griffith, motion picture star, appeared before Federal Judge William James yesterday, pleaded guilty to a criminal information charging her with evasion of the 1927 income tax, and was fined $1000.

Revenue agents informed the Court that Miss Griffith had "made good a shortage of $16,000" in her 1927 return and paid a penalty which made the account approximately $25,000. The actress had a gross income in 1927 of $198,495.11 and the Government claimed a tax of $41,673.

Federal officials said "many other film celebrities" would be summoned to court shortly to pay "fines for short changing" the Government on their income tax returns.

DAWES SEEKING TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF LOST ATLANTIS

Employs Yale Professor to Seek Key to Mayan Temple Inscriptions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The lost continent of Atlantis, theme of speculation for centuries by historians and fiction writers, has cast its spell over Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

Sheldon Whitehouse, newly appointed United States Minister to Guatemala and a lover of Archeology, disclosed today that Ambassador Dawes thinks the Mayan temples of Yucatan may hold, chiseled in their great stone blocks, the story of Atantis.

Whitehouses said Dawes had employed Prof. Charles Upson Clark of Yale University to go to the library of the Vatican, in Rome, to seek the key to the Mayan mysteries.

There, Prof. Clark is rummaging through ancient documents, seeking his prize. Thus far he has uncovered one important paper, a report sent to Rome by Spanish priests attached to the conquerors. It was written 30 years after the conquest, by a Mayan who had learned the Spanish language from the priests.

He has not found the document, one which tell a story in both Spanish and Mayan. If such a thing be found, the secret of Atlantis may be told.

DYER OFFERS BILL TO REPEAL AUTOMOBILE THEFT LAW

St. Louisan, Author of Act, Asserts Federal Prosecutors Have Misinterpreted It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1. — Because he believes many Federal District Attorneys have been misusing the automobile theft act sponsored by him, Congressman Dyer (Rep.), St. Louis, introduced a bill today to repeal it.

Addressing the House recently, Dyer said the act was directed toward commercial automobile thieves who disposed of machines taken from one state to another. He contended that under it, instead, District Attorneys were prosecuting young boys who had taken automobiles for joy rides.

The Missourian is ranking majority member of the Judiciary Committee. He has advised the House that since enactment of the Dyer automobile theft law more than $16,000,000 worth of automobiles had been restored to the proper owners. He went on, however, to emphasize his views of misinterpretation of the act by Federal prosecutors and said that if the practice continued he would press for the repeal of his law.

58 CHURCHES, 4 CATHEDRALS CLOSED IN ONE RUSSIAN CITY

Authorities Say Six Priests Repudiated Calling, Admitting Cloak for Counter Revolution.

PETROZAVODSK, Karelian, U. S. S. R., March 1.—Fifty-eight churches, four cathedrals and 30 religious shrines have been closed here to date and converted to economic or cultural uses.

Soviet authorities assert that the anti-religious movement is growing steadily. In five entire districts there are no longer any churches or priests. In this city the population turned over all church bells for industrialization.

The authorities also announced that in the presence of large numbers of peasants, six priests repudiated their calling, declaring that religion was only a cloak for counter revolution. Membership in atheistic societies has increased ten-fold.

$50,000,000 FOR JOBLESS SOUGHT AS A GRIM JEST

Brookhart, Iowa Insurgent, Makes Proposal as Retort to Goff's Three-Hour Eulogy of Tariff.

INCLUDES THRUST AT PRESIDENT

Suggests "Greatest Relief Administrator in History" Direct Handling of the Fund.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Senator Brookhart, Iowa Republican, insurgent, provided the Senate with a touch of grim humor today. At the close of a three-hour speech by Senator Goff, West Virginia old guardsman, lauding the blessings of prosperity under the present tariff, the Iowa Senator introduced a resolution to appropriate $50,000,000 for the relief of the unemployed.

Stating that between 3,000,000 and 6,000,000 persons were out of work at present, Brookhart said he wanted the money expended in their behalf by the Red Cross and the Quartermaster General, under the direction of President Hoover, "the greatest relief administrator in the world's history."

The contrast afforded by Goff's poetic picture of plenty and Brookhart's portrayal of want, was vivid, and provided the climax to an exceptinal performance. Goff, who is thought to be facing almost certain defeat for re-election next fall, not only had composed a 99-page address defending the protective tariff and attacking the Senate coalition of Progressives and Democrats, but had issued in advance an elaborate description of the speech and of his manner of delivering it.

Goff's Advance Sheets.

This account began by saying that:

"Senator Goff took the floor of the Senate today, and in a speech that bore every evidence of the most careful and exhaustive preparation attacked what he called the Senate coalition's manhandling of the proposed new tariff bill, and its ruthless, blind and unreasonable slaughter of important rate paragraphs."

One paragraph of the statement told how "Senator Goff lashed the coalition forces unmercifully"; another described how he "began his arraignment of the coalition"; and still another how "Senator Goff struck at the coalition forces."

At no time during the three hours consumed by Goff in reading the speech were more than six Senators in the chamber, and most of it was delivered in the presence of two old guard colleagues—Gould of Maine and Hatfield of West Virginia. The speech concluded with a eulogy of the protective tariff as follows:

"The tariff has accomplished wonders, and it will achieve the marvelous.

"It has elevated our manhood, dignified and uplifted our labor and educated our people.

"It has enabled us to perfect the grandest system of finance the world has ever yet enjoyed, and it has caused our credit to shine with the sun of civilization.

"It has touched our barren rugged hillsides and caused the waters of prosperity to flow all over the land.

Protection's Blessings.

"It has illuminated our valleys with the leaping flames of our furnaces and caused them to kiss our mountain tops in their ascent to prosperity.

"It has made the hum of our factories sweet music to the ears of those who labor and toil, and if we sustain the American system—as I pray God we may—we shall preserve and elevate the American home, the American schoolhouse, the dignity, ambition and independence of American labor, and the equality of American possibilities for the present as well as for the generations yet to come.

"If these American standards are continued and practiced, then the republic of America will become the great altar stairs that will slope through the mortal struggles and disappointments of life up to God."

The Brookhart Anti-Climax.

Brookhart, who had entered the chamber shortly before the end of Goff's peroration, at once arose and introduced his resolution for the relief of the unemployed.

"Under our economic system,"

HOME FROM ARCTIC

'FAN MAIL' POURS IN ON GIRL OF THE NANUK

Marion Swenson, Home From Arctic, Receives Proposal of Marriage From Denver.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 1.—Marion Swenson, Seattle high school student, came home today from the fur trading vessel Nanuk, icebound since last fall at Cape North, Siberia, near which Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic flyers, were killed in an airplane wreck last Nov. 9.

The girl arrived with her father, Olaf Swenson, head of the Swenson Fur Trading Co., on the steamer Alaska. They boarded the boat at Seward, Alaska, after flying from the Nanuk to Teller, thence to Nome and Fairbanks, taking a train from Fairbanks to the port of embarkation.

Still wearing her costume of the North, mackinaw, breeches and knee boots, and hugging in her arms a reindeer skin suit, Miss Swenson said she would like to go back to the North. Her father, however, said she would return to her studies here. Marion said she did not like the prospect of having to wear dresses and "fluffy things" again.

Miss Swenson was permitted to pilot Capt. Pat Reid's cabin monoplane for about five minutes on the way from Nome to Fairbanks.

Marion got a lot of "fan" mail even before she left the Nanuk, great piles of letters from all over the world awaited her at Nome, including a proposal from a Denver man who declared her the "most precious thing in the world," and a Christmas card from a man in Italy.

During the long search for the missing flyers, directed largely from the Nanuk, Miss Swenson kept the world informed of the progress of the hunt in radio messages sent from the icebound ship. The Eielson and Borland plane crashed in an Arctic storm in November while on a flight to the Nanuk to remove passengers and furs to the Alaskan mainland.

Radio advices today from the Nanuk said American and Russian pilots were awaiting the passing of a blizzard before taking off for Alaska with the bodies.

The bodies recenply were recovered from the wreckage of the plane, buried in the ice and snow 90 miles southeast of Cape North, and borne to the Nanuk by air. On reaching Nome, the bodies will be brought to the United States for burial.

DRIVERS WITHOUT 1930 TAGS TO BE ARRESTED TOMORROW

About 50,000 Licenses Allotted to St. Louis Unordered; State and City Bureaus Jammed.

Policemen will be stationed at important street intersections and other strategic points throughout the city tomorrow to arrest automobile drivers who have not obtained their 1930 State and city license tags.

Those who waited until the last day to get their tags jammed the State License Bureau, 1902 Pine street, and the city license bureau at city hall yesterday. It was said at the State bureau early in the day that 50,000 licenses allotted to St. Louis had not been taken. Four thousand city licenses were issued yesterday, making a total of 107,000 for 1930. Last year 155,000 were issued.

Feb. 29 was originally set as the date for making arrests, but the time was extended to March 1 when it became apparent that the license bureaus could not handle the throngs of license seekers.

U. S. TO QUIT PAYING LOAN BASIS VALUE FOR WHEAT

Stabilization Corporation Ordered to Stop Practice After Farm Board and Grain Men Meet With Secretary Hyde.

IT MAY CONTINUE TO BUY AT THE MARKET

Farmers' Grain Organization Will Continue to Lend to Co-operatives Until July 1, Chairman Legge Announces.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 1.—The Wheat Stabilization Corporation, adjunct of the Federal Farm Board, was ordered late today to discontinue paying the loan basis value for wheat after grain leaders and Farm Board members had met with Arthur Eyde, Secretary of Agriculture. The corporation, however, may continue to buy at the market.

The announcement was made by Alexander Legge, chairman of the Farm Board, who said the Farmers' National Grain Corporation would continue to make loans to co-operatives until the end of the present crop year, or July 1, upon the basis as announced last October. Legge's statement follows in part:

"On account of the impending congestion of many of the terminal markets, and since the emergency is measurably passed, the buying of grain on the loan value basis by the Wheat Stabilization Corporation will be discontinued.

"The Farmers' National Corporation will continue to make loans to co-operatives up to the end of the present crop year, July 1, as it has done in the past.

"The Stabilization Corporation may continue to buy wheat at the market price and if the situation demands grain be taken off the market to relieve demoralization, this will be done.

"The loan values set last October are in need of adjustment because of changes in the market since that time.

This last part of the statement, coupled with the presence of Secretary Hyde at the meeting was taken by grain market observers, to mean that the new crop year, beginning in July would see a downward revision in the values of grain established as the basis of loans.

COMMITTEE UNANIMOUS FOR SEATING OF RUTH BRYAN OWEN

Republican Attacked Her Election to Congress on Ground She Was Ineligible.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1. — A House Elections Committee today decided to submit a unanimous report to the House to recommend the seating of Ruth Bryan Owen as member from the Fourth Florida District.

A contest against the seating of Mrs. Owen was brought by William C. Lawson, a Republican, on the ground that she was ineligible because of her citizenship. Mrs. Owen is the widow of a former British Army officer, who died in Florida several years ago.

Mrs. Owen, the daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, was elected to the House in the November elections of 1928 by a majority of 2 to 1 over the Republican candidate.

The report will be submitted to the House next week.

BRITISH OFFER PRAYERS FOR SUCCESS OF NAVAL PARLEY

BROADCAST TO PEOPLE OF EMPIRE

Japanese Close to Delegation Says Nation Believes in Napoleonic Maxim Toward Cruiser Ratio.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 1.—The prayers of thousands of men and women were raised impressively in England today for the success of the five-Power naval conference.

While Andre Tardieu, in Paris, hastened to complete his new Cabinet, and while the American and Japanese delegations adjourned their important negotiations over the week-end, preparatory to resuming full conference deliberations next week, services of intercession for naval disarmament filled two places of worship to overflowing.

The first was in City Temple, best known non-conformist church in London. There a Church of England prelate, the Bishop of Winchester, addressed a large congregation.

1500 in Solemn Procession.

Then a procession was formed and 1500 persons, from high to low, marched to Westminster Abbey for an impressive service of similar character.

They marched slowly and solemnly, these men and women of middle life who have seen war and its aftermath, who profess little knowledge of high politics and technicalities of sea power but personify the world masses desirous of making some gesture toward permanent peace.

As they marched they passed two of the many London monuments to figures of war—that of Edith Cavell, and the cenotaph, which holds the nation's tribute to Great Britain's 1,000,000 World War dead.

The services that followed at Westminster Abbey were broadcast to the empire. They were part of the Christ and Peace Campaign, the leaders of which sent a message to the Church Peace Union of America, saying the success of the London conference is necessary as a basis for international security and permanent peace.

Japan's Cruiser Attitude.

A Japanese close to the Japanese naval delegation today quoted the first Napoleon in explanation of his country's attitude toward a 70 per cent big cruiser ratio with America.

Napoleon Bonaparte said: "An attacking force to be sure of success must have a superiority of at least 50 per cent over its enemy." The Japanese today said: "Japan believes thoroughly in the Napoleonic maxim, and for that reason it is asking 70 per cent of America's cruiser strength.

"While we do not anticipate ever going to war with America, yet at the same time conservative American naval men, just as conservative Japanese naval men, are always looking toward the question of security. Since the United States is our greatest and nearest armed neighbor it stands to reason we must take her into consideration theoretically when figuring out relative naval strengths.

"Now the 5-5-3 battleship ratio comes very near to a 50 per cent superiority; in order to be technically secure we must have an increased ratio in other branches of arms. With the 70 per cent and 50 per cent merged, Japan feels she will have the security which the country desires and which actually will not menace America in any way."

Resolution of Confidence in U. S. Delegates Offered in House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—A resolution to express the confidence o fthe House in the Americ dence of the House in the Americ parley and the hope it would find a way to reduce the expense of navies has been introduced by Congressman Moore (Dem.), Virginia.

After quoting from President Hoover's Armistice day address, the resolution proposed that the House go on record as believing that should the countries represented at the parley "be willing to agree to discontinue the construction and replacement of capital battleships, this Government would be unmindful of the President's declarations, which had the general approval of the public, should it decline to enter into an agreement to that effect."

"To assist other Governments in the pacific settlement of their disputes," the resolution added, "this Government would be justified in becoming a party to a pact providing for a joint conference relative to any question threatening war arising out of a controversy in European waters."

Hyacinth and Tulip Show at Shaw's Garden

Crocuses, Also, Blooming in Display Which Opens Today—Cineraria Exhibit Will Be Ready Next Week.

Crocus buds are bursting at Shaw's Garden and may be seen today with the annual spring show of hyacinths and tulips.

The show in the floral display house is a sunken garden of flaming tulip-tints, with the saving gentleness of hyacinths sloping down to a green lawn of Washington bent grass and a shimmering central pool. The flowers, contrasting in the vehemence but alike in the loveliness of their colors, border a flagstone walk clear around the garden.

A white wall provides an added touch of intimacy. Its gates are closed. Next week they will be opened on the cineraria show, which flaunts perhaps the brightest colors of the floral calendar—too bright, judged Floriculturist Kohl, to be shown along with hyacinths and tulips. The shows together will continue for three weeks.

Red cedars selected from the thousands in the garden's annex at Gray Summit stand against the garden wall, and about them flowers a small rock garden. Here bloom the crocuses. With them are small foliage plants. And forget-me-nots. And cowslips. But all of them were grown indoors. Even that information does not shatter the illusion of a real garden. The rock garden might, to all appearances, have been bodily carried from outdoors. The flower-pots of the tulips and hyacinths have been buried in peat moss to give the appearance of an outdoor garden. Not the least factor in the garden atmosphere is the fragrance of the hyacinths and a few white freesias.

Among the hyacinths are the white "l'Innocence," the fine pink "Gertrude" and the "Queen of the Blues." Darwin tulips as well as the May-flowering are represented, and the varieties include the coppery "Toreador," the "Yellow Prince," the "William Copeland," which is a lavender Darwin tulip, and the pure white "Boule de Neige."

$50,000,000 FOR JOBLESS SOUGHT IN GRIM JEST

he said, "the burden of business depressions fall on labor. By our tariff, banking and railroad laws we insure gigantic profits to the corporations. Then when the depression comes, the worker, who has been able to save little or nothing, is turned out to shift for himself. I know that $50,000,000 won't go very far, but under the direction of the greatest relief administrator in the world's history it will gos as far as possible."

Wheeler, Progressive Democrat, Montana, commented on another aspect of the situation.

"The Department of Justice," he said, has given out a statement in which it calls attention to so-called Communist uprisings. I hope the department will not start an era of Red-baiting as was done during the administrations of Attorneys-General Palmer and Daugherty. There is a good deal of unemployment, and it will not be solved by policemen's clubs." Every workman in the country has a right to work.

"We had great prosperity under the last administration. Mr. Hoover has stated that he was going to carry out great public works for the purpose of taking care of unemployment, but since then he has issued another statement warning Congress against excessive appropriations. It should be noted that many of the great industrial leaders who attended the conference called by the President, immediately went back to their places of business and laid off large numbers of men. This happened in almost every industry in the United States."

Senator Goff, who had listened with a pained expression to the remarks of Brookhart and Wheeler, shook his head sadly, and moved majestically to the cloakroom.

By pre-arrangement, the Senate was to have considered an amendment by Senator Shortridge (Rep.) to transfer long staple cotton from the free to the dutiable list at 7 cents a pound, but, when Goff concluded, the Senators were willing to call it a day. Two successive night sessions which saw the defeat of attempts to place tariffs on lumber and oil evidently had taxed the strength of the already weary legislators.

Smoot said cotton would be taken up Monday and with only few major contests pending after that—including sugar and hides and shoes—the Senate ought to wind up its six months of tariff labors by next Saturday.

ROBBERS, ROUTED BY BANKER, SHOOT POLICE AND ESCAPE

MATTOON, Ill., March 1.—Three Mattoon policemen were slightly wounded late today as a posse closed in on two men who had attempted to hold up the First National Bank of Humbolt, Ill., but were repulsed when John W. Poorman, president of the bank, opened fire on the pair, then escaped during their confusion. Several thousands of dollars in currency and silver was abandoned by the men as they fled.

The robbers jumped in a green sedan bearing a Missouri license and sped from Humbolt in the direction of this city. Mattoon police started for Humbolt, and as they drew near the town they saw the robbers' car, from which the men opened fire.

Because of the distance separating the two automobiles, police believe the robbers were armed with rifles. More than three scores of shots were exchanged between the fleeing robbers and the police squad, the latter using revolvers.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the two men, armed, entered the Humbolt institution and started to herd employes in one cage. President Poorman, dropping to the floor, wriggled to a conference room, got a pistol and opened fire on the two men. After several shots, Poorman escaped from the bank.

The two started to ransack the vault. One was engaged in this when the second man found Poorman had escaped. He told his partner, who dropped the money he had seized, and they fled. The injured policemen are Homer Brinberry, Jason Bence and Charles Smith.

NEUN AND NOLTE HAVE A JOB READY FOR THE MAYOR

everyone at the Hall knows that he has repeatedly expressed the view that Pitzman's survey not only would not support the charges but that the city would be shown to owe something to the contractor. Nolte, on the contrary, as he has said publicly, always believed the city was "gypped" and, in fact, compelled Ryckoff to knock a substantial sum off his bill before making final settlement.

Nolte and Neun have said that Pitzman's report will be submitted at the first meeting of the Board of Estimate and apportionment after the return of Mayor Miller, who is the third member of that board.

They expect also that the Mayor—and in this they do not wish to hamper him by any premature or unauthorized statements — will wish to turn the matter over to the City Counselor to take proper action to recover the money Ryckoff collected for work he didn't do.

The Post-Dispatch calculation of the Pitzman blue print figures, as has been told, shows:

Ryckoff replaced 318,589.04 square feet of concrete sidewalk for which, at 30 cents a square foot, the city owed him $92,576.82, but he collected from the city $158,354.40 for 527,848 square feet claimed, an overcharge of $62,777.58.

Ryckoff replaced 1,766,605.04 square feet of brick sidewalk for which, at 11 cents a square foot, the city owed him $194,326.59, but he collected $225,686.89 for 2,051,699 square feet claimed, an overcharge of $31,360.30.

The contractor laid 130,120.01 square feet of brick street paving for which, at 65 cents a square foot, the city owed him $84,578.07, but he collected $102,479.65 for 157,661 square feet claimed, an overcharge of $17,901.58.

The city was overcharged $2751.33 for cable bore at 30 cents a lineal foot, of which 33,334.9 lineal feet was found against 42,386 feet claimed, at 30 cents a foot.

The overcharge on trench at 4 cents a lineal foot was $105.04, there being found 1,422,486 feet against 1,425,112 charged for.

The overcharge on asphalt paving at 30 cents a quare foot was $79.17, the amount found by Pitzman being 17,396 square feet against 17,660 claimed.

The overcharge in payment for secondary cable which could not be accounted for, at 16.8 cents a lineal foot, was $52,194.73 and for conduit line it was $1920.01.

$37,075 in "Extras" Questioned

There was an underpayment to Ryckoff of $8219.94 for macadam resurfacing, wood block resurfacing and primary cable.

In addition to the total overcharge of $160,544.30 shown in these items, the Pitzman Co. questions a payment of $37,075.23 on three items in Ryckoff's total bill of $135,795.30 for "extras." If this amount should be found to have been improperly paid, it would increase Ryckoff's overcharge to $197,619.53.

The Pitzman company is preparing a technical analysis of its report, which may not be understandable to the general public, but this will not snow the overpayments to Ryckoff in dollars and cetns of bond issue funds, the thing which Mayor Miller's associates have left for him to do.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN WANTS TO TESTIFY ON SHOALS LOBBY

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Claudius H. Huston, Republican National chairman, whose name has appeared frequently in evidence obtained by the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee concerning the efforts of power and chemical interests to get possession of the Government property at Muscle Shoals, has asked permission to appear before the committee at its earliest convenience, Chairman Caraway disclosed today. The request was conveyed through Senator Brock (Dem.), Tennessee.

Caraway intimated that the committee would propose to let Huston "sweat" for at least a week before calling him. He explained that oher witnesses have been scheduled and that their testimony is likely to consume all next week. Incidentally, some of them are expected to throw further light on Huston's activities, which may assist the committee in questioning him.

Backed Efforts of Cyanamid Concern.

Already it has been shown that Huston, prior to his election to the Republican chairmanship, served as president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, a mysteriously-financed organization devoted to opposing Government operation of the Muscle Shoals plant, and that he actually circularized members of Congress in favor of the Maddel-Wright bill, which would turn the plant over to the American Cyanamid Co.

The Cyanamid company, as has been told, was somehow able to use the American Farm Bureau Federation as a cloak for some of its own lobbying activities. In a letter from Chester H. Gray, the federation's legislative agent, to another Farm Bureau official, it was stated that Huston, after his election to the Republican chairmanship, had continued to co-operate with the Cyanamid lobby "as much as he dared," although compelled to "watch his step" for fear of being summoned before the Caraway committee.

The committee also has unearthed memorandums, purported to have passed between Huston and J. W. Worthington, active head of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, one of which stated that Huston and Worthington had attempted to reconcile the power and chemical interests quarreling for the possession of the shoals plant and that Mr. Hoover, while Secretary of Commerce, had sought to accomplish the same object.

Approached Regardign Oil Tariff.

Wirt Franklin, leader of the spectacular lobby which tried unsuccessfully to have the Senate impose a tariff on oil, told the committee Friday, that he also conferred with Euston this week, in an effort to obtain Huston's influence for the oil duty, but added that Huston did not commit himself.

Franklin is scheduled to reappear when the hearings are resumed Tuesday, and will be followed by William B. Bell, president of the Cyanamid Co. Moreover, the committee hopes by the end of next week to obtain the attendance of Worthington, who thus far has escaped testifying on the ground of illness.

Huston's failure to appear promptly when his name was drawn into the investigation of the Muscle Shoals lobby, has aroused severe criticism inside the Republican party, leading to numerous reports that his tenure as chairman would soon end. Up to this time the White House has remained silent on the subject, although Huston was elevated to the chairmanship on President Hoover's personal recommendation.

POSTOFFICE ANNEX FOR UNION STATION PLAZA APPROVED

Committee on Public Buildings Recommends Site Favored by St. Louis Civic Workers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Union Station Plaza site, advocated by St. Louis city officials and civic workers for the new $2,700,000 post office annex, has been chosen by the inter-departmental committee on public buildings, according to an announcement made today by Representative Dyer.

The site to be acquired will consist of the block bounded by Eighteenth, Market, Walnut and Seventeenth streets; Walnut street to be closed, Eighteenth widened 20 feet, and Market widened 40 feet; also the tract bounded by Market, Seventeenth, Moore street (1624 west), and Clark avenue; Seventeenth street to be closed and Moore street to be widened.

Provision has been made, in the appropriation, for a building that will meet the postal needs of St. Louis for many years to come. Besides the estimated cost of the building, $400,000 has been appropriated for site, making a total investment of $3,100,000 in the post office building.

The post office project is distinct from the new $3,000,000 Federal building, for which the Government is now acquiring a site at Twelfth and Market, facing Memorial Plaza.

"The committee's recommendation has gone to the director of the budget," Representaive Dyer said. "After a report from him, the recommendations will go to Congress for an appropriation to cover the acquisition of the land and the commencement of the building. It is likely that a special appropriation of the needed amount will be passed at this session."

Acting Mayor Neun, who was active in the representations made by an official and civic group to the Government last fall, as to the postoffice annex site, said last night that the plan announced by Dyer would meet the approval of this group.

The Government's first plan, he said, was to build on Clark avenue, east of the present building. This plan was expanded into a move northward, but the proposal to close Seventeenth street brought objections, because Seventeenth is much used for express hauling. This objection will be met, he believes, by the new thoroughfare to be provided by the widening of Moore street, the eastern boundary of the site to be acquired.

TWO PAIRS OF NEGROES ROB STORE AND AUTO DRIVER

Two Negroes, one displaying a revolver, obtained $60 from the cash register of a grocery store at 4201 Cottage avenue at 8:45 o'clock last night, then overpowered Mrs. Lilian Rondberg, wife of the proprietor, and took $300 she had concealed in her bosom. A clerk was present at the time, and Isadore Rondberg, the proprietor, was in a back room.

A Negro, armed with a revolver, jumped on the running board of a truck of the Grand Laundry, driven by Frank Mallette, 1112 North Grand boulevard, as Mallette stopped for traffic at Enright and Newstead avenues at 8 o'clock, and ordered him to drive to an alley between Enright and Delmar boulevard. Here he was joined by another Negro and the pair robbed Mallette of $45.

Russell Johnson, clerk in a meat market at 2817 Meramec street, was locked in the ice-box last night by a robber who took $150 from the cash register.

Tom Tamyakas was held up in his grocery at 2849 Lucas avenue, by one man who robbed him of $115.

DECLARES CYTRON MORTGAGES ABOUT EQUAL VALUATION

Receiver's Attorney Asserts Property Appraised at $4,608,385 Is Incumbered for $4,566,308.

Apartment and business properties owned by the Cytron Mortgage Co., worth about $4,608,385 on the basis of a recent appraisal are mortgaged to the extent of about $4,566,303, W. Scott Hancock, attorney for Receiver M. H. Rodemeyer, said yesterday.

The narrow margin between estimated current value and incumbrances indicates a negligible margin of safety for the holders of about $2,000,000 worth of Cytron bonds and participation certificates which are secured mostly by second and third mortgages on the Cytron properties.

In the present depressed real estate market, foreclosure sale of the properties under first mortgages would probably wipe out the value of the secondary obligations leaving the Cytron bonds worthless, Hancock said. On the other hand, he declared, if the properties are held intact or refinanced, there will be a good prospect that most of the bondholders' money will be salvaged ultimately.

The receiver, Hancock said, should continue in charge of the properties during the present dull market, gradually reducing the first mortgages from revenue, so that the properties may be refinanced later on a basis which would increase the equities underlying the second and third mortgages.

Hancock based his estimates on the appraisers' report filed in Federal Court Friday and on a cursory examination of the company's records, emphasizing the fact that his figures were not official.

The appraisers, thrree real estate men appointed by the court, estimated the sound value of 13 Cytron-owned properties at $3,908,385.85. Hancock estimated unlisted properties at $700,000, bringing the total value of real estate to $4,608,385.85.

He estimated first mortgages, mostly held by others than the Cytron company, total $3,178,602, and delinquent taxes and interest, $141,000, leaving an equity of $1,283,783.75 to cover second mortgages of $1,319,865, and third mortgages of $67,838.

The 13 properties considered by the appraisers included the Convent Gardens, Maryland Manor, Huntington Arms, Lindworth, Kenrick Square and Greystone apartments and the company's office building at 110 North Ninth street.

Montclair Avenue Home Robbed.

WATER SUPPLY RESTORED TO 13 RIDGEVIEW FAMILIES

Two Others, However, Must Still Borrow From Neighbors in Disputes Over Service Bills.

Thirteen of the 15 families in Ridgeview., Kirkwood subdivisions, whose water supply was cut off last Saturay because some of them had failed to pay water bills, received service yesterday after a week of borrowing from neighbors. Two families who still refuse to pay are still borrowing.

The trouble arose over the failure of 11 families to abide by their agreement to pay a levy of $4.50 quarterly to the A. R. Schollmeyer Real Estate Co., which is developing the subdivision and which had agreed to pay water bills for a specified period. Nine of these withheld payments pending a dispute of two with the real estate company over an alleged failure to pay back taxes on their properties as agreed. The four families who did pay had their supply cut off as all 15 homes received water from the same temporary main.

Connection with another main has been made now so that all but the two recalcitrants may receive service.

Troops of St. Roch's Church and Shaare-Emeth Temple Win Perfection Awards.

Boy Scout troops of St. Roch's Church and Shaare-Emeth Temple were awarded insignia for most nearly approaching perfection of boy scout standards at the close of the scout circus at the Arena last night. The attendance was estimated at 16,000, which brought the total for the two days of the circus to approximately 30,000. About 7000 boy scouts participated.

Merit badges were presented to 1166 scouts, 189 were awarded their first-class badges, and 317 tenderfeet were graduated into the second-class ranks.

PLAYS COMEDY PART WHILE HIS CHILD DIES

Alexander Campbell of Casey Players to Attend Funeral Today and Act Tonight.

Alexander Campbell, leading character actor of the Arthur Casey Players, will attend the funeral of his only child, 5-year-old Phyllis Jeanne Campbell, in La Plata, Mo., today. He will be back on the Orpheum Theater stage tonight, playing his allotted role, as he has done for the last two nights, following the child's death at Deaconess Hospital Friday morning.

The actor, his wife and daughter have lived at the Missouri Hotel since the company's engagement began in the holiday season. The child became ill 12 days before her death, and most of the father's time, apart from performances and rehearsals, was spent at her bedside. Septic pneumonia was the final form of her illness.

The Audience Never Knew.

Campbell, in the play "Skidding," which closed last night, had the part of a rural Judge, father of three daughters. The part was a long one—55 pages of typewritten matter. Only once, Friday night, did his fellow-actors see even a momentary break in the mirth of the role. But yesterday, at his room, the father stepped out of character, and was just a misty-eyed man of 41 years.

"She was a born little actress," he related. "I was playing in stock in Regina, capital of the Canadian province of Saskatchewan, when she was born there. When she was 2 years old, she stopped the show at a theater in Kansas City by running down the aisle and giving a little dance of her own, to mimic a musical comedy chorus.

Kept Actor's Hours.

"She would keep actor's hours—stay up until I got home from the theater at 11, and sleep late the next day, getting up for breakfast with me before rehearsal or a matinee. She would go to the theater with me, stand at the door of my dressing room and wave at the other actors as they came off.

"Last Wednesday, Mrs. Campbell and I believed she was better, and we tried to get some sleep. But after performance that night, they told me she was worse."

Arthur Casey, manager of the company, will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Campbell to La Plata, the mother's former home town.

MADISON COUNTY COMMITTEE OF 25 TO LEAD CLEANUP

Group Plans to Run Independent for Sheriff Despite Fact Ten Are Entered in Party Races.

APPEAL MADE TO END GANG RULE

William Champion, Banker, Heads Move — Cuckoos and Sheltons Active in Illinois Underworld.

Although seven Republicans and three Democrats have filed for the nomination for Sheriff of Madison County, subject to the April primary election, a citizens' committee of 25 will be appointed tomorrow to investigate lawlessness and outline a program to interest reputable voters in supporting a "citizens' candidate" for Sheriff.

Appointment of the committee will be made by William Champion, president of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, who presided Friday night at Masonic Temple at a mass meeting of 250 citizens aroused by lawless conditions in the county which reached a climax in the kidnaping of Charles W. Pershall, wealthy chain grocer and banker, with payment of $40,000 ransom.

Champion was authorized by the meeting to appoint the committee. He spent yesterday interviewing civic and business leaders. The committee will investigate conditions in the county and outline a program to interest the citizens of Alton, Edwardsville, Collinsville, Wood River, and other communities in supporting an independent candidate for Sheriff at the State election Nov. 4. An independent candidate can be placed on the ballot by petition after the primary.

"Time to Assert Ourselves."

Champion told the assembled citizens that their future freedom of movement in Granite City depended upon drastic action to rid Madison County of crooks, bootleggers and other undesirables. "It is time for you men to assert yourselves as American citizens, and not let a handful of gangsters run your community," he said.

A recent experience was related by Champion to give his listeners "the inside on how booze joints, gambling houses, hijackers, robbers and kidnappers are able to operate so boldly."

"A man asked me within the last two weeks to finance a candidate for Sheriff," Champion said. "I had heard that it cost $30,000 to elect the present Sheriff, so I asked my caller what it would cost. He said that $25,000 would pay for the campaign, and added that the job is worth $50,000 to $100,000 a year, and that I could be 'dictator' in the county in return for my financial support if the candidate was elected.

"Where do you suppose the $50,000 or $100,000 that man spoke of comes from, and how can you expect law enforcement when the chief of police official goes into office under a dictator? This situation calls for immediate action. We should find a fearless, clean man, lay his campaign expenses, and put him into office without any entangling alliances."

Urges Tearing Up Gangsters' Nests

William Kaiser, former Alderman, advocated "tearing up the gangster's nests."

"There are four roosting places for gangsters within a mile of this hall," Kaiser said. "Carl Shelton has a place on State street and another in Nameoki, and he and some of his kind are prospering. One of the reasons is that some of you good citizens tolerate the gangsters because they trade with you. They rent houses and farms, and buy commodities. That may be business, but you see what is has brought on. There is only one solution and that is to tear down the roosts and chase these birds out of the county for good. At present you not only tolerate the criminals, but some of you play bridge with the professional bondsmen who keep them out of jail."

Other speakers at the meeting included Mayor M. E. Kirkpatrick, William Bergner, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Elmer McNary and A. J. Jaco, police commissioners; J. B. Harris, attorney; John Masserang, real estate dealer; John Costley, insurance man; Jacob Holsinger, insurance man; H. F. Porter, manager of the Industrial Bureau; Sam Helken, clothing merchant, and George Whitten, real estate dealer.

Former Mayor R. E. Robertson, the Rev. John H. Sanders, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, and others prominent in the community attended.

Non-Political, Non-Partisan.

In opening the meeting Champion said any action taken was to be non-political and non-partisan. "We are not here to discuss what has gone before, and we are not going to criticise any candidate for any office," he said. "Our purpose is to find a solution for a serious situation, which concerns every reputable citizen in Madison County."

Kirkpatrick, who is serving his tenth year as Mayor, yesterday suggested trust in the employment of additional officers lay the solution to Madison County's problem.

"Every once in a while somebody is killed in the county and nothing is ever done about it," he said. "There have been any number of cases, such as the holdup of the Granite City National Bank several years ago. Nothing ever was done about that. If the bank people recognized anybody they were afraid to say anything. I'm sure Mr. Pershall knows who kidnaped him, but he's afraid to say anything.

"My attitude is this, that we'll put a stop to it in this city. I'm not saying anything about the county because I've not got anything to do with it."

He asserted he had received numerous veiled offers of payments if he would permit slot machines and bookmakers to operate in Granite City. "I have no doubt," he concluded, "that if I wanted to let them run, I could cut in on the payoff to the tune of $1000 a month."

Where Hangouts Are.

Kaiser told reporters that one of Shelton's places was located over a garage in the center of Nameoki and that the other, which he described as a speakeasy, was on State street, Granite City, a few doors south of Third street. Another hangout of gangsters, he said, is near the railroad tracks a block from the east end of the McKinley Bridge. He declared that many persons present at Friday night's meeting knew of flagrant law violations but were afraid to speak.

"We've got a lot of fellows over here who claim to be red-blooded," he said, "but it jells on them under gunfire, or even the thought of gunfire."

Bergner declined to discuss the situation yesterday, other than to point out that gang activities hurt legitimate businesses in Madison County and reduce the value of real estate holdings in the county. He said the need of the county was not for "a lot of ballyhoo," but for some sort of concerted action."

The seven Republican candidates for nomination for Sheriff of Madison County at the primary election April 8 are:

Oren C. Shearburn, Alton, automobile dealer. He has never held an elective office, but recently was appointed supervisor of the census in the Alton district.

Robert C. Lyons, Granite City, a Deputy Sheriff under Sheriff Otto Hermann. He has served several previous Sheriffs.

Joseph Raffaelle, Edwardsville, who was a candidate for Sheriff at the last election. He is in the wholesale candy business and is a Supervisor of Edwardsville Township. He has gained considerable attention in the community as a musician and band leader, bands directly by him winning several State contests.

Everett L. Swaby, Collinsville, clerk for the Eagle-Picher Lead Co. in East St. Louis. This is his first venture into politics.

Richard C. Wilson of Wood River, Justice of the Peace and also engaged in the real estate business. Wilson has joined Harry Faulkner of Granite City, candidate for County Judge, and Louis Walter, Alton, candidate for County Treasurer, in an "anti-Brown, anti-Little platform." The three candidates state that they are opposed to the political influence exercised by Circuit Judge Jesse R. Brown, and George E. Little, former Sheriff and County Treasurer, who are among the leaders of the Republican organization in Madison County.

Joseph Healey, Livingston, a merchant with no previous political record.

J. F. Witherow, Wood River, formerly Chief of Police of Wood River and previously employed by the Bell Telephone Co.

Deimling Again Candidate.

Heading the list of three Democratic candidates is Edward R. Deimling of Maryville, former Sheriff, now engaged in the live stock commission business. Deimling, who left office in 1926, was Sheriff when Constable Ohmer Hockett of Edwardsville, and his chum, John Balke, were murdered at a moonshining plant near Horseshoe Lake in February, 1926. The bodies were discovered by Federal prohibition agents, who

MANY PUBLIC MEN IN ST. LOUIS FAVOR DRY LAW REPEAL

Literary Digest Poll on Prohibition Arousing Interest Here—Local Vote Will Not Be Separated.

The Literary Digest's nation-wide poll on prohibition has aroused great interest in St. Louis. Public officials are announcing their votes on the three proposals —enforcement, modification or repeal—or are stating what their votes would be, if they were to receive ballots.

When figures on the poll are announced, within a few weeks, the St. Louis vote will not appear separately, as the only classification made on the ballot is by states. Radio announcements indicate that the ballots are still being sent out. The total number is to be 20,000,000.

Acting Mayor Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, was not in the board when it voted Friday night, 27 to 0, to indorse Congressman Dyer's proposal for legalizing the manufacture and sale of wine and 2.75 per cent beer. Neun said yesterday that he would vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. "I believe prohibition, as now carried out, is doing great harm," he said.

Several members of the board, who voted for the resolution for modification, would vote for repeal of the amendment if they had the chance, it was learned.

Federal Judges Faris and Davis, who pass on many cases under the Volstead act, declined to express their views.

Circuit Attorney Miller sent in a vote for repeal several days ago. "The eighteenth amendment has no place in the organic law of the nation," he said. "The liquor question should be handled by the states."

Question for State.

President Lon O. Hocker of the Police Board said he would vote for repeal if a ballot were sent him. "Each State should decide the question for itself," Hocker said. "St. Louis does not want prohibition. Modification is no solution. Light wine and beer would be no more satisfactory than soft drinks."

Former Mayor F. H. Kreismann, member of the Police Board, said he would vote for repeal unconditionally.

Police Commissioner N. P. Zimmer did not wish to express an opinion.

Sheriff Alfred G. Lill of St. Louis County said he would favor repeal, but not with the open saloon to return.

Expressions from others who were asked as to the votes they had cast or would cast, if they had the opportunity, were:

Circuit Judge Moses Hartman—I received a ballot but mislaid it. If I voted, my vote would be against prohibition in its present form. I would favor some such program as suggested by Congressman Dyer (light wines and beer) and would vote for modification to that extent. I am not in favor of the return of the saloon. I believe that crime has increased under the present prohibition law

Canadian System.

Circuit Judge Robert W. Hall—I have taken the Literary Digest for years, but have never received a ballot of any kind from them. I will not die without booze, neither will I die with it. If I were voting, I would be in favor of some form of modification. I believe that with some modification there would be less crime and less drinking. People always want what they cannot have. Absolute prohibition has proved to be the wrong thing. I am in favor of appointing a commission to investigate conditions in other countries. Take Canada for instance—what they gain in liquor taxes under Government regulation, and what we lose in a wild effort at complete prohibition. It is appalling.

Circuit Judge Charles W. Rutledge—I did not receive a ballot. However, I am not in favor of prohibition in its present form. I am in favor of modification of the present laws to allow temperate use of intoxicating liquor. Temperance is what we should preach —not prohibition.

Circuit Judge Erwin G. Ossing—I did not receive a ballot. I am in favor of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment.

Edward E. Butler, Judge, Court of Criminal Correction, Division 1 —I received a ballot and voted for repeal.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Thos. C. Hennings, Jr.—My ballot will be cast for repeal.

Circuit Judge O'Neill Ryan—I received no ballot. I have no statement to make regarding the prohibition question.

Circuit Judge Wilson A. Taylor—I voted for modification, the second proposition on the ballot. Whether the theory of prohibition is right or wrong did not concern me greatly. I think the majority of our people are opposed to the present law, and under the circumstances I think it should not be retained.

Circuit Judge Granville Hogan—I have not received a ballot, but favor modification. My experience in the Juvenile Court has convinced me that we are making no progress toward temperance. The law should be amended to such an extent that the people will respect and obey it.

Circuit Judge H. A. Hamilton—I have not received a ballot. I have not made up my mind whether my vote would be for modification or repeal.

Judge Favors Modification.

Circuit Judge John T. Fitzsimmons—I have not received a ballot. I favor modification. Any expression in favor of repeal would be idle because it would require the affirmative vote of three-fourths of the states, and that is impossible and will be for a long time. The law should be modified to fix a statutory definition of intoxicating liquors which will conform to human experience. It has been demonstrated that beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume are not intoxicating in fact.

Circuit Judge John W. Calhoun—I have not received a ballot, but favor repeal. Prohibition has made a very lawless element rich and with wealth has come influence. It has enabled criminals to violate the laws with impunity by hiring the best legal talent to defend them. I favor sale of liquor under Government supervision and control.

Circuit Judge Claude O. Pearcy —I received a ballot and shall vote for modification. The present situation is unsatisfactory and I think the law should be modified, but at this time I don't know just to what extent.

Circuit Judge Arthur H. Bader—I cast a vote for modification. I think Congress should make a new definition of what constitutes an intoxicant, placing the alcoholic content high enough so that the states can make their own laws.

Circuit Judge William H. Killoren—I will vote for repeal if I receive a ballot. I think the purpose for which the law was passed has not been accomplished. Instead of encouraging temperance it fosters just the opposite.

WARMEST FEBRUARY FOLLOWS COLDEST JANUARY IN 12 YEARS

Temperature Averaged 10.4 Degrees Above Ordinary Mark for Month; Breaks 1882 Record.

Last month was the warmest February on record in St. Louis, following the coldest January in 12 years.

Mean temperature during the month was 45.2 degrees, 10.4 degrees above the average, and .6 of a degree above the previous record for the month, established in 1882. Weather Bureau temperature records begin with 1870.

Four and two-tenths inches of snow fell on the fourteenth and the coldest temperature of the month, 12 degrees, was on the sixteenth. After that the temperature did not again fall below the freezing point.

The cold spell was followed by a period of unusually warm days, temperatures between Feb. 18 and Feb. 25 ranging from 17 to 31 degrees above the average February reading. The warmest day of the month was Feb. 24 when a temperature of 80 degrees was recorded. There were two other days when the temperature mounted above 70 degrees.

The month had nine clear days, nine partly cloudy and 10 cloudy.

Mother to Weigh Play Based On Story Written by Son Before His Electrocution

Mrs. Blake of Amarillo, Tex., Says She Will Not Try to Stop It, if It Serves as Protest Against Judicial "Murder"

By GENE HOWE,
Editor of the Amarillo Globe and News.
By the Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Tex., March 1.—A gray-haired mother in Amarillo, wondered today whether she should close a show which admittedly is one of Broadway's biggest hits or whether she should permit it to continue as a protest against capital punishment.

The mother is Mrs. Ella Blake, Robert Blake, her son, died in the electric chair at the State penitentiary at Huntsville, Tex., April 29, 1929. Blake was convicted of the killing of Fred Conner, Tulia, Tex. automobile dealer in 1925.

Mrs. Blake decided today to go to New York, and see the play. If it is "real," if it in any way creates sentiment "against murders committed by the states," she indicated her final decision would be to allow it to continue.

Her son's copyrighted article, published in the American Mercury, is the theme and setting of "The Last Mile" by John Wexley, now running in New York. The article was appropriated bodily by Wexley without a definite agreement.

Mrs. Blake, who has eight grown children living in Amarillo, is about 60 years old. She is a sweet-faced, soft-spoken woman. Robert was the only child touched by tragedy.

Going to See the Play.

"Would it possible for me to close 'The Last Mile?'" she asked. The reply was that attorneys here say Wexley took something which did not belong to him, and it was their opinion the courts would sustain an injunction.

"I am going back all the way to New York to decide," she then said. "I have made up my mind. If it is terrifying, something that attracts crowds because it is gruesome, I will close it if possible. If it is real and if in any way it may create a sentiment against these murders committed by the states, it will be different. I am not thinking of money, although I need it badly."

When Mrs. Blake speaks of her son, her eyes fill with tears.

"Robert," she said, "was such a good boy to me. Every mother whose son is in trouble says this, of course, but Robert really was. He begged me not to spend the little money I had in trying to save him, and I know he meant it. He was only 24 when they strapped him into the chair and burned out the life I had given him. He wasn't a man, but a child, almost. Would that I could make a million from this play in New York and spend every cent of it in stopping this barbarism.

"I saw him at Huntsville up until the last moment when he was taken away to the death row.

Recalls Her Son's Goodby.

"'Mother,' he said, as he placed his arms around me for the last time, 'I am not going to tell you I am not guilty, as you know I am not, but please tell the others that this is my last message to them.' He meant his sisters and brothers. 'Goodby, mother, goodby,' he said."

"Robert had no experience as a writer. He attended high school, and was an honor student before he acquired the drug habit, until the third term when he began to make his own living. When arrested he began writing articles for the local newspapers about the horrors of prison life. He was only 22 when charged with that crime he did not commit.

"When I go to New York, I will not see reporters or anyone. I have no friends there. I will go see Mr. Wexley's or Robert's play, and God give me strength to keep from screaming out as I did on the train. If I approve I later will see Mr. Wexley. I have seen his picture and it looks so much like Robert's."

Play Broker Says $200 "Advance" Was Sent to Mrs. Blake.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The firm of James B. Pinker, play brokers, said today that financial negotiations between John Wexley, 21-year-old author of the current Broadway success, "The Last Mile," and Mrs. Ella Blake of Amarillo, Tex., mother of the dead man on whose magazine story the play was partly built, had been pending for some time.

A representative of the Pinker firm, which sold the play to the producer, said that, acting as Wexley's agent, he sent a check for $200, which he termed an "advance," to Mrs. Blake on Feb. 21.

"Wexley did use Blake's story as the basis for his first act," the Pinker statement said. "It was not, however, until the play was sold and in rehearsal that we learned of this. There was no intention on his part to defraud Mrs. Blake of her rights. He is only 21—he doesn't know much about copyright laws.

"Mrs. Blake first asked for $5000 and 25 per cent of the royalties. We thought that was a little steep and have offered Mrs. Blake 10 per cent of the royalties. Although we haven't actually come to any agreement, I sent her a check for $200 last week as an advance."

61-YEAR-OLD MAN HELD IN KIRKWOOD HIGHWAY ATTACKS

Clerk Recognizes Store Customer as Robber Who Assaulted Girl 14 Other Cases Reported.

With the arrest of a 61-year-old painting contractor, charged in warrants with highway robbery and rape, Kirkwood police announced last night that there have been about 15 roadside robberies in and near Kirkwood during the last six months, most of the cases involving assault of the women companions of the robbery victims.

The prisoner, Henry L. Venneman, of 427 Seekamp avenue, Kirkwood, has been identified in two of the cases, in which young men and women were held up in automobiles, police said.

The warrants were issued on the complaint of Arthur Lenz, of 435 South Harrison avenue, Kirkwood, and a young woman whose name was withheld, who were held up on Geyer road north of Manchester road last Monday night. Lenz was robbed of $8.

Venneman, the father of 7 children, was arrested Friday afternoon when he walked into a Kirkwood chain store where Lenz is employed as a clerk. Lenz called a policeman and identified Venneman.

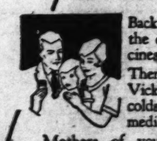
Chief of Police G. D. Schroeder later declared there had been only seven such cases and said only two of them had occurred within the city limits of Kirkwood, one on Bernice avenue and one in Lockwood Gardens. Two of the cases occurred on Daugherty Ferry road, two on North Geyer road and one on Big Bend road, he said.

Information about each of the crimes in the series has been withheld heretofore by Chief Schroeder and his men, with the exception of the Lenz case, in which a brief report was made Tuesday. The announcement of the previous crimes, however, was not made until Vanneman was transferred to the Clayton jail last night under the warrants issued by Justice of the Peace Peters at Kirkwood.

The painting contractor, held in default of $20,000 bonds, has denied the charges.

Chief Schroeder, elected six months ago to complete the unexpired term of the late Chief Patrick O'Donnell, has withheld information about Kirkwood crimes except on rare occasions. He is a candidate for re-election April 8.

Modern Medicine turns away from "DOSING"



Back in the old "horse and buggy" days, it was the custom to give large doses of internal medicines for almost every human ailment.

Then a North Carolina pharmacist originated Vicks VapoRub, the better method of treating colds externally. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks, because it checks colds without the risk of upsetting delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, it acts through the skin like a plaster; and, at the same time, it gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages.

To keep step with the ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds, the figures in the famous Vick slogan have again been changed. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

BORAH SUGGESTS NAVAL PARLEY BE OPENED TO PUBLIC

Senator Declares People Are Anxious to Know on What Proposed Disarmament Is Based.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Asserting that the people of the world demand a reduction in armaments from the London naval conference, Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in an address over the radio tonighht gave a warning of the consequences of failure of that parley.

After praising the personnel of the United States delegation, Borah suggested that open conferences be held at London to bring to light "just what the arguments are which make it possible and which would seem to justify a disregard for every pledge made by the leaders in the conference."

"If this conference is to fail," he warned, "if the world is to go forward increasing the cruel burden of armaments, if men, women and children are to continue to carry this load as best they may, and to be called upon year after year to sacrifice the essential elements of health and prosperity, let us not ourselves be impatient in starting this criminal conspiracy against the human family.

"Press dispatches carry the news from different quarters of the United States that the people who are seeking work are being clubbed and denounced as communists. A policy so cruel, so inhuman, will not suffice to give contentment or even obedience to an over-taxed, under-employed people.

Points Out Mistake.

"If these governments and their representatives do not sufficiently realize at this time the necessity of taking some risk in order to lift this weight of armaments from their peoples, I venture to say that in due time they will have ample notice of their mistake."

Borah was outspoken in his references to the attitude of the other powers. He said Great Britain must prepare to give up her "domination of the seas." He complained that the world is more heavily armed today than before the World War, and that the Kellogg anti-war treaty was meaningless, unless the nations could cut down armaments.

"The nations of the world are now paying out annually something like $5,000,000,000 to keep up their fighting forces," he said. "Can these governments indefinitely preserve the character, the moral fibre and fitness of their people and maintain and even increase this burden? I repeat that all this is happening and these conditions are maintained among those nations pledged to peace, pledged to the outlawry of war, pledged never to seek settlement of their international controversies through these great military and naval armaments which they are maintaining.

World More Heavily Armed.

"But the world at this time is more heavily armed than at the beginning of the World War. I insist there can be no security under such circumstances. This condition of affairs is bound to create the same suspicion, the same uneasiness and the same distrust, and in the end, the same result.

"Indeed, that seems to be the situation at London now. They are so well armed that they are all suspicious. There is nothing, it sems to me, which would give a sense of security, a feeling of confidence like the drastic reduction of armaments on the part of the nations assembled. Indeed, what in the last analysis is at the bottom of this hesitancy to reduce armaments if not distrust?"

Citing the opening addresses of British Premier MacDonald and United States Secretary of State Stimson he continued:

"I would not presume to make a suggestion to that great conference, but in the light of above expressions, it would be exhilarating, and I think greatly beneficial, to have those conferences completely and absolutely in the open. It would be interesting to know just what the arguments are which make it possible and which would seem to justify a disregard for every pledge made by the leaders in the conference.

Means for Arbitration.

"There is the League of Nations, the Lacarno pact, the peace pact, every conceivable means for arbitration and peaceful adjustment and every pledge which nations could possibly lay upon their conscience and still there is maneuvering and fighting for advantage as if it were a great aggregation of unfriendly nations, free from pledges and free from all obligations of peace.

"The nations assembled at this conference are the nations which lately were associates and allies in the great war, nations friendly to each other for the soundest of reasons. The endearing adjectives of four languages have been exhausted by the representatives of the nations assembled in expressing for each other their respect, their confidence, and their faith in the devotion to peace. Germany has no navy, no army of any moment. Australia is helpless. Hungary is dismembered and fighting for existence. Only the victorious friends are assembled.

"If these Powers cannot agree to reduce their fighting forces, there indeed, would be little hope for disarmament in the future. These nations there assembled are in a position to dictate the policy of the world with references to armaments and with reference to war. If they agree among themselves to lift a part of this load there can be no possible danger of any movement from outside.

International Agreements.

"But even a more extraordinary fact relative to this gathering is this—all the Powers assembled have signed a treaty, a solemn pledge each to the other, that never again will they seek settlement of international controversies through other than peaceful means, that they will not employ force, that they will not appeal to war in the settlement of international disputes.

"Here, then, are friendly nations, dominating nations, pledged not to go to war, meeting in conference to reduce armaments. It would seem, if success is not to crown this effort, that we could hardly hope for more favorable circumstances at any time in the futures. And yet, notwithstanding all this, it may not be possible, even under these most favorable circumstances to sink a single ship or to discharge a single soldier.

"If, under these circumstances, it is found impossible to reduce these vast machines, the people will have little faith in the Kellogg pact and far less in the sincerity of Governments with reference to disarmament.

"The people want peace, but Governments hesitate. The people pray insistently to be relieved of the burden of armaments. Governments, embarrassed by ancient fears haunted by obsolete traditions, harassed by old practices, do nothing. There is a wide gulf and may sometime prove to be a dangerous gulf, which divides the people with their almost calloused indifference to these burdens."

DAUGHTER OF SELLS, CIRCUS MAN, SUES FOR DIVORCE

Her Cousin Also Begins Similar Action on Same Day in Reno, Nev.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., March 1.—Mrs. Florence Sells Collins, daughter of Peter Sells, former circus owner, and Mrs. Dorothy Sells McMorris, daughter of Elijah Sells, accountant, filed divorce suits here today against their husbands. Peter Sells and Elijah Sells are cousins.

Mrs. Collins sued Joseph F. Collins, to whom she was married in New York, Jan. 30, 1918. She alleges failure to provide.

Mrs. McMorris sued Leroy Daniel McMorris, artist, charging failure to provide and cruelty. Custody of a 4-year-old son is asked by Mrs. McMorris. She married McMorris in New York in September, 1923, educated him in a Paris art school, she says in her complaint, thereafter she asserts he refussed to work and nagged when she refused to give him half of her income.

Never Denied Purnell Was Dead.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., March 1.—H. T. Dewhirst, leader of one of the divisions of the religious colony of the House of David, said today he had not intended his discussion on Feb. 25 of future plans of the colony to be an announcement of the death of Benjamin Purnell, former head of the colony. Dewhirst said today that his story carried by the Associated Press Feb. 25 had been accepted as representing him as formally pronouncing Purnell dead, whereas he has known that he was dead since Dec. 16, 1927, and had never denied the fact.

STATE SUPREME COURT 'LIBERAL,' SAYS JUDGE WHITE

Jurist at Dinner of Missouri Bar Points to Marked Decrease in Number of Criminal Appeals.

By the Jefferson Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 1.—A marked decrease in the number of appeals to the Missouri Supreme Court by persons convicted of crimes, in the last two years, apparently was due to the Supreme Court having "acquired a better reputation" than it had a few years ago, Supreme Judge J. T. White told members of the Missouri State Bar Association in an address here tonight. His reference was to the trend of the court in recent years toward a more libreal interpretation of the hair-splitting technicalities that frequently have enabled defendants in criminal cases to obtain reversals of convictions, long delays, or escape punishment entirely.

About 300 members of the association attended a banquet tonight at a local hotel, in honor of the Judges and Commissioners of the Supreme Court. The occasion was completion of a half-century since the association was founded.

Judge White pointed out that the number of criminal cases appealed to the Supreme Court gradually increased after the World War to a peak of 287 in 1927. The following year 187 appeals in criminal cases were perfected and in 1929 only 99 such cases came to the court, or approximately one-third the total in 1927.

Opinion Shows Change.

In recent years the Supreme Court has overturned many highly technical defenses in affirming convictions of criminals. The trend of the court was expressed in an opinion handed down last year, written by Judge White, in which the court stated "the tendency now is to look at the substance of the accusation and not its form" and added: "The rules of pleadings and procedure are to be construed so as to determine whether the defendant on trial is or is not fact guilty of the crime charged and not whether through some formal irregularity in the proceeding against him he may dodge the issue of guilt or no guilt."

Judge White told the association members that as long as the public was led to believe that a judgment in a criminal case could be reversed because of a misspelled word in an information or an instruction, the notion encouraged appeals. Such errors, or minor omissions, formerly were the basis of reversal of convictions in Missouri.

Judge White said the criminal procedure of Missouri could be improved by repeal or amendment of statutes which hamper the trial courts. As an illustration, he urged that the statute allowing a convicted defendant one year in which to perfect an appeal be amended to materially shorten the time, thereby eliminating delays.

He Defines Technicality.

A comparatively small percentage of convictions are reversed on appeal and not many of these reversals are on so-called technicalities, he said. He jokingly defined a technicality as "the application of a rule of law which causes you to lose your case." The man on the other side of the case, who won by such a ruling, usually regarded it as a "discerning application of a sound legal principle" the judge said.

Just before the conclusion of the meeting, Former Senator James A. Reed was called upon. He urged every possible effort by the bar and courts to preserve the constitutional rights of individuals and said there had been a general movement on the part of legislatures to "crowd to the limit of their legislative power and to come as near as possible to breaking the Constitution."

He condemned the recent Wickersham resolution recommending the substitution of appearance before a commission for jury trial in certain prohibition cases, stating, "It is proposed in high places, to get poor devils before a commissioner in certain cases and to tell them if they do not plead guilty they will be taken to another court, indicted under the Jones law, and put away for the rest of their lives if enough charges are available."

If You'd Vote As You Drink."

Of juries' tendencies to asses light punishments under the Jones Law, he said, "a law that cannot be enforced by the juries is a law that does not belong in this country."

"I don't propose to discuss prohibition at length," he concluded, "but if you all would vote as you drink, there would be no prohibition law."

After prolonged applause died down, he continued. "It is an appalling thing, a horrifying thing, that a large portion of the people think that every right of the individual under the Constitution should be sacrificed to the enforcement of one law."

Governor Caulfield, in a brief address said he believed the judiciary was the most important of the three branches of government. Administration of justice is one duty the government can not leave to other agencies, the Governor said. If the government left the protection of life and property and the punishment of wrongdoers to another agency, then that agency would become the government, he said.

Bank Practice Discussed.

Preceding the banquet a conference of representatives of the State association and several city association was held to discuss alleged illegal practice of law by banks and trust companies. Lawyers in private practice for some time have been protesting against the legal departments of banks and trust companies rendering legal service to banking clients, such as drawing up wills, executing trust agreements and performing similar legal services.

The chairman of the conference, E. J. McCullen of St. Louis, appointed a sub-committee to examine the law and court decisions and determine in what manner a test suit could be brought in the courts to obtain a ruling on the alleged illegal practices.

Another committee, of which J. W. Jamison of St. Louis was chairman, adopted a report urging a constitutional amendment that would permit increasing the salaries of the Judges of the appellate courts, and provide a judicial retirement or pension system.

C. W. PERSHALL'S BROTHER SELLS RACING STABLE

East Side Livestock Dealer Affected by Relative's Abduction — Insists He Is Not Gambler.

A. J. Pershall, East St. Louis livestock dealer, is severing his connection with horse racing, following the kidnaping of his brother, Charles W. Pershall, Granite City chain grocer and banker, who was held for 48 hours until his family paid $40,000 ransom.

"I want the public to know I was never a gambler," the East St. Louisan told the Post-Dispatch.

He is a member of the stockyards firm of Sundheimer & Pershall, which has been racing horses for three years at the Fairmount track on the East Side, on Ohio tracks and at New Orleans. Their horse, Donnatina, was sold at New Orleans Friday and the others of the stable, Annex and Essie, were to be sold yesterday. Last year they raced Sterling Silver, Azure and Ramble.

"Horses Just a Hobby."

"I did not plunge on my horses and never made a wager outside of a nominal bet at the race course," Pershall said. "Owning horses was just a hobby and we didn't have much luck. We never made anything out of it. My partner and I are in the livestock business and we're working hard to keep even at that."

Pershall is known to have been keenly affected by his brother's abduction. He admitted recent events have prejudiced him against the racing business, but would not discuss further his reasons for selling out.

Kidnaping of Pershall's brother had been preceded a day by the abduction of Jacob Hoffman, St. Louis bookmaker, who was rescued by police from a St. Louis County resort where he was held captive. Previously, several other bookmakers had been kidnaped for ransom.

Racing Interests a Clew.

Pershall was the first business man to be kidnaped, and investigators surmised his brother's racing interests were known to the extortionists. The $40,000 ransom was raised after negotiations in which the East St. Louis brother participated.

Kidnaped within a half block of his Granite City home, Pershall was released in East St. Louis Friday night, Feb. 21. Last Sunday he departed for a vacation trip to the South, from which he returned two days ago. Seen by reporters, he admitted being kidnaped and ransomed, but said he could not disclose details of his experiences as he had been pledged to secrecy before being released.

"I am not going to say a thing at the present time," he said, "for fear of jeopardizing my family and myself."

A grand jury inquiry into the Pershall kidnaping will start at Edwardsville, March 17.

A Home, Its Character and Environment, Is a True Expression of Personality

A Charming Home .....in a Lovely Spot

Nature surely displayed smiles in modeling the lovely park-like hills of Normandy.

Skilled engineers added touches to make beautiful Pasadena Hills into a community of character homes.

Restrictions assure increasing property values, when home owners are free from the fear of cheap, unsightly construction on the part of any neighbor.

Pasadena Hills—this charmingly improved tract of 191 acres—is just north of Natural Bridge Road, 7200 West, not too far out, not too far in—with three splendid golf courses less than a mile away.

Here in Pasadena Hills are homes with personality.

Does the luxury of a fine home interest you?

If you want the beauty this environment affords, come and inspect the completely furnished model residence sketched below—now open.

It is one of the numerous fine homes recently completed or now in course of erection on the winding concrete drives and parkways of PASADENA HILLS.

It has been wonderfully decorated and furnished by TRORLICHT-DUNCKER, realizing all the possibilities of each charming room.

If you are thinking in terms of a really fine residence . . . at a price not too high . . . we cordially invite you to view this perfect example of such a home. Come today or very soon.

DEMANDS INQUIRY INTO MISSOURI U.

Kansas City Rabbi Wants to Know if Faculty Is in Fear of "Academic Guillotine."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 1.—A demand for an investigation of reports that members of the University of Missouri faculty "are in mortal terror lest their scientific presentations bring them to the academic guillotine," is made by Rabbi Samuel S. Mayerberg in a letter to the Board of Curators of the university.

"The Max Meyer matter is just one episode in this modern era of intellectual darkness at the university," said Rabbi Mayerberg, commenting on the suspension of Dr. Max Meyer and the dismissal of Dr. Harmon O. DeGraff a year ago for their part in the issuance of a sex questionnaire.

Dr. Stratton D. Brooks, president of the university, returning from a trip to Washington yesterday, remarked that he would welcome the suggested investigation. Commenting on the resignation of Dr. James Harvey Rogers, professor of economics, he declared he was "astonished" that Dr. Rogers should imply that his withdrawal from the faculty was prompted by the board's action in the questionnaire incident.

Dr. Rogers, in announcing that he would resign Sept. 1 to accept a professorship at Yale University at an increased salary, charged suppression of "academic freedom" at the Missouri university. The university, he said, "now is declared to the scientific world to be no longer an institution where scholars may go and work with the assurance of the freedom in teaching and research granted in the ranking universities of the country."

Dr. Brooks said that Dr. Rogers' resignation was not a surprise inasmuch as he had known for three years that Rogers intended to leave Missouri as soon as the Yale professorship was open; that he had refused appointments to Stanford University and the Harvard Business School at higher salaries in order to be able to accept the expected Yale appointment.

HOOVER BOARD OPENS INQUIRY OF HAITIAN AFFAIRS

No Witnesses Appear at First Session, Due to Opposition, but Commission Gives Natives Assurances

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, March 1.—The Hoover Commission on Haitian affairs opened its first session this morning but no one arrived to testify. The Commission was informed by a spokesman of the opposition press that they had decided that the invitation to testify meant that the Commission was a "second McCormick commission."

The McCormick Commission investigated conditions in Haiti and the Dominican Republic in 1921 under Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois.

The opposition editors said that this commission heard all the past misdeeds of the occupation and threw their books into the ocean without remedying the situation.

The American commission immediately issued a statement saying:

Not Another McCormick Inquiry.

"We are not another McCormick commission, but we are here looking to the future and not the past. We want to find from the people how and when the occupation can cease and national institutions be re-established."

Before drawing up their statement, the Commissioners conferred privately with Ernest Chauvet, editor of the Nouvelliste, which strongly opposes President Borno. He explained that the attack of the opposition press this morning on yesterday's statement of the commission was due to its impression that the testimony the commission would take would be about the past only and cover little more ground than the McCormick Commission.

New Pan-American Union Plan.

William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., one of the commissioners, suggested during the first meeting that a new kind of Pan-American union, of an informal economic type, without a political character, be formed to advise small and unstable states on the way to stabilize their governments. The organization would be a kind of friendly debating society, and no force would be involved.

White's suggestion came during the questioning of Pierre Delespinasse, a Haitian lawyer and historian, who was the first person to appear and make suggestions for the commission. It met with the approval of Lespinasse.

Nevertheless, he affirmed that Haiti's misfortunes had been brought in from the outside from the United States.

Though commending White's suggestion highly, he said that if Haiti had tried to establish relations with other American countries her financial adviser would have refused the money for establishing legations abroad.

Property Owner Contends Improvement of Eager Road Is Unnecessary at Present.

A petition for an injunction to prevent Richmond Heights from proceeding under an ordinance to widen a 20-foot concrete slab to 24 feet along Eager road between Hanley and North and South roads was filed in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday by Frederick [illegible] Busch, owner of 13 acres of land against which special tax bills would be assessed.

Busch contends the present roadway is sufficient until the adjutting property is more improved. The suit would restrain Joseph F. McMahon Contracting Co. from starting the work.

Acid Stomach Starts Indigestion

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermenting; then much that is eaten causes gas in the stomach, forming acrid fluid and gases. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we erupt sour food and gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea. He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts, and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, while effervescing, and, furthermore, continue this for one week. What relief often follows the first dose, is important to neutralize the acid, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the excretion and thus promote free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of stomach sufferers with excellent results.

Healthiest!

"My little daughter is about the healthiest girl I know," says Mrs. H. Mitchellette, 4030 Chouteau Ave., St. Louis. "And I want to give credit where it is due.

"Kathryn was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it since for all her upsets or as a laxative during colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels are not regular. Breath becomes unpleasant, tongue coated, eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, sleeplessness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms, gently activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite, encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, headachy, constipated child and see how it helps.

The pure vegetable product endorsed by doctors for 50 years always bears the name California; look for it when buying.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"

—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He dared Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that through his great newspaper he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

U. S. JUDGE OWNS STOCK IN FOUR POWER COMPANIES

T. D. Thacher Nominated to Succeed Hughes' Son as Solicitor-General Answers Borah's Query.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—In response to a telegram from Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, Thomas D. Thacher, Federal Judge for the Southern District of New York, nominated to succeed Charles Evans Hughes Jr., as Solicitor-General, has replied that less than 14 per cent of his personal investments were in public utility securities.

Reports that Thacher had disqualified himself from hearing the suit of the Federal Trade Commission against the Electric Bond and Share Co., to compel the utility to open certain of its books to the commission, caused the Senate Judiciary Committee this week to refer his nomination to a subcommittee for investigation. Waterman (Rep.), Colorado, is chairman of the sub-committee.

Before the sub-committee met, however, Borah asked Thacher by telegraph for an account of his public utility holdings. As the Solicitor-General theoretically is the "people's attorney," and is in charge of Government cases before the United States Supreme Court, several Senators have questioned the propriety of a Solicitor-General' holding large amounts of public utilities securities when public utility litigation is likely to demand attention from the Solicitor-General's office in the future.

Senator Expresses Amazement.

One member of the Judiciary Committee today expressed amazement that Thacher had not disposed of his public utility holdings as soon as he was nominated Solicitor-General and added that Thacher seemed reluctant to dispose of them even if his nomination were confirmed. There is little likelihood that Thacher will not be confirmed although his utility holdings may be the subject of comment on the Senate floor.

Thacher said his public utility holdings consisted of 1000 common shares and 400 option warrants of American & Foreign power; 55 common shares of Baltimore Consolidated Gas & Electric; an allotment certificate for 100 shares, 60 per cent paid, of Electric Power & light, and 400 shares of National Power & Light.

He said that while he did not own any Electric Bond & Share Co. securities, his wife had investments in that company. He was entitled, he added, to a few shares of other utility securities from the estate of his mother.

Thacher declared that although he had been a member of the law firm of Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett, attorneys for the Electric Bond & Share Co., and other electrical companies, he had had little to do with public utility work.

Thacher's Explanation.

"I was consulted of course from time to time," he said "by my partners who were directly in charge of the work done for these power companies, and in a few instances where litigation arose or was threatened, I was called upon to take the responsibility for advice or active representation. It further details of these activities are required an examination of the firm's records will disclose the services I personally rendered.

"Since my appointment to the bench my only relationship to any power company has been of an ordinary investor, and I should at once dispose of any investment I own if in the performance of my professional duty the slightest conflict of interest should appear. The same may be said with the reference to any of Mrs. Thacher's investments.

"I am under no obligation, financially, morally or otherwise to any power company and I can say without reservation that I konw of no professional or other relationship which I have enjoyed in the past which could in the slightest degree influence my performance of any professional duties I may undertake in the future.

"Had I felt any such embarrassment in connection with my nomination for the office of Solicitor-General, I think you must believe I would have declined to accept the nomination before it was presented to the Senate.

CONTRACTOR RYCKOFF SEEKS TO BLOCK DAMAGE SUITS

JEFFERSON CITY, March 1.—Applications for writs of prohibition to restrain the St. Louis Circuit Court from proceeding with the hearing of four personal injury damage suits against A. M. Ryckoff, Chicago contractor, who is under indictment on a charge of cheating the city of St. Louis of approximately $160,000 in a street lighting contract, were filed today in the Missouri Supreme Court.

Ryckoff asserts the summons in the cases was made while he was under arrest in St. Louis and contends that in the circumstances he was immune from service of a civil process in another legal proceeding, the four suits for a total of $25,000 damages, were filed by Mr. and Mrs. Willis Swain of St. Louis. They grew out of personal injuries suffered by Mrs. Swain in 1926.

KILLED BY PLAYMATE

VERNON WINSTON

BOY SHOT TO DEATH BY HIS PLAYMATE

Vernon Winston, 4817B Easton Avenue, Killed When Rifle Is Fired Accidentally.

Vernon Winston, 14 years old, of 4817B Easton avenue, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon when his playmate, Nelson Page, 14, of 1428A North Kingshighway boulevard, accidentally pressed the trigger of his .22-caliber rifle.

The boys were visiting at the home of Nelson's uncle, John Kaatman, farmer, of Dorsett road, near Overland, St. Louis County. They had been playing in the yard, shooting at cans and bottles, and at 3 o'clock went into the kitchen to get warm.

Nelson was sitting on a chair fingering the rifle while he talked to Mrs. Kaatman, and Vernon was standing near the door when the weapon was discharged. The bullet entered the boy's forehead, killing him instantly.

The body was taken to Baumann Brothers Undertaking establishment in Overland pending an inquest. The boy lived with his mother, Mrs. Ruth Winston, a saleswoman.

found vats containing 100,000 gallons of mash. Relatives of the murdered men told of repeated requests to Deimling to search for the men, and declared the requests met with refusal. Following the murders the Madison County Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution deploring lawless conditions in the county. Last November the Federal Government filed an income tax lien against Deimling for the year 1926. The lien covered a tax assessment of $4880.87, and penalty, $4468.43, the total being $9309.30. It was not stated whether Deimling had failed to make a return, or had failed to account for all his income.

Peter Fitzgerald, Chief of Police at Alton, is also a Democratic candidate. He has held his present office for three years and previously was a special agent for the Illinois Terminal Railroad Co.

T. J. Chapman of Wood River, the third candidate, is a carpenter contractor with no previous political history.

In Madison County the Sheriff is elected for four years and receives a salary of $4000 a year, plus quarters and food. It has been the practice for the Sheriff to appoint his wife matron of the county jail at a salary of $103 a month. All fees of the office go to the county. The office is self sustaining, expenses including the salaries of five deputies. The Sheriff receives a generous mileage allowance for transporting prisoners to the penitentiary. Otto Hermann, the present Sheriff, is prevented by the Constitution from being a candidate, as the Sheriff cannot file to succeed himself.

There are three Circuit Judges in the Third Judicial District of Illinois, comprising seven counties, including Madison and St. Clair counties. The Judges, who are elected for six years, are: Louis Bernseuter of Nashville, Jesse R. Brown, Alton, and Henry G. Miller, East St. Louis. Alvin C. Bohm is State's Attorney for Madison County.

HOW COUNTY GOT ITS REPUTATION

Madison County, known in underworld circles as the "gamblers' paradise" and the "gangsters" haven," is in the public spotlight more than ever, as a result of the recent $40,000 Pershall kidnaping and the primary, April 8, at which time candidates for Sheriff are to be nominated.

Like other communities Madison County has its legitimate industries, its honest workmen, its homes and churches and school children, but for several years "Madison" to outsiders has meant open gambling, official laxity, unsolved gang murders, wholesale moonshining and enormous profits for law violators.

St. Louisans, willing to take a chance on getting a long shot, or "half shot" or gunshot, daily and nightly cross the river by hundreds and thousands. The most common route is through East St. Louis and St. Clair County out along the Collinsville road into Madison County. First looms up the large whitewashed track of the Madison Kenel Club, where, in season, the greyhounds race nightly to the accompaniment of cheers and betting by crowds of 5000 men, women and children. Right now the track is closed.

MADISON COUNTY COMMITEE OF 52 TO LEAD CLEANUP

Variety at Mounds Club.

Down the road a bit is the pretentious building of the Mounds Country Club, where the public may dine, dance and daily with roulette wheels, dice games and slot machines. The club's "season" is all year.

Not much farther is the Fairmount Jockey Club, where in season, horses run and bettors make "contributions." The wagering system here is legalized under Illinois law, unlike the Madison dog track and Mounds gambling. The Fairmount track is to reopen next May.

A "glutton for punishment" might spend an afternoon at Fairmount, dine and gamble at Mounds, go to the dogs at Madison that night, and return to Mounds for the rest of the night. It's been done. For "low-brow gamblers," there are dozens of roadhouses and just plain houses.

In 1926 the Granite City Commercial Club, the Tri-Cities Ministerial Alliance and allied organizations and individuals made an earnest drive against Madison County race tracks and gambling houses, while a half dozen labor organizations in Collinsville and Granite City indorsed the tracks on the ground they provided bread and butter to workmen on the payrolls. The church people complained of the moral effects of gambling; the business men complained grocery bills were going unpaid because of gambling losses.

Sheriff Deimling, who will be a candidate for the same office at the coming primary, took no action on the protests; State's Attorney Brown (now a Circuit Judge) was accused of taking a hostile attitude. Open gambling continued.

Two Are Big Money Makers.

The Mounds Club and Madison dog track enterprises have been enormously profitable; the Fairmount track has not, due somewhat to the heavy taxes it pays to the State of Illinois as a result of being legalized.

In litigation over the estate of the late "Marty" Hyland, who promoted the Madison dog track, it was alleged the track was netting more than $30,000 weekly. This was denied by the management, but the exact income was not made public.

Internal Revenue Bureau agents were in Madison County last summer making an inquiry into income tax returns of gamblers and officials. In November, the Government filed income tax liens totaling $190,000 against Harry Murdock and "Bow Wow" McQuillan, operators of the Mounds Club, former Sheriffs Deimling and Little, and others, alleging that they had failed to report income or properly explain expenditures.

Murdock Refuses Information.

In January, Murdock, against whom a lien for $78,073 had been filed, was indicted at Springfield on a charge of refusing to furnish information concerning deductions of $24,000 he made in his income tax returns for 1927 and 1928 under the headings, "salaries exclusive of labor" and "business deductions."

Cuckoo gangsters, who once flourished in Southern St. Louis County, with resultant murders, transferred their operations to the East Side months ago. Herman Tipton, Cuckoo leader arrested for investigation in the Pershall kidnaping, was often seen in and around the Tri-Cities—Granite City, Madison and Venice. Likewise Jess Ruebling and other "big shot" gamblers who once held forth in Wellston moved across the river.

Sheltons Like Tri-Cities.

The Shelton gang of Williamson County and East St. Louis, took a liking to the Tri-Cities, especially Granite City and its neighbor, Nameoki. Charley Player, former saloonkeeper and bookmaker of East St. Louis and Venice, also rose to leadership in the underworld.

The Horseshoe Lake region near Granite City had been the scene of numerous gang shootings and unsolved murders; and bootleg activities have extended toward a quieter section of the county, around Alton. A year ago the Federal Government had a squad of prohibition agents in the county, with the result that wholesale indictments for [illegible] violations were returned [illegible] bootleggers and petty officials.

The first in the recent series of kidnapings for ransom was that of a Madison County gambler, [illegible] King, who caters to Negro [illegible] players of Newport and Venice. [illegible] other Madison County resident, Pershall, a reputable business [illegible] was the last to be kidnaped.

HIGH FOOT DEFEATS MICHIGAN BOY IN DERBY TRIAL

TEAM HOLDS ITS FIRST PRACTICE TOMORROW

Eleven Cardinals, headed by Manager Gabby Street, departed last night for Bradenton, Fla., to begin preparations for the 1930 National League season. In addition to the players the party included President Sam Breadon, Secretary Clarence Lloyd, Dr. S. S. Burns, three newspaper men and three players of the Rochester club, making a total of 19.

It was the largest party to leave Union Station for a Cardinal training camp in some years, due to the fact that the practice of previous years of sending the pitchers and the catchers to camp in advance was abandoned this season, and the whole squad is due to begin work at Bradenton Monday morning.

Included in the party, in addition to those mentioned, were Pitchers Clarence Mitchell, Herman Bell and Haid, Infielders Jim Bottomley and Andy High, Catchers Mickey O'Neil and Earl Smith, Outfielder Walter Roettger and Coach Clyde Wares of the Cardinals and Pitcher Mace Brown, Infielder Fred Meyers and Catcher Burton Bruckman, who are the property of the Rochester club, the Cardinals' International League farm.

First Game Saturday.

The club will not have long to prepare for its first game, as a series of four contests with the world champion Philadelphia Athletics begins at Miami next Saturday. Street said that he felt there were enough young players on his roster to whip into shape in four or five days, so that he will be able to send a good team against the Athletics.

Breadon, before his departure, said that all of the Cardinals have agreed to terms or have signed contracts with the possible exception of one man. Who that man is Breadon would not say, because no man is considered a holdout until he has had an opportunity to report at camp.

No doubt, the Cardinals' president didn't have as much trouble signing his men for this season as he did the past two or three, largely because few of them did anything in 1929 to justify demanding huge increases and probably most of them were glad to get the same salary they received last season.

Managers Come and Go.

It was the sixth successive time that the Cardinals embarked for a training season under a new manager. In 1925 Branch Rickey was at the helm and although he is still with the club in the capacity of vice president and business manager, it is said he has nothing to do with handling the team on the field. Rogers Hornsby was in command in 1926 and after he had succeeded in winning a National League championship and a world series came the historic split with Breadon which resulted in Hornsby's departure and the signing of Bob O'Farrell as manager.

O'Farrell retained control of the team through 1927, but in 1928 was succeeded by Bill McKechnie who managed to win the league pennant that season, but lost the world series to the Yankees in four straight games. He was succeeded the next year by Billy Southworth who failed to last a season as manager and was in turn replaced by McKechnie who, during the past winter, signed a four-year contract as manager of the Boston Braves.

Gabby Street, who was a coach of the Cardinals last year, was elevated to the managership when McKechnie abdicated and he will have charge of the club at Bradenton.

Street is enthusiastic over the prospects for the club this season and declared at Union Station that he thinks he has a better team than most people think.

Alfred Banuet Wins His Second National A. A. U. Handball Title

By Harry McKanna

Alfred Banuet, the youthful wizard of the handball courts from the Olympic Athletic Club, San Francisco, won his second consecutive National A. A. U. championship of the four-wall game yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. H. A., defeating George Nelson, Baltimore Y. M. C. A. 21-10 and 21-6.

Playing the same great driving and killing game that carried him through to straight victories in every match he has played the tournament, the 21-year-old Spanish-American easily breezed through the title final.

He outclassed Nelson, national champion in 1927. The Baltimore man played fine handball, but he furnished little opposition to the coast youngster.

Banuet and Partner Win Doubles.

With Woodman Paynter of the Olympic Club as his new partner, Banuet won the doubles championship last night from Jack Srenco, former St. Louis City champion, now of the Cadillac Athletic Club, Detroit, and Lawrence Dworman of the same club, 21-1, 21-17. Banuet and Ward McMillan of the Olympic Club won the doubles title last year.

Banuet's great playing again was the feature of the doubles play. The San Francisco pair scored 10 points in the second inning.

Herbert Flannery of Pittsburg, national chairman of the A. A. U. Handball Committee, who refereed the Banuet-Nelson match, declared Banuet played perfect handball while Nelson played a much better game than he did in 1927 when he won the crown now worn by the youthful San Francisco star.

Strong With Either Hand.

Banuet, driving and killing the ball with his left hand better than with his right—and he is a right-hander—won the toss and the serve. He piled up five points in his first inning, scoring an ace on his first serve. Nelson, in his half of the inning, tallied four points, but Banuet ended the inning with a pretty kill. Banuet came back in the second to get four more, and in the third he added three to his total, making his last scoring shot while lying on the floor. Nelson tallied twice in the third, but from then on it was Banuet's game.

The coast boy, waiting for the return of Nelson's drives near the middle of the court, was all over the floor, driving to the forward

WRAY'S COLUMN

In Earnest?

JACK DEMPSEY is going to try a comeback. After Mayo Institute had given him the O. K. Jack evidently decided that the 1930 ring pickings were too rich to be turned down. He will attempt to get into condition and if fit will fight again.

The pugilistic highway is strewn with the remains of oldtimers who tried to come back from retirement. But, if there is a fighter who can turn this trick it is Dempsey—an unusual man in determination, faithfulness to purpose and in superpunching power. There will be no half-way stuff to Dempsey's training when he starts it. What Jack does he does heartily.

If he does not fight until next September, building up gradually, there is a good chance that he can do a lot toward coming back. But—Dempsey has boxed only 27 rounds in the past four years and before that had no fights in three years. In 1923 he boxed a total of 17 rounds. Exhibitions not included, Dempsey has fought a total of five fights, or a total of 44 rounds since he beat Georges Carpentier in 1921!

Whoever Dempsey may be matched with, there is little doubt that the Giant Carnera is the one hoped for. Dempsey has stated that if he ever came back it would be to eliminate some foreign aspirant to the title.

Dempsey and Carnera, or Dempsey and the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling bout, could pack Soldier Field with 125,000 fans.

Carnera Coming Back?

PRIMO CARNERA, varicose veins and all, may return to St. Louis this month to give St. Louis another view in action of his gigantic frame—provided Mique Malloy, Chicago promoter, puts over his Arena plans for March 17.

Mike is trying to get "Chuck" Wiggins and Carnera together in a 10-round go, with the thought that Chuck would prove a very annoying opponent for the big

DEMPSEY PLANS TO START WORK FOR "COMEBACK" IN SIX WEEKS

By the Associated Press.

ROCHESTER, Minn., March 1.—The former heavyweight boxing champion, Jack Dempsey, said today he would begin intensive training in about six weeks and that possibly he may return to the ring. He made his statement after a day spent in consulting physicians at the Mayo Clinic.

Dempsey refused to say anything regarding his examination at the clinic today, and the physicians also refused to comment on the outcome. The former champion, however, said the result would not keep him from training, and that he probably would have an announcement to make following completion of a theatrical engagement.

The former champion and John Wall, his representative, left here tonight for Cleveland, where Dempsey is to appear at a sportsmen's show, opening Tuesday.

Jerry Luvadis, for ten years a trainer of the former champion, will join Dempsey in Chicago, the latter said. He added that developments in the next few weeks will be a factor in his decision to reenter the ring.

Dempsey arrived in Rochester early today, and when informed that doctors C. H. and W. J. Mayo were not here, expressed disappointment. He consulted, however, with other members of the clinic's staff, and announced that he was feeling "in the best of condition."

Stewart Signs; Gray Reported on His Way To Camp of Brownies

By James M. Gould
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—Ordinarily, Sunday is a day of rest for all sorts and conditions of men, but down here Sunday for the Browns is just another day of toil as Manager Bill Killefer has decreed a short Sabbath work out. A club managed by a man of Killefer's type is bound to be a happy one and there was not the slightest squawk when the announcement of a Sunday practice was made. The Browns may or may not win the pennant, but indications point to the same high morale the club has had for the two previous seasons.

Hold-outitis, that dread baseball disease, seems to need only a bit of summer sun to pass out of the picture. A week or so before the Browns were due to report it was phispered that not half the club was signed. Each day the number of recalcitrants decreases.

Early today the slim form of Walter Stewart, the Tennessee southpaw, was seen wending toward the hotel desk. Walter didn't want to wake anybody up, but as soon as Manager Killefer arose, he and "Lefty" went into a huddle, during the course of which a fountain pen was placed in Stewart's hand with the suggestion that he show how nicely he could trace his signature on a contract blank. After a bit of chatter, Walter accepted the suggestion and Killefer now has "the papers" signed, sealed and delivered.

Gray Is on His Way.

The assumption is that Sam Gray has decided that a bird in the hand is worth a lot of spilt milk, or words to that effect. So far as anyone knows here, Gray has not actually signed a contract, but the intimation from the St. Louis office that the leading citizen of Rock Springs, Tex., would soon be on his way to Florida, inclined to the belief that Samuel had seen the light and would no longer hide said light under a bushel or anything else.

As has been reported, Rip Collins is all fixed, and George Blaeholder, even now, may be well on his road from California here. With Crowder, Kimsey, Ogden and Coffman here, as well as the three catchers, Ferrell, Manion and Hungling, there seems nothing much worrisome left in the battery department.

As for Heine Manush and "Red" Kress, that, as Kipling or Irving Berlin or somebody has said, "Is another story." Kress would rather play baseball than consume a young pompano with parsley trimmings. He thinks he is a great shortstop and most observers agree with him. Perhaps he has placed too high a value on his services Nowadays, major league clubs refuse to discuss terms asked for or given, but a guess would be that Kress figures $10,000 would be about the proper figure. It is extremely doubtful that he will get that or, for that matter, that he is worth that to a club which, for the past few seasons, has not had much trouble transporting to the bank the daily receipts. The best prediction is that Kress soon will be among those present.

And that would be about the proper way to figure Heine Manush. Heine is a high-salaried youth. It is all right for certain players to sound off to the effect that "If I don't get my price, I'll quit," but the natural query is a wondering one—what they would do for a living. Heine, thus far down here, has maintained a policy of watchful and silent waitings. He is very fond of Bill Killefer personally and if anyone can get Heine out of the present stubborn mood, it is Killefer.

Club Will Have Trouble.

Next Tuesday, when the second squad is due to report, it would not be at all surprising to see Manush within the fold. And if he and Kress come in, everything will be rosy and all the Brownie officials will have to do will be to step out and add a bit of hitting strength to make the club a contender.

A burning sun looked down upon the Browns today as they went through their paces. There was no letup in the work. Killefer is an "easy driver," but, quietly, gets as good results as do others who orate loudly while on the field for the benefit of the general public. Killefer is much pleased with the acquisition of "Lena" Blackburne as coach. The former White Sox pilot is working hand-and-glove with Bill and Jimmy Austin.

Blackburne does not consider he has lost any prestige by leaving the White Sox as manager and coming to the Browns as coach. The meer fact that he will not have to be bothered by "The Great Shires" as Arthur laughingly calls himself, makes the immediate future look OK to "Lena."

Gullic Has Bad Leg.

Only the usual aches, pains and stiffness have marked the first five days of work the Browns have had. Ted Gullic's left leg bothers him a bit, but it is believed that

M'LARNIN HANDS SAM MANDELL WORST BEATING OF HIS CAREER

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 1. — Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight challenger, defeated Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, in their 10-round fight at the Stadium here tonight, winning every round. He twice had Mandell in distress but could not upset him.

It was the most convincing defeat ever suffered by the lightweight champion.

McLarnin chased Mandell all over the ring the first two rounds, nearly dropping him with heavy lefts and rights to the head just as the bell ended the second round. He drove the lightweight champion into the corner four times in the first round. The Rockford boy plainly was in distress from a hook to the jaw in the second. Sammy bled from the mouth in the fourth. Mandell's left eye was cut in the sixth. He was knocked reeling into the ropes with a right to the jaw, and smelling salts had to be applied when he walked reeling to his corner at the end of the round.

The lightweight champion made a courageous finish in the tenth round. In the face of vicious left hooks and right crosses to the head, Mandell fought furiously in the closing session, throwing his defensive tactics to the winds and banging away with both hands, bringing the crowd to its feet with a thunderous roar.

The match was witnessed by a crowd of 15,000 or 16,000, with gate receipts around $70,000.

The expected difference in the weight between the welterweight challenger and Mandell diminished surprisingly when they jumped on the scales in the afternoon. McLarnin had only 2½ pounds advantage over the lightweight champion, the former scaling 142½ and Mandell 140.

McLarnin defeated Mandell last fall, also.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—High Foot, a speedy 3-year-old from the Valley Lake Stable, served notice of his Derby candidacy as he walked away with the Derby Trial Handicap, a mile event worth $3530 at Fair Grounds today. Meyer got the colt away fast and never once during the mile journey was his lead threatened. He finished the eight panels of mud in 1:40 2-5, five lengths in front of Michigan Boy and seven lengths in advance of Lightning Jones, the second and third place horses, respectively. The remainder of the field of eight was badly distanced. High Foot, was the favorite, paying only $3.90 for a $2 mutuel ticket.

The heavy track gave the mud runners a chance with the result that Flapdoodle, carrying W. H. Hoist's silks was not long in cashing in. The 7-year-old gelding plowed through a mile and a sixteenth to win the opener and pay $39.50 in the mutuels. C. Eames brought the Hoist entry up from far back in a stretch drive that left Coppershine and Southland King in second and third places, respectively.

The winner was half a length in front of Coppershine, while the latter led Southland King by a head. Dare Devil, the favorite at $1.80 on the dollar finished ninth in the field of 12.

The Valley Lake Stable put over its second winner of the day when Herendeen won the sixth race from M. N. Porter's Chatter Black, second, and Oregon Fir, from E. P. Letellier's Stable, third.

Isostasy Wins Second.

The favorites, however, fared better in the second with H. Haymaker's Isostasy, the second choice in the wagering, winning. The gelded son of Ballot paid $9.40 for $2 and winning by four lengths over Bonfils an outsider, which paid $34.10 for a $2 place ticket. Royal Sport, the 2 to 1 favorite was third.

G. H. Neal's Seth's Ballot had things all his own way in the third race. The 4-year-old son of Seth-Ballot Rose broke out in front and then just galloped home six lengths in front of W. L. Brodie's Aregal, the favorite. The latter defeated McCuan's La Paloma three lengths for the place. Seth's Ballot paid $13.10.

Extreme Takes Fifth Race.

Extreme again showed his preference for heavy going when he galloped over six furlongs of mud to win the Pennsylvania Speed and Security Handicap. The 5-year-old gelding flying the colors of J. G. Demarest, broke away from the post fast and at the end was a length and a half in front of Club House from the Graceland Stock Farm. Star O'Morn, pride of the Black Dot Stable, trailed another two lengths for the short end of the purse. Extreme covered the six furlongs in 1:16, despite the heavy condition of the track, and paid $5.80 for a $2 ticket, being second choice in the wagering. The Rancocas Stable's Zida was the favorite but finished last in the field of six.

By Damon Kerby

Bud Taylor, called the Terre Haute Terror and a former bantamweight champion, will fight Lou Terry, local junior lightweight, here March 10 at the Coliseum, under the auspices of the Walter J. Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion, it was announced last night by Matchmaker Jack Tippett. In the supporting 10-round bouts Al Stillman, John Schwake and Joe Ghnouly will oppose out-of-town fighters. The signing of the Taylor-Terry bout eliminates the possibility, for the time being, at least, of Terry and Peewee Kaiser meeting in a return bout for the city championship.

In Taylor, Terry will face one of the toughest opponents he has ever been called on to meet. Taylor is a veteran of 10 years' ring experience. He has fought in more than 130 fights, with only two knockouts credited against him. Joey Sangor was awarded a technical kayo over him two years ago, and early in his career he was flattened by an opponent, name unknown.

Took Title in 1924.

The Terre Haute fighter assumed the bantamweight championship in 1924, when Joe Lynch could no longer make the bantamweight limit. Taylor held the crown until a couple of years ago, when he, too, was forced to give it up on account of difficulty in making the bantamweight limit.

Although a veteran, Taylor's record indicates he is far from being a dead one. He appeared in 10 bouts last year. He beat Billy Shaw, Harry Felgano and Santiago Zorilla, knocked out a couple of unknowns, was held to a draw by Earl Mastro in a great battle at Chicago and lost to Al Singer, Andy Martin and Young Montreal, and lost on a foul to Al Singer. The defeat by Young Montreal is the worst flaw in Taylor's record.

Terry and Taylor will fight at 130 pounds.

Other Bouts Still Open.

Matchmaker Tippett has not decided who he will use against Stillman, Schwake, and Ghnouly, in the supporting bouts, although Fred Cullen, who knocked out Russell Gross last week in East St. Louis, is being considered as an opponent for Stillman.

The top price for tickets will be $4.40, Tippett announced, with gallery seats $1.10.

The scale of ticket prices for the Bass-Shea junior lightweight championship fight at the Arena, March 28, will be $1.50 to $6.60, Matchmaker Tom Packs announced yesterday. Ringside seats will be $6.60 and $5.50; seats opposite the ring, in the first balcony, will be $4.40; other sections on the side will be $3.30 and $2.20; upper balcony, opposite ring, $2.20; with others at $1.50. The ticket sale will open Tuesday at The Arena and the Aeolian Company.

Tommy Sullivan, who operates under the charter of the Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion, will have to mark time indefinitely, or until he obtains a boxing date not in use by another local promoter. The only chance for him to hold a show before April 15, he said yesterday, will be if Mique Malloy decides not to use his date of March 17. If Malloy turns back this date to the State Commission Sullivan likely will apply for it.

Mike McNulty, Detroit, manager of Roger Bernard, promising featherweight, was in St. Louis last night conferring with Packs, and probably will have his fighter in the semiwindup of the Bass-Shea card. McNulty said his negotiations for a bout between Bernard and Bat Battalino, featherweight champion in Detroit, March, were off because Battalino's manager demanded a return bout in Hartford, Conn., Battalino's home town, in case the title should change hands. Battalino's manager also wanted the right to name the referee. McNulty said he proposed that if a return bout was held it should go to New York, Chicago or St. Louis.

TURNESA'S 138 HOLDS LEAD IN FLORIDA GOLF

By the Associated Press.

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 1.—Putting together rounds of 67 and 71, for a total of 138, Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., led a select field of professional and amateur golfers here today in the fifteenth annual Florida West Coast open championship for the Morton Plant trophy and a purse of $4500.

Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, who went into a commanding lead on the morning round with a sterling 65, fared rather poorly this afternoon, to finish with a 74 and establish himself in second place with a total of 139.

Two strokes behind Cooper came Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, former national open titleholder, whose consistent playing rewarded him with rounds of 70 and 71. Whiffy Cox of New York, with scores of 69-72, and Gene Sarazen, another New Yorker, who added an afternoon 73 to his brilliant 68 of this morning.

Espinosa Up and Down.

Al Espinosa of Chicago, who burned up the short number one course this morning with his par shattering 67, could do no better than 76 this afternoon to go into a deadlock with Herman Barron of New York, who accounted for rounds of 71 and 72.

Vincent Eldred of Bradenton, Fla., and Tony Manero of New York were next in line with 36-hole cards of 144. Craig Wood, New Jersey, checked in with 145.

Bracketed at 146 were Horton Smith, youthful links star of Springfield, Mo., whose clubs today manufactured a pair of 73's; Billy Burke of Greenwich, Conn., who scored 75 and 71; Al Watrous, another Ryder Cup team member from Detroit, who had 70 and 76; Ed Kirby of Cleveland, who added a 75 to his morning 71, and George Waggaman, Tampa, pro., who carded a pair of 73's.

Scott-Sharkey Incident Closed, Commission Says

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 1.—The squawks over the Sharkey-Scott battle may be heard for some time to come, for they aroused new strains of pugilistic bitterness, but these will not change the result. The Miami boxing commissioners made it clear that while they will accord Scott or his manager any reasonable hearing, they have no thought of reversing or reconsidering the verdict of Referee Lou Magnolia.

Phil Scott spent most of the "day after" undergoing treatment for the nerve condition which he claimed resulted from a foul blow by Sharkey to the side of his hip. His manager devoted the entire day to the voicing of hot charges against the referee.

Magnolia countered with equal heat.

Sharkey alone obtained rest and seclusion, which he intends to enjoy here for another month. He will not fight again until he meets Schmeling in June.

A Sad Story.

The final report from the box office was sad indeed. It showed gross receipts of $193,252 and a net gate of $161,716 after the deduction of Federal tax. There were only 18,762 paying customers, of whom 11,897 sat in the $5 sections (until they moved elsewhere). 3495 occupied $12.40 seats and 3370 enjoyed the luxury of $25 locations.

With Sharkey receiving $40,429.75 and Scott $32,243, the fighters' payroll reached $124,000 altogether, leaving the Garden less than $40,000 with which to pay the arena rental and the cost of operations, besides the maintenance of a large staff organization here for a month. The total cost of the promotion was figured at no less than $200,000 so that the loss probably will be between 40,000 and $50,000.

Irish League Wins.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 1.—In an inter-league soccer match today the Irish League defeated a Free State eleven, 6 goals to 1.

TIGERS KEEP IN FLAG HUNT BY BEATING SOONERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 1. — Coach George Edwards' University of Missouri basketball team, at present in a neck and neck race with the University of Kansas for the 1930 Big Six Conference cage championship, painted itself more bodly into the title picture here tonight by defeating the Oklahoma Sooners, holders of the conference cellar position, 36 to 20. It was the tenth flop the Oklahomans have made in 10 conference engagements this year and closed the season for the Sooners.

The Missouri Tigers, now with a record of seven encounters won and two lost, have remaining their final and all-important game to be played with Kansas Jayhawkers at Lawrence next Wednesday night. On the outcome of the Tiger-Jayhawk battle hinges the championship.

The score at the half stood 18 to 10 with the Tigers holding the advantage. Welsh of Missouri collected a total of 13 points with six field goals and one free throw for high scoring honors in the clash tonight.

The Tiger victory tonight, coupled with the Kansas one-point win over Nebraska, 36 to 35, leaves the Missourians and the Jayhawkers in a tie for first place in the conference standings, each with a record of seven won and two lost. Nebraska, with four defeats, is now definitely elliminated from championship consideration, and the victor in the Missouri-Kansas tussle will be the 1930 champion and the loser the runner-up.

KANSAS BEATS HUSKERS; BISHOP GETS 23 POINTS

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 1.—The University of Kansas basketball team, beaten in its last two starts, came to life again here tonight and nosed out Nebraskaa's cornhuskers, 36 to 35. Tom Bishop scored 23 points and thereby set a new Big Six conference mark.

The Cornhuskers, trailing 12 to 22 at the half, pulled up to 24-all with six minutes gone in the second half. At this point, Kansas again took the lead and with one minute left to play was holding a 36-34 edge. Grace was fouled and converted but Kansas took the next tip off and stalled the remaining 40 seconds. The guarding of Cox and Page was outstanding. The game closed Nebraska's season.

The box score:

CARDS START FOR FLORIDA CAMP; ONE STAR OUT OF FOLD

ida they will play 26 practice games before returning to St. Louis to meet the Browns in the annual brace of contests. Thirteen of the games in the South are against major league clubs, while in the other 13 minor league aggregations will furnish the opposition.

The Athletics will be met in four contests, the Yankees in three, Braves in two, Detroit in two and Phillies in two. In addition the Cardinals will play Indianapolis twice, Tampa three times and Rochester eight games.

From Florida to St. Louis.

A new departure in training camp procedure this season is the jump which the club will make from Bradenton directly to St. Louis without stopping for games en route as in previous years. The club is scheduled to break camp on April 9 and return to St. Louis on April 11 to play the Browns, April 12 and 13, before opening the regular National League season against the Chicago Cubs here April 15.

The training trip this year is shorter by a week than in other years. Generally the club has been in the South 49 or 50 days, including the time consumed getting to and returning from Florida, but this year they will be gone only 42 days, all told.

Colorado Wins Title.

BOULDER, Colo., March 1. — Colorado University's team today was the basketball champion of the Eastern division of the Rock Mountain Conference after its victory last night over the Colorado College cagers, 27 to 24.

WRAY'S COLUMN

fellow and might possibly beat him.

Malloy also is angling for a light heavyweight bout between Tommy Loughran and Arthur de Kuh as a double feature for the same show, but the cost is likely to be prohibitive.

Figuring on a $30,000 overhead rising to dizzy altitudes for St. Louis. Whether the district could afford it remains to be demonstrated.

Certainly a lot of us would like to see such a show. But, few would care to guarantee what would happen in a Wiggins-Carnera match. Wiggins is a rough and rowdy boy and no telling what he might pull, if Carnera "got tough."

Is It Life, or Death?

COMPETITION may be the life of trade in the grocer business but it is likely to be the death of the boxing game, some of the timid boys in this vicinity are complaining.

They point to the fact that there are now four major promoters arranging to tap the pocketbook of John Cash Customer, these being Jack Tippetts on March 10, Tommy Sullivan Mique Malloy of Chicago on March 17 and Tom Packs on March 28.

All four are trying to book either "naturals" or "big shots" and it is considered by observers that the fight bank roll of this vicinity is not fat enough to go around.

Our own opinion is that the fight sentiment of St. Louis will have to be tried out fully before it is found wanting; and the best way to find it out is to put over all the programs as planned. If the shows are good they probably will all go over the top. The only time St. Louis has remained away from fights is when it has smelled the same odor that Hamlet whiffed in Denmark.

Former Champion Coming.

IN addition to the show planned by Malloy there is already one top rank feature scheduled for March 10, with former Bantam champion Buddy Taylor meeting Lou Terry. The Coliseum is trying to put over a match between featherweight Bat Battalino and Peewee Kaiser that should interest fans. While on March 28 there is of course the championship contest between Benny Bass and Eddie Shea—one of the most interesting pairings of fighters the city has known in several years.

If the town can support three or four big shows in one month it will take rank with big time cities. In fact, it will shove ahead of them. Chicago has not been able to make money with even two such rival promotions as the Dempsey Coliseum and the Stadium are reported losers.

Why Not Find Out?

DOWN in Miami Young Stribling is quoted as saying that Carnera is a better fighter than he has been given credit for and he thinks Carnera would knock out Campolo.

It's an interesting thought and it might be a good thing to toss them into a ring and find out. It would lift Carnera out of the doubtful column at once and hasten either his rise to the throne or his downfall and exit. This, we are assured by the medical fraternity, is certain to come within a short year or two, due to the varicose veins.

The Claiming Title.

JACK SHARKEY is eligible to the title claiming championship of the world. After the low blow incidents of Miami, Sharkey claimed the world title; but he will need more support for his claim than is afforded by the Scott episode or by his record.

The fact is Sharkey has not shown himself great in any of the major requirements of a champion. He is erratic, temperamental, has a dubious punch despite one or two outstanding knockouts, and has permitted some indifferent fighters to show him up.

Consistency and ring poise are first essentials of the truly great.

He may beat Schmeling next June, but it will be because the German is not a sufficiently polished workman to take care of Jack. Maxie has not done much to improve himself since he left these shores and he surely needed improvement in some features.

He will show one thing superior to Sharkey when they meet—that is a wallop. A lot of gentlemen in dear old England would not care a bit if Maxie landed his big guns right on the Coccoske button.

Quite So.

A BRITISH editorialist, writing of Scott fight said: "From first the sportsmanship of the American money-makers who promoted the fight has been suspected. As long as big boxing is conducted in America along its present lines, British boxers, however good they are, should keep away from the United States."

John Bull and his countrymen seem to forget that other Englishmen who have come over here have reaped a harvest. One may even include Scott himself among the beneficiaries.

Try and keep some of them away like Jack Berg. Jack will be back because he not only received fair treatment but made lots of money. He would like some more.

Americans got some pretty raw deals from British officials in days gone by. Ask Gunboat Smith what Referee Eugene Corri did to him when he fought Georges Carpentier. With Carpentier on one knee, and starting to rise without a count, Gunboat Smith was unable to stop a blow already started and it grazed Carpentier's hair—did not touch his head. Georges sank back to one knee while Referee Corri gave the fight to Georges.

Ask Willie Ritchie why it was that he had to go to England before Freddie Welsh would arrange a match with him. And also ask Willie what he thought of the twenty-round decision that took away his title.

Accidents of the ring and of official judgment are not peculiar to any nation and the United States is no better and no worse than England in sportsmanship.

That "Minute Rest."

ONE thing difficult to understand about official acts in the ring is the idea of granting a boxer a minute's rest, as was done in Scott's favor at Miami.

Either a foul was committed or it was not. If it was and the consequence was of sufficient serious in the mind of the referee the offender should be disqualified. But by granting a minute's rest the aggressor is either being forced to lose the advantage of his damaging punch, or the victim is being deprived of his rights under the rules.

In no way, except fo examination by a physician, can this cessation of hostilities be justified.

Another Black Gold?

A TWO-YEAR-OLD, Bill Morris, is attracting great attention in New Orleans. Four starts and four victories form this youngster's records.

A friend advises from down South that "This colt is a real corker and has won his races by several lengths pulled up. No one knows how good this colt is, but all here agree that he is a better colt now than Black Gold was as a 2-year-old."

Bill runs in the Juvenile stakes tomorrow and he will be odds on to win.

VALLEY AMATEUR FIGHT MEET TO START MARCH 12

Amateur boxers of various universities, colleges and independent athletic clubs located within a radius of 200 miles of St. Louis have been invited to compete in the first senior championships sponsored by the Mississippi Valley A. A., according to Julius J. Kummer, president of the valley organization, which embraces seven local clubs that withdrew two months ago from the Western A. A. U. The championship tourney will be held March 12 and 13, at the South Broadway A. C.

Kummer announced last night that approximately 50 local boxers are tentatively pledged to compete in the valley meet, assurance having been received by tourney officials that the South Broadway A. C. will enter a team of 20 or more, while the Olympian A. C. plans to enter 15 contestants and the Tower A. C. has pledged a team of 12 fighters. The Business Men's A. C., National A. A., Overland A. C. and Sherman Park Community Center are also preparing to enter representative teams, it was announced.

Among the amateur fistic stars in training for the valley championships are Woodrow Williams, Western A. A. U. junior bantam champion; Joe Herbst Jr., a former junior featherweight title holder, who is now a welterweight contender; Cliff Doetzel, former senior flyweight champion, and Dan Dur so, a former bantam title holder.

Boxers planning to enter the tourney can obtain entry blanks from Tom Conroy at the South Broadway gymnasium, 2301 South Seventh boulevard.

Runs Out in 15 Innings.

CORNELL TIES PENN FOR FIRST IN INDOOR MEET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A big, fast and well-balanced Cornell track and field team, scoring in seven of 11 events, got a tie with Pennsylvania in the ninth annual indoor intercollegiate championships before a crowd of 7000 tonight as a world record and three meet marks were broken. Pennsylvania's fine runners gave the Red and Blue aggregation eight points in the one-mile run and backed this up with Burney Berlinger's allround ability in the field events.

The high-scoring giant of the evening was Leo Sexton, Georgetown, who tallied 9½ points single handed with a first in the shotput, a third in the 35-pound weight throw and a tie for fourth in the high jump. Barney Berlinger of Pennsylvania and Sol Furth, New York University captain, tied for runner-up honors with eight points apiece. New York University, the defending champion, finished fourth, back of Cornell, Pennsylvania and Harvard in that order.

Daley Retains Title.

Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross in the 70-yard sprint was the only one of six individual champions to retain his title.

Harvard's wonderful team of quarter-milers provided the thrill of the evening by smashing the world's standard for the one-mile relay in beating the highly favored Holy Cross quartet, Yale and Syracuse in 3 minutes, 20.6 seconds.

New meet records were set by Paul Rekers of Penn State in the two-mile run, Everett Utterbach of Pittsburg in the running broad jump as two rivals also beat the former figures; and New York University in the freshman medley relay.

Cornell and Pennsylvania finished with 27½ points apiece. Harvard was third with 20½ points and New York University fourth with 15. Yale was fifth, 12½; Georgetown, sixth, 10½; Holy Cross and Pittsburg tied for seventh, 9; Columbia, ninth, 8½; Dartmouth, tenth, 6; Bates, eleventh, 5; City College of New York, twelfth, 3; Syracuse and Boston College tied for thirteenth, 2; and Brown, fourteenth, 1.

Several Ties.

The pole vault and the high jump, the last two events to be decided, were so closely contested that several ties resulted. Berlinger of Pennsylvania, Colyer, Cornell and Sutermeister, Harvard, tied for vaulting honors at 13 feet with Dunlap, Harvard, and Smith, Pennsylvania, deadlocked at 12 feet 6 inches.

In the high jump, O'Connor, Columbia, tied with Wolf, Yale, at 6 feet 3½ inches, an inch better than Babor, City College of New York, who was third. Wickham, Cornell, and Sexton, Georgetown, deadlocked at 6 feet, 1½ inches.

wall from all positions, picking the ball off the back wall and coming up fast on Nelson's short drives to bounce them off the front wall with such speed that Nelson couldn't handle them. In the sixth Banuet made another spectacular "get" of a Nelson return while lying on the floor.

Spectators Thrilled by "Kills."

The youngster's great "gets" thrilled the small gathering that witnessed the play. Nelson, at times, applauded the great play of his youthful opponent.

Banuet won the first game in the 11th inning, while the second went 12, the champion going out with three tallies.

As in the first game, Banuet was all over the court in the second contest, his killing returns stopping many threats of Nelson to score. While he didn't score as many points on his first serves in this game as in the opener, he kept up his great "killing" game. In the 11th inning he counted five times on different "kills."

MURPHY SCORES 17 POINTS AS PURDUE WINS

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 1.—Purdue assured itself of at least a tie for the 1930 Western Conference Basketball Championship regardless of the outcome of its two remaining games by romping over Minnesota 50 to 22 here tonight. It was the conference leader's eighth consecutive victory.

Minnesota displayed a well coached outfit and was still scrapping, although hopelessly outclassed, at the final gun. Stretch Murphy led the scoring with seven field goals and three free throws, totaling 17 points.

The Lambert men launched a basket barrage at the outset that gave them a 25 to 0 advantage in the middle of the first half, which ended 28 to 7 for the Boilermakers. During Minnesota's scoreless session Murphy, Harmeson, Wooden and Kellar were speedily tossing baskets from any angle.

Coach Lambert began inserting substitutes midway in the second half, making frequent shifts and using two complete teams before the end of the battle.

Illinois Closes Home Season With Victory

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 1.—Illinois closed its home Big Ten basketball season with a thumping 30 to 17 triumph over Michigan, its second victory of the season over the Wolverines.

At no time during the contest did Michigan lead, although Illinois was in front by ony two points at half time. In the second period Kamp and Kawal led an Illini attack that left Michigan far behind. The defeat shook Michigan out of a tie with Wisconsin for second place.

NORTHWESTERN WINS FROM CHICAGO, 39-24

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., March 1.—Paced by Captain Rut Walter playing his last game in Big Ten competition, Northwestern tonight closed its conference basketball season with a 39 to 24 victory over Chicago.

Walter accounted for 15 points, and led the second half drive that put Northwestern safely in front. Rus Bergherm and Merrill Mundy, also making their final appearances, scored 10 points and one point, respectively. Fish topped the Maroons in scoring with seven markers.

STEWART SIGNS; GRAY REPORTED ON HIS WAY TO CAMP OF BROWNS

the youngster's trouble will work out with exercise. The opinion was expressed that Ted should have undergone an operation after the 1929 season for a removal of a growth around his leg muscles.

This Rolland Styles begins to look like a comer. He is a rather awkward fielder right now, but, in a quiet way, has shown that he knows what it is all about. He is a big chap and his motion—he is a right hander—is easy. He ought to last a long time when he does make the big league grade.

Roetz Is Working Hard.

Eddie Roetz is saying nothing and working mighty hard. That trouble last year in the opinion of the writer, set the boy back a bit but today Roetz was out there hustling every minute. He is a likeable chap and probably will be on the roster throughout the season if for no other reason than that the Browns are decidedly shy of reserve material.

The "battle of right field" with McNeely, Bennett, Gullic and Badgro as principals, promises to be much more interesting than the battle of "eight million apologies" recently fought at Miami.

Stanford Wins on Track

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Cal., March 1. — Stanford University's field and track teams, the national intercollegiate champions, in their first appearance this year, defeated the Los Angeles Athletic Club in a dual meet here today, 69¾ to 61¾. Heavy rains during the past week had softened the track and made the sprint and distance events slow.

BILLIKENS BEAT CONCORDIA BY SINGLE POINT

When Concordia Seminary and the St. Louis University Billikens met on the basket ball court a month ago, the Preachers won by a single field goal. Last night the Billikens won from the Seminarians by the narrow margin of a free throw tossed by Ham Strong in the final minute of the game, when he was fouled by Etzler, Concordia guard. About 3000 spectators saw the game at the St. Louis U. gymnasium. The final score was 25-24.

St. Louis U. was handicapped by the absence of Captain Barney Oldfield from the lineup. Lyle Drury, lanky St. Louis U. center, was forced out of the game early in the first half under the personal foul rule.

Harold Brauer of Concordia was night point man with two field goals and eight free throws to his credit. Strong of St. Louis led his teammates in scoring with three field goals and five free throws.

Each team showed unusual ability at sinking free throws. Concordia had the better average, dropping in 10 out of 16 attempts, and St. Louis sinking 13 out of 17 attempts. St. Louis held a 24-1 lead at the half, but the Concordia defense functioned better during the second period, holding the Mid-City five to one field goal during the second half. The Preachers tied the score at 24-24 during the last minute of the game, but Strong's free toss decided the contest.

PRINCIPIA TANK TEAM DEFEATS W. M. A., 43-32

ALTON, Ill., March 1.—Principia and Western Military Academy divided honors in basketball in an athletic carnival here today each school winning two victories, but Principia annexed the swimming meet by a score of 43 to 32.

An overtime period was required to settle the final basketball game between the "Prep" teams, Principia winning 26 to 23. The Principia "A" team defeated the Cadet "A" team 21 to 20.

The Western "B" quint won over the corresponding Principia team, 41 to 7 and the Cadet "C" team won its game by a score of 28 to 3.

Principia took five first places in the swimming meet while Western won three. The Prep basketball game, the final event of the carnival, was nip and tuck.

The score at the end of playing time stood 22-all. In the first overtime period Lacke sunk a field goal and broke the tie. Later on near the end of the period Brunner dropped in a foul goal to make the final count. The lineup:

For the second consecutive year, Soldan is champion of the City High School basketball league. The West End five won the title last night when it defeated Beaumont, 26 to 25, in the first game of the double-header on the Beaumont floor. Roosevelt ended the season with a .500 per centage by winning from Central 30 to 21. The crowd was estimated at 1500.

Soldan started in a manner that indicated it would have little difficulty in annexing the game, scoring six points before Bob Kalbitz registered a field goal for Beaumont. The West Enders led, 12 to 4, at the end of the first quarter.

Kalbitz Scores 14 Points.

In the second session some fancy field and foul shooting by Kalbitz, who had a total of 10 points for the half, coupled with Bernie Walsh's field goal, cut Soldan's lead to 19 to 12. A stormy Beaumont barrage on the Soldan basket which netted four field goals put Beaumont ahead, 20 to 19, in the third quarter. Soldan lead at the conclusion of the session, 23 to 22.

Both teams scored a field goal and a free throw in the final quarter, making the final count, 26 to 25 in favor of the champions.

The terrible trio—Barney Passer, Dave Cook and Ben Reese—lead the Soldan attack, scoring together all but five of the team's points. Kalbitz, who scored 14 points for the losers, was the individual star of the evening.

Central Defeated in Every Game.

Roosevelt performed in characteristic style, for it overtook Central's lead after the half and finally won out, due to the work of Albert Alvis and Ward Parker, the Rough-Riding forwards. Alvis accounted for 13 points and Parker for 11 of the Roosevelt total of 30.

The game was so rough that four players, two from each team, were ejected because of personal fouls. Two others were on the verge of being put out, having committed three fouls.

Central led, 7 to 2, at the quarter and 9 to 7, at the half. Roosevelt scored 13 points in the third period to remove any doubt of the outcome of the game.

Central did not win a league game all season.

GROBMEIER TO MEET GEORGE HAGEN AT COLISEUM, FRIDAY

Fred Grobmeier of Minneapolis and George Hagen of New York City, will meet in a one-fall finish bout announced last night by Promoter Tom Packs as the feature heavyweight attraction on a Coliseum wrestling program for next Friday night, March 7.

Grobmeier suffered his first defeat in five local engagements this season when he was counted out by Referee Sharpe after falling through the ropes during a bout with Jimmy Londos two weeks ago. They had wrestled 56 minutes before the Iowan took the count.

Prior to his setto with Londos, Grobmeier met and defeated Paul Jones of Los Angeles, and Frank Brunowicez of Boston, in local encounters. He also wrestled to draw decisions in Coliseum bouts with Jim McMillan of Chicago and Roy Steele of Seattle.

Hagen, a former marine, was defeated by Londos in 55 minutes and by Steele in an hour and 15 minutes on his previous visits to this city.

Reds Start for Camp.

CINCINNATI, O., March 1.—The advance squad of the Cincinnati Reds left here today for their spring training camp at Orlando, Fla. The first practice will be held Monday. Nearly a dozen players already are in Florida. They were anxious to get into condition and reported ahead of schedule.

The recruit who is wearing Babe Ruth's uniform in practice down in Florida may get some exaggerated ideas and the Colonel will have two problems instead of one on his hands.

Of course, this young feller Cooke may fill Babe's shirt all right, but when it comes to filling the Bambino's shoes there is room for doubt.

In the meantime Babe is getting greater distance than ever and concentrating on his short game and otherwise pointing for the British open in case he and the Colonel can't come to terms.

However, the logical spot for Babe right now is in right field at the Yankee Stadium. He can always play golf, as there is no age limit in the ancient and honorable pastime.

It is said that Babe aspires to be a manager. Having managed himself with varying success for a number of years, it cannot be said that he lacks experience.

The fact that some of the Browns are slow in reporting at West Palm Beach, Fla., for spring training doesn't mean anything. They have been on the road to Pennantville for 43 years and haven't arrived yet.

However, if nothing happens to them this year and something happens to the A's and Yanks they ought to check in at the pay-off station along about the latter part of September.

$100,650 A.B.C. TENPIN TOURNEY GETS UNDER WAY

CLEVELAND, O., March 1.—The curtain was raised here tonight on the thirtieth annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress and, before the lid is clamped down the night of April 6 new champions in the five-man, doubles, singles and all events will have been established, if the tourney runs true to form in never seeing a champion stage a successful comeback in successive tourneys.

All four titleholders of 1929, who won their spurs at Chicago, have entered in defense of their titles. The Hub Recreation Five of Joliet, team champion; Klescz and Butler of Chicago, who hit 1353 to win the two-man title; Adolph Unke of Milwaukee, who shot 728 to cop the singles crown; and Otto Stein Jr., of St. Louis, who totaled 1974 to annex leading all events honors, are listed for play.

For the second time in A. B. C. history the prize fund has bounced over the $100,000 mark. This year pinsters from 25 states and Canada will battle for a division of $100,650.

Chicago, Detroit and Buffalo proved to be the only cities able to better the century mark in team entry. Chicago, as usual, leads with 207 teams. Detroit turned in its greatest A. B. C. entry by entering 134 quintets and Buffalo, which is seeking the 1931 classic entered 106.

A new mark in point of out-of-town entries was established with the scheduling of 1440 visiting quintets. This is 100 more than ever flocked to the international affair.

Intentional Pass to Foxx In 9th Inning of Last Game, Smart Play, Says McGraw

This is the ninth of a series of 10 articles by John McGraw, in which the manager of the New York Giants describes the great plays of the 1929 series. An article appears each Sunday in the Post-Dispatch.

By John J. McGraw.
Manager, New York Giants.

Do you think the Cubs should have walked Jimmy Foxx in that fatal ninth inning of the last game of the world's series? I do. They couldn't afford to give him a good ball.

There are some smart plays that go right and some that go wrong. Failure shouldn't necessarily discredit the wisdom of the play. That is second guessing, the most distasteful practice in all baseball to the players.

The intentional passing of Foxx in that big inning still is the most controversial play in the series. I regard it a perfectly correct move, though I may have done it a little differently. This observation, however, is not intended as any reflection on Manager McCarthy.

Some fans have argued incessantly that Miller had been one of the steadiest hitters in the game, while Foxx had not made a hit. Now for that very reason I would have taken no chances on Foxx. He was about due. Don't forget that on two previous occasions he had broken up games under similar circumstances. A batter like that is always a threat. The percentage was in favor of passing him for Miller and it is pretty safe to play the percentage at all times.

Haas had just hit the home run that tied the score and there were two out when Simmons doubled. One run would win the game. One run was as good as a thousand. So with Foxx coming up and first base unoccupied, it was merely a question of guessing whether Foxx or Miller had the better chance of hitting the ball safely. The records favor Foxx. I might not have passed him by having the catcher deliberately move out of the box on every pitch, but I would have instructed my pitcher not to give him a good ball to hit at under any circumstances. If he wouldn't go after a bad one—then, walk him.

That is much the same as McCarthy did, except that he took no chance at all. His judgment, in my opinion, was sound, though it worked out wrong.

After Foxx had been purposely passed and took first base with Simmons on second, Miller came up. All of you well remember how he waded into the ball and hit the two-bagger that scored Simmons with the winning run. Had it been necessary Foxx could also have scored, but just what became of him was of no concern to the big crowd or the players. The final ball game was over.

In my experience in baseball I've found it good judgment in the long run to play the percentage. It is bound to tell. For that reason we often pass a strong hitter who hasn't made a hit in several times up and pitch to a weak hitter who has already made three clean hits. That always seems difficult for fans to understand. It is because they do not realize the deadly workings of the laws of average and percentage over a long pull.

No, I would not have pitched to Foxx. That is, I wouldn't have given him a good ball.

Giants Purchase Outfielder Mostil from Toledo Club—Ehmke Named Coach of Athletics' Recruit Pitchers.

Giants Obtain Mostil.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 1.—John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, already has swung the ax. Lou Winer, right-handed pitcher, and Jack Gallagher, burly catcher, have been unconditionally released.

At the same time McGraw announced the purchase of Johnny Mostil, former White Sox outfielder, who was with Toledo last year. Mostil was bought to give the Giants an acceptable substitute for Edd Roush should Roush decline to come to terms.

McGraw looked over his lists today and decided that he still has three holdouts to swing into line—Ed Roush, Bob O'Farrell and Larry Benton. Three other Giants, Bill Terry, Fred Leach and Freddie Lindstrom are not yet in camp and are not holdouts.

Terry wired today that he was suffering from an injured thumb and would not report for several days. Lindstrom has come to terms but will not sign his contract until the middle of next week. Leach is busy building a house at Jerome, Idaho, and is waiting until that's finished before coming to San Antonio.

New Job for Ehmke.

By the Associated Press.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 1.—Manager Connie Mack has created a new job for Howard Ehmke, veteran righthander who pitched the Athletics to victory in the first world series game last year. The inventor of the "hesitation" pitch will have complete coaching charge of the rookie boxmen, eight of whom are now working out here.

"I don't know anyone who knows more about pitching than Ehmke," Mack said in announcing the appointment. "He has the ability and I think the temperament too that a coach should have. He is an artist and the youngsters should benefit greatly by having such an instructor. Ehmke will fill the post of coach and at the same time continue his own preparations to pitch during the season."

Welch Has Not Signed.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—The only malcontent on the Braves' roster is Jimmy Welsh, tall center fielder from California. A substantial salary cut remains to be accepted or a compromise reached.

Bartell Is Holdout.

By the Associated Press.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 1.—There is going to be a battle royal for the job of shortstop for the Pittsburg Pirates. With announcement that Dick Bartell, holdout had refused to come to camp, Stuart Clarke, Charley Engle and Ben Sankey, prepared today to fight it out for the post. Vice President Sam Dreyfuss said no further effort would be made to induce Bartell to report here.

Babe, Unsigned, to Work Out.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1.—The fact that George Herman Ruth still is a holdout will not prevent the big slugger from going to work with the rest of his team mates on Monday. Ruth, who wants a three-year contract at $55,000 a year, reported unofficially to Manager Bob Shawkey today and announced he would be on hand for training starting Monday.

The Babe was the fourth player to report ahead of time. Hoyt, Koenig and Pipgras all have been going through their paces, although not asked to report until Monday.

No Captain for Sox.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 1.—Manager Donie Bush of the Chicago White Sox, has made another change in the old order—the Sox this season will have no field captain. Bush said such a functionary is not necessary, so Bill Kamm, his star third baseman, who served most of last season as field leader, will have that much less to bother about.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—After a day of idleness yesterday, the Cleveland Indians went through their most strenuous workout of the spring season here today. Every pitcher in camp mounted the hill in turn with plenty of speed. Few curves were attempted and there were no sore arms at the end of the practice. No work is scheduled for tomorrow, and the first batting practice of the year is scheduled to open Monday.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 1.—Baseball reporters caught Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, in an optimistic mood today and "Uncle Bobby" went so far as to predict that his charges would finish in the National League's first division.

"Finishing eighth, seventh, sixth or fifth, doesn't mean anything to me," he said. "If I can't get up in the first four I don't care where I finish."

SCULLING CHAMPION TO DEFEND TITLE MAY 31

LONDON, March 1.—Bert Barry, professional sculling champion, will defend his title here May 31 for the first time since he won the crown by defeating the Australian oarsman, Goodsell, in Vancouver, B. C., in October of 1928. He will race Ted Phelps over the four-mile and a quarter university course on the Thames.

Phelps, son of "Bossy" Phelps, famous rowing coach, will row a special shell for the race built by his father.

GOPHER TANK TEAM DEFEATS BEARS, 53 TO 22

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 1.—Encountering much less severe opposition than it has met recently in the Western Conference, the University of Minnesota swimming team won easily over Washington University of St. Louis, 53 to 22, in the campus armory pool this afternoon.

The Gophers swam to victory in six of the eight events, also winning the fancy diving. Captain Brenner of Washington was the only victor among the visitors, placing first in the 220-yard breast stroke after a stroke-to-stroke contest with Stewart Kerr of Minnesota.

The summary:

100-YARD RELAY—Won by Minnesota (Hayden, Quail, Niomi and Waidelich). Time, 1:19.3.

200-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Brenner, Washington; Kerr, Minnesota, second; Gustafson, Minnesota, third. Time, 2:40.5.

40-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Lind, Minnesota; Rohlak, Minnesota, second; Kunkle, Washington, third. Time, :19.8.

440-YARD SWIM—Won by Kelly, Minnesota; Lahti, Minnesota, second; Skinner, Washington, third. Time, 5:31.4.

100-YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Quail, Minnesota; Nye, Minnesota, second; Playford, Washington, third. Time, :57.

FANCY DIVING—Won by Nappa, Minnesota, 91.5; Wolf, Washington, second, 87.3; Ostrander, Minnesota, third, 84.3.

Malloy Seeking Loughran-Charles Bout for Arena

Tommy Loughran who vacated the light-heavyweight championship to fight as a heavyweight and Pierre Charles of Belgium who fought in the windup to the Sharkey-Scott heavyweight presentation at Miami last Thursday night, may be booked for a return 10-round battle on the all-heavyweight fistic card Matchmaker Mique Malloy plans for the Arena St. Patrick's night.

Malloy said over the phone from Hot Springs, Ark., last night that he had wired offers to the managers of Loughran and Charles after reading news accounts of their 10-round bout at Miami and that he had been advised Loughran was willing to accept the match for a purse guarantee of $10,000.

Gus Wilson, manager of Charles, has not replied to his offer, according to Malloy, who stated, however, that he was informed Wilson was making a cruise along the Florida coast and that he was expected to return to Miami today. In the event he cannot line up Charles, Malloy intimated he might try to sign Arthur De Kuh to meet Loughran.

Malloy has been in Hot Springs for a week, conferring with Bill Duffy, manager of Prima Carnera's American tour, with a view to bringing the Venetian giant back to St. Louis to meet Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis ring veteran, in another 10-round feature of his St. Patrick's day show.

Wiggins is demanding a $10,000 purse, according to Malloy, in spite of repeated efforts to induce him to accept the match with Carnera on a percentage basis.

SOCCER OLD TIMERS IN CHARITY MATCH

With scarce a handful of spectators to encourage them, a score or more veteran soccer players, many of them outstanding stars of several years ago, engaged in an exhibition match at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon. Connie Reid, Ponto Palmer, Gerd Kehrman, Willie Foley, Allie Walsh, Joe Coffey, Al Reiksteiger and others performed.

BELL AND BARNES WIN BERMUDA NET TOURNEY

Webster Beats Kirkwood, 22-15

Held in subjection for three quarters of the game, Webster High's forwards finally got loose to score 8 points in the final quarter, beating Kirkwood last night, 22 to 15.

Leck, right forward for Webster, tallied two field goals and two free throws in the closing period to give Webster its winning margin. Kirkwood was in the thick of the fight in the third period when the lead changed frequently, the period ending with the count tied, 14-14.

Normandy Plays McBride Six in Hockey Feature

McBride will oppose Normandy in the feature game of the Interscholastic Hockey League double-header at the Winter Garden, tomorrow night. In the second tilt, the leading University six will face the tail-end Clayton organization. The games will finish the third round of play in the circuit.

The Colonnaders have a good chance of going into a tie for second place with Normandy if they can duplicate their play of last week when they handed the leading U. City team its first setback. The Delmar avenue team played its usual good brand of hockey but proved no match for the "Micks" who played phenomenally to come out on the long end of a 4-1 count. The Vikings have already beaten the Irishmen twice.

University City is expected to down Clayton, although the Claytonites showed unexpected strength last week in holding Normandy to a 3—1 count.

| CLUB. | W. | L. | Tied. | Pts. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| University City | 5 | 1 | 2 | 12 |
| Normandy | 5 | 2 | 1 | 12 |
| McBride | 3 | 3 | 1 | 9 |
| Clayton | 0 | 8 | 0 | 0 |

STARTING BLOCKS APPROVED BY COLLEGIATE BODY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America today cleared the way for acceptance of an invitation to hold its 1932 outdoor championships on the Pacific Coast for the first time and moved to lessen the arduousness of its annual cross country run by eliminating the hurdles.

Making it possible to take the championships westward in 1932, the year of the Olympic games at Los Angeles, the convention passed two amendments to its constitution. One amendment makes it no longer necessary that the meet be held on the last Friday in May and the other permits selection of the location of the meet a year or more in advance.

The members or the association decided, however, that the definite choice in regard to the invitation should be postponed until 1931 when a new group will be in office.

The intercollegiate cross country race, which was attacked last November by Lawson Robertson, Pennsylvania coach, as being too hard, was the subject of a heated controversy. A motion to shorten the distance of the six-mile varsity and three-mile freshman races barely failed to pass and a resolution to take out the hurdles actually was adopted.

Starting blocks were approved provided the International Athletic Federation, meeting in May, permits them but the association specified that they shall not be more than four inches high and that some part of the shoes of the runner must touch the ground.

Hand supports, which Dink Templeton, Stanford Coach, has favored, were forbidden, however.

Athletes who have won the championship of a foreign country or province, such as Canada, shall be barred hereafter from college competition as a freshman, it was decided. This ban formerly applied only to winners of national or sectional A. A. U. or Olympic titles.

WHATAMAN SHIRES MAKES SPEECH IN GOODBY PARADE

By the Associated Press.

McALLEN, Tex., March 1.—Arthur Shires, white Sox first baseman, had a parade in his honor today, his car stalled in the traffic, and the populace forced him to make a speech. He didn't want to, because he wasn't getting paid for it.

"I hadn't oughta do this for nothing," he began, "if you've got anything to give away—"

The car stalled as the baseball player was being escorted down Main street with the Mayor and Chamber of Commerce officials, led by fife and drum corps.

Shires said he would leave tomorrow for San Antonio for Spring training.

HARTMANS TAKE LEAD IN STATE TOURNEY

The Hartman Fruit and Produce bowling team went into the lead last night at the opening of the Missouri State Bowling tournament, at the Wellston Recreation Hall, shooting a score of 2618.

Fleicher was high point man with 533. The Koppen and Smith team came second with 2536. A. Jacobson was its leading scorer, making 596 points. Fourteen Alhambra Grotto teams opened the tournament.

LAWN BOWLERS FROM BRITAIN FAIL AGAIN TO LIFT FOX CUP

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 1.—Despite a 54 to 47 victory today over their American opponents, Great Britain's lawn bowling team failed for a third successive year to win the Charles J. Fox international cup.

The British team went into today's final match 42 points behind, the result of two losses to American teams in Pasadena and Los Angeles. As a result of their three matches in California, the visiting players finished 38 points behind their rivals.

Robert Brown captained the British team, made up of players from England, Ireland and Scotland. Representatives of two Oakland clubs and one San Francisco club composed the American team.

$15,000 DERBY AT FAIRMOUNT SCHEDULED TO BE RUN ON MAY 24

The Fairmount Derby of $15,000 added, will be run on May 24—one week after the running of the Kentucky Derby, according to an announcement by General Manager Robert S. Eddy Jr., yesterday. The date for the opening of the Fairmount Jockey Club season is May 10—to run until July 5 inclusive. Thus the 3-year-old event for the Collinsville track comes two weeks after the opening of the long season.

No date has been set for the closing of nominations by, Racing Secretary Julius Reeder. It is his intention to close nominations as late as possible, giving many of the horses which will be running in the West a chance to ship to Fairmount to compete.

Coming as it does one week after the running of the historic Kentucky Derby, many of the nominations announced for that stake will most likely enter the Fairmount event. It affords horsemen a chance for easy shipment of their charges to the Collinsville oval. It has been announced the Pennsylvania Railroad is making special arrangements for special cars and trains to move thoroughbreds from Churchill Downs to Collinsville.

More than 2000 applications for stable room already are in the hands of General Manager Eddy, who recently made a tour of Havana and Miami—as well as New Orleans—in the interest of the coming Fairmount meeting. Judging from the list of applications in hand, the highest grade of horses ever to compete at the Fairmount course will be on hand.

Secretary Reeder and Track Superintendent Placide Frigerio expect to be at Fairmount April 1 to take up their respective duties, giving them more than a month to arrange for the meet.

DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL TOURNEY OPENS TUESDAY

The annual St. Louis District High School basketball tournament will start Tuesday afternoon at the Washington University Field House. St. Louis University High, winners of the Preparatory School League and one of the leading favorites begins hostilities, meeting Normandy of the County League at 4 o'clock.

An hour later, Central battles University City. First round play will be completed after the Ritenour-Country Day game at 7 o'clock. Cleveland, which is conceded a good chance to reach the semifinals, plays Wellston, in the first second-round game. The program for the opening day will be completed by the battle between Principia and McBride, the defending titleholders.

Upper Bracket Strong.

The upper bracket with such teams as St. Louis U. High, Cleveland, McBride, Maplewood and Roosevelt in it appears to be stronger than the lower with only Soldan, Christian Brothers College and Beaumont in it. Neither Webster Groves, nor University City, last year's representatives at the State meet, appears to be strong enough to survive the first matches.

Roosevelt, another semifinalist, will probably meet St.

VANDERPOOL WINS MIAMI JUVENILE STAKES BY EIGHT LENGTHS

WINNER, ODDS ON FAVORITE, MAKES GOOD TIME OVER A MUDDY TRACK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., March 1.—The Miami Juvenile Stakes, half mile, was won by Mrs. M. P. Allen's Vanderpool, which is rated the best two-year-old shown here this winter. Vanderpool carried 122 pounds and in deep, heavy mud ran the four furlongs in :48 3-5 seconds, which was considered real good time considering the track. The California Stable's Donie was second and Mrs. Koerne's All Columbia third. Jhang was fourth.

The G. D. Widener entry, Friar and Francock, did not like the going and finished way back. There was not much to the race. Vanderpool ran into the lead early and, showing a decided liking for the mud, increased his advantage at every stride and, coming to the middle of the track where the going was firm, won under a heavy pull by eight lengths. Donie beat All Columbia a head for the place. The race was worth $2900 and the winner paid seven to 10.

Juvenile Stakes At Fair Grounds Draws 20 Racers

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1. — Twenty juveniles were named through the entry box this morning to compete for the $2500 added Louisiana Juvenile Stakes, feature event on tomorrow's program at the Fair Grounds track. Bill Morris, Knebelkamp and Morris' unbeaten gelding, will carry top weight of 120 pounds and will probably face the farried an odds-on choice to win.

All the good juveniles in training at the local track are eligible for the event and a large field is expected to face the starter despite the fact that the track is not in good shape. Heavy rains yesterday transformed the fast Fair Grounds track into a quagmire but the course was drying out this afternoon and may be good for tomorrow's race.

COLUMBUS PLAYGROUNDS DEFEATS BLOW, 3-0, FOR SOCCER TITLE

Columbus playground defeated Blow, 3-0 yesterday at Murphy Field to win the city playground championship, having won a previous game, 1-0.

Play was even early in the first half but at the half-way mark, the Columbus forwards worked the ball up close to Blow's goal and Saputo sent an arching shot that sailed over Valina's head for a goal. For the rest of the period the teams battled on even terms.

In the second half Fogarty banged a set-up into the net after five minutes of play, and repeated two minutes later with a high shot that slipped through Goalie Valina's hands and fell over the goal-line.

The line-ups:

| COLUMBUS. | POS. | BLOW. |
|---|---|---|
| Dreyfus | G. | Valina. |
| Nolan | L.F. | L. Valdez |
| Mantia | R.F. | Landel |
| Corcoran | L.H. | Patrick |
| Guccione | C.H. | Sanders |
| Genke | R.H. | J. Valdez |
| Grant | O.L. | Haas |
| Zazzar | I.L. | H. Vasquez |
| Fogarty | C.F. | F. Vasquez |
| Ucinski | I.R. | Fernandez |
| Saputo | O.R. | He. Vasquez |

Referees: Harry Donnovan and Bill King.

Three St. Louis U. High Aces Gain Places on Prep League All-Star Basketball Quintet

St. Louis U. High, present champion and three-time winner of the Prep League basketball title, placed three players on the 1929-1930 All-Star team of the league, with Christian Brothers' College, runnerup for the crown, and McBride, third-place quintet, each getting a single position. St. Louis was given one place on the second team, while each of the other league outfits placed one player on the second five. The two teams were chosen by the coaches and officials of the league, in conjunction with the Post-Dispatch.

In contrast to the choice of the all-star five in previous years, the selection this season presented little difficulty in most of the positions. Both the forwards, Shea of St. Louis and Braudrick of C. B. C., were standouts, and the choice of both was unanimous, as was the selection of Connors of St. Louis for a guard position. There was balloting for other centers, besides Dilschneider, but the St. Louis star received a majority of the votes. The closest decision was involved in the picking of Durbin of McBride over McHenry of C. B. C. for the remaining guard post, the McBride captain winning out by a single vote.

Connors Was Real Star.

Probably the most outstanding player, an athlete, who was conceded a place before the season was half completed, was Joe Connors, St. Louis U. High captain and guard. This is Connors' second year on the all-star five, and he has just finished his third season as a regular with the Junior Billiken outfit. As a defensive star, he was easily one of the best in the circuit, and on the offensive, he was unequaled. An unusually clever ball handler, Connors was one of the best shoots in the loop, and finished fourth in the league's high scorers with a total of 46 points in eight games.

Although not as sensational a player as his running mate, Connors, "Tooky" Durbin, McBride captain and choice for the other guard position led his team's attack throughout the season, and on the defense had few equals. Playing with a quintet which was out of the running almost from the start, Durbin showed unusual ability. He was a choice on the second all-star team last year.

Joe Dilschneider of St. Louis brings with him to the all-star outfit the valuable assets of height and basket-shooting skill. Dilschneider was the man around whom the Junior Billiken plan of attack centered during the greater part of the season, and his work as the pivot man in the various plays concocted by Coach Tom Stanton marked him as an outstanding player. He was pressed for first honors by Thomson of McBride.

Forwards Were Real Stars.

The two forwards, Ed Shea of St. Louis and Paul Braudrick of C. B. C. were stand-outs at their positions. Although both were playing their first season as regulars, they were exceptionally fine shots and ranked with the best floor men in the circuit. Shea holds a slight edge on his running mate, in that he finished third in the individual scoring column with 48 points in eight games, while Braudrick was fifth with 45.

The second team chosen by the officials presents a strong combination, with Bruno of Western, second-ranking player among the leading scorers, and Shields of Country Day who finished sixth in the scoring column, at the forwards, and Thomson of McBride at center. Had Thomson not been laid up with a broken finger during the early part of the season, his chance for first-team mention would have been much greater, as he came fast in the closing games of the schedule. McHenry of C. B. C. was a clever guard and just missed selection on the first five, while Minette of St. Louis played a steady and cool game throughout the season.

The mythical quintet as chosen would be an unusually strong scoring outfit, with defensive strength sufficient to stop the attack of any ordinary team. Of the ten cagers selected for the first and second teams, six, Shea, Connors, Braudrick, Shields, Bruno and Thomson, are among the first seven scorers in the final standing, while four of those chosen, Connors, Durbin, Bruno and Shields, are captains of their respective teams.

ALL-STAR PREP LEAGUE QUINTETS

DOWAGIAC BREAKS TRACK MARK AT AGUA CALIENTE

By the Associated Press.

AGUA CALIENTE, March 1. — Smashing the track record for a mile and a furlong, the Wild Rose Farm's 5-year-old gelding, Dowagiac, won the $1200 International Optimist Handicap at Agua Caliente. Under a good ride by S. O'Donnell, Dowagiac negotiated the distance in 1:50 3-5, clipping nearly two seconds from the mark of 1:52 1-5 set by Inca a few days ago.

Benny Creech's Battle Ax took second place and Wirt G. Bowman, owned by Baron Long, was third.

FLYERS WEAKEN, LOSE TO DULUTH, AGAIN, 6 TO 5

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DULUTH, Minn., March 1.—Duluth scored its second consecutive victory of its final series of the season here tonight with St. Louis in a game that had a crowd of 4000 fans nearly hysterical, the home team coming from behind to squeeze out a 6 to 5 triumph.

The game was one of the wildest ever witnessed in Duluth and the fans did not stop cheering during the first half of the third period, during which time the Hornets launched a spiraled offensive drive that resulted in three goals, giving them a one-point margin.

Flyers Take Big Lead.

The Flyers got away to a big lead in the initial session when they registered three times, two of the goals coming in the final two minutes of play, while Duluth was held scoreless, mainly because of anxiety of the Hornets to resort to individual sorties.

In the second period the Hornets showed an improved offensive brand of hockey and piled up three markers, but the home team's defense was none too strong and St. Louis got through to pepper the rubber past Turner twice.

It was during the first eight and half minutes of the third period that the Hornets held the upper hand in play, starting at the opening face off the Duluth club kept possession of the puck almost constantly and were giving Goalie Kearney plenty of work. First Green and Scott combined to score and a couple minutes later the game was deadlocked when Davis scored a neat goal after taking Green's short pass.

Bergl Scores Winning Goal.

The goal that broke the deadlock and proved to be the winning marker was made by Carl Bergl and was shot from near mid-ice. Bergl flipped the rubber on a line and Kearney was set for an apparent easy save. The disc, however, eluded the guardian and trickled in between his legs.

The last 10 minutes of the game was featured by some stellar work by Duluth's goal custodian, Turner, and on several occasions he found himself sprawled in front of his net pouncing on a loose puck that was being poked at by a quartet of Flyers.

Green, Mitchell and Scott were the luminaries for the Hornets, while Cameron, who figured in three goals, Powley and Clark bore the brunt of the Flyers' attack.

Flapdoodle, reserved forwardly during the early stages, saved ground entering the stretch, when the leaders spread and taking the lead in the final sixteenth outfinished Coppershine. The latter also saved ground turning for home and finished in resolute fashion. Southland King moved into the lead with a rush rounding the last turn, but lost ground entering the stretch and tired. Little Minister met with interference while racing on the inside, then swung to the outside turning for home and finished well.

$2 mutuels paid: Flapdoodle, win $39.50, place $14.70, show $8.20; Copershine, place $11.50, show $8; Southland King, show $5.40.

By Dent McSkimming

Two years ago, almost to the day, the American-Hungarian soccer club of Cleveland came to St. Louis confident of victory over the Ben Millers—and went back home defeated. Today, they are here again, this time under a new name, the Brsell Insurance team, facing the Tablers in a Western semifinal of the national cup series. Having once tasted defeat from a St. Louis club it is doubtful if the visitors are quite so confident as they were upon their arrival, two seasons ago.

Seven of the 11 men who face the Tablers at Sportsman's Park this afternoon were in the Cleveland lineup the day the Ben Millers came from behind to beat them under circumstances which probably are easily recalled. The score was tied after 90 minutes and overtime periods were ordered. George Caraffi put Cleveland in front with what looked to be the winning goal but Tracy and then Curran drove ripping shots into the net just in time to snatch victory for St. Louis.

Star of Eleven Returns.

The American Hungarians that day were truly out-scored, but they were certainly not out-played. Rarely did the Ben Miller forwards have possession of the ball and many were the times Goaltender Dave Bartnett dove into the corners of the goal to arrest a Cleveland shot. Inside Left Bill McDade was especially effective. He scored twice. He's here again, said to be going better than ever. A very clever inside right, Robb, who over-played himself in doing pretty things with the ball, has been dropped for a more business-like player, Bob Wilson. Wilson has made such a hit at center forward that George Caraffi has been shifted to inside right. In another department the team has been altered through the replacement of Stanley Scott by J. Russell at left halfback and the removal of R. Dickie in favor of F. Abraham at right half. W. Scott remains the center half and the fullbacks and goalie are unchanged.

It will take some fine defensive football to bottle up McDade and Ralph Caraffi, on the left wing, and Phillips and George Caraffi on the right, and this task rests upon the shoulders of a group of youngsters. If Manager John Marre instructs his team to follow the style of play which proved successful against the Hellrungs last Sunday, he will have his fullbacks, Dorley and Zenson, covering the Cleveland wingmen, and the halfbacks, Benoist and Schweppe, taking care of the inside forwards. John Kane's job will be "policing" Center Forward Bob Wilson, a veteran of varied experience. Schweppe is the only seasoned player of the five.

Ratican Down to Start.

Although he reserves the right to alter his plans at the last minute, Manager Marre is inclined to start Harry Ratican at center forward, with Jim Cronin at inside right. The alternative would be to place Cronin at center and "Gyp" Bochicek at inside right. Much depends upon the condition of the field for Bochnicek is pounds better on a dry field, whereas Ratican would be more useful in the mud.

Marre's forwards must be successful as well as fast to elude the Cleveland defense, for these fellows completely paralyzed the very capable Sparta attack. That alone is the highest kind of recommendation to St. Louis fans, who know Sparta for one of the greatest clubs ever developed in the West. Cleveland beat Sparta, 2 to 0, no longer ago than Feb. 16.

H. S. Pithie of Detroit will referee the game. He handled the Fuller-Bricklayer game at Chicago last spring, when the St. Louis club was defeated in the Western cup final. Pithie that day put Jim McCarthy out of the game 10 minutes before the close. He is extremely vigilant in the matter of technical fouls, such as infractions of the throw-in rule.

Starting time is 2:30 p. m.

Illini Baseball Practice.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 1.—Thirty-nine candidates reported to Coach Carl Lundgren today for the first outdoor baseball practice session. The Illini will open their season with the annual Southern trip, April 17-21.

Cleveland High Loses to Missouri Military, 29 to 22

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., March 1.—The Missouri Military Academy Colonels scored their eighth straight basketball victory here this afternoon by defeating Cleveland high school, St. Louis, 29 to 22. M. M. A. led at the half, 15 to 14. The game was nip and tuck until the final four minutes, when the Academy pulled away on baskets by Williamson, the game's high scorer, and Upp, Cadet captain, together with a pair of free shots by Williamson, scoring six points after the St. Louis visitors had worked the count to within one point of a tie and were trailing only 23 to 22.

The box score:

Y. M. C. A. INDUSTRIAL LEAGUERS WILL MEET

Plans for the coming season of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Baseball League will be made at a meeting which will be held at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The managers of all teams expecting to enter the league are requested to be present.

The league is affiliated with the Municipal Baseball Association and is sponsored by the City-Wide Industrial Athletic Association. All players to be eligible to play in the league must be employed by and on the payroll of the industry on whose team they play at least 60 days before the opening date of the schedule.

Last year there were four divisions with 24 teams. The winners were McQuay-Norris, Western Electric, Wabash and Peters Shoe, the latter won the championship from Wabash in an elimination series between these four teams for the title.

The annual struggle for local amateur soccer supremacy between the Carondelet Park "Dutch" and the Fairground "Irish" will be resumed at the Fairgrounds this afternoon when the Schenbergs oppose the Kolsters in the first game of the final series for the Municipal League championship.

Although the North Siders refer to all football players from Carondelet as "Dutch" and the South Siders label all Fairground athletes as "Roughhouse Irish" a study of the lineups of the teams rarely justifies the generalization. And the Schenbergs and Kolsters are a fair illustration, for Barney Hennessy, McLaughlin, Keenoy and O'Mara can hardly be mistaken for German names, and they're all representing the South Side. The Schenbergs inside left, however, is the real thing for Gene Thumm is not long over from Germany.

Appear Well Matched.

Playing much the same style of football the two district champions appear well matched. Steadier halfback play may give the Kolsters the balance of power but it will take good men to keep Berne Hennessy and Thumm tied up for 90 minutes. The Kolsters' attack did not appear well developed last Sunday in the game with the Cooks. If Marvin Hart and Ikemeyer start at the inside positions the front line may show greater punch than it did a week ago. Runge and Reid, the fullbacks, probably would get better results if they pushed the ball up to Hartigan more often instead of banging away at every opportunity and miskicking half the time.

Tom Heidenry a couple of years ago promised to become a great center halfback and he may be the outstanding player of the game today. If he suppresses his desire to kick hard and resorts instead to ground passes to Thumm, he will start many a move that will worry the Kolster backs.

There is every reason to believe the game will bring out good football and a close score.

Starting time is 2:30 p. m.

Howley Believes Meusel And Heilman Will Give His Reds a Needed Punch

This is the sixth of a series of sixteen articles written for the Post-Dispatch by the managers of the respective major league teams. The remaining articles will be published daily until completed. In this number Dan Howley, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds tells of new players who, he thinks, will strengthen the club.

By Dan Howley,
Manager Cincinnati Reds.

NO club can hope to get very far in the major leagues these days unless it packs a punch. The dangerous clubs those those that have three or four good hitters following each other in the lineup.

DAN HOWLEY

During the past three years as manager of the St. Louis Browns I have been in a very good position to appreciate the real value of what a slugger or two means to a ball club.

In 1928 we finished third and in 1929 fourth, despite the fact that we had one of the weakest hitting clubs in the majors. Great pitching, a fine defense and a fighting spirit kept us in the first division the last two years. In 1928 if we had had a clean-up batter on the club we would have made plenty of trouble and would have had a chance to cop the pennant. The punch just wasn't there.

This year, I am to manage the Cincinnati Reds in the National League. When I took over the reins of the club I was told my situation was very much like the one I had left in St. Louis. For years great pitching had been wasted because of the need of two or three players capable of hitting for extra bases. That has been the situation, I am told, in Cincinnati for three years or more.

Not Worried Over Pitchers.

I regret that my pitching will not be as good as it was three years ago, since age takes its toll out of a veteran pitcher and there are several of them on the Reds' staff. However, I decided not to worry about the pitching angle, hoping that if I was able to get together a team that would give the pitching staff a working margin of three or four runs daily, that the pitching would show improvement with this added punch.

It has been my experience in major league baseball that you cannot look for much help from your own league. If you are to get major league material, tried and true, you invariably must go to the rival league. That is why President Weil and myself turned to the American League instead of the National when we started our hunt for players who could hit.

Since the close of the major league season the Cincinnati club has added three players to its roster who should make the Reds a much improved club, far more interesting. I refer to Harry Heilmann, secured from the Detroit Tigers; Bob Meusel, from the New York Yankees, and Infielder Cuccinello of Columbus in the American Association.

True, Heilmann and Meusel are veterans, and as some of the critics state have passed the peak of their game, but those "babies" can still hit that old apple and that is what interests me most for the time being. I feel that Cincinnati must have an immediate punch if the club is to please fandom next summer and I am willing to gamble that Heilmann and Meusel will supply the much-needed power.

Heilmann, many times batting champion of the American League, hit .343 for Detroit last season. His 156 hits included 41 doubles, 7 triples and 15 home runs. There comes to every great player a bad year some time in his career. Last year was Bob Meusel's off season. He batted only .259 and he is a .300 hitter if there ever was one. A change of scenery is certain to work wonders for him and I feel sure he will star in the National League.

Cuccinello Hit .358.

Cuccinello played second and third for Columbus last season, a majority of his games at the first named position. He batted .358, making 227 hits, among them 56 doubles, 10 triples and 20 home runs.

These three players should all hit well over .300 for me. Also, I am sure players like Kelly, Critz and Swanson will be helped and hit better than last season, as they will absorb the spirit of the newcomers.

We would like a little more pitching and have several deals in mind that should help the club in this department if we are able to put them over.

Bowling Notes

Barney Dierkes and Bud Haselhorst of the Quick Meal League will meet Ernie Viscordi and Ray Zeigler of the Wellston Recreation Parlor in a 10-game home and home match. The first block will be bowled tonight at the Gravois Recreation Parlor at 6 o'clock. Dierkes is averaging 199 and Haselhorst 189 in the Quick Meal League, while Ziegler is one of the best pin topplers at the Wellston Recreation alleys. The match is for a $100 purse.

Repp scored weekly high three and Thurber high single in last week's round of play in the Outlying Banks League, Repp scoring 620 and Thurber 213. In the league matches, the Lowells won two games from the Lindells, the Cass Banks took two from the Eastons, the West St. Louis Five won two from the Northwesterns and the Savings won three from the Natural Bridge team.

An individual handicap contest for women bowlers will be held at Nick's Recreation Parlor, 5411 Virginia avenue, tonight beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The winner of the contest will receive a gold medal in addition to first place prize. Any woman bowler with an established league average is eligible for the contest. Entries can be filed by calling RIverside 9511.

Bowlers over 50 years of age will have their inning at the St. Louis Produce alleys, 934 N. Broadway, next Saturday and Sunday when a four-game handicap sweepstakes will be held. Entry fee is $2, including bowling.

The Bober-Maiers took the lead in the Mound City League by winning three games from the Meyers while the Arway Coffee Shoppes were losing the odd game to the Spehs. The Bobers rolled 2922 with J. Kunes getting 642. Fitzpatrick shot 607 for the Meyers. Montgomery, 575, and A. Kraft 596, were high in the Arway-Speh match. Other matches resulted as follows: Hauptmanns 2, Beckmans 1; Styles 2, La Fendrichs 1; Atlas 2, Dierls 1; Kehrs 2, Petros 1. The team leaders were: C. Glaub 593, Ludwig 568, Niemeier 567, Stevens 527, Frederic 572, Mahne 612 and Schulz 563.

AUDIT LIKELY TO SHOW BIG UNION ELECTRIC PROFIT

Public Service Commission's Check of Property Account Nearly Complete —First in 15 Years.

FIRM'S REPORT SHOWS 7 1-2 PER CENT RETURN

Exceeds 8 Pct. However, If Item Included in Book Value Contrary to State Board Practice Is Taken Out.

The Missouri Public Service the yard-stick of reasonable return on fair valuation to the Union Electric Light & Power Co., virtually unregulated for 15 years.

The audit probably will be completed by the end of March and is expected to show, by the process of checking the additions and improvements of the company since 1915, the actual fair value of its property used and useful in the public service upon which it is entitled to earn a reasonable return from rates charged the public.

Two years ago when the Post-Dispatch pointed out that the company's return on its own book value of its property was more than 8 per cent, the State Commission suggested a rate reduction and the company voluntarily instituted a new schedule reducing the rates paid by large customers but not affecting household rates and indicating a decrease of about $700,000 in the company's annual revenue. City Counselor Muench thought household rates should have been reduced and it was upon his application that the commission ordered the audit of the company.

Self-Regulated Since 1915.

It has been the practice of Union Electric to reduce rates from time to time as it thought it was justified on the basis of its own accounting of property value. This has tended to keep down popular agitation for official review of its rates with the result that the company has been virtually self-regulated ever since the commission made a valuation of its property in 1915. The last household rate reduction was made in 1923.

The valuation fixed by the commission 15 years ago was $26,000,000 and did not contain any allowance for reproduction new cost, a device which has since fattened the purse of many a utility.

Without an officially determined rate base, it has been impossible to judge accurately of the prosperity of the company except on the basis of its own figures. These figures showed a return of more than 8 per cent for 1927, as has been told, and of about 7.95 per cent for 1928 after the latest rate reduction had been in effect seven months.

Earns 7.51 Pct. on Own Showing.

For 1929 the company's annual report, just issued, shows net profits amounting to a return of not less than 7.51 per cent on its own book value of the Missouri property serving St. Louis and surrounding territory.

For the Missouri property the company claims a rate base value of $70,068,000 by accepting the $26,000,000 valuation of 1915 and bringing it up to date on the books. Applicable to that property were net earnings of $8,217,622 for return and depreciation, an increase of $712,558 over 1928. This amounts to 11.71 per cent on the book value and the company claims 4.20 per cent for depreciation under the commission's rulings. This leaves 7.51 per cent for return.

Projected Work on Books.

In the claimed book value, however, is an item of $4,300,000 added in 1929 for expenditures on the Osage hydro-electric project now under construction. This project will not be completed until late in 1931 and will not be in public service until then. The Missouri Commission has consistently refused to allow proposed improvements to be included in the rate base until completed and put in service. Then the commission permits the utility to capitalize in the rate base, interest paid during construction and construction overhead cost, thus allowing the utility a continuing return on that part of its investment, as well as on actual construction cost.

When the Osage expenditure is taken out of the company's claimed rate base, the return on the balance is 8.29 per cent, a higher figure than was earned in 1927 when the commission suggested a rate reduction. Undoubtedly when the Osage plant is put in operation the company will find sale for the additional output, thus increasing its revenues accordingly.

According to Frank J. Boehm, vice president of Union Electric, the company has no intention of reducing rates at this time. He said present residence rates are as low as the management considers justifiable.

Sidelights on the Naval Conference at London

Any Agreement Better Than None—Parity and Reduction Must Lie in Same Bed —MacDonald's Poise—Lady Astor and Her Friend Shaw—The Astor Cemetery —English View of Prohibition.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, Feb. 22.

If this conference appears to be dragging out to an unconscionable length, remember that the Washington conference of 1921-22 lasted over three months. In the field of warship limitation that meeting of the Powers succeeded in dealing only with battleships and aircraft carriers; this one seeks an agreement on all categories of vessels. This point, too, should be kept in mind in appraising the work of the delegates; whatever agreement may be reached, even though the tonnage figures of the navies seem too high, will be "relvet." Any agreement, in other words, will be better than none. Today, in all classes of warships save the two limited at Washington, the sky is the limit. Any decision of the nations to hold their auxiliary craft within specified limits for the next six years will be an appreciable advance on the road to disarmament—an advance setting a little farther forward the starting point for the next conference.

Such will be a justified view of the result, provided only that some concrete gain is made and the conference ends on a note of good will. Yet it will be equally in order, if limitation is achieved without substantial reduction, for those who believe in reduction to point out the measure by which the conference has failed.

Progress toward disarmament, like progress in any cause, can only be made by keeping the ultimate objective in view. Governments need the spur of idealistic aspirations on the part of the people.

The problem between America and Britain at the conference, as summed up by a wise British publicist, is simply to make Parity lie down in the same bed with Reduction. Geneva showed the difficulties in the way of a solution. On the one hand there is what has come to be regarded in the United States as a necessity—parity of naval strength with Great Britain. On the other hand there is what Great Britain regards as her naval requirement in relation to the Continent; to put the case more bluntly, her requirement in relation to the French navy built and building, particularly the submarine section of the French navy. The problem, from the British angle, is how to square an American political necessity—parity—with a British strategic necessity.

The poise of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in facing the army of correspondents is superb. On an occasion of this kind the man who hesitates is lost. MacDonald never hesitates. He gives always an impression of sincerity. Not always, of course, does he give the information requested, but he manages to decline without appearing to be secretive. He can gracefully say nothing. Back of this skill in answering or parrying questions is a long and hard experience in the parliamentary school of give-and-take.

MacDonald the other day imparted certain bits of information in a "press conference" on the understanding that they were not to be put out in the form of an interview with him.

"How then shall we handle this material?" asked a reporter.

"You may say," replied the Prime Minister, "that you picked it up out of a wastebasket labeled Absolute Truth.

"You may also say," he added, "that I was the wastebasket."

Lady Astor has been having some of the American party, unofficial as well as official, down at her country place, Cliveden, every week-end during the conference. Bernard Shaw, who is her great friend, was there on one of these occasions, and Lady Astor sat him down at a tea table with the Americans and told him, in effect, to be witty. It is a hard thing, I take, for any person, no matter how clever, to live up to the reputation under such circumstances; and Shaw was no exception to the rule. He did his Shavian best, and it was very good; but most of what he said had a familiar ring to those who had been reading Shaw. He escaped as soon as he gracefully could. There was no lack of interest in the man himself. At 75 or thereabouts he appears as well preserved physically as he is mentally. His blue eyes are bright and his skin as pink as a baby's.

Shaw's latest play, "The Apple Cart," is still drawing large crowds after a run of four months. Most of the Americans at the conference have been to see it and have liked it. Shaw calls it a political extravaganza, which is as good a short description as any. "The Apple Cart" is a political tract in dramatic form. The time is the future and the place is England under the reign of "King Magnus." To Magnus in the last act comes the American Ambassador, richly arrayed as Uncle Sam, and tells him that the Declaration of Independence has been rescinded and the United States wishes to rejoin England. Magnus, being a wise King, rejects the scheme; he is unwilling to run the risk of seeing England swallowed up. Shaw permits the characters of his play to speak of Magnus with easy familiarity and even to treat him at times with an amused tolerance; but he never for a minute allows them to drop into ridicule. Magnus is made out an undistinguished man physically, but a dignified man entitled to receive, and receiving, respect. The part is finely played by Cedric Hardwicke. He makes the longest speech I have ever heard on any stage, and makes it, moreover, sitting down.

Yet he holds his audience to the end. The speech is wholly political. So effectively does the actor speak the part and so timely are the satirical shafts, that he is interrupted often with "Hear! Hear!" from the audience.

There is a Lord Astor, too, and he is a considerable person in his own right. Some go so far as to say, indeed, that he supplies most of the political acumen of the family. Lord Astor is a slim, well-set-up man of youthful appearance, with pleasant voice and manners. One hardly crosses the threshold of the Astor country home, which looks like Buckingham Palace, before Lord Astor proposes an inspection of the cemetery. Misgivings vanish when the cemetery comes into view. It is not, as one might have expected, the burying ground of Astors, but of soldiers who died in the hospital which the Astors maintained at their country home during the war. Twenty-four thousand men passed through this hospital, and 40 are buried in the private cemetery on the estate. It is laid out like a Roman garden. Framed with yew and beech trees, and completely free of any sculptured note of woe, the cemetery is such a resting place as any weary soldier in his dreams of

Strange Inequalities in Legislative Representation Resulting from Long Failure to Redistrict the State

Citizen of Schuyler County Has Three and One-Half Times as Large a Voice at Jefferson City as One Living at Broadway and Malt, St. Louis — Inequalities in Congress, Too.

By CARLOS F. HURD,
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

When the London naval conference gets through with the good old yardstick, Missouri might borrow it, to put some parity into its representation system.

The yardstick may get bent, like Prof. Einstein's idea of space, before the job is finished. If it can be kept straight, here are some of the things it will show:

A man in Schuyler County, whose farm borders on the Iowa line, has six and one-half times as much representation in the lower House at Jefferson City as a man in Clay County, who can row across the Missouri River to Kansas.

The same Schuyler County man has three and one-half times as much representation in the State Senate as a man living at Broadway and Malt street, overlooking the Mississippi River in the Twelfth ward of St. Louis. In the lower House of Congress at Washington the Schuyler County man has three and one-fifth times the representation that the South St. Louis man has.

Move over to Camden County, in the middle of the State, and it will be found that each of its citizens has three and three-fourths times as much representation in Congress as the resident of Broadway and Malt. In the State Senate, the Camden County man has almost three times as much representation as the St. Louisan. In the lower House at Jefferson City, the Camden County man has four times the representation of the Clay County man previously mentioned, and nearly four times as much as a resident of Lawrence County, in the Ozarks.

"A MAN living on the north side of Lafayette avenue . . . has three and two-thirds as much representation in Congress as his neighbor on the south side of the street."

Inequalities Within City of St. Louis, Too.

Besides these inequalities between the counties, and between the counties and the city, there are inequalities within the city. A man living on the north side of Lafayette avenue, anywhere between Grand boulevard and Nebraska avenue, in St. Louis, has three and two-thirds times as much representation in Congress as his neighbor on the south side of the street. The former lives in the Twelfth Congressional District, one of the smallest in the country in population—141,664; the latter lives in the Tenth District, the third in population in the United States, with 521,587 inhabitants.

Calling the roll of Missouri's 114 counties, and comparing them in their rating at Jefferson City and Washington, would only pile up more instances of inequality.

There are six counties with less than 10,000 population, each of which has one representative in the lower House at Jefferson City. There are 17 counties with more than 30,000 inhabitants, which also have one representative each. Most of the other counties have between 10,000 and 30,000, and rate one member each. The exceptions are Jackson County, which has 10; Buchanan, Greene, Jasper and St. Louis Counties, three each; and the City of St. Louis, 19.

This inequality in the lower House is largely unavoidable, and nobody is proposing to remedy it entirely. Under the Constitution of Missouri, each county is entitled to one member, and counties which exceed a certain ratio of the State's population get extra representatives. The House now has 150 members, and any considerable increase would make it of unwieldy size.

Inequality in the State Senate is a different matter. The Constitution calls for "convenient districts, as nearly equal in population as may be," for the election of the 34 Senators.

Established in 1901; Not Equal Even Then.

The present Senatorial Districts were established in 1901, the first year of Gov. Dockery's administration. They were not approximately equal in population even then. The three counties of Audrain, Lincoln and Pike, Democratic strongholds, made one district, the Eleventh, of 65,256 population, while Greene and Dade, Republican counties, were bunched with the Democratic Barton and Vernon Counties into the Twentieth District, with 120,710 population.

The years have increased the disparity of the districts created in 1901. By the last census, the Eleventh Senatorial District, still consisting of the same three counties, has 56,890 population, and the Twentieth has 125,819. The Twelfth, in North Missouri, has 55,205; the Twenty-first, in the Southeast, has 133,182; the Twenty-fifth, embracing Franklin, Gasconade and St. Louis Counties, has 141,545, and Jackson County has two Senators for a population (in 1920) of 367,846 or 183,923 to a Senator. The Twenty-ninth, in South St. Louis, has more than 200,000.

"There are seven Senatorial Districts having less than 74,000 population, while seven others have a population in excess of 125,000. Nineteen Senators represent districts having, in the aggregate, a population of 125,848 less than the districts represented by the other 15 Senators.

"In 1928, Senator Kinney (Thirty-first District, St. Louis) won with a vote of 8768 out of a total of 13,842, while Senator Davis (Seventh District, Kansas City) had to secure a total of 81,028 out of 153,398 votes cast in his district. Senator Davis, in his one district, received more than the combined vote of six other Senators at the same election. Senator Warner (Twenty-ninth District, St. Louis) got more than the combined vote of four other Senators at the same election."

Hadley and Hyde Tried Redistricting.

Gov. Hadley's administration tried to redistrict the State in 1911, and Gov. Hyde, the next Republican Governor, made the same attempt in 1921. The Senate majority functioned to prevent redistricting by the Assembly; when the Governor and other State officials essayed the task, they were fought in the courts and at a referendum election by the Democratic State Committee, which succeeded in preserving the old districts.

Missouri's Congressional Districts also date from 1901. The masterpieces of this arrangement were the T-bone Seventh District, beginning with Greene County in the southwest and ribboning up to and across the Missouri River to include Howard County; and the Tenth District of St. Louis, made to hold as many Republican voters as possible, and having more than twice the population, when first formed, of the Democratic Eighth District in Central Missouri. At present, only two other districts have even one-half the population of the Tenth, and eight districts have less than one-third its number.

The political meaning of all this is very clear. While the transformation of Missouri from a normally Democratic to a normally Republican State has been going on, the Democrats have taken advantage of the earlier districting done in their favor, and have used forces of resistance and inertia to block a change. Some may believe that the Republicans would have done likewise, if the situation had been reversed. But any party which this year demands a redistricting, as Gov. Caulfield wishes the Republicans to do, will be demanding what is clearly due, and long overdue, under the Constitution.

The individual citizen may feel that it makes no great difference to him whether he is one fifty-thousandth, or one five-hundred-thousandth, of the constituency of some particular legislator. Nevertheless, unequal representation does make a difference to the citizen. In Congress, it gives the rural sections preponderance over the cities, a fact to which the wet-dry division calls attention emphatically at each session.

In a number of State Legislatures, notice-

Present Areas Established in 1901 and Efforts of Two Governors to Change Them Have Been Blocked by Democrats Who Cite All-Republican Board of Aldermen Here.

ably that of Illinois, the same effect is produced, as to the prohibition question, by over-representation of rural districts and under-representation of the cities.

In the Missouri Legislature, St. Louis has been insufficiently represented in numbers, which is partly the State's fault, and has had an insufficient share of legislative ability and prestige, for which the voters and the party leaders of St. Louis are to blame.

An accompanying fact, not unconnected with this, has been that St. Louis, with one-fourth of the population of the State, one-eighth of the membership of the lower House and three-seventeenths of the Senate, pays 30 per cent of the State's general property taxes, 55 per cent of the State income tax, and 39 per cent of the State's total taxes under all heads. This was the record for 1928. In 1929, the city's share of the State income tax was 53 per cent; the proportion of other taxes will appear with the publication of the State Auditor's next report.

It is sometimes said, in defense of the present arrangement, that a minority-controlled State Senate, even if not representing the popular will, is a valuable check on the majority. What has been more noticeable is that the Senate has obstructed and held up legislation as a means of dickering with the House and the Governor to get desired bills passed and appointments made.

Senate Jam of Bills Forestalls Revision.

The Senate jam of bills, near the close of a legislative session, has come to be a recognized condition at Jefferson City. Bills passed by the House are permitted to pile up, until it is too late to make necessary changes, and measures are passed or killed with little regard to their merit. Such a situation, at the close of the 1929 session, prevented any accomplishment of the work of revision, which was the constitutionally prescribed task of that session. The Senate killed all House revision bills, after finding that some of them did not meet its ideas, as there was no time for discrimination or correction. A small group of Senators had directed this policy of dictation to the House and the Governor.

Department consolidation and central purchasing measures, offered at the last session in the interest of economy and efficiency in the State Government, were killed in the Senate. As a counter-balancing deed of merit, it may be urged that the Senate in 1927 killed Gov. Baker's nuisance tax program, which the House had passed. The tax would have been a thorough nuisance to the public and would have given the schools more money.

Gov. Caulfield, in his address already quoted, recognized that the districting question had the suggestion of partisanship, because, he said, the Republicans have been the chief losers by the present arrangement. He said, however, that the issue was one of common honesty, on which the parties should not divide.

This year, the Governor said, is the time to consider the apportionment, because it is the decennial census year, after which reapportionment is due. Under the Constitution and Supreme Court decisions, if the 1931 Assembly, to be elected next November, does not do the work, the matter will go over to 1941.

Governor Urges Pledges of Candidates.

The Governor intends to urge, as the August primary approaches, that candidates for both houses of the Legislature pledge themselves to enact a fair and equitable redistricting of the State. If candidates of both parties will so pledge themselves, the issue will not need to be made a partisan one. If the census figures are available in time, a model plan of redistricting may be worked out.

Whenever a fair districting plan is put forth, there can be no argument against it which will not be also an argument against majority rule. But there is one question which is likely to be heard. It will be:

"If the Republicans want a chance in the State Senate, why don't they give the Demo

Mussolini Opposes General Truce On Tariff Because of Diversity Of Various Countries' Interests

Wants Only Bilateral Pacts—Says Single Treaty for Europe Would Leave U. S. Highly Protected.

By Benito Mussolini,
Premier of Italy.
(Copyright, 1930.)

ROME, March 1.

This seems to be the time of truces. There is the naval truce, the armed truce, the peace truce and the commercial truce. A little while ago we had the petroleum truce and the rubber truce. London has discussed for five weeks a plan for a naval truce, and now we are having a truce in the naval conference itself while France inaugurates its new Cabinet. The latest truce, and one which has commanded much attention and has been discussed in Geneva under the auspices of the League of Nations, is the truce designed to effect a customs holiday, thus making tariff an international question.

It is noteworthy in these modern relations how these war terms have been applied to refer to the efforts of peace. The London Naval Conference is heralded as a great effort for world peace, while the customs tariff truce has been described as an endeavor towards commercial peace and stabilization.

The presence of all these truces brings out forcibly that international competition is keen. Whether we want to consider truces for commercial rivalry or truces for the prevention of war, competition between nations is so keen nowadays that what is one nation's bread is another's hunger. The fight for trade is fierce and unrelenting. Each seeks a market, even in the sacred confines of his neighbor. There is no great modern nation that can be outside this whirl of international competition, for the fight is one for life, for prosperity, for national strength. Trade induces production, and production makes for an effective national strength. A nation that can fight in the trade markets of the world is pretty well equipped to fight in the armed conflicts of the world, for modern war needs industry and science, and trade begets all these. That nation is financially powerful which can maintain its merchant flag on the seven seas and keep its own domestic market against foreign invasion.

Purpose of Customs Truce.

Now what is the purpose of this customs truce in Geneva? According to the speeches delivered it was designed to open international channels of trade and remove artificial obstacles which impeded trade and stabilize as far as possible—two years was suggested as the length of the truce—the customs duties of the various European states. The idea, it is supposed, had its inception in the proposal for a United States of Europe advanced some months ago by Aristide Briand of France, and it is now put forward with characteristic dash by Winston Churchill, former British Chancellor of the Exchequer, to establish a kind of economic union amongst European countries.

The basis of these trade barriers is the preferential tariff which each nation imposes in order to protect its own domestic market for its own producers—agricultural, manufacturing, mining, etc. The preferential tariff is a comparatively new device and in its modern form owes its development to the rise of industry and divides nations into two camps accordingly as they are buyers or sellers.

The seller of prime necessities, inasmuch as he must be self-contained at home before he has goods to sell, is in a position of comparative superiority, especially when he enjoys a sort of monopoly in them, either in their production or in the facility or cheapness of transport to his near neighbors. Prime necessities would be grain and raw material like coal, iron and petroleum. Manufactured goods, on the contrary, are comparatively less necessary. There is much keener competition in the market so that the buyer is in a position superior to the seller.

New Science in Politics.

These complicated relations have started a new science in politics because governments have taken trade under their control, and direct trade as a weapon either by withholding or offering. Its influence is powerful and widespread and can be turned for fierce rivalry or active co-operation in international affairs.

There has been a strong movement in Great Britain for Empire preference to enhance empire solidarity. There has been a speeding up of this movement during the last two weeks, though England up till now has been a steadfast free trade country. She started half a century ahead of all other nations in the development of industry. She requires a supply of cheap food from overseas to keep wages from an extravagant increase and thus reduce operating costs. The new movement for empire solidarity demands that all trade within the empire be secured through preferential tariffs to the possible exclusion of other competitors. She will buy her food from her dominions and sell them her manufactured goods.

The question of the policy of these tariffs has been the platform on which political parties have waged their campaigns, notably in England and the United States. The latter is the most highly-protected country in the world. Preferential tariffs to promote domestic industries have been followed for almost half a century, with just short periods of suspension. To a lesser degree but even then forming a vital problem in their policies, protection or free trade has been a source of constant political controversy in virtually all the countries of Europe.

Reason for a Clash.

Each nation wants to consume its own goods if possible, and sell the surplus abroad. Since each wants the other's market, there is a clash. Each can only protect its own market by preferential tariffs, and no nation has ever questioned the right of another to do this. Tariff, until now, has always been regarded as a domestic question and the Geneva meeting is the first important effort to make it international. While there has been much protest on the part of foreign nations against the present proposed new tariffs of the United States, no nation ever questioned the right of the United States to levy these protective duties. Geneva has tried to bring the problem into the international orbit in order to find a formula, a scheme of adjustment that will perhaps satisfy everybody. In face of the terrible jigsaw of conflicting interests, how can this be done?

The Italian delegates at the conference at Geneva have opposed any plurilateral agreement because they realized that such a plan would indeed be difficult of attainment. The shifting political policies, especially of parliamentary countries, do not offer the stability necessary for a plurilateral pact. Furthermore, the complexity and diversity of interests of the various countries make it difficult to arrive at a solution which could be put into a formula and principle advantageous to all alike. The diverse agricultural and industrial situations of every country in Europe make the interests of these countries equally diverse.

Pacts Between Countries.

We feel that the best solution is the endeavor to smooth these economic barriers is by pacts entered

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Plight of the Midwest.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

AFTER 10 years of Republican rule, with the smoke-screen of prohibition filling the air in order to camouflage the depredation going on, the Midwest is just now fully awaking as from a dreadful nightmare.

It finds itself practically dispossessed of the wealth which represented over half a century of hardships, struggle and toil. For a concrete example, take the State of Iowa, proclaimed the foremost agricultural commonwealth in the Union. After having produced foodstuffs for 75 years in a manner unequaled anywhere in the history of the world, it finds itself today indebted to the Eastern money barons to the extent of over $100 for every acre of land within its borders.

As a direct result of the despoliation of these fair Western states by a small group of "good patriots," who cast to the four winds all sense of honor and justice in the process of creating themselves into an all-ruling money oligarchy, it became a physical impossibility for the honest, hard-working tillers of the soil to meet their financial obligations. And in natural sequence, our banks have failed by the hundreds.

To those in the West who have followed with a little degree of humanity and understanding, the tragic economic events of the last decade, with its sorrow, despair, resentment, hatred, suicides and what not—all mercilessly brought upon our fair country by the perfidy and treachery of men for their own enrichment—this placing, this niching, by those asinine dry fanatics of that fool edict, "Thou shalt not drink," above the seventh divine commandment which says "Thou shalt not steal"—meaning both directly and indirectly—looks like outright mockery to both God and man.

But God and man are not mocked forever. A little study of human history reveals that.

How long will they be mocked in this land of boasted freedom and enlightenment? ARNOLD S. MISEREZ.

Objects to Humorous Editorial.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

IN reading your editorial on Secretary Stimson's much-celebrated parrot, I was genuinely impressed by its humor and elegance of style. It seems to me, however, that at the present time, when there are millions of people out of work, and we read about riots of the unemployed and hungry, you could find subjects more important and more befitting a serious journal. But I realize also that you could not write on vital questions with the same smug complacency and witticism that is used, by capitalist newspapers, to cover the absolute want of fearless criticism and creative ideas in editorials on basic social and economic questions.

JESSE HAUSER.

"Our Closed Trade Door."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

I WISH I could more forcibly express my commendation of your editorial, "Our Closed Trade Door." It is the most sensible and logical expression in regard to conditions as affected by the tariff that I have anywhere seen.

Surely our legislators and economists see and fully appreciate these facts. Why do they not stress them before the public and act upon them in connection with suitable legislation? There can be no other reason than selfish interests and political fear.

I hope you will continue to expound these views until other great papers get the courage to join in, or are forced to do so by growing approval of them by the public. Then legislators will necessarily have to take cognizance of them.

Agricultural interests are being buncoed by high rates on farm commodities that benefit the farmer very little. The public is paying without any gain to itself or to the farmer, all to maintain the high tariff wall for manufacturers, which will in time react to their own detriment in restricting their markets both at home and abroad.

E. L. JACO.

Is Mr. Faris Being Josbed?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

H. P. FARIS is evidently gathering information that is not accessible to us lowbrows.

My observations and experience have led me to believe that prohibition is a liability and not the splendid asset Mr. Faris thinks it is. If all these billions are being saved "per year," I am not getting mine.

I cannot help but wish that the gentleman had been more explicit. I would like to get in touch with the "number of economists, including the most outstanding scientific men in the nation," who are handing out this kind of dope. I don't just at this moment recall an outstanding scientist who would risk his reputation by making such wild statements.

I would like to know by what process of reasoning they reached their conclusions. If any recognized scientist is broadcasting any such information, I would like to tune in.

I greatly fear that somebody has been kidding Mr. Faris. JOE HEPP.

HOLZAPFEL AND AMERICA.

The late Dr. Rudolf Maria Holzapfel, Austrian philosopher, who died in Switzerland Feb. 8, foresaw a most flattering and significant future for America. Like Andre Siegfried and other observers of the phenomenon of so many peoples being cast into one, he saw us more clearly than we saw ourselves.

He believed us to be only what the material task of developing a new continent would have made any people. To pioneer so rich a continent, to build our roads and railroads, our industries and our cities; to first push out the bounds of the great republic, and then to lift the nation itself into its present place of wealth and power, was not the sort of thing to nourish what Dr. Holzapfel called soul.

By soul he meant those refinements of feeling and that spiritual exaltation which express themselves in ethics, religion, philosophy and the arts. One of their corollaries is conscience. That is, what we can do, or what mere power enables us to do, or what may be technically legal, is not necessarily what a soulful people, or a people whose civilization enjoyed an ethical background, would want to do. A people who had grown soul while building the great American nation would not have condoned corruption of the Government by the oil buccaneers. This shameful chapter, like that of the Grant administration, belongs in the story of the great American racket. It is an era in which each of us condones the other's dishonesty to protect his own. Tariff-making perfectly illustrates it. Exceptions such as that of the younger Mr. Rockefeller, who stopped Col. Stewart, and Senator Borah, who wanted his party to return the $160,000 which Sinclair contributed to the deficit of the Harding campaign, are more than rare among us; they are so unlike us as almost to seem eccentric.

Dr. Holzapfel clearly saw us to be like this, and his sturdy philosophy refused to be discouraged by it. He believed that when the great task of building the nation is complete we will become the world's most potent force for light and leading. There are latent in us, so he believed, the cultures of those countries from which we derive. He says that in so material an environment as we stepped into when we came to America we had no use for them. To have and to hold took precedence over and dominated our spiritual cravings, which at last lost all power of articulation. They await the rebirth of things that are not material, exactly as the Renaissance led Europe out of the Dark Ages. Dr. Holzapfel said of this in the Fiftieth Anniversary Number of the Post-Dispatch:

> The complete subservience of all energies to the task of the struggle for existence which held the creative forces of its people in chains, produced a momentous indifference in America toward the highly important foreign productions. Consequently, America lags behind Europe in culture, and lacks many very necessary abilities that are essential in the struggle for a new future for humanity. It is most conspicuously wanting in the capacity for sublimation and absorption of a higher order, as well as the ability to concentrate more fully where this is necessary.
> As a compensation, however, Americans possess the above discussed latent energies, which occur nowhere else in this form, and which peculiarly adapt them to assimilate rapidly the spiritual riches of Europe. These energies will enable the Americans to take, as it were, a spiritual hurdle over unnecessary obstacles in the path of development, and to reach in one bound a stage from which they may, in conjunction with Europe and the whole earth, essay the common undertaking of developing a new and vital world culture.

Perhaps the deepening gloom of his latter days obscured from the philosopher our tendency even now to confirm that flattering prophecy. We are trying to lead the world out of the welter of war. No league of nations, no disarmament move, has yet achieved this great ideal; but we keep on trying. Usually initiated by us, these movements always have our sturdy support. That we sometimes fail because of dissension among ourselves bears out the philosopher's belief in our essentially primitive nature. It is not because we are, as France is, afraid. It is because we are, as a people fresh from moving mountains would be, bellicose.

Consequently, we look to Europe for what the late President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard called "the durable values." Our philosophy, our music, our letters, our science are not yet producing the equivalents of Einstein, Spengler, Shaw and Strauss. We recently acclaimed Mr. Edison, as we should have done, on the fiftieth anniversary of his invention of the incandescent light; but when the philosopher John Dewey became 70 at almost the same time we utterly failed in a proper recognition of his also useful life. We have not that quality which the man who rose from humble walks to greatness by the power and beauty of his mind called soul. Only time, he foresaw, can give us that.

COMMISSIONS—AND OMISSION.

Far be it from us to disparage a quest for facts, a thirst for knowledge, particularly in so high a place as the White House. President Hoover, statisticians on such matters inform us, thus far in his administration, now not quite a year old, has appointed 15 different fact-finding commissions to investigate this problem and that and make report. If more than one special inquiry a month seems excessive with a man who is supposed to have valuable ideas of his own, just remember to Mr. Hoover's credit, please, his great forbearance and moderation. He did not appoint a board to sit on Mrs. Dolly Gann. Remember?

MacDONALD AND THE LEFT.

Ramsay MacDonald's resignation from the Independent Labor party signifies no change of heart in the Premier, but rather a change in the organization, which was one of the groups uniting in 1900 to form the Labor party as England knows it today. The Independents, who once commanded MacDonald's best efforts, turned against him in late years as they moved toward the left. They bitterly criticised his record in his first Premiership, and of late months had continued the sniping. To them is largely attributed the near-defeat of the Government on the coal bill in December, when it scraped through by only eight votes. "Rule or ruin" has become their policy.

The I. L. P., useful as it was in the early days, has become merely a propaganda society, whereas MacDonald has dedicated the party itself to demonstrating its usefulness to the country. "Socialism in our time" is the slogan of the Independents, and this MacDonald has dubbed "flashy futility." He prefers to work by what Sidney Webb calls "the inevitability of gradualness"—by evolution, not revolution. His methods therefore seem slow to the impatient Independents, but MacDonald is a seasoned statesman and other factions in England have learned to respect him. Overlooking its antagonism, MacDonald has been courteous to the I. L. P., although other Labor leaders, including Snowden, left it long ago. The Independents have not kept up with MacDonald in learning the lessons of practical statecraft. His resignation from their ranks is significant only in giving cognizance to the wide rift between impractical theories and workable policies.

HEROES OR VILLAINS?

The history of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad is a long and tangled tale, and the end is not yet. The project was promoted by Arthur E. Stillwell, a high-powered dreamer. The road was to run from Kansas City, across Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, the Mexican states of Chihuahua and Sonora to Topolobampo Bay, on the Gulf of Southern California. It never got to either terminus. It never paid a dividend. It never paid a cent of interest. But ultimately it yielded a handsome profit to a group of eminent Kansas City citizens, notably W. T. Kemper, Democratic National Committeeman from Missouri, and Clifford Histed, attorney.

English and American investors supplied the original capital. A patchwork of railroads, the Orient went into receivership in 1912. The receivers at once saw that Stillwell's financial structure was a cardboard house. The bonds, now worthless, were junked. An issue of two-year gold notes in the amount of $6,000,000 was brought out and mostly taken up by the original investors. The road still rolled along in the red. Presently the gold notes depreciated, selling, it is said, for 8 cents on the dollar. Kemper got a lot of those notes at bargain prices.

In 1917 the road was again bankrupt, and Kemper was appointed receiver. In the meantime Histed, through a Noteholders' Deposit Committee, got control of a large part of the notes. It was an intricate operation. Kemper receivership was still in its cradle when the United States went into the war and took over all the railroads, including the Orient. That was a lucky day for the Kemper group. The Government's generosity to the Orient and its receiver in claims allowed, in interest waived and in loans of real money, was nothing short of princely.

Still, the Orient languished. Reorganization efforts failed. Finally, in 1924, the road was sold under court order at Wichita. Histed bought it. Some of the noteholders thought that, as a member of the Noteholders' Deposit Committee, he was acting as their representative. Subsequently he came out with a new plan of reorganization as independent owner.

According to the calculations of the investors, the Kemper-Histed crowd bought this railroad, on which $25,000,000 had been spent, for a cash outlay of $50,000, which, by rebate, was reduced to $37,000. On this investment, it is said, they netted something like $6,000,000 in the sale of the property to the Santa Fe.

Against the foreclosure sale at Wichita investors protested, and continue to do so. A year ago some of the original bondholders filed a suit to invalidate that sale. Now Congressman Tinkham of Boston and others have joined in that action.

The story of the Orient was told in detail in the Post-Dispatch on June 14, 1925. Kemper and Histed, interviewed at the time, defended their action, explained all their negotiations and felt they were entitled to the verdict, "Well done, thou good and faithful." The investors feel otherwise.

The legal epilogue will, presumably, resolve the question as to whether Kemper, Histed and associates were heroes in this dizzy drama or villains.

WHAT RICH CHICAGOANS OWN.

In these days of distressing news of Chicago's financial condition, there is an encouraging note in the divorce suit filed against a State legislator. His wife lists among her husband's assets:

> One brewery, one gambling house, one speakeasy, one roadhouse, one real estate office, summer home at Mercer, Wis., a $65,000 yacht, two $25,000 speed boats, one Rolls Royce automobile, five Lincoln automobiles, other automobiles.

Allowing for a wife's natural tendency to boast of her husband, even though they have reached the parting of the ways, things must be looking up.

FOREIGN VILLAINS OF THE SCREEN.

When Harold Lloyd in his first talking picture had himself chased furiously by hordes of villainous-appearing Chinese and then chased them just as energetically to break up an opium ring, he did not intend any adverse reflection on the Chinese people. The horn-rimmed comedian merely was using a stock character from the stage and screen gallery of villains. The 350 Chinese students who saw the film at its Shanghai premiere did not appreciate the comedy, however; they found it painfully unfunny. There was a near-riot, somebody set off a big firecracker and the theater manager was assaulted. Later the film was withdrawn from Shanghai theaters.

With American films going abroad more and more, the habit of casting villains in foreign garb becomes increasingly a factor to reckon with. Mr. Lloyd might have obtained the same effects by battling wicked Mexicans or malevolent Germans or sinister Japanese or evil Cossacks. In each instance the intent would have been harmless, but the result would have been to irritate a renascent national consciousness. When American audiences recognize the broad burlesque of the Lloyd talkie, the Chinese see only a libel on their people.

We venture to say that even if Eskimos, Patagonians or African bushmen were cast in "heavy" roles, there would be protests from the originals, so world-wide is the penetration of American films. The ingenuity of our producers surely is equal to the occasion if motion pictures are to be messengers of good will. Americans, we patriotically insist, can be villainous as any nationality on the globe when necessary (for movie purposes).

OFF AGAIN, ON AGAIN, GONE AGAIN.

France has just had another Cabinet crisis. Her grand total since the adoption of the Constitution of 1875 is 84, roughly an average of a change in government every eight and a half months. Of course some French ministries have endured for years and then again some haven't.

Some clever foreigner is continually contrasting the flexible government by Cabinet with the inflexible system of the United States where an administration can be thrown out of office only every four years. While France seems to thrive on it, such an institution in the United States would be likely to possess for American business the lively volatile quality of TNT.

Thirty mummies have been found in a single Egyptian tomb, or about half as many as there are in the tariff bill.

Mr. Legge and the Price of Wheat

Sharp decline in grain market shows Farm Board program for this year will fail, Cleveland Plain Dealer says; disorderly marketing only result so far, Baltimore Sun declares; Chicago Daily News sees situation as vindication of co-operative group plan; Milwaukee Journal asserts Chairman Legge still holds the advantage.

BAD GUESS.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THIS week's sharp decline in the price of wheat indicates strongly that the Farm Board program will fail as far as this year's harvest is concerned. Wheat requirements of the importing nations in the remaining months of the crop year will be so small as compared with the total supply of wheat in storage in this country and Canada that any important price advance is unlikely.

There is every indication now that the Farm Board was entirely mistaken in its estimates of world wheat supply and demand and that its major error was one of judgment rather than of policy.

DISORDERLY MARKETING.

From the Baltimore Sun.

IN the discussion which preceded its creation, it became almost a shibboleth that the Farm Board's purpose was to create the machinery for orderly marketing of agricultural products. Since last fall there has been a notable absence of order in the marketing of wheat. When wheat was dumped on the market in very large quantities, and prices acted accordingly, the Board issued statements forecasting that there would be no world surplus of wheat this year, and urging that wheat be held back from the market. As a result, there was an abnormally small flow of wheat to Europe.

But even if the co-ops fostered by the Farm Board are sheltered from the storm for the present, and most of its force falls on middle-men and speculators, the fact remains that the current performances in the wheat markets reflect just the reverse of a system of orderly marketing.

THE FIRST PURPOSE.

From the Daily Oklahoman.

NO matter how severely the grain commission men of Chicago and Minneapolis may condemn the policies of the Federal Farm Board, the country should not forget that the Board was not brought into being to serve commission men. It was created to serve the producers of grain rather than the distributers of grain. It is possible, perhaps, for the Board to help the farmers without helping the commission men. It may be possible to help both, but if either is disfavored, it should not be the men who bring the grain from earth.

CHAIRMAN LEGGE HOLDS TRUMPS.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

THE policy of Government aid for co-operative farmers only is likely to cause some vigorous thinking in two directions. First, there are the dealers and speculators who naturally expected to profit in one way or another by whatever action the Farm Board took. Recently they have been suspected of bearish operations in an attempt to make the Government sorry for buying wheat or to force the Board deeper into the market. Mr. Legge says, in effect, that if they want to kick the bottom out of the price it is all right with him. They can pay the bill.

Second, there are the non-co-operative farmers who through many years have profited by whatever improved market conditions have been brought about by the co-operatives. Now, Mr. Legge tells them they can cast their lot with the private dealers and the gambling speculators. The Government price is not for them. Thus, if the plan works out as Chairman Legge undoubtedly believes it will, this rule is likely to cause a rush toward the co-operatives.

In this game that is being played it looks as though Chairman Legge holds all the honors and plenty of outside tricks.

VALUE OF CO-OPERATION SHOWN.

From the Chicago Daily News.

AMERICAN farmers scarcely could ask for a more practical demonstration of the present value to them of co-operation, backed by Government aid, than is afforded by the startling situation in the wheat market. That situation is well calculated to induce the doubters to join co-operatives.

Co-operation is an underlying principle of the agricultural marketing act. The co-operatively organized grain growers are now benefiting by the efforts of their own stabilization corporation, backed by Government funds. What the effort will cost the Government is a problem which just now afflicts economists with deep pessimism. They are waiting to be shown.

Even by the courageous Farm Board, the farmers of the United States can be assured permanently of fair prices only if they co-operate to the logical limit, and, following the advice of the Department of Agriculture and the Board, diversify their crops and reduce the acreage of those grains of which surpluses are now produced.

TREASURY HOLDS THE BAG.

From the Washington Post.

THE depressed wheat price will influence some farmers to join co-operatives, so that they may be sure of unloading their forthcoming crops at the $1.18 figure. As Chairman Legge pointed out, the fact that wheat has fallen should not worry farmers who, if they are members of co-operatives, can pass their crop along at $1.18. But, although the farmer does not have to worry, the present situation is not encouraging to the taxpayer. Unless there is a drastic turn in the market, someone is bound to be left holding the bag, and that someone is the Farm Board and the Treasury.

FARM RELIEF THROUGH TARIFF.

From the Chicago Tribune.

THE rapid decline in wheat prices despite the efforts of the Government to stabilize prices at a higher level is discouraging to farmers who had expected much of the farm relief act. By many the movement of wheat and cotton prices is already accepted as proof that the scheme of relief embodied in the act will not work. At present the Government is subsidizing the grain growers with its revolving fund of $500,000,000. When the fund is exhausted it is extremely doubtful if the taxpayers will permit Congress to vote more money for the same end.

Meanwhile farmers will be well advised to turn their attention to other forms of relief which seems to offer a likelihood of success. The tariff bill is still under consideration and can still be employed to place many items of farm production on an equality with industry. It is not too late for the farmers to get relief through revisions of the tariff law.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 1.

PERHAPS the most famous of all [bons] of wit and humor in the capital—[cer]tainly on the Hill—is that of Speaker [Nick] Longworth. Great is his reputation as [the] author of stories and wise cracks that [may] be successfully retold. Those who [come] in contact with him are eager to be [around] when Speaker Nick is in a jovial mood. [His] familiar query is, "Have you heard Nick's latest?"

So popular is the Speaker that when one of his colleagues is especially eager to impress the folks back home, he takes one of his constituents in to see Longworth. He never fails to make a visitor feel at home.

Recently a Congressman took a visitor from home into the Speaker's office. "This, Speaker," he said, "this is Mr. Dash, who has come down to Washington to find out what Congress is doing."

"Well," drawled Longworth, "if he finds out, I hope he lets us know."

MANY and varied are stories credited to him. One of the best and most characteristic was put into circulation after a function attended by old cronies of the House. One of these, during the course of the evening, was induced to sing. There was much applause, and Longworth arose and said:

"I used to have an old friend, a Captain on the Ohio River, out in Cincinnati, for whom I was quite fond. I went away from Cincinnati and the old Captain dropped out of my life for many years. Then one day, wandering back to my old haunts, I encountered him.

"He was sitting back on the dock smoking his pipe. My arrival did not seem to excite him in the least. He spoke to me in a friendly enough manner, but that was all. Finally, I said to him:

"'Captain, you don't seem to be overglad to see me.'

"The Captain thought for a moment, took his pipe out of his mouth, gazed down the river and replied:

"'I ain't sorry to see you and I ain't glad to see you. I jes' don't give a rap.'

"And that," said Longworth, "is just how I feel about Blank singing another song."

SPEAKER NICK'S reputation as a raconteur is not confined to the House wing of the Capitol. It is not an uncommon sight to see him stroll over to the Senate chamber from the House, single out a group of old friends in the cloakroom, and swap yarns with them.

The press galleries, too, are quick to pick up his latest story and pass it along. Even newspaper men who have not come to know a member of Congress better or understand a situation more thoroughly as a result of Speaker Nick's sense of humor.

ANOTHER THEORY.

From the Springfield Republican.

THOSE 206 additional millionaire incomes of 1928 may go some way to explain the slump of 1929.

BUSINESS MUST BE BETTER.

From the San Diego Union.

BUSINESS has improved so much that big business men are no longer getting themselves interviewed on how good it is.

GERLING TELLS NEED FOR 85-CENT TAX RATE

He Says Efficiency of Schools, Opening of New Branches Depend On It.

The need for maintaining the present varied services of the school system to the community and the desirability of adding new branches of service are emphasized by Superintendent of Instruction Gerling in a statement issued yesterday in support of the proposal to retain the 85-cent school tax rate for another four years.

The tax rate will be voted on at a special election March 25 and the Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee is carrying on an intensive movement against public inertia, there being no direct opposition. If the proposal should fail, the tax rate would revert to 60 cents on the $100 valuation.

"The one basic reason why the 85-cent tax rate for school purposes should be maintained is that an efficient operation of the public school system requires it," Gerling said. "The schools not only provide a superior general education through the elementary grades, but also a system of high schools which keep the door of opportunity for a higher education open to all young St. Louisans. Parents rightly aspire to give their children the best that is attainable. The Board of Education has given expression to the aspiration by endeavoring to provide every needed adaptation of the school system to meet the education demands of the city."

The statement continued with a discussion of the need for new school buildings, particularly high schools, to meet the growing demand, pointing out that St. Louis has the lowest school indebtedness of any of the large cities and one of the lowest tax rates. The value of the evening schools and the development and needs of the vocational school system are discussed.

The new Hadley Vocational School, mentioned as an example, is now only three years old and has grown so rapidly that it is housed in six different centers and students are turned away. "We believe that while in school a child should be living his life," Gerling said. "He should be allowed a choice of commercial or mechanical training while he is being taught the academic subjects. Pupils differ; what may be a good educational diet for one child may be a poor diet for another."

$10,000,000 CHICAGO FIRM IN RECEIVERSHIP

Garard Investment Trust Taken Over—Bankruptcy Action Against M. T. Hawkins.

CHICAGO, March 1.—The Garard Investment Trust Co., a $10,000,000 Chicago concern, which recently changed its name from Garard Trust Co., was placed in the hands of a receiver after the filing of equity proceedings in Federal Court on behalf of creditors at Dallas, Tex. The Chicago Title & Trust Co. was named receiver.

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were started also against Merrill T. Hawkins, trading under the firm names of the Home Builders of America, Home Builders' Investment Trust, Guardian Finance Corporation and others. Creditors charged the debts totaled more than $1,000,000.

The Garard complaint was brought in behalf of H. C. Goggans and R. A. Ritchie, Dallas lawyers. They hold a judgment obtained recently in the Cook County (Chicago) courts against the company. Assets of the company were reported to be $9,709,095 and liabilities $7,174,731, in its latest statement, but the petition charges most of the assets are frozen.

CHASES AND FIGHTS ROBBER, GETS HIS WIFE'S $10 BACK

A man who snatched a $10 bill from Mrs. Oscar Criswell as she was entering her home at 3756 Olive street at 6:30 o'clock last night was pursued by her husband, caught after a two-block chase and overpowered with the aid of a bystander, Leo Hall, 505 North Whittier street. The Criswells operate a rooming house at the Olive street address.

When the man said "Give me your money or I'll shoot you," with his hand in his coat pocket, Mrs. Criswell took the bill from her purse and stuffed it in her bosom. The man grappled with her and retrieved it, running west when Criswell, attracted by his wife's screams, appeared. The chase terminated in a fist fight in front of 3800 Olive street.

into between one country and another. Such pacts encompass the difficulties of both parties and smooth out the rough obstacles on a give-and-take principle. We must buy some merchandise which we cannot do without and they must sell it. Vice-versa, we sell what they can take from us without affecting their own internal trade. It is a sound agreement in which each party is given full consideration for its own particular case and accepts the terms of the bilateral pact because they have certain advantages to gain from it. In practical operation it becomes a customs truce between two countries whilst the plurilateral pact would involve other countries, the consequences of which would be interminable in the confusion of interests.

Even in international commerce we must not delude ourselves on what good will and cordiality means. Each has claims and will force those claims to the limit. There is little of international altruism in modern international rivalry, nor has there ever been such a thing between nations. Empire expansion stimulates them to reach out for greater and greater power. Today, the great index of national power is a virile race, resources and industry. Expansion for the strong means new markets, and this in face of the stern rivalry of others.

What is discussed in Geneva is a truce for the protective means each has adopted to insure its own market and this without the intervention of the United States, the greatest producer of all. A general truce, even on this basis would still leave the United States highly protected and ready to penetrate all markets without the hindrance of an international agreement. Any plurilateral pact is bound to be so complex that it works a hardship for someone, and a slight advantage for others. As we see it, to fully encompass all the complicated and diverse aspects, the only feasible plan would be to promote agreements between one state and another, leaving the tariff question within national jurisdiction, and evading the raising of the question of international right.

Legislative Ills Due to Failure to Redistrict State

crats a chance in the St. Louis Board of Aldermen?"

It can be argued that the St. Louis aldermanic situation is a different matter—that majority rule prevails in the city as a whole and that the Democrats, if they could show a bare majority at one election, could take one-half the board, and could take it all at two elections. Ward representation, it may be further argued, is not on a par with State representation in Congress, or even with county representation in the Legislature, since wards of a city are merely temporary divisions for convenience.

Just the same, the St. Louis argument will be a troublesome one to meet. The impression has gone out that Democrats have no rights in St. Louis, and few will stop to note that a Democratic Circuit Attorney and three Circuit Judges were elected by Republican votes in 1928. No Democrat has yet sat in the Board of Aldermen, which came into existence in 1915, and the Republican majority in the last election for Aldermen was about 37,000.

The State Constitution requires that St. Louis shall have at least one house of legislation elected by general ticket. For this reason the city could not change its charter to elect members of the present single house by wards. It could go back to the two-house system, with one house elected by wards, which was abandoned in 1914 because of its record of obstructive bipartisan combines, log-rolling and boodling.

However, the Constitution could be amended to permit St. Louis to have both the single-house system and election by wards, both of which it cannot now have. Perhaps the Democrats will propose such an amendment, and see what the Republicans do about it. Or perhaps they will just cry "Minority representation" every time the Republicans shout "Majority rule."

PLOT AGAINST CALLES ALLEGED

Descendant of Aztec Emperor Accused of Participation.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—A petition filed here today for an injunction says a descendant of the Aztec Emperor Montezuma is being held pending investigation into a plot against Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles.

The petition was filed by Luz Villa Vinda de Gonzales in behalf of her son Ricardo. She says she can prove that he is one of the last of Montezuma's descendants. She asks for his release.

Sidelights on the Naval Conference

peace might crave. Perfect serenity is there. The grave stones lie flat on the earth. Nowhere does a hard vertical line break the soft beauty of the surroundings. Two of the soldiers buried in the Astor cemetery are Americans, both from Ohio. Two are Australians. The parents of one of the latter came to Cliveden after the war to take his body home. When they saw the cemetery and the loving care bestowed upon it, they went away satisfied, leaving the soldier at rest.

ENGLAND'S view of prohibition is expressed in the terse "I would rather see England free than England sober" of a noted bishop at a church conference. As it happens, England is a much soberer nation than it was when the writer was over here seven years ago. Hard liquor drinking has been greatly diminished by the heavy tax on spirits—a tax amounting to about five-sixths of the retail price of $3 a quart for average whisky.

DOWN the staircase at St. James' Palace which the newspaper men use to reach the press conference room, King Charles walked between rows of Commonwealth soldiers on his way to the scaffold. As he crossed what is now St. James' Park two women tending their cows gave him a glass of milk. Charles II after the Restoration sent for the women and conveyed to them and their heirs and assigns forever the right to keep cows and sell milk on the spot where they had played the good Samaritan. Eventually the pasture was wiped out by the Mall, but as late as 1914 milk was still sold from a kiosk in the park by a descendant of the family.

HYDE PARK, where any orator may mount his soap box and preach any doctrine under the sun, continues to be the safety valve of the empire. Some of the speakers to be heard there on any Sunday afternoon are remarkably fluent. There was one on a recent Sunday whose words called to mind the "barnacles on horseback" of a speech in the American Senate. Denouncing a certain institution, he urged his audience to "kick out this foul cancer, lock, stock and barrel, root and branch."

PRICES in London, except for men's suits, are high. . . . Pocket-size British cars, like the Baby Austin, have virtually driven the Ford off the streets. . . . Taxis are build to official specification; they can turn around on a shilling. . . . The bus service is excellent and the skill of the drivers remarkable. . . . Three penny bits have practically passed out of circulation in London, though they are said to be still popular in Scotland. . . . Sidney Webb, the labor leader, has become Lord Passfield, but his wife refuses a title; she says she changed her name for him once and that is enough. . . . Frenchman at conference says that "humanizing" submarine means to put a phonograph on board to play national anthem of sinking ship. . . . British health expert deplores growing consumption of cocktails. . . . Lady Astor is expected to have a hard time coming back to Parliament. . . . Cockney bus conductor to woman reluctantly surrendering penny: "Lady, what part of the British Empire do you want to go to?"

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 2.

PERHAPS the most famous of all brands of wit and humor in the capital—certainly on the Hill—is that of Speaker Nick Longworth. Great is his reputation as the author of stories and wise cracks that may be successfully retold. Those who come in contact with him are eager to be around when Speaker Nick is in a jovial mood. A familiar query is, "Have you heard Nick's latest?"

So popular is the Speaker that whenever one of his colleagues is especially eager to impress the folks back home, he takes one of his constituents in to see Longworth. He never fails to make a visitor feel at home.

Recently a Congressman took a visitor from home into the Speaker's office. "Mr. Speaker," he said, "this is Mr. Dash, who has come down to Washington to find out what Congress is doing."

MANY and varied are stories credited to him. One of the best and most characteristic was put into circulation after a function attended by old cronies of the House. One of these, during the course of the evening, was induced to sing. There was much applause, and Longworth arose and said:

"I used to have an old friend, a Captain on the Ohio River, out in Cincinnati, of whom I was quite fond. I went away from Cincinnati and the old Captain dropped out of my life for many years. Then one day, wandering back to my old haunts, I encountered him.

"He was sitting back on the dock smoking his pipe. My arrival did not seem to excite him in the least. He spoke to me in a friendly enough manner, but that was all. Finally, I said to him:

"'Captain, you don't seem to be overly glad to see me.'

"The Captain thought for a moment, took his pipe out of his mouth, gazed down the river and replied:

"'I ain't sorry to see you and I ain't glad to see you. I jes' don't give a rap.'

"And that," said Longworth, "is just how I feel about Blank singing another song."

SPEAKER NICK'S reputation as a raconteur is not confined to the House wing of the Capitol. It is not an uncommon sight to see him stroll over to the Senate chamber from the House, single out a group of old friends in the cloakroom, and swap yarns with them.

The press galleries, too, are quick to pick up his latest story and pass it along. Few newspaper men who have not come to know a member of Congress better or understand a situation more thoroughly as a result of Speaker Nick's sense of humor.

From the Springfield Republican.

BUSINESS MUST BE BETTER.

From the San Diego Union.

BUSINESS has improved so much that big business men are no longer getting themselves interviewed on how good it is.

"But I couldn't be guilty of body odor!" you say. Don't be too sure. Even on cool days, our pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste. We get so used to this ever-present odor that we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do!

So why take chances? Why not do as millions of particular men and women are doing—wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Its creamy, abundant lather leaves you feeling gloriously, satisfyingly clean. And never a worry about body odor. For this gentle antiseptic lather purifies pores—destroys every trace of "B.O."

TARDIEU COMPLETES HIS SECOND CABINET

To Present Ministers to President Today—May Seek Vote in Chamber Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 2.—(Sunday)—Andre Tardieu announced early this morning that he had formed his second cabinet and would present the Ministers later in the day to President Doumergue.

The members of the new government are:

Premier and Minister of the Interior, Andre Tardieu.
Foreign Affairs, Aristide Briand.
Justice, Raoul Peret.
War, Andre Maginot.
Marine, J. L. Dumesnil.
Finances, German Martin.
Budget, P. Reynaud.
Public Instruction, Pierre Marraud.
Colonies, Francois Pietri.
Commerce, P. E. Flandin.
Agriculture, Fernand David.
Posts and Telegraphs, Andre Mallarme.
Air, Laurent Eynac.
Pensions, Champetier de Ribes.
Public Works, G. Pernot.
Merchant Marine, Louis Rollin.
Labor, P. Laval.

Seventeen under-secretaries will also be named and two new posts will be created, one for "tourism" and another for national economy. The creation of an under-secretaryship for the encouragement of tourist travel in France has been advocated for a long time.

Tardieu probably will go before the Chamber of Deputies for a vote of confidence Thursday, and if he gets it he will be able to lead the French delegation back to the London naval conference before the end of the week.

He will not, however, have a very much stronger position in the Chamber than he had previously. The Left, and particularly the Radical-Socialists, is ready to give him a heated fight, and seems to be anxious to precipitate a general election.

His domestic policy is attacked by the Radical-Socialists, his naval policy by the Socialists, and all his policies by the Communists.

Tardieu announced that the French delegation to the London Naval conference would consist of himself, Foriegn Minister Briand, Minister of Marine Dumsnil, Minister of Colonies Pietri, Ambassador De Fleuriau, and Gustave De Kerguezec.

De Kerguezec, who was previously at the conference in a minor capacity, is president of the Naval Commission in the Senate. Dumesnil also accompanied the previous French conference delegation, though not as a delegate.

RECORD NUMBER OF INQUIRIES MADE OF INDUSTRIAL BUREAU

23 Received During the Past Week, George C. Smith, Director, Announces.

Twenty-three inquiries, the largest number made of the Industrial Bureau of the Industrial Club of St. Louis since establishment of the bureau two years ago, were received during the past week, George C. Smith, director of the bureau, announced yesterday. The inquiries were from seven states and covered a wide variety of products, Smith said.

The products included, he said, fertilizer, glass, automobile accessories, iron, steel, metal-working, electro-chemical, airplane, aero engines, shoes, dairy products and airplane accessories.

"This is the largest number of industrial inquiries received in a single week in my ten years' experience in industrial development work," Smith said. "There must be a definite reason for this sharp increase in industrial activisy. I believe it indicates that the executive is keenly surveying conditions within his own industry with a view to general improvement. His time is no longer taken up with the stock market and he is devising ways and means of investing money recently returned to his surpluses from the call money market, for expansion of his own business."

MILITIA SERGEANT ACQUITTED

Shot Detroit Youth Who Ran to Escape Arrest.

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—Sergeant Joseph Poggionne of the Michigan Nation Guard was acquitted late today by a Circuit Court jury which tried him for the killing of Private Stanley Prusinowski, 16 years old, whom Poggionne shot to death Jan. 25.

Poggionne shot the young private as the latter was running to escape arrest on a warrant charging him with missing drill. The Sergeant's defense was that his foot slipped on an icy sidewalk as he was firing in the air and that the killing was accidental. Several State witnesses said that he took deliberate aim. The jury, composed of nine women and three men, deliberated 40 minutes. The State of Michigan has awarded $5000 to the family of the dead boy, who was the principal means of support of his widowed mother.

Further Aid for Veterans.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—As a further aid to veterans seeking employment, the Civil Service Commission adopted a regulation today providing for the reopening within a year of examinations which have been held, and have been closed to applicants generally, in order that veterans, who have been afflicted with tuberculosis and have reached the stage where the disease has been arrested for one year, may apply for such positions.

Informal Parties Given in Honor of English Visitors

Miss Georgette and Miss Barbara Tallerman, Guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Limberg, Are Being Entertained at Many Affairs.

WITH much of society out-of-town, formal affairs, except for charity, have given way to charming informal parties, which furnish diversion for numerous small groups.

For the past fortnight there has been an interesting series of such affairs honoring two attractive guests from Cambridge, England—Miss Georgette and Miss Barbara Tallerman, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Limberg, 2 Lenox place. The visitors, who entertained Mrs. Limberg when she was on a trip abroad last summer, will remain another week, and will spend a fortnight with friends in New York and Boston before sailing for their home.

Yesterday Mrs. George R. Wendling, 4509 Pershing avenue, gave a luncheon for them, and tomorrow evening Miss Julia Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gwynne Evans, will give one of a number of dinner parties at the home of her parents, 10 Hortense place. Tuesday evening Dr. and Mrs. Paul J. Zentay, 4937 Laclede avenue, will give a similar affair and the following evening Dr. and Mrs. Eugene T. Senseny, 4555 Pershing avenue, will give still another. Miss Barbara Tallerman visited Mrs. Zentay about a year ago, prior to her marriage to Dr. Zentay. Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Limberg with their guests and a party of friends will attend the St. Louis premiere of the talking version of the "The Vagabond King" at the Missouri Theater. Other theater parties are being arranged for the same night, among them one in honor of Miss Jean Ford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ford Jr., 54 Westmoreland place, the Veiled Prophet Queen, who will be accompanied by such members of her court as will be in St. Louis for the event.

Another out-of-town visitor much entertained was Mrs. S. Edwin Earle of the Indian Hill Country Club grounds, Winnetka, Ill., who has been visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Yates, 20 North Kingshighway. She was the guest of honor at several luncheons and dinners. Mrs. Earle will visit her mother, Mrs. George Chatterton, in Springfield, Ill., en route to her home. She left St. Louis yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Yates and their family will visit Mrs. Earle during the Easter season.

Dr. and Mrs. I. D. Kelley Jr., 32 Portland place, had visiting them for a few days last week Mrs. Kelley's cousin, Mrs. William McDonough of Cleveland. Mrs. McDonough, who was Miss Clara Crotty, made her home with Mrs. Kelley's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William Cullen McBride, before her marriage.

Many of the mid-winter travelers will return home this week, and despite the approaching Lenten season other informal parties are in prospect. Yesterday was marked by the return of Mrs. Jackson Johnson, 25 Portland place, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, 10 Portland place, from Daytona Beach, Fla., where they have been at the winter home of Mrs. Johnson Sr., for the season. Mrs. Johnson's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, returned yesterday from New York, and Mrs. Rudolph Emerson Vogel arrived from Chicago to visit her mother, Mrs. Helen Johnson Niedringhaus, 29 Portland place. They were all called to St. Louis because of the illness of Mrs. Niedringhaus' young son, William. Mrs. Niedringhaus is also a daughter of Mrs. Johnson.

Miss Jane Pirrung, daughter of Mrs. Clifford W. Gaylord, Hanley road, is expected home today from Cincinnati, where she has been visiting her fiance, William Urner Wiley, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William August Wiley. Mrs. Gaylord will also return today after a winter visit in Miami Beach, Fla.

Willard Cox of the President apartments will close his villa in Miami Beach, Fla., the last of this week and is expected home a few days later. Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Ezell, 48 Portland place, and Miss Rose Muckerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Muckerman, who are his guests, will leave Miami Beach Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Terry returned yesterday from Castle Hot Springs, Ariz.

TO VISIT AT YALE AND HARVARD.

Mrs. Edward T. Miller, 6318 Waterman avenue, departed Friday for New Haven, Conn., to spend a few days with her son, Townsend Miller, who is a student at Yale. Later she will go to Cambridge, Mass., to visit another son, Edward Jr., who attends law school at Harvard University.

MISS ROCCENA BALDWIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin. She has just returned with her parents from Mexico City, where they were guests at the palace, and attended the inauguration of the new President.

Selecting the Chorus For Montmartre Ball

THE first week of the Lenten season will find members of the Junior League busy with the first real preparations for their Montmartre ball, to be given Friday evening, April 25, in the gold room of Hotel Jefferson. The selection of a chorus has begun, and the young women will begin rehearsals March 15 under the direction of Denny Madden. The young women who will take part in the fashion show, which is to start the evening's entertainment at 9:30 o'clock, are being coached in their parts.

Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock and later there will be six specialty numbers interspersed with dancing in the gold and crystal rooms, with an orchestra playing in each.

The feature song contest, which is open to the public, will close March 15, and the writer of the winning number will be announced at the ball, simultaneously with the presentation of the prize.

Convent Alumnae Announce Lectures

THE Visitation Convent Alumnae Association has sent out invitations for a Sunday afternoon Lenten course of lectures, which will be given March 9, 16 and 30 at 3 o'clock, in Alumnae Hall, Cabanne and Belt avenues. The proceeds of the entertainments will go to the endowment fund being raised for the Visitation Convent.

The committee of arrangements for the lectures includes Mrs. E. M. Dunham, Mrs. Voluntine C. Turner, Mrs. J. Frederick Schlafly, Mrs. J. D. Sullivan, Miss Regina Dougherty, Miss Josephine Dockery, Mrs. Marguerite Rines Hopkins, Mrs. Lily Steinhoff, Mrs. Oliver Doerr, Mrs. Edward Priesmeyer, Mrs. E. F. Kocken, Mrs. W. C. Schramm and Miss Corinne Wagner.

The opening lecture of the course will be given March 9 by the Rev. W. J. McGucken, S. J., who will discuss "The Catholic Situation in France." The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., will talk on "The Drama and Life," March 16. The closing address of the course will be given March 30, by Milton McGovern,

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

WEDNESDAY afternoon at 3 o'clock the Music Section of the Wednesday Club with Mrs. Ivan Lee Holt, leader, will give a program to show its appreciation of the creative work of St. Louis musicians.

The program follows:

Richard Spamer.
Novelette in Three Chapters—
Arthur Lieber.
Songs: The Green River
The Goddess in the Wood—
Sung by Frances Jacobs Kessler.
Sketches from Fontainbleau—
John Kessler.
Twilight at the Crag.
To the Enchanted Isle—
Ernst C. Krohn.
Grace
The Kaleidoscope—
Arthur Edward Johnstone.
Peace
To My Mother—
Mrs. Dorothy Gaynor Blake.
(Sung by Mrs. Thelma Hayman Carroll.)
Prelude, Op. 41
Dance of the Elves, Op. 17—
Ernest R. Kroeger.

After the program tea will be served complimenting all St. Louis composers. The chairman of the section is Mrs. Paul Blackweider.

Tomorrow at 1 p. m. at the Child Study meeting of the St. Louis College Club Mrs. Milton Lauenstein will discuss "Parents' Responsibility for the Untruthfulness of Children."

At the regular Tuesday meeting Rabbi F. M. Isserman will review "Maurizius Case." This program is sponsored by the Literature Committee. Miss Elizabeth Spencer, who was a delegate to the conference on the cause and cure of war at Washington Jan. 14-17, will give a brief report. Tea will be served before the meeting by Miss Lucille Papendick and Miss Florence Runge, assisted by Mrs. Charles M. Gruber, Kansas University; Mrs. W. R. Teeters and Mrs. Thomas R. Harvey, Indiana University, and Mrs. Ernst Wetteroth, Wisconsin University.

Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. the French Study Group, of which Miss E. Louise Stone is leader, will meet. Prof. Gaston Douay of Washington University will speak in French on "Santasio," a play by Alfred de Musset. Guests are welcome.

The Music Appreciation Group will meet Saturday from 11 a. m. to 12 o'clock. Mrs. Clyde Clark will give a talk on "The Ballad and Folk Song." Miss Helen MacFarland and Miss Florence Timmerhoff will sing ballads and folk songs of various countries.

The monthly meeting of the Art Section of Scottish Rite Woman's Club will be held Wednesday at 1 p. m. in the lounge of the Scottish Rite Cathedral.

Mrs. Fuqua Turner is chairamn of the section and will be assisted by Mrs. Arthur L. McGuire, vice chairman, and Mrs. Rosa Kantorwitz, secretary. The subject will be "Paintings of the Southwest by the Taos Society of Artists," and will be presented by the leader of the day, Mrs. John S. Etherington. The program will be opened with a group of Indian songs by James A. Brown. Mrs. Philander Craig will present a paper on "Phos. H. Blumenschein and E. Irving Couse." The artists, Victor Higgins and Julius Rolshaven, will be considered by Mrs. James A. Friend. A piano solo will be played by Miss Marjorie Jane Pugh. Contemporary artists, Bert J. Philips; J. H. Sharp, O. E. Berninghaus and Walter Ufer, will be taken up by Mrs. Hugo Juergens and Mrs. Rosa Kantorwitz.

The program will close with a recitation, "The Sioux Chief's Daughter," by Mrs. Turner. Previous to the meeting, a luncheon will be served by the section.

The Social Section will meet Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. for cards under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. R. Miller. Assisting Mrs. Miller will be Mrs. H. Bischoff, vice chairman, and Mrs. Charles Lee Barr, secretary.

The weekly meeting of the Music Section, Mrs. Charles Gund, chairman, will be a special meeting with Mrs. E. G. Matthiesen as leader of the day. Following a recital, the section will serve refreshments with Mrs. Walter Hulette as hostess.

St. Louis Tercentenary Shakspeare Society will present Mrs. Donald MacDonald in the second of a series of six public lectures on "The Dramatic Artistry of Shakspeare" at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Vandervoort's Music Hall.

A meeting of the executive board will precede the lecture at 1 p. m. Monday, March 24, at 6:30 p. m.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home made mixture.

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

there will be a joint meeting of the Women's Advertising Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club of St. Louis, at the Town Club. Miss Alice Davis, 3316 Westminster, who represented

Lovely Marion Lee of "My Girl Friday" prefers the PLAIN BOB. Proper care keeps her hair in wonderful condition.

The easy way to have soft, wavy, gleaming hair...

THE modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day models of arranging the hair, they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new lustre and color to hair, which has begun to look dull and lifeless, is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange; holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves dandruff; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps stop falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

New York Busy with Pre-Lenten Gayeties

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.

THE forty-ninth annual costume ball of the Kit-Kat Club brought many of the wanderers at winter resorts back to New York Friday evening. The Kit-Kat Club, which was organized nearly 50 years ago, had made it a custom in the past to hold period balls at which the guests flitted about in costumes of the renaissance or other historical times. This year, however, any costume except military uniforms, dominoes or clown suits was acceptable. The fashionables arrived arrayed as court ladies, snake charmers and queens and danced until a late hour.

Tony Sarg, artist; Russel Whitehead, architect, and Leo Lentelli, sculptor, were among the costumed guests.

Some of the fashionables attended the gay nineties costume dinner dance which was given at the Field Club, Bronxville. Leg of mutton sleeves, tight-fitting pinch-back frocks, parasols and floppy flower-decked hats were worn.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Loomis, Mr. and Mrs. William Colt and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McClintock were among those who gave dinners before the party.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt has taken title to Beaulieu, the Newport estate which formerly belonged to William Waldorf Astor, and will make the 14-acre tract her social headquarters this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps have purchased 300 acres in Dare County, North Carolina, where they will erect a lodge and yacht landing.

A Mardi Gras ball and carnival will be given March 3 at the Plaza Hotel in aid of the Russian Charity Society. Princess Serge Obolensky (the former Alice Astor), Miss Olive Whitman, daughter of former Gov. Whitman, and Prince Dimitri of Russia are among those who are arranging the fashion show, carnival features and dance programs for the affair.

The Musical Research Club will meet Tuesday at 2 p. m. There will be an election of the first vice president, recording secretary, treasurer and librarian. The annual report will be given by the officers and all standing committees.

Why am I called an INDEPENDENT DRUGGIST?

McKesson SERVICE
THE STANDARD OF QUALITY

Look for this symbol on the drug store window

YOU know that doesn't describe my attitude toward my neighbors who buy at my store. Heavens, no!

That word "independent" merely means that I'm not a corporation, that I own and run my own drug store right in your neighborhood or around the corner from your office.

I have an owner's natural interest in serving you so well that you will always come back. I take special pains to wait on your children promptly when you send them on shopping errands.

College training and long apprenticeship qualify me to fill your prescriptions.

If you like sincerity and human-ness in business, I think you will find it pleasanter to drop in at my drug store for many of your household needs.

The McKesson symbol on my window proves that I can give you newer merchandise and better values.

May Queen Party At Lindenwood

MISS ADELINE BRUBAKER was announced as May Queen of Lindenwood College at a party last Friday. The senior class was in charge. The queen's throne was a bower of wisteria and cherry blossoms. Japanese maids were ushers, bringing to the throne the queen, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Brubaker of Springfield, Ill.; the junior maid, Miss Dorothy Dinning of Helena, Ark.; the sophomore maids Misses Kathryn Datesman of Council Bluffs, Ia., and Juandell Shook of Lincoln, New Mexico; and the freshman maids, Misses Irma Culbertson of East St. Louis and Dorothy Hyer of Olathe, Kan.

President John L. Roemer and Mrs. Roemer were companions, respectively, of the class president and vice president, Miss Mary Sue Wisdom and Miss Mary Mason, in leading the grand march. Immediately following them were the maids of the court, with the faculty sponsors, Misses Florence Schaper, Kathryn Hankins and Mary Sue Campbell. The Japanese maids gave a brief program, preceding the general dance. Miss Brubaker is to be crowned May Queen at the spring festival, May 31.

To Lecture on Contract Bridge.

Mrs. Rugus Lackland Taylor will give a series of lectures on contract bridge at the Town Club beginning Friday. The afternoon lectures will be at 2 p. m. March 7, 14 and 21, and the evening lectures at 7:30 o'clock March 7, 13 and 21. Illustrations of actual play will be given at each lecture and Mrs. Taylor, who has been working with some of the foremost contract bridge authorities in the East, will explain some of the changes which have taken place in contract rules.

FLOWERS AND CHEERS GREET CAPT. WETZEL ON RETURN

Police Officer Suspended for Brutality Is Back on Duty Again.

After one month's suspension without pay for unbecoming conduct, Police Captain Albert Wetzel returned to command of the Laclede Avenue Station yesterday and found his office decorated with flowers from well-wishers, including his own subordinates. As he arrived he was saluted and cheered by his men.

"I'm glad to be back," he remarked.

The Police Board had ordered Capt. Wetzel suspended for two months without pay; Patrolmen Joseph Roth and John Guire suspended for one month without pay; and Special Officers Neal Thurman and John Brett fined $50 each and ordered to work two hours extra each day for a month, for unbecoming conduct in beating a young man arrested for a dance hall disturbance. In disciplining the men, the board warned the whole force against brutality.

All five are back at work, having completed their sentences, with the exception of Capt. Wetzel. His suspension was cut in half by the board Friday on recommendation of Chief Gerk, who said every available man was needed to combat crime and that he thought Wetzel "will be a better commanding officer by reason of the lesson he has learned."

Woman With Bogus Money Held.

By the Associated Press.

HAMMOND, Ind., March 1.—Mrs. Florence McGregor, 18 years old, of Hammond, is under arrest here while secret service agents investigate her explanation of an attempt to pass counterfeit money. She was arrested while paying for a bus ticekt to St. Louis with eight counterfeit half dollars and two quarters. She said she was kidnaped by two men in Chicago, attacked and given the bogus money.

TWO WIVES CLAIM SAME MAN'S ESTATE

Attorneys Try to Arrange Compromise Over Property Wife No. 2 Helped to Buy.

Two wives and a daughter of Joseph E. Hovekamp, who died Oct. 31, 1927, are disputing the ownership of a two-family flat at 2924 Salena street, the only estate he left.

Mrs. Mamie Hovekamp, whom he married in 1904 and lived with until his death, learned only then of the existence of the other wife, Mrs. Josephine Hovekamp, whom he married in Cincinnati in 1891. The first Mrs. Hovekamp and her daughter, Mrs. Edna Dinkelman, have filed suit to obtain title to the property, and Circuit Judge Hogan, following a hearing last Wednesday, has taken the case under advisement, while attorneys for the claimants are trying to arrange a compromise.

Hovekamp, a clerk for wholesale drug companies, came to St. Louis in 1901, leaving his wife and daughter in Cincinnati. He met his second wife on New Year's day, 1903, when both were witnesses at the marriage of mutual friends, and a year later they went to Edwardsville and were married. Mrs. Mamie Hovekamp says he told her he had been married before, but divorced. No record of a divorce has been produced.

Hovekamp and his first wife never communicated directly after he left Cincinnati, but when his mother died, in 1922, she left $2000 to the first wife on condition that she renounce all interest in any property owned by Hovekamp. At her insistence, a further payment of $1150 was made by Hovekamp and the agreement was signed.

In the year following his mother's death, Hovekamp and his second wife bought the flat on Salena street, paying $6000 cash and executing a deed of trust for $1500, which still remains on the property.

Title to the property was in the name of Joseph and Mamie Hovekamp, in a form possible only in the case of husband and wife, providing thaat in the event of the death of either the other should receive a clear title. The down payment was made with $3000, Mrs. Hovekamp had received a year previously from her father, who gave it to her shortly before his death, and $3000 which she and Hovekamp had saved.

Since Hovekamp's death, his second wife, now 50 years old, has been living in the lower flat.

The first wife, now 58 years old, lives with her daughter in Cincinnati. Her attorney asserts that the release which she signed after the death of Hovekamp's mother could not affect her dower rights to a one-third interest in his estate, and holds that in any event the daughter is entitled to all of his estate subject only to the dower rights.

H. A. Loevy, attorney for Mrs. Mamie Hovekamp, and Clem F. Storckman, attorney for the Mrs. Josephine Hovekamp, say they expect to arrange a compromise.

EAST ST. LOUIS REGISTRATION TO CLOSE TOMORROW NIGHT

Voters Have Until 9 P. M. to Register for Election of Supervisors April 1.

East St. Louis voters, who did not register at the last general registration in October, 1928, or who have moved or reached the age of 21 since then, have until 9 o'clock tomorrow night to register for the election, April 1, of St. Clair County Supervisors.

The office of the Board of Election Commissioners, 21 North Main street, remained open until 9 o'clock last night to permit registration, and will be open until the same time tomorrow.

Beginning Tuesday, and continuing through March 19, registrations for the State and county primary, to be held April 8, will be received.

Gypsies' concert at 7:30 p. m. over KSD. The General Motors concert at 8:30 p. m. over KSD will be an imaginary theater party visiting musical shows on Broadway. A rescue from the mill pond in the spring thaw will be staged in the Real Folks broadcast at 9:30 p. m. over KWK. "Under the Linden Trees," from Massenet's "Alsatian Scenes" suite will be played as a clarinet and piano duet in the Stromberg-Carlson concert at 9 p. m. over KWK. Music by seven famous composers, descriptive, or supposedly so, of the Orient will be played by the Anzio-Persians at 9 p. m. over KSD. The Bagdad Festival music from Rimsky-Korsakoff's Scheherezade Suite is programmed.

TUESDAY.—A drama based on the explorations of La Salle will be given in the American School of the Air over the Columbia chain at 1:30 p. m. Richard Maxwell, tenor, will sing in a Songs of the Seasons concert at 7 p. m. over KSD. Vincent Lopez will play "Finesse" as a piano solo in the Pure Oil concert at 7 p. m. over KWK. Music supposedly typical of the New Orleans Mardi Gras will be played by an orchestra and sung by Lois Bennett in a Libby concert at 7:30 p. m. over KWK. Helen Kane, the musical comedy star, is billed as principal in the Eveready concert at 8 p. m. over KSD. Lilian Roth of Broadway operetta fame, and Joe Wagstaff, movie star, are scheduled for the Paul Whiteman-Old Gold concert at 8 p. m. over KMOX. Phil Dewey is to sing in the Happy Wonders broadcast at 8:30 p. m. over KSD. The French Ambassador is expected to speak at 9:30 p. m. over KMOX. Frances Shelley is billed for a Publix Night Owls Frolic over the Columbia chain at 10:30 p. m.

WEDNESDAY.—A "sing song" girl of Pekin will be the center of action in an East of Cairo playlet over KSD at 7 p. m. Florence Macbeth, soprano of the Chicago Opera, will be soloist in the Gold Medal Fast Freight broadcast over KMOX at 7 p. m. Wilfred Glenn, basso, will be soloist in the Mobiloil concert at 7:30 p. m. over KSD. He will sing Schubert's "Two Grenadiers." Robert C. Clark, president of the National Association of Securities Commissioners, is to speak on investments in the Halsey Stuart broadcast at 8 p. m. over KSD. The musical program will include a march from "Tannhauser." Devora Nadworney, the NBC's operatic contralto, will sing in a broadcast at 8 p. m. over WJZ, KDKA and WCKY. "My Reveries," a new song by Keith McLeod, musical supervisor for the NBC, and Joe White, who formerly sang as "The Silver Mask Tenor," is to be sung by Olive Palmer, soprano, and Elizabeth Leonard, contralto, in the

WLW's New Organ To Be Ready Soon

A new organ which is being built in the WLW studios is expected to be ready to go on the air before the end of this month. It is to be one of the largest used for broadcasting. Meanwhile, WLW organ recitals are being broadcast from a Cincinnati church.

Referee Will Re-enact 'Long Count' by Radio

Dave Barry and Sophie Tucker to Be Co-starred—New Coca Cola and Van Heusen Programs.

Among several new program series that are to begin next week is another set of Coco-Cola broadcasts scheduled over KSD and the NBC chain headed by WEAF. Notables in sports will be interviewed by Grantland Rice in these programs, which will include music of the "popular" type by Len Joy's string orchestra. The idea of the interviews will be to bring out "inside" facts in the athletes' careers.

As will be recalled, the original Coca-Cola programs were pioneer attempts to develop radio drama. They were concerned with the doings of "Vivian," played by Jessica Dragonette, who was then just beginning to win radio fame.

Dave Barry, the referee who made the "long count" in the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, and Texas Guinan, of "Hello, Sucker" fame, are to be starred in a special Columbia chain broadcast at 7 o'clock Thursday night, March 13. Barry is to re-enact the scene in the ring, repeating the instructions to Dempsey and Tunney and those shouted at Dempsey as Tunney lay sprawled on the canvas. Texas Guinan, who has drifted from hostessing in New York to "personal appearances" in Chicago, just now is calling herself "National Weakness."

A spring and summer Van Heusen series will begin over the Columbia chain at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, March 12. An orchestra under William Wirges; Vee Lawnhurst, a "blues singer," and a quartet composed of Robert Ellinger, Jack Lawrence, Carrick Douglas and Gene Critzer will be featured weekly. Walter Winchell, Broadway gossip and columnist, is to act as master of ceremonies for the first of these programs, while Miss Patricol, the Sunshine Boys and the Frohne Sisters are billed for future broadcasts.

John Herrick and Earle Nelson will be soloists in a Douglas Shoemakers series, the first program of which is scheduled over the Columbia chain at 7:30 Thursday night, March 13. An orchestra directed by Oscar Elgart will take part in this program.

Another Radio Audition for Amateur Singers

The fourth national raid audition, offering awards of $25,000 to young amateur singers of the United States, is announced by the Atwater Kent Foundation of Philadelphia. It will follow the lines of the competition inaugurated in 1927 and repeated in 1928-29.

The awards—the same as last year—will be:

Winners of first place (one boy and one girl), $5000 each and two years' tuition in an American conservatory, or its equivalent.

Winners of second place, $3000 each and one year's tuition.

Winners of third place, $2000 each and one year's tuition.

Winners of fourth place, $1500 each and one year's tuition.

Winners of fifth place, $1000 each and one year's tuition.

Coatelen Expects To Perfect Diesel Motor for Airplanes

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., March 1. —Louis Coatelen, the motor designer, who sailed Thursday on the Berengaria for New York, told the New York World and Post-Dispatch correspondent just before leaving that within a year he expects to perfect a Diesel type heavy oil airplane engine.

"I have been experimenting," he said, "and am still carrying on research work on a high speed, solid-injection oil engine for airplanes. My experiments have now reached an advanced stage. I have already solved the question of weight per horsepower and fuel consumption per horsepower. All now remaining to be done is to insure reliability of operation, and I anticipate this will take another year.

"The engine so far has been tried only on a test bench, but experiments show that it will run at a speed of 2000 revolutions per minute, which is an exceptional performance for an oil engine. It will run successfully on any heavy oil or even on melted butter."

Coatelen is accompanied on his trip to America by Kaye Don, British racing driver, and Don's monster racing car, "The Silver Bullet," which Coatelen designed and in which Don will attempt, at Daytona Beach, Fla., to beat Sir Henry Segrave's record of 231.36 miles per hour.

Coatelen also designed Segrave's car, "The Golden Arrow," in which the record was hung up. Don said "The Silver Bullet" is capable of doing 250 miles per hour.

Coatelen is chief designer of the Sunbeam automobile and Sunbeam aviation engines, which, with Rolls Royce, share the leadership in British aviation motors.

Trout Fishing Season Opens in State Parks

MISSOURI'S fly fishing season began yesterday when anglers from all over the State tried their luck for rainbow trout at Bennett Spring State Park, near Lebanon; Montauk State Park in Dent County and Alley Spring State Park in Shannon County. Yesterday also marked the opening of the 1930 State Park season with accommodations provided for motorists in many of the parks.

Because it is more accessible than the other two, Bennett Spring Park will likely be the center of fishing activity until the park roads, which are none too good at this time, are put in better shape. To reach Bennett Spring one must drive over 12 miles of rough road from Lebanon, on U. S. Highway No. 66 at its junction with Missouri Highway No. 5, to Brice, in the center of the park, or 25 miles from Buffalo on Highway No. 54. The latter route, out of the way for St. Louis automobilists, is only recommended in the best weather.

From the time one crosses the under-water bridge near the fish hatchery at Bennett Spring until he leaves, there is much to be enjoyed by the out-of-door enthusiast.

Trout Fishing Good.

Trout fishing at this place is probably as good, if not better, than in any other place in the State. Thousands of fingerlings produced at the hatchery there are released in the spring branch every year, and later on, if one is not successful in fishing for trout, there are bass, crappie, channel cats and jack salmon to be found in the Niangua River, which runs through one corner of the park and into which the Bennett Spring branch empties.

Accommodations at the park include a hotel and annex of 22 rooms, camping ground, spring water, village store and gasoline station. Boats and minnows may be procured at the park. Many of the fishermen who plan on spending week-ends there arrive on Friday and get in some sport before nightfall, remaining over until Sunday evening or Monday morning.

While the hotel, which is under the same management as in 1929, was filled this week-end, a number of visitors were put up on the upper floor of the hatchery building, converted into a bunkhouse.

One restriction, heretofore placed on fishing at the park, has been removed. Anglers who have not been permitted to fish above the dam, may do so now, providing they do not wade in the stream.

Good Sport at Montauk.

Within a short time several thousand German Brown trout fingerlings will be placed in the spring branch, but these will not be large enough to take before next season. The "brownies" are being propagated as an experiment.

Arley Bramwell is park keeper and in charge of the fish hatchery at Bennett Spring.

Fishing is also expected to be good at Montauk Park and in anticipation of a large patronage, the Game and Fish Department will open a large hotel there within a month or two. The hotel was not open during the 1929 season.

Owing to the condition of the road to the park from Highway No. 32 above Licking, this park is difficult of access in inclement

Engineers' Role in Auto Industry Is Spectacular

New Designs Needed by Manufacturers Who Strive To Break Down Sales Resistance of Public.

Praises Highway Engineering of Mexican System

Maj. R. F. Britton Compares Projects to Those in Missouri.

The Mexican national highway system, embodying some of the most spectacular pieces of highway engineering in the world, closely resembles in its major aspects the Missouri plan of road development, according to Maj. Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, who returned last week from Mexico City where he spent three weeks investigating facilities for prospective tourist travel in that country.

While in Mexico, Britton was driven by representatives of the Mexican National Highway Commission over virtually every mile of completed national highway in the vicinity of Mexico City where, in the early stages of the national system, construction work was concentrated.

"One of the greatest pieces of road engineering I ever saw is the 20-foot highway between Mexico City and Cuernavaca, the former home of Ambassador Morrow," Britton said. "The total driving distance is 40 miles, but there is a drop in altitude from 7500 feet at Mexico City to 3500 feet at Cuernavaca. You drive over a mountain 10,000 feet high on the way and the road never encounters a grade of more than 6 per cent all the way. One can drive in high all the way with the exception possibly of the sharp curves on the mountain sides.

"In sharp contrast to this marvelous piece of road engineering is the old Cortes road, built by the Spanish conqueror who also had his home at Cuernavaca. This old road crosses the new national highway at intervals and in some places reaches a maximum grade of about 35 per cent.

New Roads Well Built.

"The new national highways are being built exceptionally well. They are made of what is known as penetration macadam, and the standard width is 20 feet. They get more mileage for their dollar than we do here in Missouri, first, because they use native materials universally, effecting great economies in construction, and second, because their labor cost is a fraction of that in Missouri.

"The great similarity between the Mexican national highway system and the Missouri plan is found chiefly in two features, their system, which will 'embrace, when completed, 5000 miles of paved road connecting by most direct routes the large centers of population and passing by the small towns and cities, exactly emulates the primary part of our 7900-mile State road system in which 1600 miles of paved road is used to INTENSE competition, the product of modern activity and progress has cast its spell over the automotive engineering laboratory with the result that the engineer is commencing to play the most spectacular role in selling the industry's increasing annual production.

Any motorist who will look over the newest models even superficially will sense not only the extent of this new development but its significance as well.

Having gone to extremes in merchandising methods, modern sales managers now call upon the automotive engineer to fashion new ideas that will break down sales resistance and compel the most conservative of motorists to sign on the dotted line for the latest. While the manufacturers as a group do not desire to make unnecessary changes in models merely to increase the factor of obsolescence, they recognize that the motoring public is ever ready to sacrifice for progress. Who should contrive the newer and more progressive selling arguments and incentives but the engineer?

A year ago several leading car makers were endeavoring to make arrangements with an organization that had succeeded in presenting a four-speed transmission free of the former objections. It was recognized that new conveniences in gearsets would be an additional incentive to buy while at the same time a distinctly progressive step. But the particular transmission was tightly tied up with patents. Wisely these manufacturers turned to their own engineering departments instead of wasting their time and money fighting an inevitable trend.

Competition Begins.

Today there are nine new types of transmissions and more are on the way. The competition between engineering laboratories is on!

Almost invariably when competition produces a new method or a new product additional advantages come along by way of extra dividends. Last year two manufacturers offered a special spring type absorber of wheel "fight," mounted at the rear end of the left front spring. It proved to be a sales boost. Already three other makes of cars use a device that accomplishes the same results but which attaches to the front of the left front spring. The tension on the newer device is adjustable so that with very little effort the car owner can compensate for wear without recourse to a service station.

Engineers are working overtime to provide the selling force with the most effective sales ammunition the automobile industry has ever had at its disposal. The competition is particularly fierce in the matter of providing flash getaway. Every salesman knows that nothing today intrigues the prospect more than flash acceleration, and the engineering department is assigned the task accordingly.

Meet Greater Difficulties.

Greater difficulties are encountered today than ever before for the reason that while the motorist demands getaway he wants an all round performer. Low fixed gearing in the rear end provides pick-up and hill climbing performance but cuts top speed and makes for a noisy, wasteful power plant at high speeds. Acceleration has to be more scientific and more practical. The result is a number of new ideas in carburetion, valve gear and transmissions, not to mention the use of lighter reciprocating parts.

Acceleration in two makes of cars, for instance, is aided by the use of a transmission which renders the pause between shifts obsolete. The driver simply goes from one speed to the other as a continuous rather than hesitating process. While the clutch pedal must be depressed as usual the net result is a type of getaway that is all the more remarkable because it does not necessitate additional engine power.

Added Sales Features.

Downdraught and dual carburetion, especially in engines of the eight cylinder type, are two other factors that account for increased pick-up. One concern started working on the idea of developing a kind of pick-up that would be more or less permanent, acceleration that would not have to be pepped up every few thousand miles through valve grinding. That was the beginning of the newer type valves which resist warpage.

Original methods of merchandising cars continue to be numerous but the greatest selling feature will be the appealing engineering touches to the product itself. The public demands evidence of superiority, and appreciates that there

'Six' Driven to New Records in Performance Run

Essex "Challenger" Makes Hill at Chain of Rocks in High Gear.

A demonstration of speed, reliability, economy and acceleration of the 1930 Essex Challenger was made by officials of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., St. Louis Hudson-Essex distributer, in the presence and under the supervision of newspaper men Wednesday. The tests were in connection with the national Essex Challenger week, which begins today.

An Essex five-passenger stock sedan was used in the demonstration which broke every record made by the Essex in 1929. Automobile editors of the local newspapers timed and recorded the various tests.

On a smooth concrete stretch of highway near Mitchell, Ill., the sedan revealed a top speed of 74 miles an hour, carrying the driver and two passengers.

Even more noteworthy were the hill-climbing tests at the switchback curve in Chain of Rocks Park. The sedan was brought to a dead stop at the foot of the hill and the ascent made entirely in high gear. At the switchback curve, the car was slowed down to 10 miles an hour, the abrupt turn taken and the remainder of the climb made by gradually increasing speed until the summit was reached at 24 miles an hour.

Rapid Acceleration.

Once more the ascent was made, this time at a more rapid gait, the car taking the turn at 13 miles an hour and swinging over the top at 25 miles an hour.

In acceleration the Essex was found to be lively and powerful. From five to 25 miles an hour it required six and one-half seconds, from 10 to 40 miles an hour it took 18 seconds, and from 10 to 50 miles an hour the elapsed time was but 19½ seconds.

Positive acting four-wheel brakes brought the car to a dead stop from 27 miles an hour in 16½ feet, from 33 miles an hour in 25½ feet, from 44 miles an hour in 54½ feet, and from 51 miles an hour in 82½ feet.

Improved spring suspension and distribution of weight were noticeable in the easier riding qualities. The car took some hard bumps at rapid speed with little jar to passengers in the rear seat.

The switchback curve in Chain of Rocks Park is one of the most difficult in the vicinity of St. Louis. Not only does the steep grade retard acceleration and reduce speed, but the acute angle of the turn and the fact the car is started in high gear from a dead stop, make the test even more arduous.

In its economy run the Essex again showed a wealth of improvement over previous models. A gallon jar was filled with gasoline and placed on the hood of the sedan.

23.9 Miles to the Gallon.

The car was taken out on the Manchester road and driven 23.9 miles, in high speed all the way. A city test, in streets near the Hudson-Frampton place at Taylor avenue and Delmar boulevard, the car averaged 19.2 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

The demonstrations nationally are being participated in by the entire Hudson-Essex organization of 6000 distributers and dealers.

Every day this week an Essex will make a test that will be of general interest to the public. In one day the cars will be given more strenuous usage than would be given by the ordinary driver in several weeks.

"This is the day of the 'show-me' motorist," declared A. S. Frampton, in commenting on the Challenger week. "We expect to meet the demand. This year, we believe, the car is living up to everything an owner can expect of a car, not only in performance, but in beauty, comfort and value.

"The Essex is a better car than that which won great success last year. It is on a longer wheelbase, giving more room, and is new from the front bumper to the rear fenders, including a new motor.

"We are asking the public to take a part in this year's tests, because we believe the Challenger offers the maximum of safety under every condition. We invite any motorist to come in and take out a stock car and submit it to any tests he or she chooses. We are particularly anxious to have women drivers accept this invitation to show their ability as drivers. Women played a large part in selecting designs for the new car, and they are to be considered in tests of this nature."

Network of Service Stations Over Nation

As a result of Pierce-Arrow's expansion in the past year, the country is now covered with a nationwide network of more than 500 authorized Pierce-Arrow service stations. They are located in practically every important city and town in the United States and Canada, so that the tourist always is within convenient driving reach of them, according to F. J. Wells, general service manager of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co.

"The motoring public has always looked to Pierce-Arrow for the ultimate in the comfort and pleasure of fine car ownership, and we are doing everything possible, not only to design and build America's finest motor car, but also to provide for the continuous satisfaction which those cars must render to our owners," Wells said.

W. A. Blees, assistant general sales manager of the Oakland Motor Car Co., has been appointed sales manager, according to W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales.

W. A. BLEES.

Blees has had wide experience in the automobile industry, being president of the Motor Accounting Co., a subsidiary of General Motors, when he joined the Oakland organization. Prior to that time he was associated with the sales and financial departments of the Chevrolet Motor Co. for five years.

He is familiar with dealers' sales and finance problems, having come in close contact with thousands of dealers during the last few years.

can't be superiority without improvements.

One of the makers of cars with mechanical four-wheel brakes wanted to do something better in the line of deceleration. The command was given to the engineering department and in short order the latest models rolled off the assembly line with 15 sets of roller bearings in every car's braking system.

It is claimed that as much as 50 per cent of the foot pressure is wasted in the average mechanical braking system before the brakes themselves are brought into action. Engineers have broken down braking friction and sales resistance in one single development.

Some conception of the newer importance of the engineers in the new scheme of things can be had from the fact that the double fan belt has just made its appearance. There was plenty of opportunity for such development in the last five years but it required the stimulus of competition to bring about what is now generaly regarded as a logical development in fan drive.

Cycle Firm Moves

The Harley-Davidson Motor Cycle Co., which distributes Harley-Davidson motor cycles, side cars and package trucks in the St. Louis area, has moved from 2910 Washington avenue to 1409-11 Olive street. The entire personnel will continue on at the new location. Johnson Seahorse motors will be displayed on a mezzanine floor.

Eight-Cylinder Popularity.

The growing popularity of the eight in Europe was emphasized at the international automobile salon in Paris last year where a total of 44 makes of eight-cylinder cars were exhibited, compared with 27 in 1928, and 10 in 1926.

Frampton Sees Better Business Condition in 1930

Local Hudson Distributer Discussses His Company's Program.

That the country is getting back on a sound business basis, is fundamentally strong and is settling down to a progressive calm after the stock market storms, is the belief of R. C. Frampton, president of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., St. Louis distributers of Hudson and Essex automobiles.

"Business leaders the country over are predicting an active spring selling season," says Frampton. "Our banks are sound and in many parts of the country are beginning again to make loans more freely. Five successive months of unfilled tonnage of the U. S. Steel Co. is an indication that industry is going right ahead paying no attention to our numerous calamity howlers who believed that the market crashes were the ruination of everything. A recent move by the Federal Farm Board to stabilize thewheat market may help the farmer."

As a further indication that large manufacturers believe that business is to be had, he pointed to the appropriation of $1,000,000 for newspaper advertising in March by the Hudson Motor Car Co.

Continuing, he said: "Here is the second largest automobile manufacturer, successful since ie began, over 20 years ago, willing to risk $1,000,000 on the prosperity of America. Hudson is doing its share in President Hoover's prosperity program by keeping money in circulation, maintaining employment on a level, with due regard to over production, and building the best car they know how at a minimum price. This huge expenditure, it seems to me, is a true indication of soundness. It should lead other manufacturers and merchants, who may be waiting to see what's going to happen, into the field, and inspire them to the confidence that business can be had if they go after it."

connect population centers in Missouri by the most direct routes.

"Second, their Highway Department is administered by an independent commisison representative of the highest type of citizenship and not amenable to the whim of party politics, a commission in absolute control of highway construction and maintenance, just as is our nonpartisan State Highway Commission in Missouri.

"Finances for the highway program are provided in Mexico through a gasoline tax in much the same manner as in Missouri. The average price of gasoline to the consumer, including the tax, is 28 cents per gallon. This tax money is paid into the general revenue fund and then appropriated for road purposes by their national legislative body.

Plan Balanced System.

"The national Government is in charge of the road program and the attitude of their engineers in matters of road building policy reminded me strongly in my conversations with them of the Missouri plan for a balanced, connected state highway system.

"Virtually all engineers and employes in the Mexican Highway Department speak English fluently, because most all text books on highway engineering are written in English. The ambition of the Mexicans to build the best roads possible for their country is illustrated by the fact that the Government sent a party of about 30 of their leading highway engineers and department officials to attend the last convention of American road builders at Atlantic City.

"Their program has been under way in Mexico for five years, and they have completed approximately 500 miles of paved road at an average cost per mile of less than $5000."

New Honor for Lee

At the annual meeting of the National Association of Automobile Show Managers, held in Chicago recently, Maj. Robert E. Lee of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, manager of the St. Louis automobile shows, was elected national president. This is the tenth consecutive term for which Lee has been elected as national head of this organization. This association is composed of automobile show managers in 36 of the larger cities of the United States.

Increased business and expansion of other departments have necessitated the removal of the used car department of the Archer-Mann Motor Co. from the former location at 322 North Sarah street to a location at 2929 Locust street, A. E. Archer, president, announces.

At the new location two stories are available, with floor space 50 by 135 feet. The old used car headquarters will be made into a new car delivery showroom. The Archer-Mann company is also enlarging its service department, Archer stated.

J. D. Smith is manager of the used car department.

Eight Climbs Alton, Ill., Hill In High Gear

Feat Never Accomplised Before; Month of Public Tests Begun.

In a remarkable performance last Thursday, an Oakland V-eight sedan climbed the West Seventh avenue hill in Alton, Ill., in high gear from a running start in Belle street, a feat never before accomplished in a stock passenger car, according to available records.

St. Louis newspaper men officially observed the demonstration, which marked the beginning of a month of public tests by the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., Oakland and Pontiac distributer.

With L. A. Masson, Mississippi Valley service manager, at the wheel, the Oakland was given a running start and, turning the corner at Belle and West Seventh, at 29 miles an hour, roared up the hill until it reached the top, at 10 miles an hour. A newspaper man accompanied Masson. He previously had made the hill alone.

A few other makes of cars are said to have made the hill in high gear from a straight run across Belle street. None has ever made it in high from Belle street.

In the all-day demonstration, the Oakland climbed Calvary hill off Broadway in high gear, starting at 11 miles an hour and winding up at a speed of 26 miles an hour. The car carried a full load.

At the switchback hill in Chain of Rocks Park, the Oakland started off in high gear from a standing stop and attained first a speed of 36 miles an hour at the top of the hill, later attaining 38 miles an hour in another climb.

Over a measured half-mile course on the concrete near Mitchell, Ill., the Oakland eight was clocked in 23 and 23½ seconds, an average speed of 77½ miles an hour. The top speedometer reading was 78 miles an hour.

In acceleration tests, the Oakland was driven from seven to 30 miles an hour in 8.1 seconds, from 10 to 40 in 10 seconds and from 10 to 50 miles an hour in 14 seconds.

The writer took the wheel during several of the speed runs and noticed a remarkable absence of vibration in the steering wheel at top speed. A slight tendency to swerve a few inches was attributed to air currents.

J. W. Richardson, assistant manager of the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., was in charge of the two cars that made the demonstrations. E. A. Hatfield, president of the company, laid out the various courses.

The West Seventh street hill is paved in brick and has a steady grade of approximately 43 degrees. The feat of the Oakland in making it in high gear is the more unusual in that it had to be driven around a right-angle turn at the base of the hill. The slightest hesitancy on the part of the driver would have been disastrous, as the car would have struck the curbing and turned over.

Oakland cars on whose sides will be painted large golden rockets emblematic of their acceleration and speed, will traverse the streets of the city all month. These cars will be at the service of the public. The drivers will stop on signal and will carry the pedestrian to his or her destination. If the passenger permits, a complete demonstration will be given over difficult routes.

The local demonstration is in conjunction with a national series of tests during March.

New Racing Rule Favored.

The new regulations governing automobile racing are reported to have lured veteran race drivers back to the sport and many of them may be in competition in the 500-mile international classic at Indianapolis next May. Two men—a mechanic as well as a driver—will be in each car. The old drivers say it was difficult to see what was going on ahead while riding faster than 100 miles an hour and, at the same time, watch what was happening behind.

Traveling Salon To Be in Charge Of Junior League

The Junior League will assist the Berry Motor Car Co. in the display of the large Packard traveling salon with its individual creations by the industry's foremost custom body builders. The display will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow and remain until Thursday.

In this salon will be some body types never before shown. Some 18 cars, priced between $5000 and $10,000 in the season's latest pastel shades, as well as the more conservative colors will be shown. A new Packard close-coupled limousine will be of great interest to those desiring a close-coupled car with a glass partition back of the driver's seat. A LeBaron all-weather cabriolet, a new limousine and also a C. L. sedan will be shown. The new C. L. model is Packard's latest contribution to the fine car field and offers to the buying public the ultimate in luxury.

The speedster with its high power and terrific speed, which has created nation-wide attention, is also included. Beautiful sport models, as used in Europe at the foremost style centers; some 40 cars, including the standard eight, priced at $2140, will be on display.

The Berry company's new show room on the fourth floor, as well as the main floor display room will be in charge of the Junior League hostesses. Music will lend a pleasing atmosphere and tea will be served during the afternoon. The public is invited.

Motor Vehicles Increasing.

There are 26,562,713 automobiles and trucks in active use in the United States. New York registrations again lead the nation with 2,292,000 vehicles. California is second, 250,000 behind. Ranking next in order are Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Michigan.

Dealers' Used Car Quarters Moved

The Saipen Motor Car Co., South St. Louis Studebaker dealer, located at 3504 South Grand boulevard, has opened a new used-car salesroom at 3628 South Grand. They have been located at 3504 South Grand for about a year, but due to their rapid growth expansion was necessary.

The used car salesroom is operated by Al Bianchi and John Timmons.

Low-Priced "Six" Meets Speed Demand

Improved roads and better automobiles are giving the public an entirely new conception of the possibilities of the motor car as a medium of dependable and swift transportation. No longer are speeds of 30 or 35 miles an hour satisfactory on the highway and many states have removed their limitations entirely or increased the legal rate of travel.

In the Willys six, Willys-Overland has introduced a car in the low price field that meets these new requirements for speed in a way heretofore possible only with cars selling in the higher price ranges.

Pierce-Arrow Shows Big Gain In Profits in 1929

Expansion in Distribution and at Factories During Year.

The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. in its annual report for 1929, showed net profits of $2,566,111.74, compared with losses of $1,293,025.55 in 1928. The report covers the first complete year's operations of the company as reorganized with expanded resources under the control of the Studebaker Corporation.

Some of the achievements in 1929 follow:

The Buffalo plants were rearranged, the personnel was rebuilt, the product was refined.

Nine thousand eight hundred and forty passenger cars were sold, against 5492 in 1928. The development of a new line was begun.

Pierce-Arrow distributers spent more than $3,000,000 in buildings and equipment to handle the growing business; the number of distributers in the United States was increased from 217 to 525 and foreign connections were established on a broad scale.

On July 23 the directors voted to anticipate and retire the balance of $2,755,200 of the 20-year 8 per cent gold bonds outstanding, which with payments in 1928 of $594,000 and retirement of $1,288,442.32 purchase money obligations, made a grand total of $4,637,642.32 debt retirement in 16 months.

Full-Power Muffler Cuts Down Noise, Acts as Cutout

Loss of engine power resulting from back pressure in the exhaust system has been materially reduced by Studebaker engineers by the use of the new Burgess full-power muffler, with which all Studebaker and Erskine cars are now equipped, according to A. R. Lindburg, Studebaker-Erskine distributer here.

In every automobile a certain amount of power developed by the engine is dissipated in overcoming friction in moving parts and back pressure in the exhaust system. During the past few years improvements have been made in lubrication methods, more efficient lubricants and better design of the exhaust manifold and other parts of the system. In eliminating exhaust noise, however, engineers have had to compromise with back pressure to a certain extent by using a muffler, which, by its construction, set up resistance to the free passage of the exhaust gases.

The new full-power muffler, because of revolutionary design, conserves much of this power previously lost by back pressure. Despite the apparent anomaly, it may be described as a cutout in effect and a muffler in fact. It consists of a free pipe perforated throughout with holes, surrounded by an outer jacket packed with steel wool. This construction permits unobstructed passage to the exhaust gases, thus materially reducing back pressure in the exhaust system and increasing effective horsepower. The steel wool lining, meanwhile, absorbs all noise.

Refining Company Sponsors Series of Radio Broadcasts

The National Refining Co. is to sponsor a new series of White Rose gasoline radio programs, beginning this week, over 11 powerful stations, including KMOX, St. Louis. These broadcasts will feature Ace Brigode's Virginians' orchestra and Al and Pete, a well-known radio "harmony team," who will be called the En-ar-co Boys. The programs will go on the air over at least one of the 11 stations every evening of the week, except Sunday.

Ace Brigode's orchestra has made records for several of the larger recording companies. It has also appeared before the microphones of important broadcasting stations.

Al and Pete are specialists in "close harmony" and their tunes are not only of the melodious type but usually carry a smile in the lines. The music and dialog in this new White Rose series will be carried to appeal to different tastes.

Form Company To Distribute De Soto Line

George Weber at Head of New Concern—Mound City Motors.

A new company, Mound City Motors, has been organized by George Weber, president of the Weber Implement & Automobile Co., and will act as the De Soto distributer in the St. Louis territory. The building at 1900 Locust street, diagonally opposite the quarters of the Weber Implement Co., has been remodeled and will be used for the exclusive sale of De Soto straight eights and sixes, Weber announced.

Officers of the Mound City Motors, besides Weber, are George Weber Jr., vice president and general manager; William A. Kirkhoff, treasurer, and Edward R. Koenig, secretary.

The Weber Implement & Automobile Co. is the second oldest Hupmobile distributer in the United States and will retain the Hupmobile distributorship.

Addition of the De Soto line will add a low-priced product to the line handled by the Webers. The lowest price car in their distributorship will be the De Soto six roadster and two-door sedan, at $845, factory. The De Soto straight eight comes next, at $995, factory, for the four-door sedan. The Hupmobiles range in price from that field up to $2755 for the largest straight eight.

The territory served by Mound City Motors includes St. Louis and St. Louis County, East St. Louis and Granite City, and five counties in Missouri—Jefferson, St. Francis, Ste. Genevieve, Washington and Franklin. To date there are seven De Soto dealers in this area, with the probability that more will be added as time goes on.

In St. Louis the factory district office, in charge of W. E. Dunkin, will be continued, to enable the De Soto factory to remain in close contact with distributers and dealers.

Weber has been in business since 1902, selling automobiles since 1908. The first car he sold was the old Mitchell. In 1914 he took on the Hupmobile line and has been its exclusive distributer in St. Louis ever since.

The building at 1900 Locust street was the first one used by Weber on Locust street. He has owned it since 1910. Lately he has used it for machinery and tractor lines also handled by the company.

The sales organization of the Mound City Motors will be entirely separated from that of the Weber company. Temporarily, service will be given on both De Sotos and Hupmobiles at the Weber company's plant.

In the first 12 months of its existence, $1,065 De Soto sixes were sold. Now the new straight eight is offered, with a "Unisteel" body and many other advanced mechanical features.

Service Department Of Johnson Auto Co. To Remain Open Late

The Johnson Automobile Co., 3657-69 Olive street, oldest Ford dealer in St. Louis, has inaugurated the policy of keeping its shop service and parts department open until 9 p. m., instead of 5:30 p. m., to extend the opportunity for customers to take care of motoring needs.

Facilities of the establishment recently have been increased considerably. A one-story building, 50x162 feet, has been erected on the east side of the plant for the sale of reconditioned cars. The rear portion of this structure contains a model wash rack and a modern lubricating unit, giving ample room for these services indoors. In addition, there is an outdoor grease rack. Hydraulic lifts are used for both lubricating stations and Alemite lubricants are employed exclusively.

The used-car building, which does not have a post inside to obstruct view and movement of machines, will accommodate 50 cars.

Every need of the Ford automobile owner can be cared for completely now by the Johnson Automobile Co. except painting or bodies, and special arrangements can be made with the company for that.

The main building, on the west side of the plant, is of three stories and basement, with 25,000 square feet of floor space. It measures 50x162 feet. Between the two buildings is a 75x162-foot service yard, with entrances from Olive street and from the rear alley. It offers 12,500 square feet of space.

Dealers' Group Holds Banquet Meeting Here

The Oldsmobile-Viking Dealers' Association of St. Louis held a banquet for 75 new and used car salesmen at the Forest Park Hotel Thursday.

A. C. Williams, zone manager of the Olds Motor Works, delivered the principal talk of the evening and expressed thanks to the salesmen for the work they did during 1929 in helping to put Oldsmobile in fifth position, and expressed confidence that at the close of 1930 Oldsmobile would again make another step forward.

Other speakers were Henry W. Tigges of Lambert-Tigges Motor Co.; Percy Tucker of Tucker Motor Co.; Sam Igou of Igou Motor Co.; Walter Grebe of Grebe Motor Co. and Jerry Mueller of Jerry Mueller Motor Co.

Unified Automobile Design Supplants Individual Efforts

The principle of unified motor car design in which engineers work from the whole car to its parts has completely supplanted the method of a few years back when engineering effort centered on individual design of parts and then assembly into the whole. Today, the finished product is the sole aim of automotive designers as it is of the artist or the architect.

"Chrysler calls this engineering achievement 'a synchronized power system and unit design' in which every part functions toward the highest degree of performance and appearance," said L. M. Stewart, president of Midwest Motors, local Chrysler distributer. "It would be just as absurd for an engineer to design parts independently and expect them to fit together in a balanced car as it would for an architect to specify that each room in a house be built separately and fitted together.

"It is interesting to see how the unified engineering has been carried out by Chrysler engineers. In the conception of the car, definite requirements for performance, dependability, economy, appearance and riding comfort are specified. In laying out the power plant, every unit which has a part in delivering power is considered. In other words, the engine, clutch, transmission, universal joints, propeller shaft, rear axle and wheels are integral parts of the power system. They must be designed so that they complement and compensate for each other."

ESSEX Challenger Week

Prove it YOURSELF... no lesser car can satisfy!

In Fast Getaway—against any car regardless of price or size.

In Speed—pit it against the cars most famous for speed.

In Hill Climbing—the hardest hills in your community—and in America.

In Reliability—in Comfort and Operating Ease.

In Economy—Note its even greater advantage.

You are invited to be one of the drivers to prove Essex' right to Challenge. We want you to drive and ride in this entirely new Essex Challenger.

This is a "Drive-it-Yourself Challenger Week." A week when motorists everywhere will pit the new Essex Challenger against every performance that makes for driving enjoyment. Thousands will know the thrill that comes when they jump away from all rivals as the green traffic light signals "Go!". As they pass drivers who thought they were masters of the road they will feel the real enjoyment that is known only to the man who drives the super-car. On the hills and on the long open stretches these Essex drivers will experience real enjoyment.

Performance, though, isn't the only satisfaction you will experience. There are appearance and comfort and money-saving value beyond anything you could have imagined in a car that sells at a price all can afford.

Nearly 6000 dealers in the U. S. and Canada have standard stock cars to turn over to motorists for this Challenge. These cars will prove Fast Getaway—Speed—Hill climbing ability—Easy Driving, Easy Operation, Luxury and Comfort. The Challenge is to all and for all to prove.

Drivers of other cars—high-priced cars—that are highly regarded for performance—and of cars considered for their low price are invited. The first will realize that more money does not buy relatively better performance or quality. The others that a lesser car will never satisfy.

Ring us up or call on your nearest dealer now and say you want to be one of the many thousands who this week will prove the right of the new Essex to Challenge.

W. R. Wilson Made General Manager Of Reo Motor Co.

R. H. Scott Remains at Head of Company He Formerly Actively Directed.

Developments in the Reo Motor Car Co. are presaged in an announcement last week by Richard H. Scott, president, of the election of William Robert Wilson as general manager. Wilson, a former vice president of the Irving National Bank in New York and co-organizer with Edsel Ford and other Detroit motor executives of the Guardian banking group, has taken a substantial stock interest in Reo and has been elected to its board of directors, Scott announced. Scott will continue as president, an office which he has combined with that of general manager for some years.

Wilson brings to Reo the experience of a varied and outstanding career in the automotive field. He was drafted by the late John F. and Horace E. Dodge in the organization of the original Dodge Brothers Co. in 1914. Later as president of the Maxwell Motor Corporation he became associated with Walter P. Chrysler in the rehabilitation of that company which served as a nucleus of the present Chrysler corporation.

Mr. Wilson entered the banking field in 1919 when he became vice president of the Irving National Bank in New York. In 1925 he was associated with prominent members of the Detroit motor industry in the formation of what is now known as the Guardian group.

He entered the automotive industry in 1911 as assistant to the manufacturing manager of the Studebaker Corporation in Detroit. He was elected president of Maxwell Motor Corporation in 1921. In association with Walter P. Chrysler he reorganized and rehabilitated the business of that company out of which has grown the present Chrysler Corporation.

In 1927, after serving as receiver's executive of the Murray Body Co. of Detroit, Wilson was elected chairman of the board of the Murray Corporation. The reorganization of this company was accomplished under his supervision.

Motorists in 1929 Used Average of 571 Gallons of Gas

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Each motorist in the United States used an average of 571 gallons of gasoline per motor vehicle and paid an average of $18.36 gasoline tax in 1929, according to estimates of the American Motorists' Association.

The highest per capita gasoline tax was paid by the motorist of New Mexico, paying an average of $37, based on a 5-cent per gallon tax, and consuming an average of 740 gallons of gasoline. The lowest was Massachusetts, paying an average gasoline tax of $8 per motor vehicle, based on a 2-cent tax, using an average of 400 gallons of gasoline per motor vehicle.

In Missouri motorists paid an average of $11 in fuel taxes and the average gasoline consumption was 550 gallons.

Chevrolet Dealers Hosts to Local Service Men

A view of a portion of the crowd of more than 600 persons who attended a banquet at the Club Diablo, Tuesday night, under the auspices of St. Louis Chevrolet dealers. Illustrated lectures were given on the mechanical features of the 1930 Chevrolet six.

600 Service Men Attend Chevrolet Dealers' Banquet

Illustrated Lecture Given on Mechanics of 1930 Machine.

More than 600 service men, filling station proprietors and operators of independent garages, together with Chevrolet dealers and factory representatives, attended a banquet at the Club Diablo Tuesday night, under the auspices of the St. Louis Chevrolet dealers.

A. W. L. Gilpin, regional manager here of Chevrolet, in the principal address of the evening, pointed out that it is the constant dissatisfaction of the public, who always want something new, that makes the automobile business a good one. He also discussed the more salient features of the 1930 Chevrolet six.

Mechanical features were described in a lecture by W. S. Venn, factory regional manager, whose talk was accompanied by demonstrations with chassis and various parts of the car.

Motion pictures of the Chevrolet motor were also presented.

Rush James of the Allen-James Co., Chevrolet dealer, acted as toastmaster. C. E. O'Meara, zone sales manager, was introduced, as were representatives of the various dealer companies.

Following the banquet entertainment was provided by the Club Diablo.

Increase Capital

Directors of the L. C. Wilderman Lubricating Co. have ratified a proposal to increase the capitalization from $25,000 to $60,000 and to begin an expansion program, calling for the construction, throughout the city, of automobile lubricating stations similar to the "oil well" at Kingshighway boulevard and Lotus avenue. The board rejected offers from several large oil companies to purchase the Wilderman patented process for removing grease and grit from gear cases, which is used exclusively by the company, and which is the invention of L. C. Wilderman, president.

Large Used Car Sales Week to Begin Tomorrow

Chevrolet City Sales Head Points to Public's False Idea of These Cars.

The greatest 10-day sales of used cars ever staged locally is announced for tomorrow by T. E. Chancellor, Chevrolet city sales manager.

"Unused transportation" is the key word of the sale, according to Chancellor.

"Too many persons have the wrong impression of used cars and the values that lie in them, resulting from the unfortunate employment of the word 'used,' which implies a previous ownership and a reduced worth," he said.

"Today cars are built with years of life and limitless thousands of miles in them. Drivers are more efficient today. Cars are serviced more often than formerly. Better roads reduce abuse of travel. Cars are traded in when the bulk of their lives still is ahead of them. Some have been driven only a little longer than is necessary to break them in. Thousands of so-called used cars being offered today at prices far below their actual value are better than cars of like age still being run by their original owners."

also thinks that many men in his clientele for higher-priced cars will want a lower-priced car for a second car.

Stiffler Named Assistant to Head Of Oakland Motor

A. R. Glancy, president of the Oakland Motor Co., announces the appointment of C. B. Stiffler, former comptroller, to the newly-created position of assistant to the president. Stiffler is succeeded as comptroller by his assistant, Dale E. Williams.

C. B. STIFFLER

Stiffler came to Oakland as comptroller in December of 1926. During the seven years prior to that he was with General Motors, serving as accountant, later chief accountant and also on the General Motors comptroller's staff. He joined General Motors in 1919 after two years in the army. Prior to the war, he was with the Indiana Union Traction Co.

Williams joined Oakland in July, 1921, as assistant factory accountant. Successively he became factory accountant, chief accountant, assistant comptroller and now comptroller.

Pioneer Salesman Joins Organization Of Haupt Motor Co.

Announcement is made by Ollie E. Haupt of the Ollie E. Haupt Motor Co., Ford dealer at 4166 Olive street, that William H. McLellan has joined its sales department.

McLellan is one of the oldest automobile salesmen in St. Louis. His first connection was with the Mississippi Valley Automobile Co. at 3915 Olive street, in 1904. That company sold Pope Toledo steamers and gas cars and the Oldsmobile with curved dashes. In 1907 McLellan sold the Locomobile for the Capen Motor Car Co. Later on he sold the Locomobile and the small Hupmobile lines for the General Motor Car Co., of which J. A. Hutchason was the president. In 1912 he became connected with the Locomobile branch at Los Angeles, Cal. Later he sold the Daniels eight both in Boston and in New York, and in 1922 returned to St. Louis for a connection with the Pierce-Arrow distributer. From 1926 until recently he was connected with the Cadillac distributer in St. Louis.

McLellan's change to the low-priced car line at this time is because of his belief that 1930 is to be a low-priced car year and he

Seismograph to Test Roads.

A number of seismographs have been placed along certain highways in California to record the tremors in the roads caused by passing automobiles. Measuring these miniature earthquakes, it is thought, will form a basis for better highway construction.

Scotch City Installs American Signals

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 1.—The rapid adoption abroad of American systems of progressive traffic control is seen in announcement made here today by officials of the Crouse-Hinds Co. that the city of Edinburgh, Scotland, has contracted for one of their traffiex systems for immediate shipment.

This is said to be the first American traffic control system of its kind ever to be installed in Scotland. It will consist of 38 signals, a master timer and 12 secondaries.

Vice President Is Named Director of Chrysler Corp.

Byron C. Foy, vice president of the Chrysler Corporation, was elected to the board of directors Feb. 13. The action established Foy as the youngest director, and is a further step in his career which had its beginning with the Ford Motor Co.

Stopping long enough to "do his bit' in the war, Foy later became a distributer in California, Detroit and New York.

Clears West Seventh Street Hill (Alton) in High at 10 Miles Per Hour!

Until last Thursday, February 27, 1930, West Seventh Street Hill in Alton, Ill., had never been climbed in high gear by any closed car, according to all available records. On that day a New Oakland Eight Standard Sedan accomplished this feat by carrying a driver and one passenger, the total weight of the driver and passenger being 293 pounds. With this dramatic demonstration of its hill-climbing ability the New Oakland Eight presented additional proof of its right to be called "A car with superior performance."

On the streets of this city today is the Oakland Eight demonstrator, marked on either side by a large GOLDEN ROCKET. The driver is ready to stop at your signal and give you a demonstration.

The GOLDEN ROCKET is a symbol of tremendous speed and power. And these are also outstanding characteristics of the New Oakland Eight. Its 85-horsepower eight-cylinder engine develops a full horsepower to every 37 pounds of car weight. That is why few cars can equal its speed, pass it on the hills, or match its swift acceleration in traffic. Just watch it for a few minutes, and you will know why it is described as "the car with superior performance."

You can get a demonstration—either by signalling the driver—or by coming to our showroom. We want you to learn that the New Oakland Eight is not only fast and powerful, but unusually smooth and easy to control. We want you to see its new, smartly styled bodies by Fisher. We want you to learn that General Motors' new eight offers a high degree of owner satisfaction at an extremely moderate price!

Vice President Is Named Director of Chrysler Corp.

Byron C. Foy, vice president of the Chrysler Corporation, was elected to the board of directors Feb. 13. The action establishes Foy as the youngest director, and is a further step in his career which had its beginning with the Ford Motor Co.

Stopping long enough to "do his bit" in the war, Foy later became a distributer in California, Detroit and New York.

Says Automobile Has Value to Its Limit of Mileage

A. C. Williams, Olds Branch Manager, Discussses Used Cars.

When an automobiles comes off the factory production line it represents a potential number of miles of transportation. Until this mileage has been obtained the automobile has a value, the amount of which is dependent upon the unused mileage, according to A. C. Williams, manager of Olds Motor Works, St. Louis zone.

"There is a story," he said, "regarding a farmer who, angry at a railroad, sought revenge by buying an excursion ticket and not using the return coupon. His action is similar to many who distain to buy a used automobile.

"The wise purchaser today is turning to the used car market, knowing that there he can obtain great value for his dollar. As an example two different automobiles are manufactured, one selling for approximately 30 per cent more than the other. It is reasonable to suppose, and such is a fact, that the more expensive car is the better. It has more miles of transportation built into it; it has additional mechanical and structural features which contribute to automotive comfort. It has finer appearance.

"The more expensive car, driven approximately a year, has all of the above mentioned advantages over the cheaper new car, except that its potential mileage has been slightly reduced. This fact, however, is more than made up by the greater mileage built into the car at the start. And after a year's driving this more expensive car often can be purchased for the same price or less than is asked for the lower priced new automobile.

"New car buyers rarely realize the potential mileage of their automobiles. Only those who keep a car during its useful life are cognizant of the exceptionally long life of modern cars.

"Taxicab companies think nothing of obtaining 150,000 to 200,000 miles from their cars before even thinking of discarding them for new automobiles. These cabs run day and night under shifts of drivers, only resting during the time necessary for lubrication and maintenance operations. And this excessive mileage is all made economically, for commercial companies such as taxicab companies keep close and accurate records of car maintenance costs.

"Equally long distances have been reported to us by Oldsmobile owners who use their cars extensively in business. In fact, in a number of instances owners have driven their cars so long and continuously that they lost track of the actual mileage.

"On the other hand, there is a group of owners who for personal reasons purchase new cars at frequent intervals regardless of the unused mileage in their cars. These cars, when accepted by us at the time of purchase of a new Oldsmobile or Viking, are carefully inspected by our service department. All needed adjustments are made and the car is in excellent condition when it is offered for resale."

At St. Louis Airfields

OFFICIALS of local aircraft concerns joined their associates in the industry in declaring the international aircraft exposition, which closed at The Arena last Sunday as "the best show so far."

"More money was spent on this exposition and there was a greater variety of exhibits than at any previous show I ever attended," said Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co. Maj. Robertson's enthusiasm resulted partly from the sale of several Robin monoplanes during the show.

Officials of the Ryan Aircraft Co. also expressed themselves as satisfied with the exposition. No Ryan planes were sold, but the Lockheed Sirius exhibited by the Detroit Aircraft Corporation, of which the Ryan company is a unit, was sold to a young woman, who came here from Philadelphia to pick out a plane.

Total attendance at the show was 132,000, of which 107,000 were paid admissions, according to Cliff W. Henderson, general manager. The exposition returned a profit, which will be divided between the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and the exhibitors.

Steinberg Airport Open.

Flying activity at the new Curtiss-Steinberg Airport, south of East St. Louis, began last Wednesday. Twelve flying students were in the first class to begin instruction at the new field under direction of Maj. C. Ray Wassall.

The first of the three hangars forming the present building group is occupied and the other two structures are nearing completion. Construction of concrete runways, interrupted by bad weather, has been resumed. The airport is the scene of local Curtiss-Wright Flying Service activities, which will include, in addition to the school, taxi service, repair facilities, photographic service and a sales division.

Art Heman Turns Salesman.

Art Heman, one of the first private pilots to store his ship at Lambert Field, has joined the sales force of Curtiss-Wright Flying Service. Heman, who formerly was associated with his father in the Heman Construction & Quarry Co., will sell Robin, Moth and Kingbird planes, all made at the Curtiss-Robertson plant here.

Banner Passenger Week.

Southwest Air Fast Express, St. Louis to Dallas, had a banner passenger week during the aircraft show. The average number of passengers leaving St. Louis daily in S. A. F. E. planes was 10, and the average number of incoming passengers was 13, according to M. P. Bickley, division traffic manager.

Landed on Levee From Plane.

The possibilities offered for discharging passengers of amphibian planes on the St. Louis levee was demonstrated Monday when a Sikorsky amphibian was landed in the Mississippi River and taxied onto the levee. The ship, piloted by George Meissner, formerly of the German Air Service, carried six passengers.

Detroit Aircraft Show.

The next aircraft show is the All-American, to be held at Detroit April 5 to 13. Detroit is building a $1,000,000 hangar and exposition building at the Municipal Airport to house the exposition.

Suspected Stowaways Caught.

Two 14-year-old high school boys, who apparently had planned to stow away on one of the passenger ships leaving St. Louis, were apprehended at Lambert-St. Louis Field last Tuesday by Assistant Field Manager Luig, who recognized the boys from descriptions furnished by their parents. The boys left home Monday night and walked to the airport from the Lindenwood district in Southwest St. Louis.

Radio Course for Pilots.

A radio course has been added to the pilots' ground school curriculum at Parks Air College without additional charge to the student. The course consists of 20 lectures, including the principles of physics and a study of the radio beacon, and 20 hours of code practice. Graduates of the course will be required to send and receive 10 words a minute and pass a theoretical examination. The instruction was started in anticipation of a proposed requirement that all transport planes be equipped with radio.

Kinner Service Station.

The Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co. has been appointed local distributor for the Kinner Motor Co. A stock of parts will be acquired and a service station established at Lambert-St. Louis Field.

Evening Classes for Mechanics.

The first evening classes for advanced aircraft engine mechanics will be started at the Universal Flying School Tuesday night. The course is open to primary mechanic school graduates and will include instruction in the use of precision instruments, cylinder reboring and lathe work.

Building the Kingbird.

Manufacture of parts for the new Kingbird, twin-engined transport, has been started at the Curtiss-Robertson plant. The Kingbird will be placed in limited production shortly, along with the Robin and Moth.

High Altitude Weather Records.

Two additional meteorographs, which were sent aloft attached to balloons in December and January, have been returned to the Weather Bureau here. The instruments were found in Illinois, near the Indiana line, and bring the total of instruments recovered to six. Eight instruments were sent up to test temperature, pressure and humidity at high altitudes. Similar tests were made from 13 other weather stations and the results are being worked out at Washington.

Club Buys Glider.

One of the primary gliders displayed at the inernational aircraft exposition was purchased by the University City Aero Club. The glider will be tested at Curtiss-Steinberg Airport.

In Charge of Dormitory.

W. A. Couldtrap, who served 20 years with the Y. M. C. A., has been placed in charge of the students' dormitory at Parks Air College.

Planes for Students.

Warren in New Port.

Minten W. Warren, former president of the Moth Aircraft Co., Lowell, Mass., has taken over his new duties as vice president and production manager of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co. The transfer of Moth production to the Curtiss-Robertson company was an important move in the industry, Warren says. He estimates that 2000 Moth planes are in the service of flying schools and private owners throughout the world.

Wood River Agent.

The Wood River Airport Co., Wood River, Ill., has been appointed dealer in that vicinity for Curtiss-Wright flying equipment.

Fourth Woman Flying Student.

Miss Edris Hensley of Shreveport, La., enrolled in the limited commercial flying course at Parks Air College last week. She is the fourth woman to enter the school since Jan. 1.

Putting Lambert Field Into Shape.

Acting Field Manager Parks has had his force busy dragging and rolling a portion of the landing area at Lambert-St. Louis Field, and the area is in good shape for general operations.

75-horsepower performance and look at the price!

The very fact that this stylish Chrysler "66" bears the name of Chrysler is of itself enough to certify its excelling quality and superior performance.

But nobody has to accept this car on faith in the name alone. The magnificent Chrysler "66" stands squarely before the public on its own inherent merits.

It has—for unending thrills of performance—a highly capable 75-horsepower engine with counter-weighted seven-bearing crankshaft; Iso-therm pistons; impulse neutralizer; mechanical fuel pump instead of a vacuum tank; and rubber engine mountings.

It has—for utmost riding ease—patented rubber-core spring shackles, noiseless and free from all need of lubrication; hydraulic shock absorbers; and inherent balance that holds it unerringly to its course.

It has—for utmost safety—the famous Chrysler internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic brakes, quick, quiet and protected in all weather from water and dirt.

It has—in a word—everything that makes motoring thoroughly enjoyable—at a low price that delivers value far above all customary standards and expectations. A demonstration furnishes the proof.

In New Gold Strand Broadcasts

AUDREY MARSH, soprano and MERLE JOHNSTON, orchestra leader and saxophone player, who are to be featured in a new Gold Strand series over the Columbia chain that is to begin tomorrow night. The caricatures are by Theodor Scheel.

Here and There on the Air— By J. L. S.

FLORENCE MACBETH, lyric soprano of the Chicago Opera, who is billed as soloist in the Gold Medal Fast Freight concert over the Columbia chain at 7 o'clock Wednesday night, despite her Scotch name, is an American by birth. She made her operatic debut in Germany, and has had marked success in opera in the United States.

Wednesday evening she is to sing Schubert's "Ave Maria," "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Deep in My Heart a Lute," by Aylward, "Pierrot" by Roberts, and "Last Rose of Summer" by Moore.

Vilma Banky and a couple of native Africans supposed to be of a cannibal tribe will be offered to listeners to KMOX and other Columbia chain stations tomorrow night when the weekly Voices from Filmland broadcast goes on the air.

A movie director who has just returned from Africa with the Trader Horn company is billed to present the cannibals to the radio audience.

Vilma Banky is the best known star scheduled thus far in this particular radio series.

Gossip in New York about formation of a new radio chain to be headed by WGRS, New York, if that station manages to retain its new allocation on 600 kc., persists in associating William Randolph Hearst, the newspaper publisher, with plans for the proposed network. Also, it is asserted that more than 100 stations have tentatively agreed to join such a chain.

A policy of gradually replacing the non-commercial programs known as "sustaining" with broadcasts of news events is planned by the Columbia System, it is reported in New York. At first, it is said, the Columbia Chain will merely expand its coverage of news happenings. But eventually the broadcasting of "spot" news, with an elaborate organization of "reporters," etc., is said to be planned. Also, a "news" service that may be put on the air in between commercial programs by link stations is likely to be developed, with the news organization of Paramount Pictures, which is a half owner of the CBS, or the main source of programs. At present, "sustaining" programs, which are not sponsored, but are prepared and paid for by broadcasting companies, are mostly given by studio "staff" artists and entertainers.

Another series of electrical transcription is to be broadcast over 11 stations, including KMOX, on which they may be heard at 6:30 Tuesday evenings. They will be known as the White Rose programs.

The transcriptions will feature numbers by Ace Brigode, and his Virginians orchestra, and Al and Pete, a team popular on the Columbia chain. They will be broadcast from various stations on different days of the week, WLS, for example, carrying them at 7 p. m. Saturdays.

RENEE CHEMET, a French violinist who has made successful tours of this country and Europe, is to play in the Atwater Kent concert over KSD next Sunday night. She is announced to play the finale of the Bruch Concerto in G-minor, Kreisler arrangements of pieces by Mozart, Schumann and Logan and a Polonaise by Wieniawsky. Martha Atwood, a soprano, well known to listeners, is to be the other soloist.

W. K. Henderson, owner and operator of KWKH, Shreveport, La., apparently has won another victory, for the 30-day temporary license of his station has been extended to the full term of 90 days. It is understood that the threatened legal action against him, because of Senate criticism of his language on the air in his fight on chain stores, will not be taken.

Expectation is that by the end of the month the Royal broadcasts over the Columbia chain Sunday nights, featuring Jesse Crawford, organist, will go off the air.

Following a statement by S. F. Rothafel that hereafter the Roxy concerts at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoons will consist of performances of complete symphonic works, it is announced that today's broadcast over WJZ, WLW and KYW will bring the First Symphony of Brahms.

This C-minor Symphony will be preceded by a "Sarabande" and "Dance" by Debussey as orchestrated by Maurice Ravel.

Roxy's decision is the result of requests from listeners all over the country and from persons in every walk of life. It is due also to public reception of Roxy concerts in which were given in complete form the Sixth Symphony of Tschaikowsky, the Fifth of Beethoven, the Second of Brahms, the tremendous Ninth Symphony of Beethoven with soloists and chorus, and Handel's "Messiah."

The position of the Roxy Symphony Orchestra under its new conductor, Joseph Littau, thus becomes unique. Roxy asserts that its significance lies in the fact that several million people in the East and the Middle West will hear once a week the finest of classical music performed in the way that the composers meant it to be played.

KMOX NOTES—"Mr. and Mrs. Anybody," a daily husband and wife sketch played by Hazel Dopheide and Bob Herrick, which has won marked popularity among listeners, is to be shifted from 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., beginning tomorrow evening. The change in time was made because of letters from listeners, who said they enjoyed the feature, but were unable to give the time to it at 8 o'clock in the morning. It was generally suggested than an early evening period would suit more listeners.The "Sittin' and Whittlin' Club a new feature by the Vagabonds, is planned for Sunday nights at 10:20, beginning tonight. Songs and musical numbers designed to appeal to men will be featured. "The Adventure of Red Riding Hood," played by KMOX staff entertainers, is to be changed from Friday to Saturday evenings, from 6:30 to 7 o'clockMay Piper Spear will broadcast a style talk at 9:35 Tuesday morningThe Schnizzlebank Comedy Pentet, which was heard recently in a broadcast of German dialect stories and humorous songs, will be heard in a new program at 12:45 this noonMlle. Manka Rubinstein, a beauty expert of Paris and New York, is to talk at 10:45 tomorrow and Wednesday morningsNext Thursday night, beginning at 9 o'clock, KMOX is to broadcast the first showing of "The Vagabond King" at the Missouri Theater. Through a microphone outside the theater, George Junkin, the station director, and R. Fullerton Place will describe the arrival of Miss Jean Ford, the Veiled Prophet's Queen; Miss Nancy Semple, former Veiled Prophet's Queen; Mayor Victor J. Miller and Mrs. Miller; Ed Lowry and others, while there will be another microphone in the inner lobby.

Ben Selvin, who leads his orchestra in Columbia chain concerts, is said to have made records of more than 5000 songs.

Marjorie Horton, a soprano heard in many NBC broadcasts, is to be a Columbia net artist. It is announced and will sing in the Cathedral Hour at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoons.

Percy Hemus, in addition to playing both "Pa" and "Grandpa," writes the daily sketches for "The James" broadcasts.

Lorin Raker, who has been playing Jimmy Otis in the weekly Johnson and Johnson musical melodrama broadcast, is to leave the cast. He has been signed by Columbia Pictures for the talkies. His first picture will be made in Central America.

Announcing

MOUND CITY MOTORS
(GEORGE WEBER, President)
19TH & LOCUST

to distribute DE SOTO motor cars in the CITY OF ST. LOUIS and vicinity

It was inevitable that two great leaders among motor cars, the De Soto Straight Eight, lowest-priced eight in the world, and its companion car, the famous De Soto Six, would attract representation of the highest order. This is reflected in the appointment of Mound City Motors to represent De Soto in the City of St. Louis and vicinity.

Heading this new organization is Mr. George Weber, a man whose name has been identified prominently with motor car merchandising in St. Louis for many years. Mr. Weber has surrounded himself with an able, experienced staff, whose abilities already have been demonstrated in the St. Louis market.

We count ourselves extremely fortunate in securing Mr. Weber and his associates to represent us in this city. They are outstandingly equipped, both in personnel and facilities, to place the De Soto Straight Eight and the De Soto Six before the motoring public of St. Louis in a manner that will reflect the highest credit on our product and on themselves.

'Catholic Hour' Series on KSD Among Network Broadcasts Today

A "CATHOLIC HOUR" will be added to the religious features of the National Broadcasting Co., beginning today, from 5 to 6 p. m. under the sponsorship of the National Council of Catholic Men. It will be broadcast over KSD.

This is the first general use of radio by American Catholics for the avowed purpose of promoting a better understanding of the Catholic church and its doctrines and to foster more friendly relations among the several religious groups in the United States.

Cardinal Hayes of New York will deliver the dedicatory address in the first nation-wide broadcast today. The Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, Bishop of Cleveland, is to be the first of the weekly speakers. He will discuss "The Meaning and the Necessity of Religion."

Priests noted for scholarship and eloquence, or laymen of distinction, will speak from week to week on a wide range of subjects of religion or cultural import. In addition, the new series will present music by famous Catholic singers and instrumentalists.

Music of Palestrina, Frescobaldi and Bach and the classical gems of liturgy and the mass will be drawn upon.

The Paulist choir, under its leader, Father Finn, will sing regularly in the "Catholic Hour."

The Rev. William J. Finn, C. S. P., of New York, in charge of all music for the broadcasts. The Rev. Dr. Karl J. Alter of Washington is director of speakers.

Directors Elected By St. Lous Radio Trades Association

Six directors were elected by the St. Louis Radio Trades Association Wednesday night at a meeting in Hotel Kingsway. Those chosen were as follows:

Dealers—George Gaertner and John Schmitt.

Jobbers—Fred Wiebe and W. A. Ward.

Manufacturers' representatives—O. C. McCanne and John F. Meyn.

Officers of the association will be elected next Wednesday at a meeting of the new board of directors.

Reports were made by President George Niekamp and other officers. The association's night classes in radio theory and practice at Ranken Trade School now have 30 students. It is planned to establish similar day classes.

Plans are under way for courses for radio service men and salesmen similar to those that were so successful in 1928.

In addition to the two bonfires of old radio sets to fix in the mind of listeners the worthlessness of old, obsolete sets as "trade-ins" and the harm these do to reception by other receiver owners, the association last year devised and promoted a system of accounting for dealers, established a means of checking persons who make a business of getting demonstrations with no intention of buying, and carried on other activities, all of which won for it more mention in national trade papers than was given to any other organization of the sort in the country.

Grace Hyde, who sings in Columbia chain programs, is said to have been declared by Howard Chandler Christy to be the most beautiful woman in America. She has gray eyes and auburn hair, not bobbed. Mrs. Hyde, who has two sons, is living in New York.

She never wears any jewelry but diamond bracelets, never anything around her neck—and her most becoming colors are peach and brown.

Asked whether her beauty brought happiness, she said that she thought beauty alone never brought real happiness, never really brought anything but personal compliments.

Opera Stars To Sing on KSD Thursday Night

Palmolive Hour at 3:30 p. m. over KSD. Another KUKU broadcast is set for 3:30 over KWK. Maria Gerard, soprano, is to be one of the soloists in the Philco broadcast at 9 p. m. over KMOX. Julia Mahoney will be featured soloist in the grand opera concert over the Columbia chain at 9:30 p. m. "The Runaway Wife" will be the melodrama played in the Hank Simmons Show Boat broadcast at 10 p. m. over the CBS chain.

THURSDAY — The American School of the Air, at 1:30 p. m. on the Columbia chain, will be devoted to a discussion of means of communication. Helen Nugent, Irene Beasley and Al Llewellyn are billed for a Ward's Tip Top Club broadcast at 6:30 p. m. over the Columbia chain. Jack Parker, Frank Luther and Phil Dewey are to sing with Rudy Vallee and his orchestra in the Fleischmann Hour at 7 p. m. over KSD. Elsie Baker, Theodore Webb and an orchestra led by Hugo Mariani will give a concert at 7 p. m. over KWK. The world series of 1912, when the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Giants after breaking a 10-inning tie in the eighth game, will be recalled by Phillips Carlin in a Champion Sparkers sports drama at 7:30 p. m. over KWK. James Melton is to sing an aria from "Carmen" in the Seiberling Singers' concert at 8 p. m. over KSD. The performance of "Faust" is scheduled for the R. C. A.-Victor Hour is scheduled for 9 o'clock over KSD. "Rigoletto" is to be sung by the National Grand Opera Company at 10 p. m. over KSD.

FRIDAY—Two movements from Mozart's Symphony in G minor and the Second Symphony in D, of Brahms are programmed for Walter Damrosch's Musical Appreciation concert at 10 a. m. over KSD and KWK. Baron von Steuben, who fought on the Colonial side in the American Revolutionary War, will be the chief feature of the Historical Highlights drama over WLW at 6:30 p. m. Jessica Dragonette will sing "The Merry Widow" waltz in the Cities Service concert at 7 p. m. over KSD. The love story of Robert Schumann, the great composer, will be dramatized over KWK at 7:45 p. m. "Murder in His Heart" is the title of the tale to be dramatized in the True Story Hour over KMOX at 8 p. m. A burlesque rehearsal of "Samson and Delila" will be given by the Alpha and Omega Opera troupe of Negroes at 9 p. m. over KSD.

SATURDAY—Beethoven's "Sonata Appassionata" will be played by Lolita Gainsborg, pianist, over WJZ, KFAB and WREN at 5 p. m. A Silver Flute drama is set for 7:30 p. m. over KWK. Walter Damrosch is to lead his orchestra in the Fifth Symphony of Beethoven in the General Electric concert at 8 p. m. over KSD. Floyd Gibbons will describe another Adventure in Science. The Nit Wits will mangle "Too Proud to Beg" at 8 p. m. over the Columbia chain. The usual Lucky Strike Dance concert is scheduled for 9 p. m. over KSD.

Vaughn de Leath says she must hold the record for misspelling names, as thus far listeners have written her own name wrong at least 17 ways, as follows: Wanda Lee, Bonda Lee, Vonda Lee, Wan de Lis, Van de Lys, Wando Lis, Bondy Lee, Bombs Lee, Vanderlee, Vanderlip, Vonda Liett, Warma Lith, Vandaleeth, Von Deeley, Fon da Lee, Vonda Leet and Guandelette.

What's New in Radio Industry

Colonial and Symington Companies in Merger—Universal Cabinet Co. to Distribute Kennedy Sets—Trade Notes.

Colonial and Symington Merger Effected.

A combination has been effected of the Colonial Radio Corporation of Long Island City, N. Y., maker of Colonial receivers, and Valley Appliances, Inc., of Rochester, N. Y., which makes radio speakers and other products. Each division will continue to be operated as now, and national distribution of Colonial sets is planned.

Officers of the new Colonial Radio Corporation include: W. S. Symington, president; Fred G. Carson, vice president, in charge of sales; E. J. Millin, treasurer; Dr. Fulton Cutting, principal figure in the Colonial organization and designer of the Colonial receiver, is chairman of the board. All basic parts for Colonial sets will be produced by the merged companies.

W. S. Symington will direct the production of Symington products. I. G. Maloff, who designed the Peerless and Symington speakers, will be chief engineer of the combined corporation. Josep Gerl will continue as general sales manager for Colonial sets.

Universal Cabinet Co. Appointed Kennedy Distributer.

The Universal Cabinet Co. has been appointed distributer of Kennedy radio sets in the St. Louis trade area. These receivers, designed by Colin B. Kennedy, formerly of St. Louis and one of the most widely known of radio men, are manufactured at South Bend, Ind., by the Colin B. Kennedy Radio Corporation.

Adams Takes Over Store.

R. G. Adams, proprietor of the Adams Music Shops, 4103 Olive street, has taken over a radio store, Grand boulevard and Wyoming street, South St. Louis. Both stores will go under the name of Adams Music Shops, and will handle nationally known standard radio sets and combinations.

R. C. A. License for Speed Tubes.

The Cable Radio Tube Corporation reports that it has obtained R. C. A., General Electric and Westinghouse licenses for use in making Speed radio tubes.

Report All General Motors Cars Will Have Radio Hookups.

Reports in New York are that after May 1 all autos made by General Motors will be equipped for installation of radio sets. It is expected that the cars will all have aerials built into them, and that receivers will be installed as accessories on order. General Motors dealers, it is said, will handle the automobile receivers, while the General Motors sets for home use will be distributed and sold through regular radio distribution channels.

Syndicate to Continue Temple Receivers.

A syndicate headed by Leonard C. Welling of New York has bought all the assets of Temple, Inc., of Chicago. Welling is making his headquarters at the Temple plant in Chicago, and says that operations will be continued in the factory and that the Temple trade name will continue to be used. Many of the Temple distributers are seeking franchises for the Temple set to be made under the new management.

Frank G. Macomber to Direct Crosley Sales.

Frank G. Macomber has been appointed director of radio sales for the Crosley Radio Corporation. He was treasurer and general manager of Stern & Co., Hartford, Conn., one of the oldest radio distributers in the United States and responsible for its success. Prior to Macomber's appointment, arrangements had been made with R. H. Woodford to assume the duties of director of sales, but physicians ordered Woodford to take a year's rest to recuperate his health. Previous to his experience in radio distribution, Macomber was editor and publisher of the Hartford Globe.

Heilmann Gets Short Wave Sets.

Otto E. Heilmann has been appointed factory representative for the new Pilot AC and battery short wave receivers.

STOCK RISE IS WITHOUT EXPANSION IN LOANS

Interpreted to Mean That Shares Have Been Bought by Those With Funds to Pay Cash.

MARKET IS NOT EASILY SHAKEN

Brokers' Loans Still Within $161,000,000 of the Bottom Reached on December 24.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"The rising temperature in stocks with the advent of March indicates an underlying technical condition seldom if ever witnessed in the market before. Let us see what this means before examining its relation to the situation in business. Whether industry is turning upward fast enough to warrant the recent rise in stocks time will tell, but the outstanding evidence of improvement so far visible is the shift of stocks into strong hands rather than the current trade reports. The gentle rising market of the last two months has acted very much like a market that was under accumulation. The figures support this conclusion. The rise has brought no expansion in brokers' loans. Our total volume of such funds is still within $161,000,000 of the very bottom reached on Dec. 24, following the panic. What does that mean? It means one thing: Stocks have been bought this year by men of wealth or institutional investors with sufficient cash to pay for their commitments outright.

Market Not Easily Shaken.

"That is why the market is not easily shaken. At no time since the country turned its enthusiasm to stocks in the later phases of the eight-year bull market has so large a proportion of investors owned American stocks fully as now. Stock put away in strong boxes comes into the market only when it is not like the load of loosely held certificates that hung over the market last September when brokers' loans were twice their present volume. Without this strong technical position the market could not have withstood the barrage of bad news recently that has come in the form of sinking commodity prices (particularly wheat and cotton), disappointing February reports in certain political developments.

Sees Need for Greater Money Ease.

"Whatever the hopes for 1930 business may be, the fact is that improvement has not been as rapid as it might have been under the persistent administration of recent months. Up to the end of last year the Federal Reserve, through a series of rate reductions and heavy purchase of Government securities exhibited a commendable understanding of the need for a vigilant easy money program to arrest the recession in business. By January it seemed that the job was done. Perhaps the reserve concluded that the patient could at least get along with less medicine. At any rate it withdrew from the market for Government securities. The time seems to come for a resumption of a buying program by the reserve to create greater ease in the money market. Downright easy money is one restorative that invariably works its cure and the latest position in outlying districts is still more tense than the New York rate reveals.

New Popularity for Bonds.

"Visibly rising stock prices in 1929 misled the market in bonds, but along with the orderly advance in shares this year we have witnessed a new popularity for bonds. Virtually all of the new issue flotations have been descriptions of the latter character. In two months these have totaled roughly a billion dollars, but the emission of this staggering volume has not weakened the market in bonds. It has retarded the advance, but not reversed the trend. While bond prices have not rallied yet to the best December levels current prices are the highest for 1930 to date. The return of confidence in the securities markets is manifesting itself quite as impressively if less conspicuously in the bond as in the stock department. The sobered attitude of investors is restoring a new respect for bonds, but along with the psychological aspects must be mentioned the declining level of commodity prices and the downward trend in money rates, both of which are influences for better bond values."

STOCKS CONTINUE CLIMB IN SHORT MARKET SESSION

Moderate Week-End Realizing Is Quickly Absorbed by Speculators for the Rise—Laclede Gas Up 24 1-2 Points at 237.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Stocks continued to climb in today's short market session, the movement growing lively toward the close, as bears who had sold short in anticipation of heavy week-end profit-taking scrambled to cover their commitments at increasingly costly levels. Week-end realizing was moderate, and was quickly absorbed by speculators for the rise.

The price index of 90 leading stocks rose a little more than a point to a new high for the year at 186, as compared to the previous peak of 185.5, recorded Feb. 13. Trading was only moderately active, total sales for the two-hour session aggregating 1,856,700 shares.

The market remained a professional trading affair, and failed to reflect the rather meager week-end news. Report from the Youngstown steel trade stated that Youngstown Sheet & Tube expects to operate at about 70 per cent of capacity next week, as reduced from 75. Steel scrap prices sagged a little at Chicago, after their recent advances.

Utilities Are Higher.

Moderate firming in credit is expected next week, as March 1 disbursement checks reach the banks for collection. Although credit rates for commercial loans have not come down in proportion with the rates for the more liquid funds used by the stock market, it is believed in banking sources that the course of credit rates generally is still gradually downward.

Utility, Tobacco and Chemical shares were strong features of the market. American Tobacco B rose more than 8 points to a new high level. Allied Chemical sold up 7½. North American, American Power and Light and Pacific Lighting moved up 2 to 3 points to the best levels of the year. Radio was bid up more than a point to a new 1930 high above 50 in fast and furious trading. There have appeared no new developments in radio to account for its recent upturn, but a strong speculative group previously interested in the issue is rumored to have again taken it in hand. United States Steel gained more than a point.

Other shares selling at new 1930 peaks included Air Reduction, Burroughs Adding, Cutler Hammer, Foundation Co., McKeesport Tin plate, Oliver Farm Equipment, Remington Rand, United Aircraft and United Biscuit. Gulf States Steel sold up more than 4 points on indications that a proxy fight is developing in preparation for the annual meeting, March 24, when the matter of reputed competitive endeavors of the Eaton interests and American Rolling Mill may come up.

Laclede Gas Up 24½ Points.

Laclede Gas, which has not traded in some time, changed hands at 237, a gain of 24½ points.

Interborough lost 3 points in response to failure of its last court move for a higher fare. Midland Steel lost 3 of yesterday's 13-point rise. Underwood Elliott lost a couple of points in realizing.

Commodity markets reacted moderately. Wheat futures encountered considerable realizing on its recent advance, and broke a couple of cents, but rallied to close ¾ of a cent lower to ¼ higher. Cotton futures reacted about $1 a bale.

Leading foreign exchanges were steady. Sterling Cables ruled a shade higher at $4.86. The Spanish peseta, however, was further depressed by political uncertainties, and far Eastern currencies were extremely weak, reflecting the continued decline of silver.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, March 1.—Rubber futures opened steady: May $16.10; July $16.50; Sept. $16.90.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Rubber futures closed barely steady: May, 15.90c; July, 16.30c; September, 16.80c.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Rubber, spot, smoked ribbed 15¾.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 1.—There was no change in the local raw sugar market today. It was reported included 5,000 bags of Porto Rican late yesterday to an operator for prompt shipment at 3.55c and 29,000 bags of Porto Ricon today for March shipment to an outport refiner at 3.52c. Cables from Cuba said that the single seller had sold 50,000 tons of Cuban for April to July shipment to European buyers at 1.56c to 1.52, f. o. b. Cuba and 40,000 bags of Cuban to a foreign refiner at 2c cost and freight, to be refined for export.

Price changes in raw futures were narrow and while the near months held comparatively steady, later positions were easier under liquidation and some selling which was believed to be for European account. The volume of business was of small proportions, with the day's transactions aggregating only 5000 tons, with operators in general inclined to limit fresh commitments and await new developments. The fact that duty free rould still be obtained at last paid prices in the spot market probably restricted fresh buying, but at the same time offerings were not aggressive and may have been influenced by the disappointing London cables. The market closed at unchanged to 2 points net decline. March closed 1.92c. May 1.71c. July 1.80c. Sept., 1.87c. Dec. 1.96c; Jan. 1.98c.

Refined was unchanged at 4.95c for fine granulated, with demand again light and limited to nearby requirements only.

Sugar futures closed quiet. Approximate sales, 5000 tons; March 1.82c; May, 1.71c; July, 1.80c; September, 1.87c; December, 1.96c; January, 1.98c.

Silk Market.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Raw silk futures closed easy: sales, 2170 bales; May, 4.22; July, 4.16; September, 4.13; open market quotations (60-day basis): Shanghai steam extra A, 4.15; Canton double extra A, 14-18s, 2.55; Japanese crack extra, 4.17.

TELEPHONE ISSUE LEADS BOND TRADE

American Telephone Convertible Bonds Reach New 1930 High.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A few convertibles and rails gave the bond market most of its business today. The session was one of the dullest in months.

Nearly one-fourth of the volume was in American Telephone's share privilege 4½s, which rose to the new 1930 high of 161⅞, finishing at 160¾ for a net gain of exactly a point. The turnover was $1,000,000, par value. Parmelee Transportation 6s made another spirited advance, rising 1½ net to 84½. American I. G. Chemical 5½s lost the same amount. Chesapeake Corporation 5s were active under their high for the year.

Rails remained firm, led by Rock Island refunding 4s, New Haven 4½s, Southern Railway general 4s and Nickel Plate 6s.

Armour of Delaware 5½s ranged down 1⅛ to a new 1930 low of 81⅝. Goodyear Tire 5s, American Smelting 5s, Phillips Petroleum 5½s and Sinclair Pipe Line 6s were fairly well taken, but moved narrowly.

Issues of Interborough Rapid Transit, a New York City Traction, sold off on the court decision holding the 5-2, 5 1-43 contract binding. Power and Light and Telephone Co. bonds were quiet.

Less than $100,000, principal amount, was involved in the day's turnover in Liberties and treasuries, which were irregular. French bonds lagged, although Marseilles 6s managed to equal their year's peak. German General Electric 6s and Brazil 6½s off fractionally. Ilkeise duplicated their previous tops: Sweden 5½s rose ¾. Australia 5s, 1955 maturity, dropped a point to within a quarter point of their year's minimum.

Proposed Gulf States Steel Enlarge Two-Third Vote Rule

NEW YORK, March 1.—William H. Coverdale, president of the Gulf States Steel Corporation, has informed stockholders of a special meeting on March 24, the date of the annual meeting, to act on a proposal to amend the certificate of incorporation to require consent of holders of two-thirds of the stock before sale, lease or exchange of the assets of the corporation could be made.

The laws of Delaware, where the company is incorporated, require that in order to authorize consolidation or merger, the vote or consent of holders of two-thirds of the stock is necessary, but in case of lease or exchange of the properties and assets, the vote or consent of a majority is all that is required.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Total sales amounted to $4,100,000, compared with $9,215,000 yesterday, holiday a week ago and $4,942,000 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $413,959,000, compared with $444,208,000 last year and $556,736,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty Bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar, that is, for instance, a sale printed 99——24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today giving sales, high, low and closing prices.

HOG MARKET LOWER IN TRADE OF WEEK

Most of Butcher and Bacon Offerings Finish 25 to 40 Cents Lower.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., March 1.—(United States Department of Agriculture)—A slow demand and weak to lower prices for the dressed product at Eastern wholesale markets were reflected in the past week's trade in the cattle division even in spite of lighter receipts. Compared with a week ago, all killing classes were steady to 25c lower, with steers selling below $12 and all grades of cows in general showing losses of 15c to 25c. Vealers remained unchanged. Top for week: 606-lb. heifers, $13.50; 608-lb. mixed yearlings, $13.25; 1003-lb. yearlings, $13; 1370-lb. steers, $12.90; cows, $10; medium bulls, $8; vealers, $14.50. Heavy steers averaging 1976 to 1979 lbs. registered $11.00, $12.25 and $12.60, while medium weights scaling 1237 to 1280 lbs. ranged from $10.75 to $12.75, bulk $11.10 to $11.75. Other medium weight steers weighing 1104 to 1193 lbs. ranged from $10.60 to $12.85, bulk $11.15 to $12.60. Lightweight steers spread from $8.90 to $13, bulk $10 to $12.10, while bulk of all weights earned $10 to $12.50. Most of the better grade steers cashed at $12.25 to $12.85. Bulk of fat mixed yearlings and heifers registered $11.50 to $12.25, medium kinds principally $10.25 to $11.25. Bulk of cows cashed at $7 to $8.25, most low cutters $4.25 to $5.25 and cutters upward to $6.50. Best medium bulls stopped at $7.50 at the close of the week, while good to choice vealers bulked at $14. Stocker and feeder steers finished the week on a stronger basis, most of these on country account going at $9.50 to $10.75; top $11.50. Stock cows and heifers were unchanged, most cows clearing at $7 to $7.50 and heifers largely $8.50 to $9.50.

Hog Market Irregular.

Swine offerings this week totaled approximately 68,100 as compared with an actual count of 63,489 last week and 58,833 corresponding week last year. Fluctuating receipts and an uneven trend in dressed pork resulted in market irregularity in live trade. Tuesday and Friday were especially uneven and on each of these sessions many closing sales were 25c to 40c below early transactions. Top price reached $11.50 early Thursday, while many desirable lightweights sold late Friday at $11 and below. Net changes for the week favor killing interests, most butcher and bacon hogs finishing 25c to 40c lower and packing sows 15c to 20c lower. Pigs wound up mostly steady. Saturday trade was quoted steady to 10c lower than the average of Friday. Top held at $11.10 and all interests paid $11 to $11.10 for desirable 160 to 245 lb. weights. Most 220 to 245 lb butchers cleared at $10.75 to $10.90 and scattered lots of 250 to 270 lb butchers moved at $10.50 to $10.70. Extreme heavies were quotable down as low as $10, with a few scaling over 350 lbs at this figure late Friday. Pigs were scarce on the closing session. Most 130 to 150 lbs light lights turned at $10.25 to $10.35, though best 150s for the most part sold mixed up to near the top figure. Desirable 100 to 130 lb pigs cleared at $9.25 to $10.25. Packing sows earned $9.15 to $9.35, bulk around $9.25.

Fat Lambs Are Lower.

Approximately 7000 head of sheep were marketed this week, as compared with an actual count of 4881 last week and 3304 corresponding week last year. Under pressure from increased marketings here and in the aggregate elsewhere, fat lamb prices sank to new low levels for the season. Compared with a week ago, quotations were 75c to $1 lower, and compared with this time last year $0.50 to $7 lower. Lower grades suffered relatively less downturns, while fat ewes were almost lacking and held steady. Dressed lamb trade carried a lower tone and outlet failed to expand even at the lower prices. Wool carried a firm undertone, though little price change could be noted.

Colorado lambs and other fed Westerns comprised the bulk of local material, with most of the native supplies offered in less than local lots. Practical top for the week was $11, paid by all interests on Monday, though a city butcher did pay $11.25 for a small lot on that session. Bulk of wooled lambs during the week earned $10 to $10.50, and at the close nothing was able to pass $10. Throwouts cleared at $8 to $8.50. Clipped lambs topped early in the week at $10.25, with the bulk for the period averaging 74 to 85 pounds and selling at $9.50 to $10.10. On Friday two doubles, which averaged 83 and 88 pounds, respectively, went to packers at $9.25. Fat ewes were salable at $4 to $5.50, according to weight and quality. Yearlings were practically lacking all week, but were quoted lower, in line with lambs.

Horses and Mules.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, March 1.—The horse and mule trade this week has been brisk and ready to strong; chean and medium priced mules of 800 to 1100 pounds average selling almost as fast as they came in, few retting into the auction ring. In horses farm chunks of 1100 to 1400 pounds were in best demand. A good clearance was easily effected although receipts were of fairly heavy proportions.

Native Horse Quotations—Good to choice draft, $125@150; medium to good draft, $100@125; good to choice chunks, $75@100; medium of chunks, $50@60; good choice southern horses, $40@55; fair to good southern horses, $25@35; smooth-mouthed southern horses, $15@25; plugs, $5@15.

Native Mule Quotations—Draft mules, 16 to 17 hands, $185@225; mine mules, 15 to 16.2 hands, $150@185; sugar mules, mostly 16 hands, $160@190; cane mules, $130@165; cotton mules, mares, fat, good hair, 14.2 to 15 hands, $90@140; cotton mules, rough-haired, 15 to 15.2 hands, $75@125; cotton mules, mares, rough-haired, 14.2 to 15 hands $45@85. Horse mules, $160@200 per head less than above quotations. Farm mules, broke, good bone, 15.2 to 16 hands, $100@150; medium farm mules, $85@100; farm mules, thin, half broke, 15.2 to 16 hands, $50@75; small, common mules, $15@40.

MAY WHEAT CLOSES UP AFTER DECLINE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 1.—Lower Liverpool market credited to March deliveries and dearth of new export demand for North American wheat were said to have been responsible for an early decline in wheat here. May, however, closed a fraction higher. Lower temperature was expected in part of winter wheat belt. Corn closed unchanged to higher.

In the cash grain market, soft wheat was steady. Offerings were very light. Quotations of 2 cars No. 3 and several cars mixed. Local elevators took all of the available supply. There were orders in the market for No. 2 but none was offered and there were no sales reported from store of this class. Sales of No. 2 were on a basis 2c to 5½c above the Chicago May figure. No. 2 was nominally 8c above the Chicago May and stored wheat was 1c to 1c. Supplies were light. There was a pretty good demand from mills for top grades and low protein bleading types, but lower grades were rather glow. No. 2 was salable at 2c below the Chicago May level. No. 1 hard winter sold at 1c below the Chicago May and No. 2 yellow hard at 1½c below. Corn was about steady. Offerings were moderate and cleared pretty well. The white variety was taken on outside orders and the balance was absorbed by milicoge interests. Oats were unchanged. The better class met a fair demand locally while the off grades were absorbed by shippers.

The market opened a cent to more lower, prices picking up some after net declines of 1¼ cent. Liverpool closed 1⅑ to 1¼c lower. Winnipeg nearly 2c lower and recovered some early. Corn was down fractionally early.

May wheat opened at $1.13, July wheat $1.13, May corn 88½c and July corn 91c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 64 400 bushels, compared with holiday a week ago and 186,800 a year ago, included 33 cars local and 13 through. Corn receipts, which were 99,400 bushels, compared with holiday a week ago and 109,000 a year ago, included 39 cars local and 32 through. Oats receipts, which were 66,000 bushels, compared with holiday a week ago and 44,000 a year ago, included 25 cars local and 5 through. Hay receipts were 2 cars local and 4 through.

LIVESTOCK FUTURES TRADE INAUGURATED AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Pigs on the hoof carved a new niche for themselves in the history of commerce today as the Chicago Livestock Exchange began its initial trading in livestock futures.

The first carload of hogs was sold at 10:35 a. m., the minute the trading on the Exchange opened. It was a carload of standard lightweights for September delivery, purchased by the Wilson Packing Co. for 12 cents a pound. Several carloads of standard medium-weight hogs were bought for April and May delivery at $12 a hundred pounds, nearly 50 cents higher than top prices in the cash market.

For an hour before the actual buying and selling started the new enterprise was wished well by the Chicago Grain Exchange, and representatives from the Chicago Livestock banks.

Although the commission men and the buyers appeared a bit awkward at the opening, and the trading was slowed up by their unfamiliarity with the system, board markers became busier after the first half hour. Trading closed at 12 o'clock, the regular hour on Saturdays.

WHEAT CLOSES UNSETTLED AT FRACTIONAL DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Rallied by purchasing operations ascribed to Farm Board allies, prices of March and May wheat contracts here recovered sharply today from early severe downturns. July and September contracts, however, representing wheat yet to be grown, failed to keep step and finished with material losses. The chief apparent source of today's weakness in wheat values was heavy deliveries on March contracts at Liverpool, together with dearth of new export demand for wheat from North America.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled ⅛c to 1¾c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ¼c advance, oats ⅛c to ¼c up, and provisions showing 7c to 10c decline.

At first, the wheat market here suffered from a sleting stampede today in which prices tumbled down all around, the fall amounting in as much as 3¾c a bushel in some cases.

Helping notably, though, to encourage wheat buyers in Chicago today and to overcome the bearish influence of European news were forecasts of a cold wave threatening the United States winter wheat belt now altogether without the protection of a snow blanket. During the price fluctuations which ensued, however, May wheat lost its premium as compared with Chicago May. Another late feature was fresh buying of May wheat here, accompanied by simultaneous selling of July. The outcome for the market as a whole was largely determined by purchase of about 2,000,000 bushels of May wheat ascribed as for Government-sponsored agencies.

Corn met a lower tendency to increased purchasing for commission houses. Receivers reported little evidence of much of a movement of corn from rural sources.

The oats market paralleled the action of corn. Provisions were down, responsive to a setback in hog values.

Closing bids and offers: Wheat—March $1.07; trade 13¾; May $1.13¾-¾; trade July $1.11¼-⅜; $1.17¼-⅜; September, $1.12⅝; $1.18¼. Corn—May 87⅝-¾, 89⅛@89⅜; July, 89⅝c, 92¼c; September, 89⅝c, 92¼c.

Cash wheat market was steady to easy on poor quality grades, choice grades firming firm. Trading basis called unchanged. Shipping sales 10,000 bushels; deliveries on March contracts today 5,240,000 bushels. Although export sales were moderate yesterday, seaboard reported fresh business today, and a positive firm tone.

Cash corn ruled steady to 1c easier. Trading basis unchanged to ½c lower. Deliveries on March contracts 316,000 bushels.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES DOLLAR A BALE LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Cotton was lower today under renewed liquidation which was promoted by declines in wheat and accompanied by talk of a slightly easier technical position following recent rallies. May contracts sold off from 15.52c to 15.20c and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net losses of 20 to 28 points. Middling 15.10c.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 3 points. There was some buying on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool and further covering, but the demand was light, and prices soon turned easier under week-end realizing. This appeared to be combined with some selling on the weakness in the wheat market, and prices worked gradually lower during the balance of the morning. March sold off to 15.00c, and October to 15.85c. With active months generally showing net losses of 20 to 28 points and the close was at the lowest prices of the day. Trading in the new contracts was relatively quiet, and business in the old contracts was attributed largely to the evening up of old accounts, although business became a little more active toward the close.

Traders seemed to find little or nothing in week-end reviews of the cotton goods market to create fresh sentiment.

Liverpool cable said there had been Continental buying, trade calling and covering in the cotton market there, and that the home trade in cotton goods was rather better.

One of the reports reaching here as to Manchester conditions took a very unfavorable view of the increase in Indian duties on piece goods while other said that Lancashire spinners were looking for an increased business with that country in the near future. There was less switching from near to late months in the market here and differences between old and new crop positions narrowed to some extent, as May closed 54 points under December compared with 60 points at the close of the previous day.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 135,000 bales against 140,000 the previous week.

BROADWAY SITE RESOLD 10 DAYS AFTER PURCHASE

Property at 704 North Broadway Bought by Edward English From Stedelin Brothers.

By Berry Moore

A downtown record was established yesterday in the resale of the property at 704-06-08-10 North Broadway, owned by Stedelin brothers, who had purchased it 10 days ago through the Mullin-Walters Real Estate Co.

The purchaser was Edward English, a professional real estate operator, who declined to disclose the purchase price, but who, it is understood, paid Stedelin brothers a generous profit on their investment. The resale was negotiated by David P. Leahy. English was represented in the transaction by the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co.

The property, a three-story building with a 78-foot frontage on Broadway, adjoins the corner of Broadway and Lucas avenue. Space in the building is occupied by the Broadway Savings Trust Co., whose quarters also include the ground floor of the building at Broadway and Lucas.

Opposite Union Market.

This block is opposite the new Union Market, representing an investment, exclusive of the site, of $1,200,000. Inside ground in this block is held at as high as $1500 a foot, with higher prices prevailing for corner holdings, according to real estate men. The southeast corner of Broadway and Lucas avenue was sold 25 years ago for $72,000. As this property has a 48-foot frontage on Broadway, the price paid at that time was at the rate of $1500 a front foot. The depth is only 40 feet. This purchase was under a partition sale, made by the late John Dockery, founder of the real estate firm of John Dockery & Son, for an estate which owned it.

Stedelin brothers' purchase, according to real estate men, has caused a demand for property on North Broadway in this section. Negotiations are now pending for several corners as well as inside holdings on this thoroughfare in this locality.

The building formerly occupied by the Franklin Bank, now merged with the American Trust Co., at the northeast corner of Broadway and Washington avenue, has been attracting attention from both financial institutions and business interests in the market for a building of this type. It is controlled by the Franklin-American Trust Co. under a 25-year lease, which has 12 years to run. The fee is owned by an estate. Both the lease and the fee are available, it is understood, at a reasonable valuation. The property has a frontage of 67 feet on Washington with a depth of 56 feet on Broadway.

Prices Relatively Low.

Purchasers in this section are sought principally by speculators, who have just awakened to the relatively low prices in that part of the city, real estate men declare.

There was a renewed demand for apartments near the end of the month, which is interpreted as foreshadowing a big movement in property of this character in the spring.

Negotiations, it is understood, are progressing with the Housam Realty Co. for the purchase of the Marne and the Browning apartments, five-story fireproof structures at 5528-36 Pershing avenue. These apartments are said to be sought by a life insurance company as an investment. The listed price of the property is $500,000.

The buildings, twin structures, occupy a lot 150 by 165 feet. Each contains 45 apartments. Mrs. Minnie Housam, president of the Housam Realty Co., is the owner.

Negotiations on behalf of Chicago interests are under way for the Ranelagh and Wilmar Hotel Apartments, six and eight story structures, with a frontage of 185 feet on De Baliviere avenue with a depth of 125 feet on McPherson avenue. The buildings contain 155 units, available furnished or unfurnished, with or without hotel service. The two structures are owned by Mrs. Housam, who values the property at $1,250,000. The corner part of the site is valued at $2000 a foot on De Baliviere. The premises include a one-story building on De Baliviere avenue occupied by the Trellis Tea Room.

Sales by Albert Wenzlick Co.

The Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Co. reports sales as follows: 5565 Minerva avenue, from H. H. K. Schwerdtmann and Isabelle C. Schwerdtmann to John Dooly; 5121 Wayne avenue, from William J. Forline and Daisy I. Forline to John Dooly; lot No. 40, block 6, Wenzlick Park, from Albert Wenzlick to Raymond E. and Mercedes Halbruegger; 5865 Minerva avenue, from John Dooly to William J. Forline and Daisy I. Forline. Nine brick bungalows are being started this week in Wenzlick Park, two on Clifton avenue,

REALTY MARKET PROSPECTS BEST SINCE LAST SPRING

Marked Interest Shown in This Class of Investment Toward the Close of February.

More interest in real estate was manifested at the close last month than has been observed here since last spring. Buyers have kept out of the real estate market pending a readjustment of prices. Sentiment is increasing, that the readjustment in prices has gone far enough, and that now is the time to buy.

In not a few instances prices are now below actual values, real estate men contend, as a result of the readjustment in prices. This, they say, applies especially to apartment buildings and flats. An unusually large number of buildings of these types is on the bargain counter.

Real estate men are urging the purchase of apartments and flats on the theory that the market position of buildings in this category has been improved to no small extent by the restrictions placed on loans which have reduced construction of this character to the minimum.

Marked interest is shown in residences, the prices of which have also been substantially reduced. Indications are that sales of residential property will be a feature of the spring movement, with the trend of prices upward.

Renewed speculative as well as investment interest also is manifest in business holdings in both the downtown and midtown centers, as well as at focal points in the outlying parts of the city, in North and South St. Louis and the West End.

The Mercantile Commerce, Hemmelman & Spackler Real Estate Co., the Anderson-Stocke Real Estate Co., Franciscus Real Estate Co., the Laclede Bond and Mortgage Co., the Chester A. Dougherty Real Estate Co., Giraldin Bros. Real Estate Co. report a large number of applications for loans, which is taken to indicate a renewal of interest in real estate. The movement is expected to receive further impetus with the return of leaders in real estate from winter resorts.

Several large apartment projects, some of them in the skyscraper class, have been announced since the first of the year to be constructed this spring. While many of these are announced in good faith, not all of these projects are taken seriously. Some are thought to be mythical projects announced to discourage competitive building, a device not infrequently resorted to in the past by professional operators.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO MAKE $15 a Day

Quick, Cash Money

Right now I offer you a wonderful opportunity to make as high as $15 a day taking orders for Jiffykake—the marvelous, new, ready-mixed preparation that makes the most delicious, light, fluffy layer cakes, loaf cakes and cup cakes in a jiffy. No flour, eggs, milk, sugar, flavor or shortening needed. No guesswork—results certain. Easy to use—quick and convenient.

No Experience or Capital Needed

All you have to do is show Jiffykake to housewives in your locality and handle their orders. They must buy from you because Jiffykake is sold through stores. Jiffykake contains the same pure ingredients used in the home—eggs, flour, sugar, shortening, baking powder and flavorings—all completely mixed by expert bakers. Just add water and bake. Two kinds—plain and chocolate.

$18.75 in One Day

Jiffykake is only one of my fast-moving, profitable products that offer a chance to earn amazing profits in full time or spare time. R. Lile, of Oklahoma, cleared $18.75 in one day. L. C. McArthur, of Michigan, made $31 the first day in a home. E. J. Floyd, of Florida, reports profits as high as $20 in a single day. And Mrs. Root, of South Carolina, cleared $50 the first week in spare time. Of course, some make more than others. But these earnings of a few of my people show the wonderful possibilities. And how I am offering you a proposition even better than the one I made these people.

SEND NO MONEY

You positively don't need any capital or experience. All I want you to do is help me introduce Jiffykake in your community. You can carry a sample right in your pocket. I show you exactly what to do to make big money. If you would like to make $1.00 to $2.00 an hour in spare time or $8 to $15 in a day, just send me your name. Let me tell you how to introduce Jiffykake in your locality. Mail the coupon today—RIGHT NOW.

Majestic Radio
MIGHTY MONARCH OF THE AIR

"YOU CANNOT BUY A BETTER RADIO THAN MAJESTIC AT ANY PRICE"

WITH Matched Super-Tubes

Every Majestic tube has been so designed that each of the many little parts which go into it is over-size . . . easily able to give long service on unusual operating conditions . . . easily able to take care of heavy surges of power that sometimes occur on light lines. Its makers have not skimped anywhere in its construction. Because of this generous design, parts are kept rigidly in their proper position, which insures freedom from distortion and annoying background noises which would otherwise result.

Cantor and Marx Brothers

"Whoopee" to Hold Stage at the American Tonight While "Animal Crackers" Will Be on View at the Shubert—Guy Bates Post Visiting Star With Casey Players in "The Play's the Thing"—Cantor Threatens to Roll His Own "Hamlet"

SOME distinguished stage stars come to St. Louis this week to be on display in their several lines of endeavor. The American Theater will have Eddie Cantor in his Ziegfeldian show, "Whoopee," and the Brothers Marx—four of 'em—will be in opposition out at the Shubert with their "Animal Crackers." In a more serious vein, although his vehicle is a comedy-drama, Guy Bates Post comes for a two weeks' stay with the Casey Players at the Orpheum in "The Play's the Thing," a piece in which he has appeared in many parts of the world but which was done in St. Louis some years ago by the late Holbrook Blinn.

"Whoopee" arrives here direct from the Illinois Theater, Chicago, and following a run of almost a full year at the New Amsterdam Theater in New York. The story is based on Owen Davis' old play, "The Nervous Wreck," and was written by William Anthony McGuire, the man responsible for such previous Ziegfeld successes as "Kid Boots," "Rosalie" and "The Three Musketeers."

Cantor has no less than four leading women in this, which he says is to be his last, stage production. They are Frances Upton, Janet Reade, Virginia Franck and Tamara Geva. Miss Upton was featured in the 1927 "Follies." Janet Reade is making her musical comedy debut in "Whoopee." Tamara Geva was the dance star of the last edition of Balieff's "Chauve Souris" and is now under a long term Ziegfeld contract. Virginia Franck was recently the featured dancer in "Americana."

As always with a Ziegfeld show, the chorus of glorified girls is said to be one of the chief attractions.

"ANIMAL CRACKERS," which brings the Marx brothers back to the Shubert tonight, is from the pen of George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind and the music and lyrics are by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby. The revue is in two acts and deals with country life among the newly rich on Long Island, whose costly entertainments and receptions are given with the view of crashing exclusive society circles. Groucho Marx appears upon the scene as an African explorer, and is the lion of the hour, Zeppo is his secretary, Harpo is a professor and Chico is the leader of the band hired for the occasion.

"Animal Crackers" served New York all last season. It is reported to be handsomely dressed, elaborately staged and to include one of the comeliest and peppiest choruses to be seen in many a season.

✡ ✡ ✡ ✡

GUY BATES POST will be the visiting guest star with Arthur Casey Players at the Orpheum Theater, for two weeks beginning tonight. He will appear in "The Play's the Thing," a delightful, sophisticated comedy from the pen of Ferenc Molnar. It was adapted for the American stage by P. G. Wodehouse. It tells of an unwitting and unfortunate eavesdropping on the part of a young composer and two elderly playwrights who have collaborated on the former's first operetta. They arrive at a castle on the Italian Riviera late one evening for a holiday, and perforce must listen while the prima donna of the show, who is the young man's fiancee, pulsates in the next room through an ardent scene with a former lover—all at the top of their voices. The idealistic young composer, overwhelmed with his own personal dictaphone evidence that his idol has feet of clay, wants to tear up his music and kill himself to show his chagrin. One of the elderly playwrights, Guy Bates Post as Sandor Turai, proceeds very deftly to right matters, partly out of sympathy for his young protege, partly because he does not want to lose his promised royalties. Grace Troy, the only woman in the cast, will appear as the prima donna.

Following "The Play's the Thing," Mary Hart will be featured for two weeks, beginning Sunday night, March 16, in "The Shanghai Gesture."

EDDIE CANTOR, the star of "Whoopee," has been saying for some time that this is to be his last season on the stage and although he is bringing his long and successful run of "Whoopee" to a close next week in Cleveland, his determination to retire may be taken with a grain of salt. Already he is casting longing eyes on Shakspeare with a view to a modern, and probably pepped up, jazz time version of "Hamlet."

"I'm going to roll my own version of 'Hamlet,'" he says. "Mine has the tentative title of 'Graveyard Stuff.' I may change that just before the curtain goes up. I will probably change everything several times to conform with the custom of the moment. Of course, I shall try it out until it sizzles before going into New York. Maybe a stock company under canvas at Saginaw, Mich., where the salt comes from. Or maybe Syracuse, another good salt town. That should make it a fine salty play. Or I may bring it in cold. If a theater, unoccupied, by the movies, is not available I may build one. Or I may not. Maybe I'll start it over in Newark, where they've never seen 'Hamlet' in any form.

"The scenario is still in the rough. At the risk of having to spend a few thousand bucks for suits against plagiarism I'll tell you confidentially what's in the back of my head.

"Rosencranz and Guildenstern will be a firm of Wall street curb brokers. Claudius, the pizenous villain, is a narcotic peddler whose license has run out. The gravediggers are cut-rate undertakers. The only real lady in the cast is Ophelia.

"THERE won't be any ultrafashionable attire in my version. All readymades, with extra pants free. I don't want to offend the clothing interests. Maybe I'll throw in a few secondhands to please the boys who wake us along with the icemen and hucksters. But I may omit that. It is not my desire to disturb the peace.

"That's the general costume idea. Four of my little daughters are working now on the designs—cutting them from the Sunday comics. The baby is at the age of discretion when she won't play with scissors. There may, or may not be, a whole lot of other new ideas, but I'll not give away the whole show. All rights will be reserved. I don't care for kings and queens, but I love my royalties.

"Who is to play Hamlet? That character is out, entirely superfluous. The big Dane is dead and doesn't know it. So what's the use of paying him a salary?

"As the thing stands now, when the curtain falls on a corpse-strewn stage with nobody alive but the stagehands, the piano player,

Rachmaninoff in Concert at the Hotel Jefferson

SERGEI RACHMANINOFF, the Russian pianist, will give his piano recital, announced for Wednesday evening, March 12, at 8:30, in the Gold Room of the Hotel Jefferson. The Gold Room of Hotel Jefferson has been the scene of many affairs, but this is the first time an artist of the rank of Rachmaninoff has been presented there. The engagement is under the direction of Elizabeth Cueny. Rachmaninoff has been one of the few sensationally successful artists since his debut to America in 1918.

As pianist and as composer of music for the piano, Rachmaninoff primarily addresses himself to the American public. For years in Russia, in other countries of Europe and in America since 1918, he has given proof of his remarkable technical powers. A master of the keyboard, he has shown no less ability as an interpretative artist. In particular these qualities shine through his own music, which will make a part of his program. It will range from preludes and other short, fanciful pieces which every amateur knows, through exacting works of large dimensions.

Rin Tin Tin in Person.

Rin Tin Tin, whose career on the screen was cut short by the advent of talkies, is now being featured in RKO vaudeville and will be seen and heard in person at the St. Louis Theater next week.

Municipal Opera to Open June 2

A LAST minute change in plans of the Municipal Theater Association calls for the opening of the 1930 Municipal Opera season on Monday, night, June 2, instead of June 9 as was previously announced. The decision of directors of the organization to advance the summer's opening date in Forest Park one week was reached to accommodate thousands of visitors who are to be in St. Louis as delegates to conventions booked for the first week in June. As a matter of fact, several conventions were arranged for that week in anticipation of the opera's opening and reservation of seats was included in the plan of entertainment being worked out by the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau.

Max Koenigsberg, divisional director of repertory of the opera, and Arthur Siegel, divisional director of cast, are to confer in New York early next week with Milton L. Shubert, newly engaged general productions manager, as to the operas that are to be produced this summer. Negotiations for 12 works new to the Municipal Theater stage are pending with musical producers and contracts for production rights are to be closed shortly. While in New York the two opera officials and Shubert are to discuss tentative casts for the pieces finally selected for production and also will engage a musical director and other members of the productions staff.

As has been told, Shubert will be in complete charge of all production matters. The recent reorganization of the Municipal Theater Association completely divorced the productions department from the business office. David E. Russell, who has been business manager since the opera started in 1919, will continue in that position this year.

To overcome the hardships of midnight rehearsals that were necessary in previous years, the association is planning to build a stage for practice purposes. This stage will be in the Municipal Theater grounds and will be covered so that it can be used at all times.

The association's campaign for a guarantee fund is well under way with $70,000 in subscriptions now on hand. It is hoped to obtain 1000 guarantors and a fund of $100,000. This phase of the opera activities is being looked after by M. E. Holdernest, a vice president of the First National Bank, and Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The advance ticket reservations for next summer exceed $60,000 and the task of assigning seat locations to the season reservations will start this week. Many box locations will be changed owing to the elimination of a row of box seats to provide room for a promenade of 10 feet that is to be restored between the boxes and the first row of seats in the auditorium.

Goossens to Offer Several Novelties For "Pop" Concert

EUGENE GOOSSENS, for the Pop concert at the Odeon at 3:15 p. m. today, will offer Saint-Saens' symphonic poem "The Wheel of Omphale," a group of excerpts from "Wagner's "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg," the Polovtsian Dances from Borodin's "Prince Igor," and the "Peer Gynt" Suite No. 2—not the often-heard first suite—together with Mozart's overture to "The Marriage of Figaro."

The program in detail is:

Overture to "The Marriage of Figaro" ..... Mozart
Suite: "Scenes Pittoresque" ..... Massenet
(a) March
(b) Air de Ballet
(c) The Angelus
(d) Fete Boheme
Symphonic poem: "The Wheel of Omphale" ..... Saint-Saens
Excerpts from "The Mastersingers of Nuremberg" ..... Warner
I. Prelude to Act III
II. Dance of the Apprentices
III. Procession of the Masters.
Peer Gynt Suite No. 2 ..... Grieg
(a) Abduction of the Bride
(b) Arabian dance
(c) Peer Gynt's Homecoming
(d) Solveig's Song
Interludes from "The Jewels of the Madonna" ..... Wolf-Ferrari
Dances from "Prince Igor" ..... Borodin

Whooping Up the Movies

When "The Vagabond King" Comes to Town Next Thursday Night the Missouri Will Turn on the Fireworks—In the Meantime the Fox Has Cornered a Lot of Stars for "Happy Days"—Winifred Westover Staging a Comeback in "Lummox" After Long Rest.

By NIE

ST. LOUIS is to get a touch of high life in a cinema palace the latter part of this week when, on Thursday night, the Missouri Theater begins a run of "The Vagabond King." With the same sort of fireworks which will be touched off here the picture will be shown, the same night, in all the large cities of the country. For the occasion the Missouri will make motion pictures of the crowd storming the doors—if any—microphones will be installed in the lobby for visiting notables to say a few words to the world at large and society experts will describe the gowns worn by Veiled Prophet Queens and others of Our Set as they arrive. All seats will be reserved and, for the occasion, the ante will be lifted to $1.50—which is as close to the $10, which was the charge in New York, as the Brothers Skouras believe the local traffic will stand.

And while all this is going on—before it in fact—the Fox Theater across the street, will be having a big picture of its own, "Happy Days," a film in which a great many of the stars of Hollywood will be seen, and heard. This is the first feature made on the new wide film to be shown, through special projection machines, on a large screen. As the local Fox Theater is not yet equipped for this sort of display—only one house in the country is really ready for that—"Happy Days" will be on view in the regulation manner. In the cast, just to mention a few of the celebrities, are: El Brendel, Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Will Rogers, Walter Catlett, William Collier Sr., Warner Baxter, James J. Corbett, Tom Patricola, J. Harold Murray, Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, Ann Pennington, David Rollins, Nick Stuart and George Jessel.

WITH a lot of newcomers flitting into the films in these two pictures—"The Vagabond King" has Dennis King, one of the finest tenors of the light opera stage in his original role—an old timer will be staging a come-back in "Lummox" down at Loew's. This is none other than Winifred Westover, the former Mrs. William S. Hart, who, after an absence of eight years, is returning to the screen.

Miss Westover quit pictures at the height of her career and continued in private life until Herbert Brenon decided to film Fannie Hurst's favorite novel. Then she competed with more than 100 Hollywood and New York stars, who sought to immortalize "Lummox" on the talking screen, finally convinced Brenon that she was "destined by fate" to play the part, and ate fattening foods over a period of six weeks to attain the clumsy figure demanded by the characterization.

Miss Westover, born in San Francisco, was reared in Northern California and attended Dominican Convent at San Rafael. It was during a vacation in San Francisco at the age of 14 that fate took a hand and started her on a screen career. D. W. Griffith was in San Francisco for the showing of his "The Birth of a Nation." Her blonde beauty attracted his attention when he saw her entering the theater, and he persuaded her relatives to let her take motion picture tests. The result was a contract. She went to Los Angeles and worked for the first time in "Intolerance."

After two years with the Griffith Company, she was chosen as Douglas Fairbanks' leading woman and played in "The Half Breed" and "The Matrimaniac." Then followed parts opposite such stars as Monte Blue, William Russell, De Wolf Hopper, Harry Carey, Conway Tearle, Eugene O'Brien and William S. Hart, who she later married. Miss Westover also has played in pictures for Swedish and Danish companies.

GETTING in shape, or out of it, as Miss Westover was forced to do for her role in "Lummox" is not a trouble which the movie directors have to worry about when they want extra people for pictures. The director simply orders so many girls or boys and Hollywood supplies them "with" or "without."

Calls from studio casting offices may specify "20 girls with evening dresses" or "50 old men without beards."

In "Slightly Scarlet," co-starring Evelyn Brent and Clive Brook, extras with French accents were in demand.

All musical shows must have chorus girls without knock knees.

Thirty extras with automobiles was the first day's call for "Let's Go Native," a song romance featuring Jeanette MacDonald, Jake Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, James Hall, Kay Francis, William Austin and others.

For Gary Cooper's newest starring picture, "Only the Brave," which is at the Ambassador this week, a call was issued for extras both "with" and "without." Fifty girls with Southern accents and without bobbed hair were required—and found.

AMONG these extras of today may be some of the stars of tomorrow but the younger movies cannot aspire as yet to compete with the stage in the matter of "royal families," yet one does not have to look far in Hollywood to see beginnings of a new community of histrionic dynasties such as the Drews and the Barrymores.

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., is the most successful representative of the "second movie generation" to date, and is married to Joan Crawford, already a star. The son and daughter of Francis X. Bushman, the one-time matinee idol, also are in pictures. Francis X. Jr. and Lenore now are engaged in the struggle for recognition in their own right, while Phillips Holmes, son of Taylor Holmes of stage and screen, has made much progress toward that end.

Many of those who once, as the stage expression goes, "lived in trunks," now are ensconced in Hollywood homes, thanks to the microphone, and are contributing their luster to the screen and its chances for establishment of "regal lines."

Two of the three Barrymores, John and Lionel, of the stage's "royal family," have been screen fixtures for years, and the union of John and Dolores Costello, sister of Helene and daughter of Maurice, the early screen hero, amounts to a wedding of stage and screen.

At least four other Broadway families are represented in Hollywood now, with the three daughters of Richard Bennett, Joan, Constance and Barbara, setting a pace in talkies, and Owen Davis there with his two sons, Owen Jr., and Don.

The Gleasons, James, Lucile and their son, Russell, are established in a Beverly Hills home, while the Broadway Eatons, Pearl, Doris, Charles and Mary, who is the wife of Millard Webb, the director, all are pursuing film careers, as are their mother's two grandchildren.

THE breakneck gallop of charging cavalrymen, the roar of cannon and bursting shells will again feature a D. W. Griffith film when the producer-director recreates Sheridan's ride to victory in the battlefield scenes of "Abraham Lincoln."

All of the sensational war "shots" of this all-talking romance of

Second Thoughts on the Wagner Season

Wagner's Music as an Expression of Adolescent Love—Why an Overhauling of Customs, Scenery and Stage Effects Is Needed.

By THOMAS B. SHERMAN.

WHETHER the musical doctrinaries like it or not it is perfectly obvious that Richard Wagner always has his way with an audience whenever one of his major operas is given a reasonably competent performance. This has been true for the last 30 or 40 years, it was true during the recent performance of the "Ring" cycle in St. Louis and it will be true, I am convinced, 200 years from now.

It is easy enough to recall examples of Wagner's exaggerated pathos and his outmoded heroics when one is considering the subject in a detached way over a cup of coffee. But in the actual presence of his music, the theories by which Wagner is disposed of, are generally dissipated. The quality of excitement which is generated in Wagnerian audiences is unlike the enthusiasm of the usual opera addict. It is more like the state of mind which results from a direct emotional experience.

Out of the miscellany of reflections induced by my own recent encounter with Wagner I choose the one concerned with his possible immortality as being the most provocative. Is it not possible that his music will endure even after the Eroica Symphony and the B Minor Mass have begun to molder on the antiquarian's shelf? If one answers in the affirmative, as I am inclined to do, it will not be because one is convinced of Wagner's predominant greatness or even that he is great at all. As a matter of fact almost any characteristic work of Beethoven, Bach or Mozart makes Wagner, by comparison seem adolescent. And that, of course, is precisely the point.

Wagner is immortal because he has achieved a perfect expression or instinctive, biological love—the love that has not yet been modified by experience of life or the cultivation of the specifically human virtues and that usually reaches its high tide in early manhood.

ALL of his major operas—with the possible exception of "Die Meistersinger," reflect an invariable concern with some phase of a man's love for a woman or a woman's love for a man and his idea of the greatest human struggle is the one which is imposed by the conflicting claims of sacred and profane love. His favorite heroes are constantly engaged either in doing battle for some Ideal of Perfection in the form of a woman or in purifying himself after having yielded to some stock Seductress, also in the form of a woman.

True enough one encounters a complicated network of philosophy in most of the Wagnerian operas but one is prevented from taking it too seriously by the music which overlays it. The Good Friday Music from Parsifal is devotional in the same manner as the second act of Tristan and the beautiful theme which comes at the very end of "Goetterdammerung"— significant, we are told, of the redemption of the world from Force and Greed—might have expressed just as appropriately Siegmund's incestuous tenderness for Sieglinde.

Indeed all of that tall philosophical talk that Wagner goes in for is just another characteristic manifestation of adolescent love. For the young man who looks with longing upon a woman, every glance of her eye, every rise and fall of her bosom, every casual word from her lips, has cosmic reverberations. His own passion is likewise expressed in universal terms. But the phenomenon responsible for it all, is really not at all remarkable and is by no means peculiar to human beings.

I am far from sniffing at such an important institution as sexual attraction nor do I claim that human beings, however much they may develop those attributes which differentiate them from simpler animal organisms, can ever completely escape its effects. But the adolescent views the whole adventure in life as a tournament in which he does battle for the lady of his choice—a view which Wagner never completely abandoned.

It is for these reasons, then, that I believe Wagner's immortality to be assured. He will always have an irresistible appeal to those of us in whom the fantasies and illusions of youth still persist. Every bar of his music drips with sensuality. I like it.

BUT if Wagner's operas are to go on forever, let us hope that someone will completely overhaul their scenery, costumes and the general method of staging them before many more years have passed. With the art of illusion advanced as far as it is there is really no reason why they should suffer the unimaginative treatment that is accorded them by the Metropolitan Opera Company, the German Grand Opera Company and all other known opera companies.

Nothing would heighten the effect of the "Ring" cycle more than a complete stylizing of the whole production. Since a literal obedience to Wagner's stage directions is not possible even if it were desirable, any producer would be justified in elevating the whole thing to a level of pure fancy All the arts of decoration and design could be then applied directly to the task of intensifying the emotional significance of the music. Results might easily be breath-taking.

What, for instance, could not Gordon Craig do with the Ride of the Valkyries? Or imagine the chorus of the Gibichungs under Max Reinhardt's hand.

Facing the Music

At his regular Sunday organ recital this afternoon at Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3637 Lindell boulevard, O. Wade Fallert will offer the following program:

An organ recital under the auspices of Missouri Chapter American Guild of Organists will be given by Wilhelmina P. Nordman, assisted by Frederick R. Nordman, baritone, at Delmar Baptist Church, corner Washington boulevard and Skinker road, tomorrow night at 8:15.

The Morning Etude meets at Scruggs-Vandervoort Auditorium Wednesday at 10:15 a. m. with Dr. Ivan Lee Holt as guest speaker. His subject will be "Travels Through Palestine."

The next meeting of the Ladies' Friday Musical Club will be held on March 7 with Mrs. F. C. Papendick, 3511 Victor street, as hostess.

The Executive Committee of the Apollo-Morning Choral Clubs has announced that the organization is seeking new male members to assist in the presentation of Haydn's oratorio, "Creation," at the Odeon in May. Tenor or bass singers who wish to take part in the performance are asked to attend a rehearsal of the work at the Second Baptist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard, at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A. symphony orchestra concludes the musical program of the season with a concert Sunday evening, March 9, at 8:30 o'clock. This orchestra, which has been in existence over 10 years, is composed of young men and women of the association. They are under the direction of Irl B. Rosenblum. The soloist with the orchestra is Deborah Carnovsky, pianist. Miss Carnovsky has a favorable local reputation. She is the sister of Morris Carnovsky, who recently appeared in St. Louis with the Theater Guild in "Wings Over Europe."

The Players to Do A Three-Act Comedy

The Players, in conjunction with the Wednesday Club, will give a performance of "Doctor Knock," a comedy in three acts by Jules Romains, tomorrow night in the Wednesday Club auditorium. In the cast will be: L. Eric Applewhite, Max S. Muench, Miss Virginia Becker, James M. Carpenter III, L. Avon Blue, George B. Parks, Harry Richards, Miss Odette de Lecluse, Mrs. Roy Mackenzie, Dr. Edgar F. Schmitz, H. de Lecluse, Mrs. James M. Carpenter III and Mrs. L. Avon Blue.

OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.

LIONEL BARRYMORE doesn't think it'll be more than 10 years before motion picture theaters will be big pantheons, with landing roofs for airplanes.

Under a semi-circular dome will be shown pictures in three dimensions on all parts of a circular screen. Vocal effects will be localized; and the audience will be right in the middle of the action.

Cecil B. De Mille, who is working on his first musical film, which will be called "Madame Satan," figures that television will be applied in the newsreel field, but that it won't have a bad effect on theaters.

LIONEL BARRYMORE.

Fred Niblo, who made "Ben-Hur" and has just directed John Gilbert in "Redemption," thinks that there will be key theaters in the larger cities, and by a system of remote control the projectors and reproducers in all of the smaller theaters, on a "chain," will be operated in synchronization, the programs of the key theaters being reproduced exactly.

Clarence Brown, whose most recent film is "Anna Christie," first talking vehicle for Greta Garbo, was an engineer before he became a director. The possessor of what is considered the most scientifically inclined mind in his profession, Brown goes even further than his associates in visioning what the next 10 years may bring. He thinks that the screen may be eliminated.

"The air itself will be the screen," he said, "and phantoms will be reflected by conflicting light rays. This development will be associated with the dimensional photography or stereoscopic vision, with sound from loud speakers concealed just under the stage on which those phantom figures are projected. These camera ghosts will have height, breadth and thickness."

VISITORS to studios steal thousands of dollars' worth of souvenirs every year . . . They take nearly anything that isn't fastened down. . . . Specially prized tokens are canvas backs of chairs bearing celebrities' names. . . . A famous picture, "The Prisoner of Zenda," which eight years ago featured Barbara La Marr, Alice Terry and Ramon Novarro, will be remade. . . . Ramon again may have the lead.

Hoot Gibson's real name is Edward. . . . "The lady that's known as Lou" will be brought to the screen again in a new version of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," with sound effects. . . .

DEMAND for youthful players in the movies is 66 per cent greater than for aged, or character, actors. Registration of players in the several casting agencies shows a similar percentage. The percentage concealing their ages out here is not a matter of record.

WITH enterprise as the watchword, we resolved after missing the John Gilbert-Jim Tully one-blow bout to spend more early morning hours in the public play places of Hollywood's great in the hope of finding something that less vigilant reporters might miss.

The first morning's devotion to duty in a night club brought naught but a headache the next day.

The second morning, in a boulevard cafe, looked brighter when a crowd of loud speakers with self amplifiers took the next booth. The actors' conversation sparkled with "I's"

The zenith of endurance in this direction for all time came when one volunteered to sing the caviare song, "Me and My Shad Roe."

WHY anyone should be interested in a collection of movie stars' autographs always has been a mystery. I still need much more enlightenment on the subject, despite an interview with Allan Dibbs.

JOAN CRAWFORD.

Allan collects autographs. He has been asking actors and actresses to sign their names and write greetings in his little green book since he was in second grade which isn't very long ago. You've probably guessed that Allan is about 8 years old. He is and he is in the fourth grade.

I'd seen Allan, alert and wide-eyed, in front of studios for so many days that my interest finally was aroused. After agreeing to point out any celebrities that I recognized, Allan promised to tell all for what I trust is the first autograph expose on record.

"What," I inquired, seating myself beside Allan on the curbing, "do you collect autographs for?"

"Well, a lotta other kids do it."

"YAH," Allan continued, "I spend all the time around studios I can. Sa-ay, is that guy Warner Baxter? Nope. I get outa school at 2:30 and go to a studio. I've got nearly a book fulla names.

"I like Joan Crawford best. No, sir, she's better looking off the screen, even if she has gotta buncha freckles. When I saw her she was all dressed up in white. She wrote somethin' nice.

"Richard Dix sure looks different. He's not so tall. See, he wrote here, 'To my little friend, Allan, sincerely, Richard Dix.' Pretty nice of him, huh?

"THAT guy? Oh, he's just Buddy Rogers' father. Naw, I don't want his name in this. He ain't done nothin'. I just want actors.

"Nope, none of 'em ever turned me down. Well, yeh, there was one guy. He looked like Lionel Barrymore, but maybe he wasn't. He came outa that gate and he said he'd write his name when he came back. And when he came back he said he was too busy.

"I don't think he can write."

The interview ended abruptly here, as Allan's older brother came by on his bicycle to remind Allan that "Ma told you to come right home from school."

LIKE his father, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., likes to clown. Both father and son are unsuppressed youth in person when they are working on a picture.

Senior Fairbanks also is a practical joker of recognized ability and more than one visitor to his office has jumped ceiling-wards when the electricity was turned on in the wired guest chair. It has failed once.

A noted humorist indulged too freely before calling on Fairbanks for an interview. After he was seated in the wired chair, Doug turned the juice on full force.

Without moving or changing his expression the squiffed one turned to Fairbanks and said:

"Thassa great idea for a convention. Getta quick rising vote from alla delegates."

DOUG FAIRBANKS JR.

The other day Douglas Jr. got a verbal spanking. He was demonstrating a new acrobatic whirl or something while John Dillon, the director, was explaining a piece of action to others of the cast. Dillon, bothered by Doug's clowning, called him over.

"If you must imitate your illustrious father," said he, "do it with acting, not acrobatics."

THE lavish and spacious offices that Hollywood is reputed to have for its authors and composers, particularly its highly paid ones, appear to be a myth.

Oscar Straus, who left what must have been a very workable office in Vienna to come to America to write light operas for the talkies, was given a two-by-four arrangement overlooking a noisy alley. He was separated from a composer of vo-dee-oh-do tunes by a thin partition.

Straus visited Al Jolson in his two-room suite in the same building the other day, possibly to compare offices, and certainly to lament the size of his.

Feeling sorry, Jolson in a moment of generosity invited Straus to use one of his rooms. Ten minutes later a great composer and mammy's chief exponent were sharing offices.

The next day Straus went to work with Viennese vigor, despite the incessant whir of an electric generator in the room below.

Amateurs to Present Many Plays

FOUR original one-act plays by St. Louis authors, never before presented on any stage, will be the next offering of the Little Theater of St. Louis, 812 North Union boulevard, for four days beginning March 10. "Self Expression," by Emily Westwood Lewis; "Excuse It Please," by Katherine Q. Spencer; "The Home Lovers," by Genevieve Knapp McConnell, and "Right of Possession," by Edna Warren, were perfected by the St. Louis playwrighting group of the Little Theater, of which Prof. William G. B. Carson of Washington University is the head. These plays are the third of the St. Louis author's series presented to the public by the organization. "Her Children Shall Rise Up," by Margaretta Scott Lawler, having been presented in 1926, and "The Twelfth Disciple," by Mrs. Ernest Sachs, in November last year.

A cast of well-known St. Louis players will appear, including Ruth Bickmore, Isobel Carpenter, Eric Applewhite, Mary Conway, Ben Fry, Gordon Sommers, Robert Orthwein, Katherine Cravens, Adelaide Tarrant, Noel Grady, Maudean Jones-Crane, Eugene Wood, Martha Bright, Samuel Goddard, Frank Bacon, Percy Ramsay, Adelaide Kalkman, Lelanna Devlin, Ralph Friedman and Charles Dillon.

DURING the first week in April there will be 11 "first time" performances under the auspices of the Art League. The program of plays by St. Louis playwrights to be produced in the Little Theater tournament of the St. Louis Art League in the Wednesday Club Auditorium on the evenings of April 2, 3, 4 and 5, has been arranged as follows:

"My Adda," by Shirley Seifert, produced by The Golden Goose Players; "The Wagon Tramp," by Cyrus W. Beach, produced by The Ethical Society Dramatic Club; "The Grape Vine," by Genevieve Knapp McConnell, produced by the Little Theater of Washington University; "The Guest Unheard," by Milton McGovern, produced by the Playhouse Club; "Sallie Vantine," by May Cerf, produced by the Washington University Alumnae Dramatic Club; "102 Degrees," by Jasmine Stone van Dresser, produced by the College Club; "Eyes," by Maxine Block, produced by The Morse Players; "Leah, the Jazzite," by Elmore Condon, produced by the Y. M. H. A. Dramatic Club; "The Randalls of Virginia," by Margretta Scott Lawler, produced by the Loretto Players of Webster College; "The Interruption," by Anne Saunders, produced by The Toy Theater, and "Futile Lies," by Edna Warren, produced by the Spotlight Players.

Through this elimination contest, the Art League hopes to find a play which will be worthy to represent St. Louis in the National Little Theater Tournament in New York next May, and the principal award will be the entry of the winning play in that tournament with all expenses of the company paid.

THE Dramatic League of St. Louis will also sponsor a city-wide tournament of plays the last of April. Any dramatic group in St. Louis or vicinity is eligible to enter the contest. There will be the following groups: Church Division, Little Theaters, Community Groups, Parishes, International Groups and Children's Groups. The preliminary tryouts will be held in groups of three in auditoriums over the city. For the final tournament the two groups judged to be the best in each division will come together.

Miss Gertrude Knott, executive director of the Dramatic League, is general director of the tournament. She will be assisted by the various committees from the divisions and a general executive committee composed of the following members: Lee Hildebrand, president; W. Frank Swift, first vice president; Mrs. A. Garland, second vice president; Frank M. Mayfield, treasurer; Harry M. McLain, Milton McGovern, Father O'Toole, Gordon Hall, Mrs. D. Armstrong, Willis Wager and Jack Danner.

Burton Holmes to Talk on Germany

Burton Holmes, whose picturesque portrayals, diversified by historical comment and reference, rather than a guide-bookish array of facts, will deliver his illustrated talk on "Present-Day Travel in Germany" at the Odeon tomorrow night.

Mr. Holmes' itinerary will include, among other places and scenes, Munich, Berlin, Frankfurt, Augsburg, Rotenburg, Nuremburg, Dinkelsbuhl, Bad Nauheim, Berchtesgaden and the region of the Konigs-See. The illustrations, consisting of many color views and a series of new motion pictures, were all made last summer by the traveler himself.

FOLLOWING the engagement of Thurston, the magician, which starts next Sunday night at the American, two of the most important dramatic attractions of the current season are scheduled for that theater. These are William Gillette in his revival of "Sherlock Holmes," the week of March 24, and Otis Skinner in a new play, "Papa Juan," the week of March 31.

Gillette's tour is being announced as his farewell to the stage. He was brought out of retirement by A. L. Erlanger and George C. Tyler. Last December these intrepid managers took "Sherlock Holmes" into the New Amsterdam Theater in New York for what was to be a limited engagement of two weeks. So great was the demand for tickets that the two weeks booking was extended to include five on Broadway and not a single seat was vacant at any performance. Gillette could have easily remained there for the rest of the season but he had set his mind on this farewell tour and out-of-town dates had to be filled. He will give only seven performances in St. Louis—six nights and a matinee on Saturday.

Next Sunday night the Shubert will have "June Moon," one of the season's biggest comedy hits, coming from Chicago. The New York company is still playing at the Broadhurst Theater.

"June Moon," was written by Ring Lardner of "You Know Me, Al," fame and George S. Kaufman. The cast will include James Spottswood, Edith Arnold, Edward Woods, Edith Van Cleve, Ruth Holden, Murray Smith, Fred Irving Lewis, John Daly Murphy, Rose Hertz, Harold Grau, Cyrena Smith and Beatrice Powers.

Bailly Soloist With Symphony Under Goossens

Ernest Bloch's Suit for Viola and Orchestra to Be Heard Here for First Time.

ERNEST BLOCH'S suite for viola and orchestra will be presented for the first time in St. Louis with the violinist Louis Bailly as soloist, as a feature of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's program for the Friday afternoon and Saturday evening concerts at the Odeon this week. The work received the Coolidge prize in 1919, when it was first performed by Mr. Bailly and Harold Bauer, at a Berkshire Festival, Pittsfield, Mass. Since then it has been presented by most of the country's leading orchestras.

St. Louis knows Bailly as a member of the famous Flonzaley quartet in which he played the viola for many years. He is a native of the old Flemish city of Valenciennes, and at 17 won first prize for viola at the Paris Conservatoire. After graduation he played in the orchestra of the Paris Opera, the Opera Comique and the Concerts Colonne.

Mr. Goossens' orchestral program will present Dvorak's seldom heard overture "Carnival," the Fourth Symphony in E flat of Glazounoff, and the conductor's own arrangement of excerpts from Wagner's "Die Walkure."

Mr. Goossens' "Die Walkure" music consists, as the conductor has explained, of an interweaving of several interludes which are seldom heard in concert halls, but which are musically some of the most significant and beautiful in the entire opera. These include the storm music of Act 1, the love music of the scene between Siegmund and Sieglinde, the Prelude to Act II and a quotation from the "Valkyrie's Ride."

MISSOURI TO STAGE BIG PARTY NIGHT FOR "THE VAGABOND KING"

the Emancipator's life will be photographed and microphoned in the green pasture lands of Northern California.

Though these battle scenes will take up but a small part of the whole picture, Griffith intends to use them, together with various allegorical devices, as expedients in symbolizing Lincoln's official and personal victory after five and a half years in the White House.

Approximately a quarter of the picture will be made on location. Sets for Lincoln's log-cabin birthplace, the towns of New Salem and Springfield, Ill., are being erected at picturesque locales within a distance of 80 miles of the studio.

Walter Huston, star of the stage and screen, has been assigned the title role. Una Merkel, who scored in the Broadway production of the play, "Coquette," will play the role of Ann Rutledge, Lincoln's boyhood sweetheart.

"Abraham Lincoln," written and dialogued by Stephen Vincent Benet, Pulitzer prize winner, will deal with the Emancipator's life from the time of his humble birth to his assassination.

New Devices Permit Speedway Recording

Especially designed high-speed motorized sound recording equipment is making it possible for a talking picture to break into the faster-than-mile-a-minute-a c t ion class. The equipment is being used for the first time in automobile racing scenes of Richard Arlen's first starring picture, "Burning Up," which are being filmed on the Riverside, Cal., speedway. A unit of several hundred players and technicians from Hollywood studios are on location at the Riverside track. Latest model eight-cylinder, front-wheel-drive racing cars are being used in the speed duels. Mary Brian, Francis McDonald, Tully Marshall, Sam Hardy and Charles Sellon are principals in the cast supporting Arlen.

Chevalier in Filmdom.

Maurice Chevalier has returned to the studios in Hollywood after several weeks in San Francisco, where he appeared at the Pacific automobile show. Chevalier this week will start a new picture, "Too Much Luck."

REVIVAL OF OPERA 'LOUISE' ACCLAIMED BY PACKED HOUSE

Lucrezia Bori Takes Title Role Sung in New York in 1922 by Geraldine Farrar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Before an audience that packed the house the Metropolitan Opera Company today presented Lucrezia Bori in a revival of Gustave Charpentier's musical romance, "Louise." It was the first time it had been given at the Metropolitan since March 30, 1922, when Geraldine Farrar sang the title role.

In a gorgeous new setting by Joseph Urban it was received today with wild acclaim. Several times the audience interrupted the performance with its applause, once forcing Mme. Bori to step out of character for a moment and acknowledge the thunderous ovation with a graceful, sweeping bow.

Mme. Bori, Antonin Trantoul, the Metropolitan's new French tenor, who sang the role of Julien, and other members of the cast were called back for so many curtain calls at the end of each act that the performance lasted nearly four hours. At the end of the third act with its love scene in a garden in the moonlight, overlooking the lights of Paris, some one in a box in the golden horseshoe tossed a

Ernest Bloch's Suit for Viola and Orchestra to Be Heard Here for First Time.

ERNEST BLOCH'S suite for viola and orchestra will be presented for the first time in St. Louis with the violinist Louis Bailly as soloist, as a feature of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's program for the Friday afternoon and Saturday evening concerts at the Odeon this week. The work received the Coolidge prize in 1919, when it was first performed by Mr. Bailly and Harold Bauer, a Berkshire Festival, Pittsfield, Mass. Since then it has been presented by most of the country's leading orchestras.

St. Louis knows Bailly as a member of the famous Flonzaley quartet in which he played the viola for many years. He is a native of the old Flemish city of Valenciennes, and at 17 won first prize for viola at the Paris Conservatoire. After graduation he played in the orchestra of the Paris Opera, the Opera Comique and the Concerts Colonne.

Mr. Goossens' orchestral program will present Dvorak's seldom heard overture "Carnival," the Fourth Symphony in E flat of Glazounoff, and the conductor's own arrangement of excerpts from Wagner's "Die Walkure."

Mr. Goossens' "Die Walkure" music consists, as the conductor has explained, of an interweaving of several interludes which are seldom heard in concert halls, but which are musically some of the most significant and beautiful in the entire opera. These include the storm music of Act 1, the love music of the scene between Siegmund and Sieglinde, the Prelude to Act II and a quotation from the "Valkyrie's Ride."

MISSOURI TO STAGE BIG PARTY NIGHT FOR "THE VAGABOND KING"

the Emancipator's life will be photographed and microphoned in the green pasture lands of Northern California.

Though these battle scenes will take up but a small part of the whole picture, Griffith intends to use them, together with various allegorical devices, as expedients in symbolizing Lincoln's official and personal victory after five and a half years in the White House.

Approximately a quarter of the picture will be made on location. Sets for Lincoln's log-cabin birthplace, the towns of New Salem and Springfield, Ill., are being erected at picturesque locales within a distance of 80 miles of the studio.

Walter Huston, star of the stage and screen, has been assigned the title role. Una Merkel, who scored in the Broadway production of the play, "Coquette," will play the role of Ann Rutledge, Lincoln's boyhood sweetheart.

"Abraham Lincoln," written and dialogued by Stephen Vincent Benet, Pulitzer prize winner, will deal with the Emancipator's life from the time of his humble birth to his assassination.

New Devices Permit Speedway Recording

Especially designed high-speed motorized sound recording equipment is making it possible for a talking picture to break into the faster-than-mile-a-minute-a c t ion class. The equipment is being used for the first time in automobile racing scenes of Richard Arlen's first starring picture, "Burning Up," which are being filmed on the Riverside, Cal., speedway. A unit of several hundred players and technicians from Hollywood studios are on location at the Riverside track. Latest model eight-cylinder, front-wheel-drive racing cars are being used in the speed duels. Mary Brian, Francis McDonald, Tully Marshall, Sam Hardy and Charles Sellon are principals in the cast supporting Arlen.

Chevalier in Filmdom.

Maurice Chevalier has returned to the studios in Hollywood after several weeks in San Francisco, where he appeared at the Pacific automobile show. Chevalier this week will start a new picture, "Too Much Luck."

The most delicious nonsense I have encountered lately is "The Stray Lamb," a book by Thorne Smith. It is the fantastical story of a solid citizen who was transmuted into a succession of creatures usually found in menageries. A book that tires the imagination yet tickles the funnybone is a literary achievement.

I cannot work myself into a lather of enthusiasm over "a literary tea" to Peggy Joyce—such as was recently held in New York. When an invitation came I tore it up, completely ignoring the R. S. V. P. Yet a big crowd of important writers attended. Literature is reaching low enough levels without exploiting Miss Joyce as a writer. She may be—indeed is—beautiful and attractive, but her notoriety came solely through marriages and divorces. I happen to know anyway that the diary which she "authored" was written by the versatile Basil Woon.

Leon Errol in London recently acted as a waiter at a private dinner party given by Ambassador Charles G. Dawes at the American Embassy. After innumerable blunders, he reached a climax by gathering up the gold plates before each diner and staggering off toward the butler's pantry. There was a crash of expensive plates and a look of horror on every face. The "crash box" had given realism to the stunt and no damage, of course, had been done. Errol then joined the diners as guest and a pleasant time was had by all.

Louis Hasselmans conducted the performance, and the stage direction was by Wilhelm von Wymetal. "Louise," with today's cast, will be included in the Metropolitan's repertoire for its spring tour this year. It will be given in Baltimore, Washington, Atlanta and Cleveland.

SPECIAL 'WHOOPEE' MATINEE FOR BENEFIT OF ACTORS' FUND

Entire Proceeds of Wednesday Performance at American to Go to Charity.

A special matinee performance of the musical show "Whoopee," with Eddie Cantor, will be given at the American Theater Wednesday, the entire proceeds to be contributed to the Actors' Fund of America, a charity devoted to the care of low sick, aged and destitute members of the profession.

The organization, in recent months, has been spending $3000 a month in excess of total income in caring for the large number of cases resulting from economic depression of the last two years in the legitimate theater. To increase the fund, a special matinee is given of every play which runs 20 weeks or more. Daniel Frohman has been president of the organization for more than 25 years.

Mexican Beauty Queen Dies.

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—On the eve of her coronation as beauty queen of Orizaba, State of Vera Cruz, Miss Alicia Carrillo died today of diphtheria. The carnival over which she was to reign has been suspended.

NAPOLEON'S NECKLACE FOUND IN NEW YORK

Austrian Archduchess Plans Action to Recover Jewels Sold by Her Former Agent.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The missing diamond necklace which Napoleon gave to his Empress, Maria Louisa, more than a century ago, was found today intact in the safe of a Fifth avenue jeweler.

The Archduchess Maria Theresa of Vienna, erstwhile owner, who valued the jewels at $400,000, was reported to be planning legal action to recover them. The jeweler, D. M. Michel, refused to tell what he paid for the necklace, but the price is said to have been $40,000.

The finding of the necklace ended a search by agents of the Archduchess in which the aid of the United States Attorney's office was enlisted.

Harold W. Hastings, Assistant United States Attorney, said today he had learned the necklace was sold on Feb. 11 by C. F. Townsend, acting as representative of the Archduchess. Townsend was said to have been a former British secret service agent, but Sir Harry Armstrong, British Counsul-General, said he could find no record of Townsend in the secret service.

Hastings said Lawrence Steinhardt, Guggenheim, of the law firm of Guggenheim, Untermyer & Marshall, the Archduchess' attorneys here, had told him a power of attorney which the Archduchess had given to Townsend had been revoked by cable on Jan. 23, nearly three weeks before the sale was made.

The Archduchess, who is the step--grandmother of the former Emperor Charles I of Austria-Hungary, had been trying for some time to sell the necklace, but had refused $360,000 for it, Steinhardt said. The jewels were sent to Townsend here, he added, and were admitted duty free as an antique.

Townsend is said to have gone to Florida leaving no forwarding address.

Archduke Leopold, a distant relative of the Archduchess, was said to have been a friend of Townsend, and a subpena was issued for his appearance before Hastings Monday to tell anything he may know about the matter.

Napoleon gave the necklace to his Empress at the birth of their son, the Duke of Reichstadt, known as "L'Aiglon" (the Eaglet), in 1811. It consists of ten briolettes (pear or oval-shaped stones cut in triangular facets) alternating with nine pendants. The stones are set in silver and gold.

ISAAC COOK SUED FOR $15,214

Suit Brought by Ohio Man Over Florida Real Estate Deal.

Suit was filed in Federal Court Friday by W. L. Slayton of Ohio against Isaac T. Cook, real estate operator, and Lillian Sherwood Cook for $15,214 and interest from May 31, 1927.

The petition alleges the Cooks gave Slayton two notes for $8333 each in May, 1927, and that they matured nine months later. One of the notes was reduced by payments to $6880, the petition recites, but nothing was paid on the other. Cook said the litigation resulted from a controversy over a transaction in Florida real estate.

WITNESS TAKES THRUST AT CONGRESSIONAL DRINKING

Says "Man in Green Hat" Could Not Sell in Congress if Liquor Were Not Shipped.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 1.—A sharp exchange over alleged "liquor drinking in Congress" marked the session today of the congressional subcommittee investigating expenditure of Federal funds in eradicating the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida.

The question came up during the examination of Raymond F. Maguire, a member of the State Board of Control and also of the State Plant Board. After Maguire had told of difficulties in shipping fruit under quarantine regulations, Chairman W. R. Wood (Rep.), Indiana, said casually that "it must be easier to ship liquor than it is citrus fruit."

Maguire replied: "I don't say that liquor is more easily shipped than fruit, but I do know this: If there wasn't any liquor shipped the man with the green hat in Washington would have a hard time trying to get it for his select customers in Congress."

"Just what do you know about the man with the green hat in Washington?" demanded Congressman Louis Cramton (Rep.), Michigan.

"I know very little about him, Congressman," replied Maguire.

"Well, you're trying to make it appear that all members of Congress drink liquor, and I vigorously challenge your insinuations."

Maguire said that he did not mean that all Congressmen drink liquor, but added: "I know that some of them do."

"Well, if you want to come to Washington to testify to that effect I think it could be arranged," shouted Congressman Cramton.

A View Through a Window Into an Undersea World

Colored Reproductions of a Submarine Garden Made by J. E. Williamson in an Underwater Studio.

NEW YORK.

IN A PORTABLE studio beneath the sea, J. E. Williamson has recorded in motion pictures, color photographs and plain stills the rich and varied submarine life of the West Indies. He has caught the glowing flash of strange, iridescent fish, the ceaseless motion of waving forests of coral, the fierce drama of undersea life. The photographs on this page were taken by Williamson in a submarine garden off Nassau, in the Bahamas, on the Williamsons' last expedition. On their return recently they brought back an extensive record of undersea life for the American Museum of Natural History of New York and the Field Museum of Chicago.

Taking undersea photographs by the Williamson method is not as difficult as it sounds. For the Williamson studio is a most compact and snug affair, capable of being moved gently forward a little way above the sea bottom. It is suspended by a large circular tube from the hull of a specially constructed ship. This tube is formed of jointed iron hoops, covered with waterproof material, and may be raised or lowered on the principle of an accordion.

The studio itself, entered from the tube leading from the hull of the ship, will hold six people. Shortly after the Williamsons were married they went on an expedition to the West Indies and a considerable part of their honeymoon was spent in this studio under the sea. And when their daughter, Sylvia, was born a year ago and they went on a second expedition, the submarine studio served as a nursery for the child while her mother made sketches of the panorama of life constantly unfolding before the thick glass window that incloses one side. It was fine for Sylvia. She never needed to be entertained, her mother says. For an hour at a time she was content to sit and watch the color and movement just beyond her reach. And she was safe there. For the glass that forms the studio window is thick enough to resist an accidental blow from the tail of the largest shark. Air enters the studio through the tube from the ship's hull without the need of special pumps.

Williamson, of course, had many tasks besides the photography. He had to secure whole trees of coral for the two museums. It is a difficult process to bring up a perfect coral tree. When Williamson, cruising in his undersea studio, comes upon an excellent specimen, he first sends down native divers, who make careful measurements. These coral trees sometimes grow to a height of 18 feet, with a spread of 15 feet.

Next a cradle in the form of a large supporting structure is made to fit the tree. This cradle is substantial, being constructed of 4-by-6 timbers. From pontoons overhead, hoists and chain hawsers are dropped down and the native divers are again called upon to fasten these to the cradle. Now the tree, fastened within the cradle, must be broken loose. Dynamite is sometimes needed. It is then towed slowly and carefully shoreward, often a distance of two or three miles. Williamson watches the skies for indications of bad weather. Any abrupt movement is liable to shatter the tree.

Once the Williamsons were overtaken by a hurricane. Realizing the impossibility of escape, Williamson ordered the studio turned so that its round "eye" was pointed upward. They watched the driving rain beat the surface of the waters into froth and they saw the sands of the sea bottom churned by the ground roll until all color had vanished and the studio was lost in a milky, opalescent fog.

Their long days on the ocean floor are never monotonous. It is like watching, the Williamsons say, a never-ending motion picture.

LOS ANGELES.

THE technique of the gentlemen who hold up banks has progressed imperceptibly since the days of the Civil War. A mask over the eyes, a bag in which to carry loot, a businesslike attitude and the admonition to "Hurry!" have—and still do—constitute about all the necessary accoutrements for a first-class job. The nickel-plated, pearl-handled shooting-iron has given way to the more terrifying automatic, which has a blacker and more forbidding muzzle, and most people—bank officials in particular—do not like to look into black muzzles. Black muzzles are sorely irritating. They give a feeling of unrest. They are extremely annoying.

Only the styles of disguise, the color of shooting-irons and the methods of departure following a raid have shown appreciable improvement. The red bandana handkerchief, with peepholes cut for blinking eyes, has been displaced in great measure by ready-made masks, and the high-powered automobile has been substituted for the customary horses waiting outside. The motor car has made the robbing business perk up considerably.

Lewis Reissig, teller in the Hoover street branch of the Hellman Commercial and Savings Bank, in Los Angeles, arrived at his place of business one morning a couple of years ago and let himself in with his passkey, as he had done for years. He turned into the hallway to hang up his coat and hat, when he heard the time-honored command:

"Stick 'em up!"

INTUITIVELY, he knew what was happening. He wheeled to face the robber. Thereby, he got the shock of his life. For instead of just an ordinary, ferocious-looking, slouch-hatted bandit he gazed into one of the most hideous, awe-inspiring, repulsive-looking masks ever seen on the face of a man. It was ashen-colored, with bulging jowls, beetle-browed and had a harrowing leer calculated to instill fear into the heart of any normal individual so unfortunate as to see it. In each hand of the man was an automatic which moved menacingly.

"Over to the wall!" the bandit commanded.

Reissig complied with what is generally spoken of as "alacrity," and, on further orders, lay down on the floor, hands above his head.

The door opened and Philip Simon, the bank's manager, walked in.

"Down on the floor!" the robber directed.

Mr. Simon promptly assumed a reclining posture alongside of Reissig. From this rather ignominious position he saw McCartney, Webster, Koogle, then Miss Niemier and Miss Barron arrive and in turn lie down in general line formation. When the entire class had gathered the bandit motioned to Manager Simon and indicated that to him fell the honor of getting out the money bags. He also instructed the entire assemblage to rise and move into the vault.

Eight thousand five hundred dollars went into the satchel which the robber had provided and the bank force was then commanded to fall in and march single-file into a small room adjacent, where the door could be locked. No one was out of step and none missing when the robber turned the key and leisurely departed, removing the hideous mask as he went. Once outside, he heard some resounding blows, the splintering of a door and the burglar alarm started ringing. He was on his way.

When the police arrived they found a flock of badly-scared bank employes. Not that any had been near injury, but the recollection of that hideous, leering mask, backed by several authoritative commands and bolstered up by a couple of black automatics, had shocked their nerves. Detective Lieutenants Lind and Sperry, from the Georgia Street Station, and Detective Sawyer, from the Central robbery detail, found considerable which amazed them. Primarily, they learned that the bandit apparently had lived two or three days above the vault, with a plentiful supply of whisky and lemon juice. He had entered by cutting away the bars at a window and gluing them together again with chewing gum. Then he had gone into the attic and cut a hole in the ceiling, through which he might watch the money handling.

BUT that which interested the officers most was an apparent attempt to introduce something new and novel in the technique of robbing a bank. The old single-hand method of stalking in and cold-bloodedly ordering the teller to "Hand over everything you've got!" seemed to the robber to have been utterly common. It was really uncouth. So, in his waiting hours, while unmolested, he had fixed up two contrivances which resembled the arms of men. By pulling a rope these arms suddenly would protrude through the wall just below the ceiling and in the gloved hand of each would appear a pistol. True, the pistols were only toys, but in a bank holdup no one ever feels the urge to look closely into the muzzle of a shooting-iron to see if it is real or not. So, for the purpose intended, the toys were as good as machine guns.

"What happened," said Detective Sawyer of the robbery detail, after he surveyed the situation, "is that this fellow got tired of waiting for the psychological moment to arrive. Instead of bringing his dummy confederates into play—by pulling the rope—he just simply walked out with 'gats' and went through the old-fashioned procedure of 'Stick 'em up! Dump the money in this bag! Let's go!' I tell you, there is nothing new in the bank-robbing curriculum."

Of course, the news of the holdup spread rapidly. The story of the bandit in the hideous mask was printed in the Los Angeles papers and every police officer began looking for a man carrying a mask. Which is no small job in a city of more than a million inhabitants. Outside of the fact that the man wore a mask there was little or no description of him to be given. Accordingly, he became known only as "the man in the monkey mask."

Other holdups began occurring. Reports of a man in a monkey mask or in a hideous ashen-colored mask trickled in periodically from many parts of the city. Always there was little of a description to give. The man wore gloves to avoid leaving fingerprints and was careful to remove his mask on emerging from a "job" before persons saw it. His bearing in crowds was nonchalant, his clothing in no way distinctive and in time he became one of the most elusive and mysterious criminals on the Pacific coast. Rewards for his capture were offered by the Bankers' Association and instructions to "get him" were sent out by all authorities.

"If he would only leave something behind for us to work upon!" complained Chief of Detectives Herman Cline.

"The man in the monkey mask" promptly complied. On the morning of March 17, 1928, he appeared at the Twenty-fifth and Central streets branch of the Merchants' National Bank with his awe-inspiring mask upon his face and his two automatics in hand. As usual, he popped into view shortly before 9 a. m., just as employes were arriving to start the day's business. As A. Levinson, the assistant manager, came in, the man stepped from a closet with his customary salute—"Stick 'em up and be quick about it!" And Levinson, true to form, promptly complied. In turn, five other employes arrived and ranged themselves alongside each other, against the wall, on the bandit's orders.

Out came the satchel and in it the assistant manager plated $15,000—in cash. This was in currency and gold. Silver was refused. The haul was made in the old-fashioned way—gun, mask, curt commands, an orderly exit and it was over.

BUT the plea of the Chief of Detectives had been answered. "The man in the monkey mask" had left something. On top of the vault he left food, tools, candles, flashlights, a rope ladder, tar, canned heat and other such articles. It looked as though the collection had been put there in answer to the officer's prayer. But what of them? There was not a thing to which former ownership might be traced. The gloved hands had left no fingerprints. There were no tell-tale marks of any kind or description. The junk might have been obtained from any one of a thousand different places.

Again the proverbial "drag-net" was thrown out, with the usual result. There were no clews. The man apparently had used the same tactics in robbing the Merchants' National that he had used in the Hellman robbery. Each time he had cut his way through the ceiling and patched up the cuts so that they were imperceptible. Each time, too, he apparently had lain in hiding a day or two in order to study the daily routine before striking. He learned "the lay of the ground" before making a move, then proceeded methodically and with precision. When the "job" was pulled, he vanished completely. The only person who believed he had seen the man, unmasked, of the Merchants' National robbery was Leroy Engram, a Negro bail bondsman.

"I was getting into my automobile to go over the mountains to Bakersfield," Engram said, "when I saw him running down the alley with a gun in his hand. Then I heard the burglar alarm. He was a very nice looking fellow, prob'bly 'bout 34 years old."

That ended the description. Which, in a city with so many people, amounted to little. There were scores, hundreds, thousands who might be thus described.

THE police found that a man had ordered a rented car to meet him at a point a block away from the Hellman branch bank, the day before the robbery of that institution, and had written his signature to the order. But the name was not found in the city directory and the incident was dropped as inconsequential. The man had carefully drawn a map of the location to show H. F. Haslett, the car owner, where he was to be at 3 p. m. And, although Haslett waited next day, the man did not appear at the designated time. He waited an hour and a half.

The police of the California metropolis were getting cross. For a man to appear in the city and merely by wearing a horrible mask get away with bank robberies, leaving not a single clew, was maddening. If he would only transfer his activities to some other city or do something to take the onus of his capture from their shoulders, it would be most welcome.

A little while ago, Officers S. T. Richardson and J. S. Quinn saw a fellow walking past the used-car row at Sixteenth and Main streets, glancing furtively about, and stopped him. The man carried a suitcase in his hand.

"What's in the grip?" they asked.

"Nothing much."

"Where do you live?"

"Sixteenth and Santee streets."

The affable fellow chatted pleasantly with them as they walked along. The night squad of motor cops whisked by, sending their spotlights into darkened streets. The late tram cars pounded away toward the outlying residential districts.

The English Woman who Became an Outcast to Follow Gandhi

Madeleine Slade, Daughter of the Late Admiral Slade, Found Living in a Mud Hut.

LONDON.

AN ENGLISH woman of birth and fortune has given up everything to become a humble follower of the man most hated, despised, by the members of her class—the governing class of Great Britain. She has become a pariah, an outcast, and her present mode of living is so mean and frugal as to be despised by the humblest of her former servants.

There came confirmation just the other day of the rumor that Madeleine Slade had become a follower of Gandhi, that she had embraced Hinduism and was living in a mud hut 400 miles from Bombay in order to serve the man whom the masses of India call the Mahatma, the saint.

Madeleine Slade is the daughter of the late Admiral Sir Edmond John Warre Slade and Lady Slade. For three years, from 1909 to 1912, Sir Edmond was commander of the East India fleet, one of the highest ranking officers in His Britannic Majesty's navy. When he visited India, he was received with all pomp and ceremony. Madeleine Slade today would not be received in the home of any British official in India, so completely has she lost caste.

If Miss Slade had been definitely seeking publicity for her conversion, it could not have been revealed more dramatically. For Gandhi has just announced a new campaign of civil disobedience to free India from Britain's rule. England, he says, must face the crisis.

As a matter of fact, Miss Slade shrinks from publicity. It was only accidentally that an ambitious correspondent for a London daily discovered her present mode of life.

This correspondent sought Gandhi out. He made the 400-mile journey from Bombay to Ahmedabad. From thence he went by donkey cart over a dusty, uneven road to the retreat where Gandhi seeks quiet for contemplation and reflection on India's problems. The correspondent found Gandhi seated, naked except for a coarse woolen shawl over his head, in a mud hut, spinning. This mild prophet of the Indian masses talked willingly enough, as he spun, setting thus an example for the millions. It is by spinning their own textiles, he explained, that he hopes his followers may free themselves of dependence on Great Britain and British industry.

Then quietly, as though it were the most natural thing in the world, a woman entered and seated herself beside Gandhi. He introduced her as Mira Bei, but the newspaper correspondent recognized her as the daughter of the late Rear Admiral Sir Edmond Slade.

HE WAS amazed, watching Miss Slade with her own spinning staff, dressed only in an all-embracing sari which was draped about her head. Before he had finished his interview with Gandhi, Mira Bei, as Miss Slade prefers to be known, rose and left the hut, as quietly and unobtrusively as she had entered it.

But the next day he returned, sought her out and persuaded her to tell why four years before she had given up everything that had ever meant anything to her to follow this brown, emaciated man. He asked her first how she enjoyed life as a stranger in a strange land.

"I feel neither that I am a stranger nor that I am in a strange land," she answered gravely. "I feel that I have left behind the night and have at last emerged into the day.

"I am as happy as any woman in the world. I have made great sacrifices, but not in vain. My reward has been found in my work. I am here because of my absolute belief in Mahatma Gandhi and his messages to humanity.

"What he is doing is simply putting into practice the great eternal truths that have come to us through all the great prophets of the world."

She related then the circumstances of her conversion. It was a psychic experience, she said. It could scarcely be explained in ordinary terms. She was reading a life of Gandhi written by Romain Rolland, the French philosopher and novelist.

"I was living a life of thoughtless luxury in those days," she explained, "idling away my time between London, Paris and Berne. I was well-to-do. My family were well off, and I had nothing to think of but the pursuit of pleasure and the ways to appreciate and enjoy the life that was bestowed on me by my parents.

"Then something happened one night. I had never thought of religion before, but it came all of a sudden. I read this book and I decided then and there that if possible I must give my life to Gandhi and to India.

"I wrote him on the following day, and I waited some weeks for his reply. I asked simply that I might join him in his ashram (retreat) in India and serve him for the remainder of my days.

"There finally came to me a courteous though brief reply in his own handwriting. It welcomed me and I wept with joy.

"For nearly a year I was afraid to proceed to India. I wanted to make full preparations. I sent for some khadi (the native Indian cloth) in order to prepare garments in which I should be worthy to appear before my future master.

"I spent night after night for nearly a year in Paris reading the Hindu scriptures. I made certain, too, that there would be no official hindrance to my going to my new home.

"Then the great day came and I sailed away. My family, of course, tried to intervene, but it was of no avail. They said I should be mad to dream of coming to the ashram, but nevertheless I came and came to stay."

That was nearly five years ago. From that day until the present this young woman, who is not more than 36 now, reared in luxury, protected from every outside influence, has submitted to the rigorous discipline of Gandhi's hermitage.

She rises daily at four for morning prayer, which continues until five o'clock. Next she bathes in the holy river of Sabaramiti and then on through the intense heat of the day she works with the khadding bow or the spinning wheel until seven. Then prayers come again, followed by sleep in the open at nine o'clock. This routine is rarely varied, except for extra religious observances.

Mira Bei showed the correspondent her white iron cot that stands on the river bank without any protection whatsoever.

"That is where I sleep," she explained. "You see, I am beside our prayer ground and there, just beyond the fence, 15 feet away, is the cot where Mahatma Gandhi sleeps. I would prefer to sleep on the bare ground and so would the Mahatma, but snakes, enormous cobras, come crawling all around us through the night."

The correspondent asked if she did not find the discipline too rigorous, the privations too severe. Her answer came without hesitation. "Not at all. I would live no other life. God has given me to Gandhi and to his country and here I propose to remain."

RECALLING the strict social code which the hermitage imposes on its members, the correspondent ventured to ask Mira Bei if she had entirely forsaken the idea of marriage, even in India. She solemnly reminded him of the first vow she had embraced—that of celibacy.

"There are two vows," she said, "the first of celibacy for a given period, at the end of which you may abandon it and marry if you wish. But a year after I joined Gandhi I took the vow of both mental and physical celibacy for life and that is why you see my hair cropped like Mahatma Gandhi's."

Mira Bei escorted the correspondent from her hut back along the narrow path to the main entrance of the ashram. A thickening of faint bluish smoke fell over the river, like a veil—the smoke from the burning-ghat of a neighboring village where bodies were being cremated in accordance with Hindu custom. A slow melancholy bell rang for evening prayer, it was growing dark.

"You will not say anything unkind about me, will you?" Mira Bei asked as they parted. "You will tell the truth and the whole truth?"

The interview created a sensation here. Miss Slade's former friends in London and on the Continent were amazed. They had not realized the extent to which she had given up her former life as an apostle of Gandhi. There had been rumors that she was living in Gandhi's ashram but no one had really credited them.

As for Miss Slade's family, they maintained a stony silence in the face of all inquiry. They have nothing to say about Mira Bei. And Madeleine Slade no longer exists.

The Sequel of a HERO'S SAGA

Paul Mueller Crossed the Atlantic in an 18-Foot Boat, Then Faced Imprisonment on His Return to Germany.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BERLIN.

AMONG the citizenry of Berlin you might not pick out Paul Mueller as a hero. He wears his laurels very modestly and aside from the fact that his photograph has appeared rather frequently in the Berlin papers and that therefore people occasionally turn to stare at him, you would think him just a pleasant-appearing man, a clerk or a shopkeeper, nearing middle age.

It was Paul Mueller, however, who sailed the Atlantic alone in an 18-foot boat. All this was told in the German and American newspapers last fall. How his little boat, the Aga, was wrecked off Charleston, South Carolina, how the citizens of Charleston took up a public subscription to buy him a new boat and to bring to America his sweetheart, Fraulein Agatha Gavinski. How he married Fraulein Gavinski, with the Mayor of Charleston officiating, and how he and Agatha got back to Germany after their second boat was wrecked. All this was well known at the time.

BUT there has just come to light a sequel to these exploits that gives to Paul Mueller's simple heroism a new and more poignant significance. It was not that he misrepresented himself to the citizens of Charleston. He simply did not tell them the whole story.

For 20 years he was a convict in a German prison. During most of that time he dreamed of an adventure that would somehow make up to him for those 20 lost years. That adventure involved a boat and the ocean in the form that it often took. Released from prison, this dream was given a new impetus. Or, rather, there were two new reasons why he had to carry this adventure through. One was Fraulein Gavinski, whom he had met about this time. And the other was Lindbergh. He admired Lindbergh beyond all reason. At first he decided he wanted to cross the ocean in an airplane, too. But when an aviation school rejected him because of his age, he decided to content himself with the old plan to cross the ocean in a small boat.

During his years in prison he had saved up $150, most of it money he had earned in the prison shops. He went to a Kopenick boat-builder and contracted for a craft to be built, paying down the $150 in advance. With the help of Fraulein Gavinski he could raise the remainder.

The boat was finished in due time and Mueller took it out for a trial. On that first trial it capsized and sank. Mueller demanded that his $150 be returned. The boat-builder refused. This put Mueller in a frenzy. Here, it seemed, was the end of his dream. The end of his hope of being a hero. The end of his hope of marrying Fraulein Gavinski. In his despair, Mueller broke into the boat-builder's shop and destroyed all the boats that were there.

Attaining a more rational viewpoint, he took what little money he had left and what his fiancee could raise and with this bought an ancient sailboat from an old seaman in Hamburg. It wasn't much of a boat, but in it Mueller, with virtually no knowledge of navigation, was able to sail across the Atlantic. And, thanks to the chivalry and generosity of the citizens of Charleston, he was made a hero and enabled to marry Fraulein Gavinski.

He and his bride had not been back in Berlin for long, however, when Paul was arrested. He was charged with burglary of the boat-builder's shop. There were delays. But when the case was finally called the boat-builder shook Mueller's hand, apologized for the boat that sank and announced he would not prosecute.

Mueller is even a hero to a certain degree here, talking over the radio and lecturing.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON'S FIFTH and LAST CHALLENGE

Irish Baronet, Who Has Spent $10,000,000 Trying to Lift the America's Cup, Will Make Final Attempt This Summer.

Sir Thomas and the collection of trophies he has won in the last thirty years. The one he wants most, however, is still missing.

Sir Thomas Lipton.

By PADRAIC KING

Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

PEOPLE attribute to me all kinds of desires and ambitions which are unknown to me. I have no ambition in life but this one: I want only to bring back that cup in an Irish boat with an Irish name and to sail in Irish waters, and so to do something for old Ireland."

So spake Sir Thomas Lipton to "Tay Pay" O'Connor, in 1913, when the doughty Irishman was revolving around in his mind the matter of a fourth bid for the America's Cup.

But the next year some chap in Serbia shot the Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, with most disastrous effect to the Archduke and the peace of the world. For four years the world forgot all about yachting to play the grim and bloody game of war. And then in 1920, after a lapse of 17 years, the fourth of the Shamrocks sailed across the Atlantic in quest of the world's most famous yachting trophy. Flying the Lipton private insignia and the pennant of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, the challenger from overseas won the first two races in a three out of five series. It looked as if the famous cup which the great America had brought to the United States in 1851, and which has been defended successfully against every challenge by British yachtsmen, was about to be returned to England.

The stage seemed set for a great British yachting triumph. The Resolute, the American cup defender, which had put up two disappointing races, was now to stir the yachting world. With Charles Francis Adams, now Secretary of the United States Navy, at the wheel, the Yankee craft showed her heels to the Shamrock IV, and swept over the line first for each of the three remaining decisive heats.

IT WAS a crushed and sorely disappointed Irish baronet who returned home that year, for he felt that the Shamrock IV was the superior of its American racing rival, but was just not lucky enough to get the "breaks" of the game. But what Sir Thomas did not take into consideration was the seamanship of Charles Francis Adams, whose superb handling of the Resolute kept the cup in America.

That this business of trying to lift the America's Cup is costly no one knows better than Sir Thomas, for up to and including his fourth challenge for the great yachting trophy he had, by his own estimate, spent $10,000,000.

But it is speed, not dollars, that counts in the great game of yacht racing, for by the slim margin of seven minutes Sir Thomas lost one of the last three races, and thus his "one ambition in life" had failed of realisation. The chances were that the Irish baronet would never again make another bid for the cup, not because of the great costs involved, as he was still an immensely rich man with but one hobby. The trouble seemed to be a waning of his enthusiasm. He no longer had youth. And with the passing of youth, ambition also dwindles —or so the proverbs have it.

ALL of that, however, has nothing to do with the year 1930, for on September 13 next, off Newport, Rhode Island, a Lipton boat, the Shamrock V, with Sir Thomas at the wheel—God willing —will make a fifth attempt to lift the America's Cup. Whether the historic silver and pewter trophy—more a pitcher than a cup—that the United States won in 1851 and has kept at home ever since is to return to England is one of those matters that is in the lap of the racing gods.

When Shamrock V moves out to the starting line of the first course for the fifteenth America's Cup race, Sir Thomas will be 80 years of age. It will be his last challenge. A triumph for the persistent Irishman would be the cause of rejoicing on both sides of the Atlantic. It would probably result in a challenge in 1931 or 1932. A Lipton victory would be a tonic for international yachting.

But it will be a matter of boats and yachtsmanship off Newport this summer, for the winds blow with sentimental disregard. As to the sailing abilities of Sir Thomas there is no question.

What about the sailing abilities of Shamrock V?

That's the big question.

The keel of the Shamrock V is laid at the Campter & Nicholson yards in Gosport, England, and from it are rising, from the designs of Charles E. Nicholson, the ribs, plating, deck and superstructure that are expected to make her the fastest sloop yet sent in quest of the cup.

Since the brief announcement, late in August, that construction upon her had begun, no hint as to her specifications has been forthcoming. Nor is there likely to be any. She will be launched about May 1, her great hollow mast will be stepped and her trials —as closely guarded as the workout of a horse being groomed for a "killing" —will begin.

She will be brought across the Atlantic this summer very much of a "mystery ship" insofar as her capabilities are concerned. She must not rate over 76 feet. If guesses are in order, she will have no centerboard and will be mahogany. And, surely, she will be painted green.

As to the identity of the boat the Shamrock V is to meet, Sir Thomas may not know a thing until a week before the race. This is a matter for the cup committee of the New York Yacht Club to decide. In any event, no one will know until September 1.

Following acceptance of the fifth Lipton challenge, issued through the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, four syndicates were formed to underwrite that number of possible defenders.

THE cup committee will select the defender on the basis of showings made in trials scheduled to be held off Newport July 7-19 and August 20-30, and unless one sloop in the early trials shows such marked superiority as to anticipate the naming, the identity of the defender will not be known until September.

One point is certain—she will be New England built. The four contenders are now under construction, two at Lawley's yards at Neponset, Boston, and two at Herreshoff's yards at Bristol, Rhode Island.

Yankee is the name of the sloop being built at Lawley's from the designs of Frank C. Paine, for the Boston syndicate headed by John S. Lawrence. Captain Gus Olson, masthead man on the Resolute when she turned back Shamrock IV, and more recently sailing master for Mr. Lawrence, will be the Yankee's sailing master.

Yankee will be bronze-plated, with a centerboard and a mast 165 feet from truck to keelson. She will "weigh in" at about 150 tons. Under rating limitations she may be from 76 to 87 feet on the waterline. Her mainsail, as those of the other contenders, will be jibheaded —the Bermuda rig, popularly known as the Marconi rig.

Her announced sail area is 7500 square feet. As Resolute, a smaller boat, carried 9400 feet and Shamrock IV about 10,000 square feet in the 1920 race, it may be inferred that Mr. Paine has incorporated some unusual departure in her design. This may prove to be an exceptionally high-placed boom.

Yankee will be ready for the water about May 1. She will condition at Marblehead, Massachusetts, her home port, and will carry the hopes of New England yachtsmen in the cup trials.

Whirlwind's keel weighs about 80 tons. She will have no centerboard and will probably be the largest sail carrier of the four. She will be mahogany planked or plated over frames of steel.

Weetamoe, building at Bristol, Rhode Island, was designed by Clinton Crane for a syndicate that includes J. Pierpont Morgan, Junius Morgan, General Cornelius Vanderbilt, Arthur Curtiss James, George Nichols, Gerard B. Lambert and George T. Bowdoin. She, too, will be a bronze-plated, centerboard craft. George Nichols will be her skipper in the trial races.

The fourth boat, Enterprise, was designed by W. Starling Burgess for the Vanderbilt syndicate, which is composed of Harold S. Vanderbilt, Vincent Astor, George F. Baker Jr., Ogden Mills, E. Walter Clark, Winthrop W. Aldridge, and George Whitney. She will be another centerboard, bronze-sheathed sloop. During the trials, Harold Vanderbilt will be her skipper.

Of the conditions governing the fifteenth race for the America's Cup, that most favorable to the challenger is the elimination of the time allowance, the bogie of the past. The rating limit will result in both boats being of nearly equal size. In the past, when challenging boats have been larger than the defending, as was usually the case, the former have sailed under a time handicap set by an American race committee, and not all races have been satisfactorily concluded from the standpoint of the invader. The elimination of time allowance also means a better race from the spectators' viewpoint.

The four-out-of-seven series is bound to be a more satisfactory arrangement than the three-out-of-five. It is not likely that the races will be sailed on successive days, for either boat desiring an intervening day may have it on application to the cup committee.

THE starting mark will be anchored nine nautical miles southeast from the Brenton Reef light vessel off Newport. The first race will be 15 miles to windward or leeward and return, and the second around a 30-mile triangle. Thereafter, until the winner is decided, courses will alternate in that order.

All races will be started to windward, if, in the opinion of the race committee, it is possible.

The race committee will, of course, have the power to postpone the start because of accident to either boat or conditions of the weather.

In the history of all the America's Cup races, however, only one contest was ever postponed because of heavy weather. For the sixth race of the 1920 challenge series between Resolute and Shamrock IV it blew a southeast gale that would have taken the sticks out of both boats. The same conditions prevailed the next day, and on the following the wind fell so flat that neither contender finished within the six-hour time limit.

The time limit this year will be five and one-half hours, and the race must be resailed if neither yacht finishes within that period.

So much for the future and what it holds in store for American yachts and yachting and an aged British baronet who will make his last effort to realize the ambition of his life. Now for a glimpse at the history of the America's Cup, rich in dramatic incident and tradition, and not wholly free of wrangling.

IN 1851 Commodore John L. Stevens, one of the organizers and the first head of the New York Yacht Club, took his schooner yacht, America, across the Atlantic to test her against England's best. After winning several contests he entered her in the free-for-all event of the Royal Yacht Squadron, a race around the Isle of Wight for the Royal Yacht Squadron Cup, or the Queen's Cup, as it was also known.

America led sixteen English boats around the island, beating Aurora, which finished second, by 18 minutes. Commodore Stevens returned to New York with his boat and his trophy, but not until six years later was it deeded to the New York Yacht Club as a perpetual challenge cup for international competition.

Three years later England challenged through the Royal Yacht Squadron, original donor, with James Ashbury's Cambria. Almost the entire fleet of the New York Yacht Club turned out in defense of the cup, the issue being decided by a single race.

Twenty-four yachts, including the America, then a United States Naval Academy training ship, lined up against the English boat, so even the Government was in league to turn back the British invader. At the starting mark, because of the odds against her, Cambria was given the weather berth—which may or may not have been a magnanimous gesture. In any event, what was the weather berth just before the start became, with a shift of wind, the leeward berth as the starting gun was fired. Cambria finished tenth.

That was the only race in which the challenger was called upon to compete against a fleet and the only challenge settled by a single race. The unfairness of the arrangement was obvious and the directors of the New York Yacht Club voted that there should be only one defender yacht in each race, although reserving the right to change defenders if the showing of the first-named was not up to expectations.

It is interesting to note that in the second race for the cup, America finished fourth with a crew of navy men although nine years had elapsed since she won the trophy.

Ashbury challenged again the next year with the schooner Livonia. Columbia was the defender in the first two races of a best four-in-seven series and twice turned back the challenger. In the third race Columbia broke her steering gear and Livonia won, the only race a challenger was to win until Lipton nearly lifted the cup with Shamrock IV.

Sappho won the next two races and the cup remained in the United States.

TWICE since Livonia's win have English boats crossed the finish line first, once to lose because of a foul and once because of time allowance. Valkyrie III finished first after fouling the Defender in 1895 and Shamrock II was first home by two seconds in the 1901 race with the Columbia, only to lose because of her 42-second handicap.

A NEW FEATURE OF THE POST-DISPATCH SUNDAY MAGAZINE

By JULIUS KLYMAN
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

ISAAC H. LIONBERGER journeyed to Princeton in the early 1870s and the president of the university told the young man he couldn't enter. "Your preparatory school records from St. Louis are not good enough," the educator told him. "I didn't come to teach," said Lionberger. "I came to learn." The president looked at him. "You may stay," he said.

If that pertinent remark was characteristic of Lionberger almost 60 years ago, it is just as characteristic of him today. That same alertness and clear thinking, that same ability to hit the nail on the head, epitomizes him. He even "looks the part." Born in Boonville, Missouri, in 1854—his parents moved to St. Louis when he was three months old—he is no longer a young man. Still, the years seem to have taken slight toll of him. Small, slender, alert, clear-eyed, precise in attire as he is precise in speech, a generous nose that bespeaks character, firm jaw, firm mouth, a fine, high forehead, active—if today he is not capable of getting out on the field and captaining the Princeton football team as he once did, for all ordinary purposes he remains the "active man."

"I was never a student at college," he told me. "I still don't like the manner of education we employ in our universities—telling a student something and then making him repeat it."

His college career went toward athletics, rather than books. He was a gymnast, a high jumper, a runner—the best middle-distance runner in the university. He played on the football team for the four years he was at Princeton, and captained it his last two years.

Today a public speaker of great ease and fluency, and a splendid writer, he says he could neither talk nor write while at college.

"When I was graduated," he said, "I was on the honor list—but that meant nothing. I think a fifth of the class was on it. But my ranking privileged me to make a speech at commencement. The president called me in. 'Lionberger,' he said, 'you're entitled to make a speech on commencement day. You can't do it. I've heard you.'"

Graduated from the university, Lionberger traveled in Europe, then entered the old St. Louis Law School and began to study law. Now he became the conscientious student, studying long hours each night. In 1875 he was admitted to the bar. But his pursuit of the law had harmed his eyes. He went to Montana and worked for two years as a cowboy. They were strenuous, interesting years. For months at a time he was as far as 200 miles from a town, he rode through the blizzards of the plains, found refuge from the winds in snowdrifts.

In Montana, he read two signs, amusing to him, interesting, enlightening. One was in a hall, sometimes used as a church. The sign read: "Don't shoot the organist. He's doing the best he can." The other, hanging in a tavern, said: "The man who doesn't like hash is a liar." And under the sign lay a pistol.

"The first sign," said Lionberger, "was a pardoning one. The second, a ferocious philosophy." Now, at the age of 75, he looks at the world and is inclined toward the former. He feels some things are pretty bad, but he believes the organist is doing the best he can. He is convinced that progress is a slow business, that it must sift slowly into the race through the gradual changes brought about by tradition.

WHEN Lionberger returned to St. Louis after his two years of cow-punching he began his practice of the law. He was not at all pleased with the ability he brought to it. The words of the Princeton president, regarding his deficiency as a public speaker, still rang in his ears—what was more, he knew the educator had been right.

He would correct that deficiency. So he sewed a button on a coat by way of qualification and joined the tailors' union, the only necessary requisite for admission in those days. At the union's meetings, by his own confession, he became a sort of devil's advocate. He talked and argued, talked and argued. To hear him talk today it is difficult to realize he ever suffered from inferiority of speech. To hear him talk today is to realize that such verbal excellence must be obtained by thought and exercise.

So, with his writing. A dreadful writer, unable, so he says, to write a decent college theme, he began to do articles for the legal magazines and taught himself to write. His degree in the law had not brought surcease from legal study. Most of his evenings were devoted to three and four hours of it.

In 1886 he married Miss Louise Shepley of St. Louis. Then, he says, he studied all the harder. His family came to include four daughters and two sons.

One morning he was walking down Olive street. Passing in front of the old Exposition Building on the block between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, where the Public Library stands today, he stubbed his foot. It hurt badly. He found the cause of his accident to be the end of a gas pipe projecting above the sidewalk.

He continued on his way. But, he thought, what would I do if a client came to me who had been painfully injured in a similar accident? He realized, then, that he knew nothing of the law of the streets. Something else to study up on. He did. He wrote an essay on it. He became, though very few knew it, something of an expert on that phase of the law.

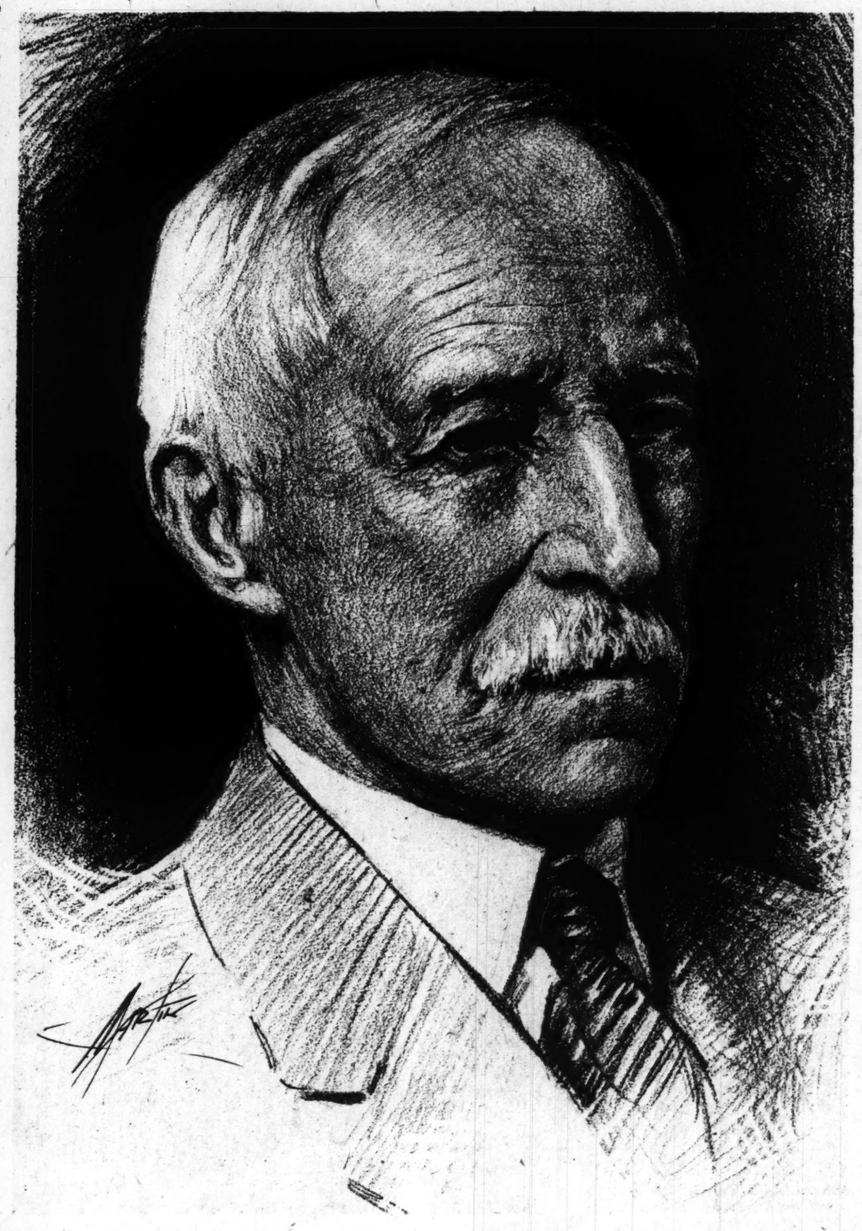
One morning in 1891 a man walked into his office. "I see you're a lawyer," said the visitor. "I'm in a hurry, I want an attorney who is well qualified in the matter of injunctions. Whom would you advise?"

Lionberger suggested a name. The stranger pull d out his watch. "It's three minutes to 10," he said. "I'm afraid I haven't time to get him. I ought to be in court now." The visitor hesitated a moment. Then he said: "Look here! You're a lawyer; you ought to be able to handle this. Come to court with me and have this hearing continued."

Lionberger accompanied his temporary client to court. This client turned out to be the president of the Laclede Gas Light Company. In court Lionberger found a legal opponent who was asking for a temporary injunction to prevent the gas light company from proceeding with some work in the streets.

The Court refused to continue the hearing. Lionberger found himself attorney for the defense. The whole hearing revolved about the law of the streets. When it was over, Lionberger had won. The gas company made him its chief counsel. He still retains the post.

Isaac Lionberger's father, John R. Lionberger, died in 1894. A merchant and banker, he left a considerable fortune, and Isaac Lionberger's share was about a half-million dollars.



ISAAC H. LIONBERGER.

By 1897 Lionberger had lost all of it.

"I knew nothing about finance," he told me. "I became a victim for anyone who wanted my money. I was easily flattered. One day a reputable and well-known citizen came into my office. He told me a pool was being formed to buy up a certain company. He wanted me in it. I was flattered. I invested $40,000. Two weeks later I found I had lost it all. The man who sold me my shares knew the proposition was no good. He had simply sold me his holdings and gotten out of it himself.

"Someone else would walk in. 'We want you in this,' or 'We want you in that.' And flattered again, I'd invest. Another $40,000 or $50,000 lost. So it went—until my inheritance was gone.

"I decided to study finance. I read book after book, four and five hours a night. I traced the financial histories of different countries. I traced the history of panics and financial depressions in this country. I found that following every panic stocks kept going down for several years. They might drop 10 points, then go up five, drop another 10, go up another five, but they would keep descending in an up-and-down fashion, until they reached their lowest point. Then they would begin to go up in very much the same manner they had gone down. They would rise perhaps 10 points, drop off five, rise 10 more, drop five or six, until they had reached their peak.

"One evening, as I studied my financial books, I suddenly saw how to do it. I threw my book at the ceiling. And broke some of the plaster.

"The next morning as I walked downtown I considered what stocks I would buy. Then it dawned on me. As conditions became better, as there was a greater demand for things, as more articles were manufactured and purchased, someone would have to transport all this merchandise. Who? The railroads, of course. I knew nothing about railroads. But railroad stock I would buy.

"I went to a good friend of mine, the president of a bank. I asked him to lend me $100,000. He wanted to know what security I had. I told him my honor. He told me my honor was all right, but that he was intrusted with the funds of the bank and that he couldn't do it. I persisted. He knew I had a successful practice as an attorney. He loaned me the money. I later found he had indorsed my note himself.

"Stocks were on the upgrade. I invested in railroad stocks, bought those that were very low. When the stock went up as far as I thought it would go in that step, I sold. When it dropped again I bought. I continued in just that fashion. The war with Spain came. I was in New England when Cervera, the Spanish Admiral, was reported on his way to the American coast, his purpose to destroy the cities along our Eastern seaboard. All the Yankees left the coast and went inland. Stocks went down. I wired my broker in New York to buy. Cervera's fleet was destroyed. And the market went up.

"By 1901 I had paid back the $100,000 I had borrowed. And I'd made a million for myself.

"I'd also learned a valuable lesson. I've never since had occasion to change my opinion. I've found throughout my life that every time I listened to someone's advice I lost. And every time I followed my own opinion, I won."

ONLY once did Lionberger compete for political office, and on that occasion he didn't know he was in the running until he discovered it in a most surprising way. A member of his family was ill and he was bicycling down Olive street, his objective a drug store, where he was to get a bottle of medicine. As he approached Channing avenue he saw a crowd gathered and a man addressing the audience from a stake wagon.

As he got nearer he heard the speaker disparaging someone in hearty fashion, and then, to his great astonishment, he learned that the target of the tirade was Isaac Lionberger. What had happened was that some of Lionberger's friends had suggested him as a candidate for State Senator on the Democratic ticket. And the speaker, also desirous of the candidacy, was telling everyone who would listen how much superior he was to Lionberger.

Lionberger got off his bicycle. He jumped up on the wagon. Ah, those days in the tailors' union were not misspent. For the lawyer indulged in a little oratory of his own, and ended up by taking the crowd away from his opponent.

True, Lionberger was defeated for the nomination. It was through no fault of his own. When the delegates came together to choose their candidates, as they did in those days, Lionberger's patron got his signals crossed—and his opponent won.

In 1896 Lionberger was appointed solicitor to the Department of the Interior under President Cleveland. He lived in Washington some two years. He came back to St. Louis utterly disgusted with politics, its vagaries abhorrent to him. He never cared to hold office again.

He believes that on the whole the old St. Louis system of choosing candidates by vote of party delegates was better than the present method of nomination in open primaries. "In the old system," he says, "we at least usually got able Judges. The politicians chose them to give the ticket a decent face. Now—almost anyone can be nominated to almost any office."

He finds prohibition distasteful, both in itself and in its principle of Federal control. A believer in the Jeffersonian theory of the rights of the states, he can not look kindly on prohibition or any other law that attempts to regulate the personal habits of men by national rule.

Individual liberty is sacred to him. He once carried his belief in it to the classroom. That was when he was an instructor in the old St. Louis Law School, which later became the law department of Washington University.

There was in his teaching days a tradition that an instructor would resign after he had taught 21 years. When Lionberger had come to his twenty-first year of teaching, the dean of the school asked him to resign at the end of the term. Lionberger told him he would and that he had intended to, but asked the dean why he made the request. "Because," said the dean, "I can't do anything with your classes when you are through with them."

"That pleased me tremendously," Lionberger told me. "It proved to me that I had succeeded with my students. I made them assert their individuality, reason for themselves, say what they thought. I refused to let them talk out of their books. I had accomplished something. I had emancipated them from the textbook. I think my work at the law school is the only worth-while work I ever accomplished."

He was one of a group which, in the old days, met at the University Club, then a converted residence near the club's site of today. Among Lionberger and his cohorts wit flourished, questions pertaining to all the arts were discussed, intellectual discussion found favor. It was this group that entertained visiting lights of the day, such men as John Fiske, the historian, Henry James, Matthew Arnold, Mark Twain, Admiral Dewey, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. Here the celebrities were not put to pompous formality; instead camaraderie persisted, the talk was man to man.

When Mr. Lionberger was 60 years old he wrote an essay which he called "The Felicities of Old Age." (You find excerpts from it in another part of this article.) He

On the FELICITIES of LIFE at 60

From an Essay by Isaac H. Lionberger

WHERE the social order is disturbed, and other men become frightened, we stand apart and wait confidently, or do what is requisite without nervousness; remembering similar trials, how they were met, and what followed. We do not despair when fools have their way; nor repine because wise men must bet r themselves. Understanding that liberty must be paid for, that democracies cannot be well governed, that people mean to do what they think right, that some room must be allowed to discontent, and that all folly is best corrected by its consequences, we are calm where youth might be tempted to violence and old age to misanthropy....

I will not pretend that men of 60 live always in any such smug and smirking state as I have described; content with the platitudes of experience and smiling somewhat condescendingly. I know their lives are still perturbed and uneasy. Do the best they can, ancient grief and chagrins and new causes of uneasiness will come upon them and rob them of serenity for a time. To see clearly is not always to see that which is admirable, either in one's self or another. A sense of humor is not always with us. The gods alone can smile when cunning men prevail over good....

Philosophy may calm exasperation, but it cannot extinguish discontent. Even at 60 the mood of the moment is sometimes stronger than any intellectual check within reach.... Good and evil are still mixed; quiet and agitation, content and discontent, sweet and bitter, loving and hating; but we have learned how foolish is repining, and turn to other things; looking about for happiness where we cannot find it within. This is the sum and excellence of experience, that it may teach us what to forget and what to remember, and how to endure in time of trial.

At 60 I know the sun is setting, for I feel a strange serenity. Passions have quieted, ambition is still, desires have lost their craving. I no longer think it possible I may understand either myself or another. As seeds planted are not alike and each has its propensity and becomes by use of life what nature intended—or oak, or maple, or willow, and they together constitute that various forest which we find so interesting—so we who constitute society. In variety there is charm and opposition, and in these we find all our joys and sorrows....

My faculties are not yet dimmed; I can see, and what I see bewilders yet consoles me....What I see is good and wise and better calculated for the habitation and discipline of man than any Eden of Utopia.

EXPLOITS of a REAL LIFE SHERLOCK HOLMES

Chief Triumphs of David N. Carvalho's Long Career Revealed by His Daughter

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

IF AMERICA ever had a super-criminologist, after the pattern of Sherlock Holmes, Arsene Lupin and the lately popular Philo Vance, it was David N. Carvalho. Today, when flat-footed detectives, whose principal technique involves the use of a rubber hose, predominate, the exploits of Carvalho seem almost as unreal as those of the super-detective of fiction.

He was a scientist, an artist in crime detection. His specialty was handwriting. Thousands of criminals he tracked to earth by means of the dried rivers of ink their pens had left. Forgery, blackmail, treason, murder, whenever the guilty one left behind so much as a scrawl of writing David N. Carvalho was summoned. And almost without fail he was able to follow these slender trails successfully. The chief triumphs of his long career are set down for the first time in "Crime in Ink," published here recently by Scribners. It is the work of Boyden Sparkes, a young writer, and Carvalho's daughter, Claire Carvalho, who through a greater part of her life played Dr. Watson to her father's Sherlock.

That she was a very successful Dr. Watson, putting the right question at the right time and registering astonishment when the occasion demanded, the book testifies. As a matter of fact, Carvalho seems actually to have been influenced by the criminologists of fiction. He always maintained an air of mystery about his laboratory, with its impressive equipment, its microscopes, cameras, retorts and what-nots. He dressed the part, wearing almost invariably a large gray Stetson with a stiff brim and a morning coat. His beard was always trimmed to perfection and perfumed. He carried large linen handkerchiefs with his signature embroidered in one corner. He was vain, proud.

But with good reason. He could look back upon a remarkable record. It was Carvalho, to take one example, who was chiefly responsible for the exoneration of Captain Alfred Dreyfus, saving him from the hell of Devil's Island. The way in which this came about was typical of Carvalho's methods, of his intense interest in his field.

Dreyfus, convicted of treason, had spent more than a year of his life sentence on Devil's Island—the case was supposedly closed. Then, strangely enough, because the child, Claire Carvalho, had to have a new hat, the status of the whole affair was changed. Claire's father decided she should have a really nice hat. He would take her into New York from their Long Island home and together they would buy it. By way of celebrating, Claire's father took her for lunch to a French restaurant.

They had ordered their lunch when Carvalho chanced to pick up a copy of the French paper, Le Matin. Spreading it out on the table he saw reproduced, for the first time it happened, the bit of writing on which Dreyfus had been convicted. It was like the scent of powder to a warhorse. He was no longer interested in the lunch and, dragging the protesting child along with him, he hurried to his downtown office and laboratory. His trained eye had detected minute facts of great import in that bit of handwriting.

Even though there was no other specimen of Dreyfus' handwriting with which to compare it, there were many things that it revealed to him. Carvalho promptly wrote to Madame Dreyfus in Paris and some weeks later her representatives in America brought him photographs of the treasonable writing, supposedly written by Dreyfus, along with numerous other samples of the convicted man's handwriting, love letters he had written to his wife many years before, letters he had written her from Devil's Island, official documents and papers bearing his signature.

FOR days Carvalho worked over these. At last he sent off a complete report of his findings to Paris. It was on this report more than on anything else that Emile Zola based his famous "I accuse," the damning that was instrumental in forcing the French Government to reopen the case. The rest is well known—Dreyfus brought back from Devil's Island, the new trial, the final exoneration, the confession of forgery by Colonel Henry and his suicide, and at last the confession of the spy, Major Esterhazy, and his flight to England.

Memorandum in Dreyfus case which Carvalho revealed as forged

Aside from his interest in freeing an innocent man, Carvalho had another and more personal reason for his intense efforts on behalf of Dreyfus. He wanted to show up the great criminologist, Bertillon, whose testimony concerning the identity of the author of the treasonable document had sent Dreyfus to Devil's Island. Claire remembers her father coming home one afternoon and saying: "This fellow Bertillon is going to get a lesson in the science of handwriting that should make a better man of him."

A long time afterward, when Dreyfus had been honorably restored to his rank in the army, Carvalho explained the case to his daughter as follows:

"The very instant I saw that newspaper reproduction and the authentic copy of Dreyfus' handwriting I was sure he never had written it. That was instinct; but when I had studied the case my conclusion was based on a certitude. Dreyfus could not have written it.

"Suppose you saw a lame man limping in the street. You know he limps because it is difficult for him to walk. He walks in the only fashion in which he is capable. Suppose you saw behind him an agile boy, mocking his affliction by walking with a limp grossly exaggerated. You would know at once the lame man could not limp in any such fashion. His frail leg would not permit it. So it was with Dreyfus.

"A particular feature of all of the writing of Captain Dreyfus was that all of his initial letters started from the base line and that the second letter is in general curiously raised above the line. The raised part comprises ordinarily the third and sometimes the fourth letter, after which the writing returns suddenly to the line, describing the section of a circle.

"I have learned by many years of experience that when a man tries to disguise his handwriting he tries to avoid the dominant and apparent characteristics of it. He never tries to accentuate those characteristics. On the other hand, if he attempts to imitate the handwriting of another he will look for these dominant and apparent characteristics and make them more intense in order to draw attention more particularly to these special points. That is what Esterhazy had done. He was the agile boy imitating the lame man, but at times in that treasonable writing he forgot to limp. He wrote like Esterhazy. Don't ask me why he tried to throw suspicion on Dreyfus. I know that it was discovered finally that he had sent more than 150 communications to Schwartzkoppen (the German military attache in Paris). Undoubtedly he lived in terror of apprehension, and it is quite possible he took that cruel means of diverting suspicion from himself at a time when he feared immediate discovery."

CARVALHO was called in as an expert witness in numerous important will cases, involving during his lifetime hundreds of millions of dollars. One of these was the James Graham Fair case. Fair left at his death an estate close to $150,000,000. It was tied up in trust so that the heirs would have the use only of the income. The heirs were anxious to break this will. Then there appeared on the scene a San Francisco school teacher, Mrs. Nettie R. Craven. She claimed to have been married to Fair by a most unusual marriage contract and offered another will, leaving to her a substantial inheritance.

Aside from the money involved, this, if established, would prove extremely embarrassing to the Fairs, who had risen very high socially and had married with the Vanderbilts. A granddaughter of old Fair, Consuelo Vanderbilt, married the Duke of Marlborough.

Carvalho and another handwriting expert were employed on the case. At Carvalho's instruction an enormous camera was constructed for enlarging photographically the disputed documents. It had bellows 25 feet long, and with it the signature on the will in pencil could be thrown up to 3600 times its normal size. Each letter was more than a foot square.

THIS evidence alone was sufficient to disprove Mrs. Craven's contention. But, as Carvalho pointed out to his daughter, it had cost as much to use this method as the entire sum involved in many disputed wills.

"There is one letter that absolutely baffled the forger in this case," Carvalho observed to Claire. "Fair made a very peculiar symbol when he wrote 'q' and, lacking samples, the forger produced a 'q' that was totally unlike the letter as it was written by Fair. The forger needed to use 'q' every time he wrote the word 'bequeath.'

"It was his ignorance of such fine points that defeated the purpose of the forger and those who inspired him. A section of the forged will and a portion of the genuine document written by Mr. Fair might, at first glance, seem to have been written by the same hand, but the microscope showed that there were 500 or more breaks and retouches in the forged document. A child could see from the enlargement that the pen that halted in that fashion was traveling in a strange road in the dark of ignorance when it wrote 'James G. Fair.'"

Carvalho was indirectly involved in the case of the madman who attempted to kill J. P. Morgan in 1915. The assassin was Frank Holt. Holt, an instructor in German at Cornell University, broke into the Morgan home at Glen Cove, Long Island, and after haranguing Morgan insanely on the shipment of arms to the allies, fired several shots at him, wounding him seriously. During the time that he was held in jail, police became convinced that "Frank Holt" was an alias of Erich Muenter, a professor of German at Harvard, who had poisoned his wife. When "Holt" committed suicide by struggling to the highest bars of his cell and then dashing himself to the concrete floor, the police reported the identity of Muenter and Holt to have been the same and wrote both the murderer of Mrs. Muenter and the attempted killing of Morgan off their books.

BUT Carvalho, who had been called in as a handwriting expert, had decided differently. "I'd rather have one fact," he said to Claire, "than a bale of circumstances. There was a foreign cast to the writing of Muenter, a quality that I could not find at all in that of Holt. This man Holt, who tried to kill Mr. Morgan, wrote with much more facility than was apparent in anything produced by Muenter, the Harvard instructor.

"They were different men, you may be sure of that. A man can shave off a beard. Muenter undoubtedly shaved his face smooth when he went into hiding; but how could Muenter disguise every muscle of his arm? Answer that one, please.

"The matter of alignment, of slope and angle, of pen pressure, of relation of letters to the base line, spacing and speed, in all of these things, I was told confidentially, you might say, by the prisoner himself that he was not Erich Muenter."

No facts have ever come to light to settle this disputed identity. But Carvalho always affirmed that Muenter was alive and highly pleased at the mistake of the police.

Often the pen scratches that Carvalho was called upon to examine revealed strange twists in the lives of his clients. A New York capitalist, who had started on a political career, brought to Carvalho's office three anonymous letters demanding money he had received. In each of these letters it was hinted that unless the money was forthcoming promptly certain episodes in his wife's life would be made public. The writer claimed to have information that she had a lover. Each time the wealthy husband had paid, rather than risk unpleasant publicity, although he did not believe the charges made against his wife. The blackmailer was thought to be a member of the man's household

"Bring me," said Carvalho, "samples of the handwriting of everyone connected with your household, including your wife."

WASHINGTON.

A GOVERNMENTAL building program of colossal proportions which promises to make Washington over within 10 years into one of the most impressive and beautiful capital cities of the world is at last under way after more than a century of haphazard construction that has resulted in what President Hoover terms an "architectural orgy."

Mammoth new structures of white stone and marble, including 10 new departmental buildings, artistically designed and grouped, will rise along Pennsylvania avenue and the Mall on land which has long been occupied by a hodgepodge of vegetable markets, lodging houses, filling stations, laundries and—what is scarcely more attractive—the present Postoffice Department.

A total of $200,000,000 will be required for completion of the program and this vast sum already has been pledged. Indeed, Congress has appropriated $75,000,000 to be spent at once and the President has announced he will ask that body for $25,000,000 more, thus making half of the grand total available at the outset. All departments of the Government, it appears, have entered into the project with about equal zest.

THE most celebrated architectural, engineering and landscaping talent in the land has been assembled for the undertaking and architectural models of captivating charm have been prepared. These plaster designs are now on display in the show windows of downtown department stores, where throngs crowd about to see them and try to visualize the Washington of 10 years hence.

The building program, however, has progressed a good deal farther than the mere making of display-window models. Construction work on four of the 10 departmental buildings has begun and foundations for two more are to be laid within the year. Thirty squares in the heart of the city have been purchased or condemned or are now in process of condemnation. The city bustles with the activity of the excavator and the concrete mixer. Ramshackle structures that were standing when Lincoln was shot in the nearby Ford Theater are coming down. Hundreds of householders are moving out of the condemned area and great steam shovels are tearing holes in the ground. Washington, the beautiful capital, is on its way toward becoming a reality instead of a dream. It has remained largely a dream through the 140 years that have passed since the French engineer, of George Washington's revolutionary army, Major Pierre Charles L'Enfant, first dreamed the dream and was commissioned by General Washington to lay out the town. It was through no fault of the imaginative Frenchman that the dream did not materialize sooner. He laid out a city that was to have combined all the superb characteristics of Paris, Versailles and Rome, with stately buildings, monuments, far-reaching parks and vistas. It is related that President Washington and Secretary of State Jefferson, both of whom had some knowledge of engineering, were enthusiastic over his plan, which called for streets running north and south and east and west, with diagonal avenues superimposed upon the streets and radiating from the Capitol and the White House as spokes from the hubs of wheels. The streets and avenues were built in accordance with the L'Enfant plan, but the massive buildings, the monuments and the landscaping came slowly and when they did come they were rather badly scattered and disorganized. For a hundred years the national capital was an object of derision. Fun makers called it the "village monumental," or the "city of magnificent distances." During the first hundred years of its existence the Government never had sufficient funds with which to carry out any extensive program of alteration and co-ordination—or if it did have, refused to use them for the purpose. Now, at last, it has both the means and the disposition. To quote President Hoover, "the opportunity and the resources are at hand to re-create a national capital that will express the soul of America."

The new Archives Building, the foundation of which is the next to be laid.

The construction program now under way revolves about a magnificent centerpiece known as the Triangle. Buildings on this tract alone will cost $150,000,000. This area, which lies almost in the center of the city, comprises 70 acres. The Triangle is formed by Fifteenth street, N. W., as the base (the tract is 3000 feet wide here), Pennsylvania avenue as the hypothenuse and B street as the perpendicular. The length of the perpendicular is about 13 blocks. Along the B street, or perpendicular, side of the Triangle is the Mall, the great stretch of Government ground, extending from the Capitol to the Potomac River, and which includes parks, numerous Government buildings, such as those of the Department of Agriculture, the National Museum, Smithsonian Institution, Washington Monument and Lincoln Memorial. Collateral alteration and development of the Mall will accompany the development of the Triangle.

IT IS upon the Triangle, however, that attention is now centered. There the change in the city's appearance will be most marked. On this 70-acre plot will rise the new Department of Commerce, Department of Labor, Department of Justice, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Interstate Commerce Commission, Archives Building and quarters for a great number of independent establishments, most of which are now in temporary buildings of war-time vintage. It is planned to erect also a new State Department Building in the group, leaving the present structure to the War Department. And one of the last steps in the undertaking will be the replacement of the present Postoffice Department Building. Three plazas will be located within the Triangle. At Twelfth street will be a circular one as a sort of pivot of the composition. From this the vistas will extend through to the second, or Great Plaza. The third plaza will be at the acute angle of the Triangle.

The largest of the buildings will be the Department of Commerce, which is already well under way. It is located on three city squares, forming the base of the Triangle. In floor area it will be the largest office building in the world and its cost will be $17,500,000. The new Archives Building, probably the most needed of all, will cost $8,750,000. Its foundation will be laid soon and it will be followed in order by the Departments of Justice and Labor, Interstate Commerce and Independent Establishments buildings.

The MAN who CAUGHT the WEATHER

By BESS STREETER ALDRICH

"Just a little of the fruits of my labor," was his dignified greeting on these occasions when he tapped at the back door.

HE lived next door to us when I was a girl — old Mr. Parline. To be sure, his wife lived there, too, but we never saw very much of her. She was one of the immaculate housewives of that day, whose life was bounded by the hundred small tasks of a home into which the modern button-pushing conveniences had not come. A shy, effacing woman she was — "mousy" describes her too well to abandon the term for its mere triteness. Mr. Parline was the one who did the talking, who neighbored with the rest of us, who came to the back door bringing us gifts from his garden.

The Parline house sat in the midst of trees and flowers like Ceres among her fruits. We were just then emerging from the dark age of fences into the enlightened era of open lawns. By your fenced or fenceless condition you were known as old-fashioned or up-to-date. One by one the picket and the fancy iron and the rough board fences on our street had gone down before the god of fashion. Mr. Parline, alone, retained his—a neat picket, painted as white as the snowballs that hung over it, Juliet-like, from their green foliage balconies.

The shrubbery was not so artistically placed as that of today. We had not learned to group it against houses and walls, leaving wide stretches of lawn. Single bushes dotted Mr. Parline's lawn, a hydrangea here, a peony there, a tiger lily beyond, in spaded spots of brown, mulch-filled earth, like so many chickens squatted in their round nests.

The Parlines were of English extraction although both had been born in Vermont. There was a faintly whispered tale that they were cousins, but there was no one so intimate as to verify the gossip and no one so prying as to ask.

MR. PARLINE was a half-head shorter than his tall, slender wife. He was stocky of body, a little ruddy as to complexion, like the color of his apples, a little fuzzy as to face, like the down on his peaches. There was a quiet dignity about him that fell just short of pompousness. "Mr. Parline" his wife called him, in contrast to the "John" and "Silas" and "Fred" with which the other women spoke of their liege lords. Where other women in the block ran in to our home with the freedom of close acquaintances, Mrs. Parline alone occasionally came sedately in at the front gate in a neat brown dress covered with a large snowy apron starched to cardboard stiffness.

It was Mr. Parline who came often. With that manner which was paradoxically gentle and pompous, he would bring us edibles from his garden all summer long on a home-made flat wooden tray. That garden, as neat as constant care could make it, was the delight and despair of everyone who attempted to emulate it. Not a pigweed showed its stubborn head. Not a mullen-stalk lifted its thick, velvety self. The bricklaid paths, without sign of leaf, might have been swept, even scrubbed. As for the growing contents of the garden, they made a varicolored and delightful picture. In its perfection every cabbage might have been a rose, every beet an exotic tropical plant, the parsley dainty window-box ferns. To Mr. Parline there was no dividing line between the beauty of flowers and the beauty of vegetables. With impartiality he planted marigolds near the carrots and zinnias next to the beans.

"Just a little of the fruits of my labor," was his dignified greeting on those occasions when he tapped at the back door. In the center of the wooden tray might repose a cabbage, the dew still trembling upon the silver sheen of its leaves, around it a lovely mass of the delicate shell-pink of sweet peas. One felt it as much of a sacrilege to plunge the cabbage into hot water as it would have been to cook the sweet peas. Or he might have several bunches of grapes in merging shades of wine red and purple, their colors melting into the wine red and purple colors of shaggy asters. Old Mr. Parline had the heart of a poet and the eye of an interior decorator.

We never saw Mrs. Parline pulling a vegetable or cutting a flower. Occasionally, at evening, she walked in the paths with all the interest and curiosity of a stranger, evidently considering the garden as sacred ground as did the rest of us. Indeed, Mother was at their back door one day when Mr. Parline came up the path with the inevitable wooden tray. There were beets on the tray, their tops cut, their bodies like blood-red hearts, around them white Sweet Williams and crimson phlox. "I was just bringing my wife some of the fruits of my labor," he said in his courteous, half-pompous way.

We laughed about the phrase at home. Ours was a noisy, hilarious, fun-loving family. One member might bring in a mess of dirty potatoes in a battered old pail. "A little of the fruits of my labor," he would imitate Mr. Parline's pompous dignity. Or another, coming in with the first scrawny radishes, might have placed a few limpsy dandelions around them as a floral satire on the contents of Mr. Parline's wooden tray.

IF THE garden was the old man's hobby, the weather was his very life. It was inconceivable that anyone should be so wrapped up in the constant change of the elements. To other busy people the weather was incidental to their labors, the setting in which they performed their tasks. It might be pleasant or inconvenient, but it remained a side issue. To old Mr. Parline it was the important event of the day. He scanned the heavens, read the almanac, watched for signs of changes. Of the last he had a thousand at his command. If the sun went down in clouds on Friday night, if it rained the first Sunday in the month, if a dog ate grass, if the snow stuck to the north sides of the trees—he knew to a nicety what the results would be. To old Mr. Parline the weather was not the background. It was the picture itself. It was not the mere setting for daily living. It was life itself. No government official connected with the Weather Bureau made it more his life's thought. In the kitchen he kept a large calendar upon which he made notations for the day. Every vagrant shifting of the wind, every cloud that raced across the blue, was recorded. For what purpose no one knew. Another slight dash of snow at noon. Temperature 34. Sun came out at 3 p. m. It seemed so small, so trivial, that a man should give so much time and thought to that which he could not change. He had thermometers by the house, on the north side to show the coldest registration, on the south to get the hottest, in the garden, by the barn. They were like traps everywhere—baited with mercury—little traps to catch the weather.

FROM Mr. Parline's conversation one gathered that an overseeing Providence had given him exclusive charge of the elements. If his words did not utter it, his manner implied it. "Well, how do you like my June day?" his attitude seemed to be. If the day was bad, he was half-apologetic. If it was pleasant, he glowed with satisfaction. The summer afternoon on which we were to have a little social gathering, he came to the back door and, with genuine feeling, told us how sorry he was that the day was dull and rainy. His manner showed humiliation, as though from the standpoint of neighborliness he had failed us in a crisis. "I am very sorry," he said in his gentle, half-pompous way. "I had thought—had every reason to believe—that it would be sunshiny." We assured him that we bore him no grudge, and he went home relieved, returning with the wooden tray, on which lay a heap of ruby cherries, a delicate mass of baby's breath around them.

Was there a great national event, his talk turned immediately to the weather in which it was consummated. When he read the newspapers he seemed to ignore the main issue of the news. The weather, lurking in the background, was apparently of greater importance to him than the magnitude of the event. On the day of Dewey's triumph he spoke immediately of the weather, wondering whether it had been dull or sunny in the harbor. At an inauguration there was no comment from him concerning the great issue of the day, the change in the policy of the administration. He gave forth no acclaim or condemnation of the new head of the Government. His mind dwelt only on the fact that the new President was having to ride up Pennsylvania avenue in a mist.

Vegetables, flowers and the weather—they were Mr. Parline's whole existence. Such little things they were, we said. Whether his wife was bored by the triviality of his life, we could not know. She was too reserved for anyone to sense her reactions to her husband's small interests. We could see her working about the house all day.

Sometimes she brought out quilts and hung them on the line for cleaning. They were of intricate patterns, beautifully pieced and quilted—the Rose of Sharon, the Log Cabin, the Flower Basket, and the Rising Sun. "I'll bet the old man sleeps under the Rising Sun," one of the family remarked, and we laughed unroariously at the joke. In the evening Mrs. Parline often came out and strolled through the paths, stepping gingerly about like a stranger, listening to the old man's courteous, half-pompous talk. She was deeply afraid of storms, he had told us years before. And when one saw the first dark clouds looming up from the southwest in summer, or the first gray ones rolling in from the north in winter, one also saw old Mr. Parline hurrying home, his square, heavy body swinging along out of its accustomed slower movements. To get home to Mrs. Parline when there was rain or hail or snow was his first duty. It was the only time when he ever seemed to be thrown out of his pompous calm. You saw them later through the windows looking out at the storm together.

THE Parlines attended a little, ivy-grown church, where the old gentleman passed the collection box. When his own part of the service was over he would take a seat near the door, one eye on the sky. It was as though he must have everything as auspicious as possible when the congregation should return home. One wondered if he heard the sermon at all. A queer old man.

But the queerest thing of all was his strange prophecy that the day would come when the weather could be regulated. We young folks guffawed at that. "He was eccentric before he sprung that one," we said, "but now he's a nut."

In his half-pompous, half-gentle way, he argued it. "In the centuries to come, who knows but that humanity will have progressed to such an extent that men can catch the weather and retain it—hold it for a time to their own choice? You smile at that." He was sensitive to our thought. "But strange things have happened. Who would have thought you could catch the human voice in a little box and listen to it through a tube to the ear?" This was all some 20 years ago. "Who would have thought a machine would rise up in the air under its own power? Who would have thought carriages without horses would go about the streets?"

"The whole trouble would be," we joked with him, "you would want rain the day we wanted sunshine, and living next door to us there would be complications."

"I don't pretend to know how it could be accomplished," he said, in his gentle, dignified way. "I merely suggest that in the years to come it may be so."

So the Parlines went on living their quiet lives. Refined, gentle folk, but different—and a little queer.

AND then, on a spring day, old Mrs. Parline died, as quietly and unostentatiously as she had lived. There was no fuss about it. A hard cold, the doctor coming and going, a neighbor slipping in and out of the back door, a cousin coming out from Chicago to care for her—death. The various members of our family went over to the house. Other neighbors came, as they do in small towns. A man's sorrow is the town's sorrow. In a neighborly community, sympathy takes concrete form. It becomes buns and flowers and apple jelly and sitting up.

Old Mr. Parline greeted us kindly, courteously. Outwardly he showed no manifestations of his grief, except that his face was gray and drawn. He was solicitous of our comfort. He brought in fuel for the kitchen stove and oil for the lamps. He went to the cellar and came back with apples, polishing them scrupulously. He asked us if we were too cold or too hot. He went up and down his tulip beds pulling a few tiny weeds from the soil. Such little things in the face of death! He looked at the thermometer, at the almanac, at the sky, and predicted a pleasant sunshiny afternoon for the services. A queer old man, we all said. Not even death itself could take his mind away from the habits of a lifetime.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Last Challenge

Galatea in the following year, and in 1887 Volunteer walked away from Thistle. Vigilant was defender in 1893 against Valkyrie II, and two years later Defender lived up to her name in defeating Valkyrie III.

The year 1899 saw the first Lipton challenge, with Columbia the winner in three straight races over the first Shamrock. In 1901 Columbia turned back the second of the Shamrocks, and in 1903 Reliance beat Shamrock III.

Wrangling has made an occasional appearance in the America's Cup races. Mr. Ashbury, in the first challenge race, was slightly put out because he had to compete against a fleet under the added handicap of starting in a leeward berth with a score of sails to the windward of his own. There was no questioning that he had good cause for raising a howl of protest.

Upon his return the following year, there was more rowing, and when the race committee disallowed his claim that Columbia fouled in the first race by turning the outer mark on the wrong side, a wail of considerable volume arose from all Britain. There was more wailing when Sappho was substituted for Columbia over his protest. Little doubt there is that Mr. Ashbury received none the best of treatment during his two visits to the United States.

But that was nothing at all to the stir created by the Lord Dunraven incident in 1895, a display of hard-losing which resulted in the British earl being expelled from the New York Yacht Club.

DUNRAVEN'S Valkyrie III was decisively defeated by Defender, as previously related, and her owner returned to England to publish the charge that the American yacht's load water line had been increased and her trim altered, by secret changing of her lead ballast under the cover of a cloudy night.

American yachting circles were aghast at the charge. The New York Yacht Club at once appointed a committee to investigate. It comprised J. Pierpont Morgan, William C. Whitney, George L. Rives, Captain Alfred H. Mahan, and Edward J. Phelps, with Joseph H. Choate as counsel.

Lord Dunraven made a special trip to the United States to testify and repeated his charges. The true story came out at the hearing: The two tons of lead pigs in the Defender could not be stored properly until cut in half, so on the night before the race men worked aboard her for eight hours, transferring them to a tender, cutting them in two, returning them and storing them.

But Lord Dunraven was unconvinced. He reiterated his charges and returned to England without apologizing to the American yachtsmen. As a result his name was dropped as a member of the New York Yacht Club.

Had America's Cup racing ended with that episode it would have been little less than a catastrophe, but that, for a time, is exactly what threatened. Sir Thomas Lipton challenged four years later and saved the day and revealed to the world the gameness and bigness of British sportsmanship.

If Sir Thomas has spent $10,000,000 for four races, the expenses of all America's Cup contests must surely be several times that figure, and this year's race will be the costliest of all. And in that connection, it is not amiss to ask what becomes of these "million dollar" craft?

America became the property of an English peer, a dispatch boat for Confederate States diplomats to Europe, a blockade runner of the Confederacy, a sunken hulk in the St. John's River, Florida, a naval training ship, the object of a government auction, the pleasure of General Benjamin Butler—and later of his grandson, Butler Ames, the Boston social leader—the property of the New York Yacht Club and the Eastern Yacht Club of Marblehead, Mass., and again a United States Government ship.

She made her last voyage in 1921 from Boston to Annapolis, where she became a yacht museum at the United States Naval Academy.

The first defender, Magic, was last heard of at New Orleans a few years ago. She was still in service as a fishing vessel off the Mexican Gulf Coast.

BOTH Columbia and Sappho went into trade and Sappho was lost at sea. Mischief was converted into a working schooner and embarked upon a career typifying her name, being in trouble for smuggling on several occasions. She has been broken up.

Puritan was converted into an auxiliary schooner and went into the Azores trade. She is still in it.

Priscilla, one of the unsuccessful contenders for the honor of defending the cup in 1885 and 1886, is now a Sheepshead Bay fishing boat. Mayflower, another built as a cup defender at a great cost, foundered in the Caribbean Sea in 1908 on a treasure expedition.

Thistle, the challenger in 1887, became the private yacht of the Kaiser, her name being changed to Meteor I. Volunteer, which defeated her in the cup race, was lengthened and put into the Azore trade.

Another defender candidate, Pilgrim, built by a Boston syndicate, had a cigar-shaped hull with an enormous overhang and a freak fin keel. She was converted into a power boat and went into trade.

Vigilant, after her cup race win, went to England and met with little success there. She was broken up after her return.

Defender, built of steel, aluminum and bronze, corroded and virtually ate herself up in the water. What remained of her after a few seasons of racing was tossed in the junk pile.

All of the Shamrocks, the Columbia, Constitution, Independence, and Reliance have been broken up.

But the old boats belong to the past. The new racing craft are building. The 100-Guinea pewter cup is up again, and what matter a few more millions!

The Man in the Monkey Mask

young man asked, as they reached his door.

The officers accepted the invitation and entered a snug, neatly furnished room.

"And this is your home?" they asked.

"This is where I live."

"Very comfortable, eh?"

"Oh, yes, in a way."

THE blue-coated cops did not like his appearance nor his actions, somehow. Officers have an uncanny way sometimes of sensing quarry.

"Nice bureau!" one of them remarked.

"Very nice."

"Need it—much?"

He walked over and pulled open one of the drawers. As he did so, there was a crash at the door and the affable young man was bounding away from them. The officers went head-first after him. A bullet stopped his flight and, wounded superficially, he was taken to a hospital.

The man refused to make explanations. The officers found a "monkey mask," a series of grotesque faces, two automatic pistols and a rope ladder. The prisoner smiled agreeably as his captors donned one mask after another and recalled what had happened in the months gone by.

"The man in the monkey mask!" they exclaimed.

Had they found him? There have been many instances in which the police through merely "bull luck" have caught criminals at negligible crimes when seeking them for major offenses. Was this one of them?

It was hard to believe. The Pacific Coast police had hunted "the dark strangler," a man who had killed a half-dosen women between Seattle and San Diego. He escaped. But one move across the Canadian border caused his arrest and he was hanged. William Edward Hickman, murderer of Dorothy Parker, escaped the California officers and was captured in Oregon to be brought back and hanged. Clara Phillips, the "hammer murderess," eluded all authorities on the coast and reached Honduras before the arm of the law detained her.

But here was a man picked up on the streets at a late hour of night in a peaceful neighborhood, near which no crime of violence had been reported. The only evidence against him was a series of masks for which he offered no explanation. Could he be "the man in the monkey mask"?

HE WENT to trial the other day in Los Angeles. There seemed slight chance of conviction. A man, in this country, is presumed to be innocent until proved guilty. Sitting in his chair in the courtroom, he smiled serenely. If he had been "the man in the monkey mask," he was unperturbed.

Then things began happening quickly. Leroy Engram, the Negro, called to the witness stand, exclaimed:

"That's the fellow! That's the man I saw running away down the alley with a gun in his hand after the Merchants' National robbery."

Sylvia Newman, bookkeeper in the bank, came tremblingly to the stand.

"I never saw him except when he was masked," she testified.

But when an officer donned one of the masks in evidence, she covered her face with her hands.

"That's it!" she exclaimed. "That's what I saw. When the man came in with his face covered with that horrible mask I ran where the other employes were standing. I know this is the mask!"

The prisoner at the bar was asked to write his name—Peter Marsec. Handwriting experts promptly identified the lettering as the same as that on the order for the rented car, given the day before the Merchants' National robbery.

Things began looking dark for the jaunty prisoner. The perfect crime seldom has been committed and it began to appear that here was another, apparently perfect, which was breaking down. To positively identify a man whose features were entirely hidden by one of the most repulsive masks imaginable had at first seemed well nigh impossible.

"I saw Peter Marsec in Hot Springs, Ark., the day the Merchants' National was held up here," testified James Marsh, an "alibi witness" produced by the prisoner.

Marsh promptly was arrested in the lobby outside the courtroom by Detective Lieutenants Malina and Hoy on suspicion of perjury. Marsh was in jail at Whittier, California, a few days before the bank holdup and could not possibly have driven to Arkansas in the intervening time following his release, as he said he did, the officers maintained.

THE trial was quickly over. Peter Marsec has gone to Folsom prison for a period ranging from 25 years to life. The District Attorney, with the slender clews provided by the police detectives, built a perfect case about him. A jury promptly found him guilty. Judge Marshall F. McComb gave him the limit.

Thus one of the most mysterious bandits ever to operate on the Pacific coast has been put away and financial houses are feeling more at ease.

The Man Who Caught the Weather

He found out the neighbors' various likes and dislikes. "I put out some turnips for you," he said to Mother. "I do not care for them myself, but I want you to have some." Yes, a kind old man.

And he continued to manage the weather. "I do not want to intrude." He came to the back door. "But I see your family is making preparations to go on a picnic."

"Yes, Mr. Parline. Wouldn't you like to go with us?"

"Oh, no, thank you. You are very kind. But I have work in my garden. I went to a picnic once in my youth. It was a very enjoyable occasion. I wanted to tell you that I think it will rain before night. The wind has switched to the east and the temperature is five degrees higher." The queer old codger.

And then, as the years went by, he began to include others than the immediate neighborhood in his gifts—people he had not known before and with whom he became acquainted in the cemetery.

A cemetery is a friendly place. You talk with people there whom you have not known in town. "The grass ought to be mowed," you may say to the wealthy widow by her husband's mausoleum, or "Do you think the peonies will be out by Memorial Day?" to the Italian fruit vender by his baby's grave. So people who talked to the old man "out there," even though they lived across town, became the recipients of his garden products.

For three years he lived his queer, busy life there alone with his garden and his thermometers.

It was in December of the third winter after his wife's death that the gray clouds of the big snow began rolling up from the northwest. Someone saw him slip out of his gate, lantern in hand, and hurry down the street.

"You don't suppose that poor old man is going out there to the cemetery?" Mother was solicitous. She put a shawl over her head and hurried out a side door. We could hear her calling, "Oh, Mr. Parline!" When she came in she had deep sympathy in her eyes. "I told him I thought he ought not to go out when it looked so snowy. He said in his dignified old way, 'That's why I want to go. I must get out for a few minutes before the storm breaks.' I suppose he feels that he protects her just as he used to. Isn't it pathetic?"

We had supper. Company came. It began to snow—soft, damp, heavy flakes. It was late when it came to us that there was no light in the Parline cottage. Father went over. When he found no one, we went after two other neighbors and together they went "out there." I think from the first they expected to find—what they found. He was huddled up against the stone where he had crumpled while stooping down to look at the thermometer. The doctor said death had been instantaneous, that he had evidently taxed himself hurrying to make the trip before the storm broke.

They brought him home. Neighbors went into the little house, not so immaculate as in the old days, but in order. In the kitchen they talked in low tones about the old man, as though from the front room where he lay he might hear their comments.

A queer old man, they all agreed, but kind, unusually kind. Mother went into the cellar and brought up scarlet-cheeked apples and mellow pears. "He would have wanted to pass them around," she said, with that understanding of humanity which she always seemed to possess, before she served them.

The cousin and a young married daughter came. The cousin cried a little, tears that were not especially sad. "I didn't feel that I knew him very well," she told us. "When I took care of Cousin Sarah he was always very kind to me. He brought me everything from the garden and kept me supplied with fuel. But I never really got acquainted with him. When we did talk it seemed to be only about the weather. But he was a good old man."

They took him "out there" where his wife was, and the dead geraniums under their thick covering of snow, and the parsley from the vegetable garden, and the thermometer.

In the evening mother and I went over and sat awhile with the cousin and her daughter. They replenished the fire in the kitchen stove with some wood Mr. Parline had brought in. They brought apples and elderberry wine from the cellar. The house had that lonely feeling which hangs over one from which a soul has just departed.

DRAWN by thoughts of the old man's hobby, mother walked over to the bank calendar hanging there on the kitchen wall. The last day of the year it was, and so the last of the calendar with its one vacant page. Mother thumbed over the closing pages, each one filled with the old man's wavering writing. Indications of snow. Wind in the east. Temperature 20 at the north side of the house, 19 at the barn, 18 out there. Underneath was a home-made set of shelves, all the old calendars of the bygone years in neat piles, the dates printed on the backs.

Through the clean, small-paned window, we could see low clouds breaking and slipping into the east. We were no doubt thinking the same thought—of the old man lying "out there" in the dignity of death, with the scudding clouds and the wind in the west, the old man who had lived close to the wind and the rain, the hail and the snow. Death would not seem so significant to him tonight as the importance of the setting—the rift in the clouds and the end of the storm.

There was the last vacant page on the calendar. He would have wanted it filled. Mother looked at it for a moment, then picked up the short, stubby pencil hanging limply on its long string, and wrote the weather for the day—the gentle old man's long day: Shadows gone from the valley—no night—and the need of no candle—sunshine—eternal sunshine—and the Seven Stars.

Interesting St. Louisans — Isaac H. Lionberger

wrote it, he told me, because he had something to say and felt like saying it. He had no thought of publication. But he sent a copy of it to his friend, W. K. Bixby, the St. Louis capitalist, who also had reached his sixtieth year.

Several years later Bixby, while at his summer home in New York State, was visited by Adolph Ochs, the publisher of the New York Times. During their conversation Mr. Ochs chanced to remark that he had reached the age of 60, and made some comment upon that stage in life. And Bixby remembered Lionberger's essay. Mr. Bixby dug it up and showed it to Mr. Ochs, but did not give the name of the author. The publisher was much impressed with it and printed it in his paper. Later, the authorship leaked out. It was printed by the Post-Dispatch and many other papers all over the country, and certain persons had it printed in pamphlet and book form and privately distributed.

HE HAD written many other essays. A man of broad literary backgrounds, he turned his thoughts toward writing poetry after he had reached 60. He had, he says in a preface to a book of verse, "become interested in the mechanism of poetical expression," and in an effort "to find out how and why the poets please us, tried many experiments."

He took verses, long accepted, and translated them into prose. What did he get? Again and again, banalities. Other poems, translated, he found still magnificent. So after 60—remember, there is a theory that poets start to bloom in their 'teens—he tried his hand at verse. In his preface he says: "These experiments are printed in the hope that others, as commonplace as myself, may attempt what I found to be an agreeable pastime. If they also fail to write poetry, they will at least achieve a keen appreciation of the felicities of the poets."

Here are two examples of his work, the first a sonnet:

"God pity foolish men that think they know
Or truth or anything, and ever seek
To prate upon the mysteries: nor meek
Nor wise, but emulous to make a show
Of trifling things they've conned by rote to tell
When other fools will hearken to a fool
Who seems more wise, and humbly go to school
Hoping some day in folly to excel.
The meek inherits:—for an honest doubt
Doth keep the mind a-jar and let the light
Of faith stream in; but certainty denies,
And being blind, dwells ever in the night.
Let me be open-minded to the end
And so my faith improve and errors mend.

Another, a lyric:

To give to her I plucked the rose
That seemed to me most fair,
And she received it graciously
And set it in her hair.

But when I looked, I begged the rose
And flung it far away.
In such comparison it seemed
Too pale a thing to stay.

HE HAS written, too, tracts on political economy, an essay called "The Meaning of Property," articles on the law. Many of them have been widely reprinted, some of his work has been translated into other languages.

He is not pleased with our contemporary state, still he persists in believing the race will benefit by its traditions. He shakes his head, considers, and says: "Don't shoot the organist."

Exploits of a Real Life Sherlock Holmes

he had gathered, Carvalho instructed him to remove in each case the identity of the sender and keep a file of this for his own record. Then he, Carvalho, would examine the various specimens of handwriting and, if possible, send him that of the person who had written the blackmail letters.

Two days later he sent along a postal card with a brief report to the effect that the writer of the postal card was also the writer of the threatening letters. It proved to be the man's wife. She confessed that she did have a lover and that she had written the notes to secure money for him. Divorce speedily followed.

Again, a prominent artist came to Carvalho with several slanderous notes that his wife had received through the mails. For weeks Carvalho sought the identity of the writer. One day when the artist chanced to be in his office, Carvalho said: "By the way, I wish you would leave me your new address and telephone number," and pushed a pad of paper and pencil toward him. The man wrote and handed the paper to Carvalho. "You," said Carvalho, springing up, "are the author of those letters to your wife." It was true. The artist had taken this means of warning his wife that she was suspected of infidelity. For this bit of trickery Carvalho made him pay a handsome fee.

Graphology was a word abhorrent to Carvalho. He denied through his life that handwriting had any relationship to character and offered specific examples to prove it. He would show how the handwriting of a criminal could be used to demonstrate that the man possessed all the noblest qualities and how, in contrast, the handwriting of Grover Cleveland could be taken to demonstrate a weak, petty individual.

His study of handwriting was so scientific that the growth of the superstition that it revealed character greatly annoyed him. The intimation that he had reached a conclusion in a case as the result of a revealed characteristic in a specimen of handwriting was enough to put him in a towering rage. Character, he contended, is not so simply disclosed. And certainly his knowledge of human nature and of the dried rivers of ink traced by human beings qualified him to know.

LINDBERGH INSPIRES MR. SULLIVAN

Virtues Start Out Bravely, but Are Mashed in the Subway Crush.

NEW YORK.

EVERY growing boy wants to be like Colonel Lindbergh, and this department is no exception to the general rule. Thus, it was with keen interest that we read a short time ago a list of virtues which, according to the dispatch, Lindy in his boyhood had striven to attain.

Each night he would check up, to see which virtues he had excelled in that day and in which ones he had failed. There were, if we remember, fifty-six virtues in the list, so Lindy must have been a busy youth.

Still, the idea apparently worked. Look at him today. We decided to adopt Lindy's fifty-six virtues and try to be a better boy.

"Even if I don't make all fifty-six," we told ourself, "what of it. I don't expect to be another Lindy, exactly. I'll be satisfied if I can become perfect in fifty-two or fifty-three of the virtues."

The first virtue on the list was Altruism, which is defined as "devotion to the interests of others."

We got on the subway, noticed a young woman making for the one vacant seat in the neighborhood, and being more agile than she, we dodged in ahead of her and got the seat. Then it occurred to us that that was not exactly Altruism.

"Ah, well," we reflected, "plenty of time for Altruism. We'll devote a whole day to Altruism some other time. That girl is young and strong. She won't mind standing."

Cheerfulness was the next virtue on the Colonel's list.

"I'll concentrate on cheerfulness," we told ourself.

CONCENTRATION was on the list as a virtue, also, so we were killing two birds with one stone.

The train went around a bend and a huge lout standing in front of us lurched, lost his balance and came down with his foot on our left instep.

Away went Cheerfulness on the wings of the morn.

"Why don't you look where you're going?" we snarled at the lout. "You're not satisfied with reading my paper while I'm reading it, which makes me fidgety. You've got to maim me for life."

Thus, in the wake of Cheerfulness, fled Calmness of Temper, Love Toward All, No Argument, No Fault Finding, Pleasant Voice, Politeness, Respect to Fellowmen, Sympathy and Tact. All were virtues on Colonel Lindbergh's list, and all of them had to be checked off as a result of the hasty speech to the lout who had lost his balance.

Then the lout spoke.

"I'll step on your instep," he declared in no uncertain tone. "Where do you get off at, ballin' me out? I seen you dodge in ahead of that little girl when you got on. You seat hog! Come outside when we get to the next station and I'll give you a punch in the eye."

The fellow was crude but powerfully built. Now the question arose, whether to allow him to browbeat us in this fashion or accept his challenge and step out with him at the next station. In other words, Courage, seventeenth on Lindy's list of virtues, was now in the balance. But it's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Here was a chance to get Calmness of Temper back.

"One virtue is as good as another," we decided. "Let Courage go. I'll take up Calmness of Temper again. They're both good virtues, anyhow, and it's a question which is better. I'll not answer this fellow. I'll keep my temper. I should have kept it in the first place."

So, instead of giving him an argument, we just put him in his place by mumbling "Yeah?" in a supercilious way.

AMBITION disappeared as soon as we got to the office. It always does. Firmness lasted all morning, until lunch time. Then, in response to an invitation, we said, "Oh, no, I never take a cocktail before dinner time. No; couldn't think of it, really. What? Really? You mean actually right off a boat? Oh, well, in that case * * *" That was the finish of Firmness.

A young man dropped in to tell us why we ought to have a certain kind of insurance policy. In a half-hour you'd never believe what he had done to Pleasant Voice, Politeness, Patience, Self-Control and No Fault Finding, insofar as those virtues related to us. Five virtues reduced to ashes at one fell swoop.

So far Economy had remained unscathed. Then a fellow came in with a wonderful bargain. Real Scotch (he knew a steward on a boat), and only $90 a case! So much for Economy.

Sincerity and Truthfulness vanished when the boss told one of his jokes. We laughed heartily and said it was the funniest joke we had heard in a month of Sundays.

So they went, one by one: Unselfishness, Thoroughness, Decisiveness, Faith, Determination, Moderateness, Modesty, No Talking About Others, Perseverance, Punctuality and the rest —for one reason or another, they all left, and long before quitting time, too.

"Oh, the hell with virtue," we finally declared, pettishly. "Who wants to cross the old Atlantic in an airplane, anyhow?"

That remark, of course, deprived us of the virtue of Clean Speech.

FRANK SULLIVAN.

GIVING the GATE to MOTHER GOOSE

Another Noble Experiment Is on the Way.

THERE is a movement in the field of child welfare to scrap the old fairy stories in which animals are endowed with human qualities, have a real command of English and do not grope for words. It is feared that a child will try to strike up a conversation with a goat some time and invite him over for a handout of a toy railroad car and a tin soldier or will ask a couple of dray horses standing in front of a coal pile what they think about the latest donation to the S. P. C. A. The new movement is intended to prevent these ideas by debunking the nursery and making it safe for demagogues.

It is as hard for the modern child to preserve any illusions as it is to find the proverbial needle in the debutante's handbag. Just as a kid is beginning to think that some national hero is about the most perfect specimen of humanity that ever had a boulevard named after him, a debunker will come along and charge that this same hero snored in his sleep, dropped ashes on the rug and didn't wear any garters. Children are expected to believe in Santa Claus, but when they get around at Christmas time and see a Santa Claus on every corner and in every department store and possibly in the meat markets and the filling stations, they are bound to realize that something is phony in Finland.

If the educators have their way, the only place where animals can talk will be the movies between the organ solo and coming attractions. And when some youngster clambers on his father's knee and lisps: "Daddy, read me the story about Steve Badger and Jake Lion," the father will bow his head and say in husky tones: "My son, they've banned it for being salacious." Then he picks up the women's page and reads the child a story about "The Heart Life of Hazel," ending up with, "So George and Hazel, standing on the threshold of a new life, vowed they would love each other always. Those who think squash rather flavorless might scallop the squash with tomatoes and season highly."

The child bursts into tears, because this isn't the type of bedtime story he had in mind, so he gets his father to light up the radio and dial a report on the sheep and cattle market. Then the child learns the following jingle:

"UNDER a moderate offering a generally steady trend was maintained on the rank and file of cattle yesterday. The cow goes 'Moo-oo, moo-oo.' The combined estimate was chalked up at 5500 head, including 1500 calves and 800 cattle on through billing. In the way of pigs—'Squee, squee, oink'—a meager supply found a ready outlet into shipping channels, but salesmen had to be content with steady prices. The lamb market also showed a firm tone. 'Baa, baa,' goes the lamb. Receipts at 11 markets were 42,324, as against 42,637 last week and 39,189 a year ago."

If a child is raised on this kind of nursery lore and perhaps talks on international politics and sociology when daddy forgets to shut off the radio, he will become so sophisticated that he won't believe in any magic wand except Babe Ruth's bat, nor in any myth except the All-America team. Even more of these 3-year-olds would be encouraged to take up smoking. It might be common, in the future, for newspapers to print indorsements such as: "Certainly I like the La Palooka," says little Edward Bittner Jr., the 3-year-old son of E. J. Bittner, prominent iron salvager of Peoria Heights. "I've been smoking this brand continuously ever since Daddy lost the key to his cigar cabinet, and I don't believe there's a better cigar on the market for flavor, smoothness and all-round value. There's nothing like a good old La Palooka to add to my enjoyment when I'm playing with my choo-choo train and I invariably smoke one after every dish of oatmeal porridge."

When the child educators get through, the wolf in "Little Red Riding Hood" is going to be a wolf of Wall street and the story of "Jack, the Giant Killer" will be changed to "Jack and the Giant of Industry." Nursery rhymes will be revamped as follows:

Ding, dong, bell,
A happy smile adorns his face,
For oil has sprouted on his place.
This man will never, never beef
About delays in farm relief;
He'll go away with exultation
And swell our urban population.

Boop-a-doop, boop-a-doop, all the night through
Perhaps that makes no sense to you,
But it's what the grown-ups chant, my dear,
When a hot jazz band they hear.

Rickety-rax, rickety-rax,
Perhaps these words sound queer,
But this is not an idle cry,
It's a good old Harvard cheer.

Hickory, dickory, dock,
Ted bought a wildcat stock,
The price dropped so low
That Ted lost his dough
And jumped from the dickory dock.

By this time the infant will be so worldly that he wouldn't want to hear a talking-animal yarn, even if there were any. The only way you could hold his attention with the story of Cock Robin would be to present it graphically, with a strong human interest, viz:

"Hot stuff, just smuggled over the border," the stranger whispers.

Who Killed "Cocky" Robin?

William (Chippy) Sparrow was acquitted today of the murder of James H. (Cocky) Robin. Sparrow was defended by the eminent criminal lawyers, R. J. Martin and W. P. Crow; the Prosecuting Attorney was Gerald Hawk, and the case was tried before Judge Howell. A transcript of the testimony follows:

Hawk: Now, gentlemen of the jury, we contend that Sparrow killed "Cocky" Robin with his bow and arrow.

Martin: Your Honor, I object to that statement as prejudicial. I hate to be on my feet all the time, but we contend that our client has no skill at all with the bow and arrow and couldn't have killed the deceased. The only reason he's linked up with this bow and arrow is that his name rhymes with it—the flimsiest of circumstantial evidence, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Objection sustained. We had the same thing in the Canary murder case, when they tried to pin the poisoning on Kid Oriole because his name rhymed with vitriol. Proceed, gentlemen.

Hawk: Mr. Sparrow, where were you on the night of the sixteenth?

Sparrow: I was with "Cocky" Robin at Linnet's Restaurant. At about 7 o'clock some bird phoned him—I think it was Tommy Finch. He asked him to come over to the hotel and—everybody knows what happened. I heard all about it two hours later in the restaurant.

Hawk: You were still in the restaurant two hours later?

Sparrow: Yes, sir, I was waiting for my change.

Hawk: Now, Mr. Sparrow, didn't you have an altercation with "Cocky" Robin the night before the slaying? Tell the jury, to the best of your recollection, just what happened.

Sparrow: Well, he wanted to muscle in on my business and I told him I wouldn't stand for it, that I would complain to the authorities. He said the authorities were fixed. The names he mentioned were——

Hawk: Ahem! Your Honor, I don't believe the State can make a case here. It's quite plain that this man Sparrow is innocent and the press and public ought to quit raven.

The Court: All right. I direct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. But you just wasted our time, Mr. Hawk. You shouldn't have permitted this case to get beyond a preliminary heron.

More than likely, some attempt will be made to bootleg the old type of fairy story. For instance, a father will be sitting in the living room some evening when he will hear a stealthy rap on the window pane. The father switches off the light, moves quickly to the window and throws it open. Outside is a muffled figure clutching a brief case.

"Hot stuff, just smuggled over the border," the stranger whispers. "I've got the original versions of Little Boy Blue, Cinderella, Goldilocks, Tom Thumb and Old Mother Hubbard. Then there's a copy of Little Bo-Peep, positively unexpurgated."

The father thrusts out a bill and receives a half-dozen volumes. Then he tiptoes up to the nursery, pulls down the blinds and reads to the baby, hoping the while that the nurse isn't a Government agent in disguise.

ABANDON SHIP!

A striking photograph of a tense and unusual moment at a time of danger on the ocean.

News dispatches told, some time ago, of the coolness of a passenger on a steamer which crashed upon the rocks off Terra del Fuego, South America, and how he averted a panic by setting up a motion picture camera and putting it in operation. This is one of the photographs taken at that time, and shows a boatload of men and women about to be lowered over the side of the S. S. Monte Cervantes while other passeagers, wearing life preservers, are upon the deck. All of the several hundred passengers and crew were safely removed before the ship sank.

the Face Powder that does not heat

Here is a secret in choosing a perfect face powder: The most exquisite powder will not stay on if it heats! Boyer has compounded a face powder unaffected by the chemistry of your skin. The very feel of this powder is different...and it is different! It puts an immediate end to shiny skin and the powdered effect lasts for hours. It contains no rice to heat and produce a blotchy appearance...no greasy cream to clog the pores.

Don't envy a well-groomed appearance

Perhaps you, too, have envied the well-groomed appearance of those who use Boyer Flowers of Beauty Face Powder. You have envied their smooth, cool, fresh, powdered appearance... so sure... so sophisticated. You, too, may always look your best with a face powder that does not wilt, a face powder unaffected by bodily heat. No other powder duplicates Boyer's cool, clinging, beautifying effect.

Boyer's Flowers of Beauty Face Powder is perfumed with a rare and subtle odor that awakens desire and accentuates charm and allure. The shades are ready-blended and matchless in their simple perfection. Your druggist can give you exactly the right shade. Surely you will want to use Boyer's. A large box with puff, only $1.00 . . . a glass tube for the purse, only 25 cents.

How do you choose your face Powder

THERE are several things to consider, in selecting a face powder—purity, odor, texture, tint, clinging quality and price. Elaborate packages and foreign labels may induce you to spend more money than is necessary, but they have nothing to do with complexion beauty—and the real object of a face powder is to beautify your complexion.

Plough's Face Powder is made of the finest ingredients and is soothing and beneficial to the skin. Soft and smooth in texture, appealingly fragrant, tinted with an artistry that accents Nature's flesh-tones, it clings for hours without renewing, and keeps the complexion smooth, clear and beautiful.

We ask you to try this fine face powder because we believe you will like it. It comes in three sizes, each having a distinctive odor and texture. Sensibly priced at 30c, 50c and 75c.

Approaching Deschambault © ASSOCIATED SCREEN NEWS, LTD., MONTREAL

DO YOU KNOW THIS REMARKABLE SEAWAY TO EUROPE?

HOW is it possible for these huge greyhounds to steam 1000 miles into the heart of a continent? How came this great seaway . . . with its 2 great seaports...one of them 1000 miles from the ocean?

Science tells us it started far back in the earth's dim beginnings. The Atlantic began to stretch a giant salt arm into North America. It thrust westward until it was stopped by the counter-flow of the Great Lakes . . . 1000 miles from the sea!

Today, this mammoth arm of the ocean is the great American seaway . . . shortest and most direct route to and from Europe.

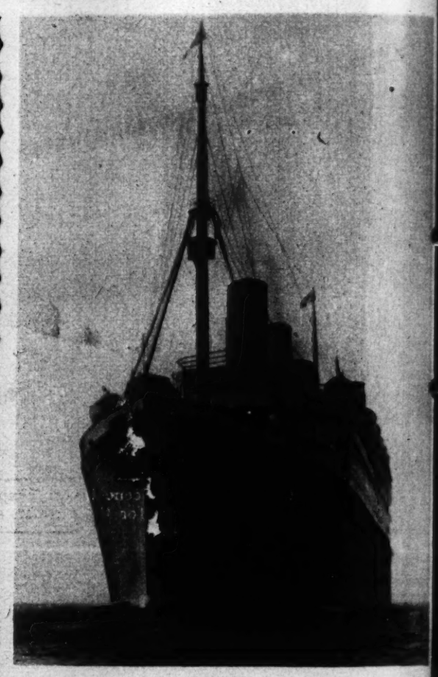
On its coastlines are Québec and Montreal, two great seaports . . . the latter, America's second largest . . . an ocean harbor 1000 miles from the ocean. Yet, it is 279 miles nearer Liverpool than is New York. And it is only an overnight-jump for 75% of America's population.

What an amazing thing...to cross an ocean and not lose sight of land for 2 days . . . to be enjoying ocean deck sports, breathing the tang of salt-ocean air, and still have charming land vistas on either deck-rail. Habitant villages, rivers, fields and forests...quaint Norman-French Canada bids you a 2-day-long farewell on the St. Lawrence crossing . . . another country added to your European holiday!

Every year, new thousands of travel-wise people take the St. Lawrence crossing. They'll tell you it's a wonderful way to go or return. They know!

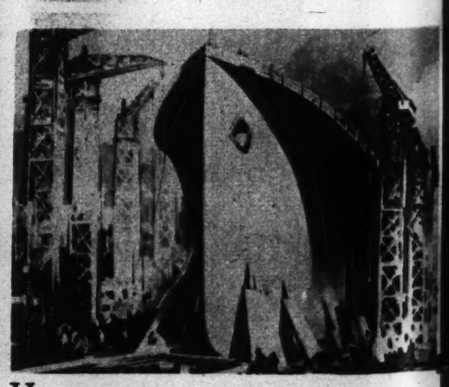
HERE, THE EMPRESSES AND DUCHESSES

What accommodations, what sailings do you wish on the St. Lawrence Seaway? First-class, with every luxury known to ocean travel? Choose a mighty Empress. Last word in cabin-class? Board a regal Duchess . . . any of the 4 brand-new sister ships, all 20,000 gross tons. A fleet of 18 great liners . . . 3 to 5 sailings a week . . . with tourist third and third class advantages, too.



CANADIAN Pacific's luxurious fleet of 18 ocean liners sails this St. Lawrence Seaway to Europe . . . at its head, the famous Empresses and Duchesses. Two days of their entire "ocean" voyage lies along its balmy, picturesque course . . . 2 miles, 5, 10, 15 . . . 20 miles wide. They steam its deep drowned channel full speed ahead . . . 2 days between 2 glorious seacoasts.

After this, only 4 days open Atlantic . . . then Cherbourg, Havre, Southampton, Antwerp, Hamburg, Liverpool.



HAVE you heard about Canadian Pacific's coming bid for Atlantic speed honors? The giantess Empress of Britain, 40,000 gross tons, nears completion in Scotland. With every luxury afloat, she will sail to Europe on the St. Lawrence Seaway in 5 fast days. Look for her in 1931.

Is she 37?... she looks so much younger... for she uses this Du Barry method every day at home.

These new Du Barry Preparations and the new Du Barry Hand Principle bring the Beauty Salon to your own home!

"—a few minutes use every day!" That's the secret of retaining... or regaining... a youthful skin. Not a treatment once in a while—or even once a week—but consistent, day by day application.

And that's why more and more women are turning daily to these new, modern Du Barry Beauty Treatments of Richard Hudnut. For not only were these treatments devised for use in the home, according to the new Du Barry Hand Principle, but the preparations themselves are the result of intensive laboratory research to create a series of beauty preparations, embodying certain new and important developments in cosmetic science (including new ingredients)... pure, safe... unusually effective.

There's nothing difficult, nothing complicated about the matter. On your dressing table a smart array of shining-topped bottles and jars containing fragrant creams, oils and lotions. Your own two hands—deft and capable. And a little booklet that describes exactly how to use your hands and these Du Barry preparations. A few minutes each day—and your own mirror tells the story of new beauty!
